BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXVIII. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 7, 1903. NO. 12.

County Correspondence.

PLATTSBURG.

Mrs. Lou Williams' turkeys brought her $105.

Cy Passons of Illinois, is visiting relatives here.

The creek was higher last Friday night than it had been for a long time

Samuel Hensley and wife dined a large number of friends, on new year's day.

R. J. Akin entertained the young people with a party on new year's night.

They have been having some exciting fox chases here. One has been caught.

Wm. Sebree and wife spent several days last week with friends on Gunpowder.

Ab Gaines and family, of Locust Grove, visited his father here a few days since.

FRANCESVILLE.

Jan. 3.—Will Kilgour, of Cincinnati, was visiting his brother and sister near here last Sunday.

Glad to report Mrs. Bruce Henry as improving.

Mrs. W. G. Graves entertained very handsomely last Friday.

Holland Goodridge received 18 cents a pound for his turkeys.

Clint Riddell is very much pleased with his position at Glendale, Ohio.

Omer Henry and his aunt went to Indiana a few days since to attend a wedding.

Chas. Goodridge and wife spent several days last week with friends in Covington.

George, Robert and Harvey McGlasson filled their ice houses during the recent cold spell.

Mrs. Harry Roberts entertained Mrs. Joe Graves and Mrs. Emma Kilgore on new year's day.

Jas. Beall secured the prize, a fine razor, at the shooting match at Taylorsport on new year's day.

Mrs. Nellie Markland and son were guests of their uncle and aunt, Joseph Graham for several days last week.

Mr. John Stephens is convalescing, and some of his children have returned to their homes out west. Mrs. Jno. S. Gaines will probably stay several weeks longer.

BELLEVUE.

Jan. 5.—Uncle Mike Clore is quite sick of grip.

Born, to Sebe Scott and wife, a boy.

Tom Sandford, of Covington, is the guest of his uncle at this place.

Virgie Snyder was the guest of her cousin in Aurora on the 3d and 4th.

The Methodist brethren have organized a Sunday school at McVille. Let the good work go on.

In swinging around the circle on official business, I had the pleasure of dining at the hotel at Flickertown, owned and conducted by my old friends Sam C. Hensiy and wife. Our corpulent friend James Setters, the saw mill man, has been stopping there for some time. After partaking of the good things that the laudiady had prepared. I could easily account for the recent increase in Setters' avoirdupois.

Jan. 5—W. B. Arnold and Johnnie Moody gave a ball at Odd-Fellows' Hall here, Monday night. It was well attended.

Miss Minnie Deck and her brother, Charles, have returned to the city.

Al Rogers visited his brother Ome at Erlanger a couple of days last week.

Miss Julia Bookner, of Newport, was with us at Sunday school, last Sunday.

Miss Anna Schwartz was the guest of Misses Artie and Stella Ryle, last Sunday.

Lawrence Phipps made a trip to Aurora on the Swan, the other day to hunt ducks. He bagged none.

Miss Maud Scott, of the Commissary, spent several days last week with her sister, Mrs. O. N. Grant, of this place.

Bro. Nooe will preach in the Christian church here next Sunday—morning and evening. Sunday school at 5 p. m. Sunday.

Miss Martha Schwartz is visiting her sister, Mrs. Hartman, in the state of Washington. She will stay probably until next fall.

Miss Viola Walker, of Bloomington, Illinois, college, was with us at the Christian Sunday school, last Sunday, as was also Miss Mirinda Hewitt, of Aurora.

COMMISSARY.

Jan. 9.—W. T. Ryle and wife visited friends beyond Burlington, Wednesday

Bud Goodridge spent Thursday of last week with H. P. Parsons and wife.

Ed Berkshire entertained with an oyster supper and card party last Tuesday.

Elbert Roberts spent last week on Middle creek with his uncle Ben Cason and family.

Mrs. H. P. Parsons, the Middle creek merchant, reports a thriving business in loaded shells during Xmas week.

Mrs. Carl Kelly left for Illinois last week to join her husband, who has been there since early last spring. They will make that state their future home.

W. T. Ryle spent Saturday with J. J. Lillard, and Tuesday Mr. Lillard returned the call. Topics that were not discussed by them were not worthy of attention.

Ira and Stella Ryle returned from their visit to their brother in Indiana. Ira was well pleased with the country, and praises it so that I think a pretty face has something to do with it.

Owing to the gentle showers last Friday Rock Spring branch and Muddie creek got on a tear. They are like some men, when full they are very noisy, and when they sober up, are all torn up.

The turkeys that were sold within a mile of this place this season number ed 819, weighed 4,841 pounds, and at the prices stated last week, brought $418 82. Don't think this was beaten anywhere in the county.

Carl Cason went duck hunting on the Swan, one day last week, from Bellevue to Aurora and return. The fireman promised to dip all he killed, but the pilot would not change his course, and he did not get either of the three he killed.

Cy Kelly, of Bellevue, entertained with a turkey dinner, last Tuesday, since which time his brother Albert has been considerably indisposed. Mr. Kelly attributes his indisposition to a cold contracted while attending a party at L. H. Kelly's, Tuesday night; but a great many think it is on account of an overdose of turkey and other good things.

Bro. White, it's as you say, there is no home in this county that is complete without the Recorder; but the truth of this statement makes quite a number of incompetent homes within the county. I call to mind seven such homes within a mile of here, and I intend the number shall be less or break a trace, lame hook or single tree. There are twelve Recorders come to within a mile of here, and there should be 19. The Recorder should be the next thing to meat and bread in Boone county families.

RABBIT HASH.

Dec. 27.—Wm. Aylor and wife, of near Aurora, are visiting their parents near here.

Mrs. Lewis Stephens is on the sick list.

Walter Clements, of Aurora, is visiting and hunting here.

Mrs. Delia Hahn, of Connersville, Indiana, daughter of William Wingate, is quite sick.

Walter Ryle and wife entertained the young people with a dance, last Saturday night.

L. L. Stephens' hospitable home was the scene of much merriment, last Friday night, the occasion being a dance.

Z. T. Stephens and wife inaugurated the holidays by entertaining a large number of their young friends with a dance.

John McConnell's venerable mule, Jerry, fell through the barn floor to cellar, and broke his neck, a few days since.

Everett Ryle left Monday afternoon for California, where he expects to make his home. His wife will remain here until he finds a location.

The other day Riley Douglas was standing on the wharfboat at Rising Sun, when some one fell against him, knocking him into the river. He was rescued.

Thursday evening Charles Clore entertained with his graphaphone at the hall here. A large audience was present. Miss Minnie Stephens was given the lamp as the handsomest young lady in the audience.

The young people have been having an interesting time since the holidays began. Robert Platt and wife gave a dance Monday night. Tuesday night Filimore Ryle and wife gave a dance, and it was followed by another at R. T. Stephens' on Wednesday night.

WALTON.

Jan. 4.—The young folks of this place closed a series of parties last Saturday night, that was a repetition of every night during the past week that were given at the homes of the following: Leon Percival's; T. K Roberts'; George Powers'; Edward Fuilllove's; Wesley Murphy's; Wm. Houston's and Mrs. Beverley's, at whose house the last one was given and who is pronounced by all the queen of hostesses. Miss Lillie Webster, of Covington, a cousin of Mrs. Beverly, participated in all the festivities, as did Miss Blanch Roberts, of Verona.

On Monday, Dec. 29, Mrs. Eliza Arnold, 79, passed to another life; and on Tuesday Mr. Thos. Baker, 77, also passed away. Their deaths cast a gloom over the community that could not be shaken off even among strangers who happened to be here and were unknown to the parties. A certain sadness of manner and gravity of deportment betrays that death has impressed us all with the terror of his visitations. We know not why we come and why we go at his behest. Come we did. Go we must. In other days it was settled that a grown person was not liable to be attacked with scarlet fever. Mr. Baker was in his 77th year. He has been a settled conviction that there was no probability of a second attack of the disease. The conclusion was proved to be incorrect for Harley Baker had a very severe case two years ago. It is related that during that attack some books were given him to read which were put away after his recovery. That a short time previous to his late sickness, Auna his sister got out the books and with Harley were reading them—both were stricken with the fever which their grandfather took and from which he died. It is probable that there will be no school this week as the fear of scarlet fever will keep most of the pupils away.

Scott Smith, of Macon, Ga., spent the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Smith.

UNION.

Joseph Micheal Knaley has been entertained by Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Knaley, since Dec. 23.

Sydney Rouse and sisters gave a delightful party to their friends and neighbors Saturday night.

Sara and Rachal Conner entertained a number of their little friends with a dinner on the 29th ult.

We are glad to report Mrs Sara Dickerson very much improved after a serious illness of several weeks.

J. S. Rouse and family left Tuesday for their new home in Georgia, much to the regret of numerous friends.

James Bristow drew the watch at W. M. Rachal's—came within two of guessing the number of shot in the jar.

Miss Nannie Bristow had for her guests Saturday, J. N Gibson and wife, Mrs. Rachel Rice, and W. L. Riddell, of Burlington.

Rev. A. P. Gregory preached on Sabbath afternoon a very instructive sermon on "Settling," or paying the Lord what we owe Him.

Sunday-school will be reorganized at the Presbyterian church next Sunday. Hope the parents will all come and bring their children.

The Athletic Club ended their series of dances Dec. 31. They danced the New Year in, and was very much enjoyed by those present.

Thos. Baker, an old resident of this place, died at the home of his son in Walton last week, and was buried in the Union cemetery, Wednesday.

Rev. A. P. Gregory will preach for the Union congregation twice a month—the first Sabbath afternoon at two and the fourth at 11 o'clock a. m. This will continue until we secure a regular pastor for this field.

James Clore and wife, of Rushville, Indiana, were guests of Mr. Clore's parents near here a few days since.

Miss Elliston, of Georgetown, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. James Day, near here. They had not seen eachother for seven years.

Mr. E. M. Gaines has returned from Rising Sun, where he has been spending several weeks with his grand daughter, Mrs. Vess Gaines. He is now visiting his son W. C. A. Gaines.

While standing on the track, waiting for a car, one day last week, in the city, James T. Grant was knocked down by a car that came up behind him. His head was hurt but not seriously.

The operation performed on Miss Mattie Kreyleich for a throat and ear trouble, at Cincinnati hospital, was much more severe than anticipated. We are glad to learn that she is improving.

FLORENCE.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schwartz are entertaining a little girl at their house.

Chas. Scott's horse became frightened last Sunday and ran off, demolishing one front wheel and axle.

The Misses Minnie and Lizzie Hilker, and Miss Birdie Horuer, of Erlanger, spent last Saturday with Miss Nellie Rouse.

J. E. Rouse, of Lexington, in company with Dr. McKee, made his parents a brief visit last week. While here Dr. McKee held a cousultation with Dr. Rouse, and both pronounced Mrs. Rouse doing as well as could be expected.

We doubt the friends of James Eberle will be shocked to learn of his death, which happened at Vancouver Barracks. He was a member of the 17th infantry band at the time of his death. His body was shipped to Newton, Kan., the home of his father.

Mrs. Carl Price is able to be out after several days illness.

Miss Emma Hinton is visiting relatives in Grant County.

Miss Nellie Roberts, of Burlington, was the pleasant guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Carpenter several days last week.

Mrs. Ingram has returned to her home in Cincinnati, after spending several days with her daughter, Mrs. Ben Stephens.

PETERSBURG.

S. G. Botts is very ill—symptoms are alarming.

Petersburg has caught another industry—a cigar factory.

Miss Hamilton, of Covington, is the guest of Miss Pearl Crisler.

The river has risen 10 feet in the last two days, and a flood is feared.

All our dental and medical students have returned to their schools.

Hear that our liquor emporium will soon be a thing of the past. Good!

Miss Elizabeth Ferris, of Norwood, Ohio, is a guest at Gen. R. Berkshire's.

Misses Maud and Effie Belden entertained with a play party a few nights since.

Miss Nellie McCorckle, of Cincinnati, was visiting Miss Nellie Guissinger last week.

Wallace Grant and wife have gone to Peoria, Ill., where he has a good job in an insurance office.

Elmer McWethy, who has a good job in a railroad office in Memphis, was at home during the holidays.

S. P. Gibbs will have a sale on the 19th inst., and he will leave immediately thereafter for his future home in Kansas City, Missouri.

David Davis, wife and little daughter, Ruth Evelyn, and Mrs. Sarah Allen, of Ft. Thomas, have been spending a few days with Mrs. Agnes Grant and daughter.

James Thompson and family and Mrs. Agnes Grant and daughter spent a very delightful day with an old friend, Mrs. Irvin Baisly, of Springfield, Mo., at Wm. Riley's, one day last week.

A man named Kirsch jumped from the Tanner's creek bridge into the raging waters below, last Saturday about noon. It is supposed that his body was washed into the river, as it has not been found.

Misses Matilda and Lena Utzinger, Walter and Alfred Ogden, George Keaton, of North Bend, and Clay and Pearl White and Ed Brady, of Big Bone neighborhood, visited at James White's a few days since.

A few days since Earl Buchanan was badly burned by steam while attempting to disconnect a steam pipe, which he thought had the steam shut off. For a time it was thought he would lose his eyesight, but he is now improving nicely and will likely not suffer any serious results.

Owen Allen and wife entertained the young people with a party Tuesday night, and Wednesday night Mrs. Johanna Gordon entertained with a waich party. Thursday night Misses Bessie, Edna and Alice Berkshire entertained in honor of Miss Ferris. On Saturday night H. G. Mathews and wife delighted the young folks with a party.

The ball at Gordon's Hall was the leading social event of the holidays. It rivaled the Queen City's Charity ball for pretty ladies handsomely gowned, and gallant gentlemeu. Two Italians from Cincinnati made the music. Dr. Hays and T. B. Mathews lead the grand march. Three of the prettiest young ladies of Petersburg were the originators of the event, and sent out over 100 invitations, reaching the interior of the Bluegrass country, while Cincinnati, Covington, Aurora and Lawrenceburg, sent their quota of handsome maids. The Old Virginia Reel was reeled off by trained feet.

MOUNDFIELD FARM.

Jan. 5.—Ex Sheriff Dave Beall entertained with a spare rib dinner, Sunday last.

Clint Riddell is in the butchering business in the city.

Assessor Watts delivered his book to the county clerk last week. He has a very neat book, and he spared no pains to have the clerical work correct in every particular, a job which he discovered furnished an ample field for mental worry. His recapitulation sheet cannot be beaten. But all his nice work has to run the supervising gauntlet, and these gentlemen may deface it with many a scratch and blot.

Finds Way to Live Long.

The startling announcement of a Discovery that will surely lengthen life is made by editor O. H. Downey, of Churubusco, Ind.: "I wish to state," he writes, "that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is the most infallible remedy that I have ever known for coughs, Colds and Grip. It's invaluable to people with weak lungs. Having this wonderful medicine no one need dread Pneumonia or Consumption. Its relief is instant and cure certain." W. F. McKim, Burlington; J. G. With a view to curtailing the production, the shingle mills in and around Vancouver, B. C., are idle and a number of men now out of employment. The product will be reduced fully 60 per cent.

At the present day, on the best authorities, there are 250,000,000 Mussulmans in the world. The Christian population is put at 447,000,000, but the increase of Islam is more rapid than that of its sister religion.

Owing to the increased cost of living the board of education at Schnectady, N. Y., adopted a new schedule of teachers' salaries, based on length of service and giving an average increase of $50 a teacher a year.

Generally speaking, the houses in Venezuela have but one story and no cellars. The best houses are constructed with two brick walls, one foot and a half or a two-foot space filled with cement. Other houses have walls of cement or cement stone.

There are rich gold mines in the state of Bolivar, Venezuela, and silver and copper are plentiful. Asphalt enough to pave the streets of all the cities in the world is found in the marshes and islands of the coast, and petroleum and coal enough to light them is near at hand.

HOUSES ENGULFED.

Abandoned Mine Under Olyphant, Pa., Caved In.

Scranton, Pa., Jan. 3.—Abandoned workings of the Eddy Creek colliery of the Delaware & Hudson Co. beneath the very heart of the town of Olyphant caved in Friday afternoon and engulfed four frame buildings covering an aggregate ground space of 6,000 square feet.

The settling was gradual and people in the affected territory escaped without being immediately endangered. A gang of men and boys who were at work in the mine beyond the fall encountered a flooded depression in a vein in making their way out by a circuitous route and had to swim across. No one was injured.

In a half hour O'Brien's three-story hotel, Mrs. Ann Evans' double dwelling, Mrs. Jane Ackerly's double store building and a one-story barber shop were grounded to debris in the yawning pit, with the uppermost part of the mound 40 feet below the surface. O'Brien's hotel, which plunged first into the opening, entirely disappeared. A few houses are projecting over the edge of the pit. The vein that caved is 105 feet below the surface. The settling started in the street just in front of the hotel property. The brick pavement was seen to be working and the telegraph poles and wires along the curb were noticed to be wobbling. The cause was apparent and the alarm was spread. Two sick guests were removed from the hotel. Twenty minutes after the disturbance was first noticed the opening had widened until it reached the street and half way beneath the hotel. Then with a crash the building pitched forward, turned over and then landed on its roof in the bottom of the abyss.

NEW ARMY UNIFORMS.

The Report of the Uniform Board Made Public.

Washington, Jan. 3.—The war department has made public the report of the uniform board, headed by Gen. Young, of which Col. Patten is the recorder, setting out in detail the changes made in the army uniform, some of which were seen for the first time at the white house reception Thursday. The first recommendation is that officers on duty in Washington be required to wear their uniforms during office hours. Other recommendations, all of which have been approved and are consequently now army regulations, provide for the substitution of bronze sleeve ornaments for those of embroidery and metal for full dress. Chaplains are to wear black overcoats. The embroidered gold oak leaves on officers' visors must come off, except on ranks above that of major. The United States coat of arms in gold is to be added to all shoulder knots of officers above captains. An important change is the abolition of the chapeau, the service helmet and service cap for officers and the service trousers for enlisted men. Provision is made for a combination sash and belt for brigadier generals. A significant recommendation calls for a more detailed description of the shoes to be worn by officers, for it is rumored that the board's labors were begun as a result of the detection of an officer, otherwise properly uniformed in full dress, wearing a pair of russet shoes. Hereafter chevrons are to be worn midway on the sleeve between the elbow and the shoulders.

COUNTERFEITERS' PLANT.

A Raid Made at Norristown and Six Persons Arrested.

Philadelphia, Jan. 3.—Secret Service Agent Griffin, accompanied by several operatives, Friday made a raid on a counterfeiters' plant at Norristown. They captured Tony Julian, Mary, his wife; Domenica, his mother; Scatlo Julian, his cousin; Caprio and Casnio Farri. Julian resisted arrest and attempted to stab Agent Griffe who escaped injury by felling his assailant. Julian is said to be the ring leader. He conducted a small shoe store and it is believed to have utilized the shop as a medium for distributing spurious dollars and 25 cent pieces.

Cholera Epidemic.

Washington, Jan. 3.—According to the latest mail advices from the Philippines, the number of deaths from cholera throughout the archipelago has reached 113,273. On the day preceding the one when this report was compiled 258 cases and 178 deaths were reported from the various provinces.

Turkish Commander Killed.

Constantinople, Jan. 3.—In a recent fight between Bulgarians and Turkish troops at the village of Drenovo, in the Monastir district, 15 of the latter were killed or wounded. The Turkish commander was among the killed. The Bulgarians, who were barricaded in a house, also sustained losses, but the survivors escaped.

Plumbers Went On Strike.

St. Louis, Jan. 3.—More than 300 union journeymen plumbers went on strike as a result of the refusal of the master plumbers to accede to their demands for $5 a day. The strike affects 200 shops, members of Master Plumbers association.

Headquarters Removed.

Washington, Jan. 3.—The American National Red Cross society has removed its headquarters from Washington to No. 19 East Fifty-eighth street, New York city. Miss Barton already is established there.

CASTRO WILL STICK.

He Has No Intention of Resigning the Presidency.

The German Government Is Without Information Regarding the Landing of German Marines at Puerto Cabello.

Berlin, Jan. 2.—President Castro's reply to the powers, through Minister Bowen, is substantially unqualified acceptance of their proposals to arbitrate and the accompanying conditions. The foreign office here received his answer Thursday and is satisfied with its spirit. A further interchange of views, preparatory to signing the protocol, will take place in Washington. The only really important question to be settled is what shall be done with the blockade. A continuance of the blockade is relied upon to hasten the conclusion of the arbitration preliminaries, especially on the part of Venezuela.

Caracas, Jan. 5.—The report that President Castro proposes to abdicate or resign the presidency of Venezuela is untrue. A press correspondent saw the president with regard to this matter Sunday. The president laughed when questioned, and then said, thoughtfully:

"You are at liberty to say that I have fought during two years to retain the supreme power which was invested in me by the people of Venezuela. I will no more abdicate than I will resign. The Matos resolution, without assistance from foreign powers, will soon be a past story."

The course pursued by the allied powers in maintaining the blockade of La Guayra has caused astonishment among the foreign residents of this city. When the Dutch steamer Prinz Willem V. arrived off La Guayra to take on board the European mails, the authorities at La Guayra sent the mail out in a small boat. This boat was stopped by the British cruiser on blockade and the mail bags were taken on board the warship. The postal clerks who were in the small boat say the mail bags notwithstanding their protests, were opened on board the cruiser.

The Dutch consul here saw the captain of the British cruiser Tribune Saturday and secured permission for a steamer of the Dutch line to call off La Guayra January 7 and take on board Dr. Van Leyden, the Dutch minister to Venezuela, who is in ill health.

Half the clerks employed in the customs house here have been discharged. This means cutting off the revenue of 60 or more families. The La Guayra custom house will be closed Monday. About 800 stevedores are at present without employment and rioting is feared. The government will doubtless have to employ urgent measures to maintain quiet.

Berlin, Jan. 5.—The government is without information regarding the landing of German marines at Puerto Cabello, Venezuela. The foreign office says that if such landing occurred it must certainly have been transient, and regards the reported seizure of the customs house at Puerto Cabello by German marines as a canard.

"TOPSY" EXECUTED.

Several Hundred Spectators Witnessed the Death of the Elephant.

New York, Jan. 5.—Several hundred spectators Sunday witnessed the execution by electricity at Coney Island of "Topsy," an elephant, who had killed three men and had recently become unmanageable. Immediately after 200 grains of cyanide of potassium had been administered, concealed in a carrot, a current of 6,600 volts was turned on through copper plates on which the animal stood. Almost instantly the elephant fell, and at the end of ten seconds, when the current was turned off, was pronounced to be dead. An autopsy showed that the poison had not had time to take effect. The execution was conducted under the supervision of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to animals.

"Topsy" was about 35 years old and was the first baby elephant exhibited in this country when she was brought here by Adam Forepaugh 28 years ago.

JUDGE FAYETTE SMITH.

The Jurist Passed Away at His Home in Greenfield, Mass.

Greenfield, Mass., Jan. 5.—Judge Fayette Smith, formerly of the court of common pleas in Cincinnati, died here Sunday. He was born in Warwick, Mass., in 1825. After practicing law for a time he went to Cincinnati, where he become a member of the bar and later judge of the court of common pleas for five years. His widow survives him.

Will Drive Out the Cattle.

Denison, Tex., Jan. 5.—The Indian police have been ordered to the Chickasaw nation to drive out all of the cattle upon which the tribal tax has not been paid. The cattle are to be driven across the border into Texas and turned loose there.

United in Death.

Aberdeen, O., Jan. 5.—Just as Mrs. Margaret Clark died at her home in Oliver township her brother, George Gibbony, was stricken with paralysis at his home near here and died a few hours later.

THE COLORED POSTMISTRESS.

It Is Feared There Will Be Trouble When She Opens the Post Office.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 5.—A staff correspondent of the Commercial Appeal at Indianola, Miss., wires that paper at 1:30 a. m. as follows:

Sheriff A. C. Cox, of this county, stated Sunday night that if Minnie Cox wanted to open the post office and feared violence he would deputize a sufficient complement of men to guard the office and patrol the town. The colored postmistress has made no application to the authorities for protection.

The flurry of excitement prevailing here is apparently contagious to the surrounding country towns and there has been an influx of visitors here Sunday. Special correspondents from Chicago, New Orleans, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Memphis arrived on the night trains. The city and county officials believe that a number of secret service men are on this scene awaiting any developments that may arise.

Post Office Inspector Fitzgerald has been assigned here from Louisiana. He went direct to the home of the sheriff Sunday night with Mayor Davis, where a conference was held. He caught a train out later.

FIRE IN HONOLULU.

Defective Electric Wiring Caused a Loss of Over $100,000.

Honolulu, Dec. 5.—(By Pacific Cable).—A fire causing a loss of over $100,000 occurred here Sunday. The fire broke out in the general merchandise store of L. B. Kerr & Co., and probably was caused by defective electric wiring. J. F. Morgan also sustained heavy loss.

A letter received here from Thos. Fitch, the Washington attorney for the Marcus Island Guano Co., says that Japan is relinquishing her claim to Marcus island and is willing to allow the United States to take possession. Japan will also deport her subjects now on the island and is ready to pay as a reasonable indemnity $10,000 on account of the loss sustained in the trip of the schooner Julia Whalen, which was refused a landing on the island.

WRECK ON THE SOUTHERN.

Engineer White Was Killed and 27 Passengers Injured.

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 5.—Passenger train No 37 on the Southern railway, bound from Atlanta to Birmingham, was derailed about 10:30 o'clock Saturday night near Weems Station, about 15 miles from this city. The baggage and mail cars were completely wrecked and were thrown down an embankment.

Although the train was filled with passengers Engineer White was the only person who was killed. His body was found under the engine, horribly mangled. About 27 passengers were injured.

PENNSYLVANIA LEGISLATURE.

It Is Conceded That Penrose Will Be Elected United States Senator.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 5.—The Pennsylvania legislature will convene on Tuesday noon and will adjourn finally probably on April 16. The republicans control both branches and it is conceded that Boies Penrose will be elected United States senator to succeed himself. Henry F. Walton, of Philadelphia, will be chosen speaker of the house of representatives and John M. Scott, of Philadelphia, will be elected president pro tem. of the senate.

THE BUBONIC PLAGUE.

Two Cases Reported in the Town of Ahome, In Sinaloa.

Laredo, Tex., Jan. 5.—A special from Hermosillo, Mex., says: Two cases of bubonic plague have been reported in the little town of Ahome, in Sinaloa, not far from the Sonora border. The authorities of Sonora have notified those of Sinaloa that a sanitary cordon has been established on the border and no one will be permitted to enter the state from the south.

Sir Liang Cheng to Wed.

Peking, Jan. 5.—Sir Liang Cheng, minister designated to the United States, will marry the daughter of the Chinese minister at Paris, Yu Keng, before leaving for Washington. The wedding probably will take place at Canton. Yu Keng's daughter was educated abroad and speaks English and French. She is one of the few Chinese women of modern education and modern ideas.

Lutheran League of America.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 5.—Rev. Luther Kuhns, pastor of Grace Lutheran church, resigned to accept the general secretaryship of the Lutheran League of America, with headquarters in New York city. The league has 3,000 societies and 125,000 members.

Lieutenant Disappears.

Leavenworth, Kan., Jan. 5.—Lieut. Edward O. Perkins, 4th cavaly, disappeared from Fort Leavenworth last Tuesday and has neither reported to his commander nor been heard from since. He had domestic trouble.

IN THE PHILIPPINES.

The Annual Report of Gov. William H. Taft.

The Country Since Last July Has Been Policed By the Constabulary, a Force of Five or Six Thousand Men.

Washington, Jan. 5.—The annual report of the Philippine commission and a separate report by Gov. W. H. Taft, made public at the war department Sunday, gives a review of the results of the year's work of the commission and contains recommendations for legislative action by congress deemed essential to the welfare of the islands.

After reciting a history of the establishment of civil government throughout the various provinces, Gov. Taft, in his report, says it has not been definitely determined what shall be done with respect to Mindanao, where, he says, hostility to the Americans does not extend beyond the Lake Lanao Moros. The governor is of the opinion that it is possible to induce the sultan of Jolo to part with some of the rights to claims to the Jolo group and thus obviate many obstacles now encountered. The Moros, he says, do not understand popular government and do not desire it, preferring control by dattos.

"Possibly far in the future," says he, "control by dattos may cease. For the present, however, it is necessary only to provide a paternal, strong but sympathetic government for these followers of Mohammed."

Gov. Taft tells of the conditions that have made it necessary for the islands to purchase about $15,000,000 worth of food on which to live, and of the effects war has had upon agriculture, almost the only source of wealth in the islands. The greatest blow to agriculture, he says, is the destruction of about 90 per cent of the water buffalo, on which the cultivation of rice is almost wholly dependent. After speaking of the ravages of Asiatic cholera, Gov. Taft says:

"The bane of Philippine civilization in the past was ladronism, and the present conditions are most favorable for its growth and maintenance. It is not certain whether in the depressed state of agriculture, with the temptations to ladronism, that the constabulary will be able without the assistance of the military, to stamp it out. Were there temptations to agriculture, were there prosperous conditions in the country, it would not be a troublesome matter to deal with, but when want and famine are staring people in the face the life of the freebooter forms to the desperate and the weak a very great attraction. The natural discontent with the government when suffering is at hand, promoted as it is by cholera restrictions and the high prices of rice and other commodities which have been greatly increased by the depreciation of silver, might well have caused a new breaking out of the insurrection, and in my judgment it speaks wonders for the ease with which this country may be governed in normal times that we have comparatively so little disorder since the surrender of the insurgent arms in April."

Since the civil government was completely established in the Philippine provinces throughout the archipelago in July of last year the governor says an American soldier has not been called on once to fire a gun, the country having been policed by the constabulary, a force of five or six thousand men.

"It may be," says Gov. Taft, "that as the conditions grow worse—for they are likely to do so before they grow better—it will be necessary in a province like Cavite, where ladronism seems inbred in the people, to proclaim martial law and even to call on the military finally to suppress it, but it is still hoped this may be avoided."

SUCCESSFUL TEST.

Torpedo Boat Destroyer McDonough Speeded Over a Measured Mile.

Boston, Jan. 5.—After waiting for two days for good weather the torpedo boat destroyer McDonough, built by the Fore River Ship and Engine Co., of Quincy, Mass., was successfully speeded over a measured mile off Wood End, Provincetown, Sunday. She exceeded her contract requirement of 28 knots, making one leg at a rate of 28.56. The best two runs over the mile averaged 28.02, which was the speed which gained her acceptance by the government board.

Lincoln Memorial Sabbath.

New York, Jan. 5.—The American Missionary association is about to issue an invitation and appeal to the congregational churches, Sabbath-schools and endeavor societies of the country requesting an observance on Sunday, February 15, as "Lincoln Memorial Sabbath," commemorative of Abraham Lincoln.

Boy and Horses Burned to Death.

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 5.—J. H. Williams, a stable boy, and 23 horses were burned to death Sunday in a fire at the plant of Hughes Bros. Extract Co. A warehouse was consumed with its contents. Loss $50,000 on machinery and manufactured goods.

Movement of Coal.

Reading, Pa., Jan. 5.—By midnight Sunday night the Reading Co. expected to have transported to market for the preceding 48 hours 3,500 cars of anthracite coal. This movement of coal began Saturday morning.

A LURKING DANGER.

There is a lurking danger in the aching back.

The aches and pains of the back tell of kidneys overworked.

Go to the kidneys' assistance when backache pains warn you.

A kidney warning should be promptly heeded for dangerous diabetes — Bright's disease—are only a step away.

Read how the danger can be averted:

CASE NO. 15,741.—Rev. Jacob D. Van Doren, of 57 Sixth Street, Fond du Lac, Wis., Presbyterian clergyman, says: "A man or woman who has never had kidney complaint or any of the little ills consequent upon irritated or inactive kidneys knows very little about what prolonged suffering is. I had attacks which kept me in the house for days at a time, unable to do anything, and to express what I suffered can hardly be adequately done in ordinary Anglo-Saxon. As time passed, complications set in, the particulars of which I will be pleased to give in a personal interview to any one who requires information. I used plenty of remedies, and, ever on the outlook for something that might check or benefit my condition, I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills. This I can conscientiously say, Doan's Kidney Pills caused a general improvement in my health. They brought great relief by lessening the pain and correcting the action of the kidney secretions."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured the Rev. Jacob Van Doren will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists, price 50 cents per box.

$3.00 W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES $3.50 UNION MADE

W. L. Douglas makes and sells more men's $3.50 and $3.00 shoes than any other two manufacturers in the world, which proves their superiority; they are worn by more people in all stations of life than any other make.

Because W. L. Douglas is the largest manufacturer he can buy cheaper and produce his shoes at a lower cost than other concerns, which enables him to sell shoes for $3.50 and $3.00 equal in every way to those sold elsewhere for $4 and $5.00.

W. L. Douglas $3.50 and $3 shoes are worn by thousands of men who have been paying $4 and $5, not believing they could get a first-class shoe for $3.50 or $3.00.

He has convinced them that the style, fit, and wear of his $3.50 and $3.00 shoes is just as good. Placed side by side it is impossible to see any difference. A trial will convince.

A big Democratic love-feast will be pulled off tomorrow night by the Covington Democrats. The love and the feasting will conclude at the same time.

A great deal is being said about the silver dollar being worth less than 40 cents. The Recorder will pay 75 cents for each silver dollar that is delivered to it. There is a chance to make a speck if what is being said about the silver dollar is true.

It is said that in a recent conference in Washington, D. C., Senator Deboe, Leslie Combs and Marshal A. D. James assured Mr. Yerkes that if he would become a candidate for Governor that he would have no opposition for the nomination. That's machine politics for you.

The people along the Ohio river tier of counties in Indiana want a railroad, and they are not afraid to go down in their pockets to encourage the enterprise. Last Saturday they voted almost unanimously in favor of assisting the road to the extent of a two per cent tax on their property.

Judge Black, of Barbourville, has withdrawn as a Democratic candidate for Governor. The Judge says because of the prejudice against his section of the State in the Democratic party, he could not get justice in a primary election nor a convention. From the number of State officials now on duty in Frankfort, from Judge Black's section, the casual observer fails to see any grounds upon which the Judge can base the charge of prejudice against his locality.

Some of the strongest men in public life are not the product of the colleges, but have acquired their wisdom and ability in the great school of necessity, and the university of experience. Brain and brawn, industry and intelligence, economic wisdom combined with a broad comprehension of our nation's necessites. and a just consideration for the rights of the people as distinguished from the privileges of the classes, are now and will continue to be the elements of character that designate the statesman from the politician.

Under the heading, "At whose door should the Democratic reverses in Kenton county be laid?" the Covington Courier of the 2d inst., reviews the Recorder's article of the 24th ult., and in enumerating the several disasters it claims that have befallen the Democratic party in Covington under the leadership of Joe Pugh, among other things it says: "And whenever before, and under whose leadership, have we had a man with the sterling qualities and reputation of honest Tom Paynter to carry the city of Covington for the high office of Judge of the Appellate Court by a measly and humiliating majority of 213, when his opponent was a man totally unknown, without reputation in this community as a lawyer or jurist? All these things have happened under Mr. Pugh's leadership."

Judge Paynter was the unanimous nominee of the Democratic party in this appellate district. He was not the nominee of the Pugh faction in Covington, and yet the Courier and its crowd knifed him simply because Pugh supported him as all good Democrats should have done. Their action in that instance shows that it is a personal matter with them, and that they will oppose anybody Pugh supports notwithstanding he is the nominee of a Democratic convention over which Pugh had no control. The Courier virtually admits that its dislike for Pugh is so great that for the most responsible office in the State those who look at matters from its standpoint, rather than vote for a Democratic nominee supported by the Pugh faction, they voted for a a Republican who is "totally unknown and without reputation in their community as a lawyer or a jurist." That a Democrat will do a thing of that kind is very hard to believe.

Suppose Pugh is ousted, and continues to support Democratic nominees, is it not reasonable to suppose that those who knifed Paynter because of his support, will for the same reason knife nominees in the future?

On a farm near Tompkinsville is an apple tree that was brought from Va., in 1791 by a man named Campton. It has never missed bearing fruit every season for 107 years. This is claimed to be the oldest apple tree in the United States. Although the fruit crop was a failure there this season, this old veteran had a good yield.

Pith of the Press.

While the center of population remains in Ohio, the center of the officeholding population has been shifted to Iowa.

General Castro's recent performances do not smack so much of insanity as of three em dash tomfoolery.—Chicago Tribune.

We observe that Great Britain has not insisted that Grover Cleveland and Richard Olney arbitrate the Venezuian dispute.—Chicago Journal.

Doubtless Mr. Addicks has been seriously imposed upon. But then when a man dumps $250,000 in one small state he cannot expect to get all his money's worth.—Washington Post.

Colonel J. P. Morgan having made a net profit of $42,000,000 during the year of 1902 has decided to divvy up with his employes. Why be so exclusive in the distribution?—Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

Ex-President Cleveland agrees with President Roosevelt in every detail of his interpretation of the Monroe doctrine. Under the circumstances Henry Watterson ought to come in and make it unanimous.—Kansas City Star.

Mr. Foraker has sufficiently recovered from his confederate battleflag smash to ask an appropriation of $100,000 to mark the graves of confederate soldiers who died in northern prisons. Mr. Foraker is always on the spot when the skyrocket begins to fizzle.—Commoner.

The bachelor who was elected governor of Kansas promised to get married if he won the governorship. He won, and now he refuses to keep his promise. This thing of breaking ante-election promises made to the people is a fixed habit among republican politicians.—Commoner.

A Sandusky physician had a grudge against the City Health Officer and fixed up an inmate of the County Poorhouse to look like a smallpox patient. Then he summoned the Health Officer and the latter diagnosed the case as smallpox. Thus do the squabbles among the more favored served to cheer the unfortunates in the almshouse.

The city papers take up much space telling of the swell dinings given by the rich people, and we rural jays at first thought believe we have a hard row to hoe, and there's little in the world for us. But let's see. The city paper says: "The table was beautifully decorated. The center-piece was a large silver-mounted mirror. On this was a silver tree, the branches of which were laden with American Beauty roses. Many silver candelabra held white tapers. Miniature ships filled with candied fruit were used as souvenirs. The ices were imbedded in red tulips," etc., etc. Well, this must have been swell, but let's look on our side. When you are asked to "come to dinner" out here in the brush, the table will be "decorated" with a plain spread, as white as snow. On one side will be a large plain dish filled with Irish potatoes. Alongside of this you'll find a dish of country bacon, then a heaped plate of hoe cakes. On another side will be a heaping dish of fried chicken, country sausage, spare ribs, a plate of as fine biscuits as one ever tasted. You will be handed a quart cup of black strong coffee with pure cream, and then members of the family begin to reach over your shoulder and pile your plate full of these thoroughly-cooked, perfectly-seasoned substantials, and you sit there and eat with all the enjoyment to be found this side of kingdom come. You are not worried as to the knife, fork or spoon to use on each dish, but simply dive in with the two steel tools at your plate. Now, which is the most enjoyable? We Reubs may not know how to eat the fancy frill-fralls, but we do know what is good to eat, what will stick to our ribs, and we wouldn't change places with any city dyspeptic with his pink ice cream and other death-dealing foolishness.—Lancaster Record.

Jas. A. Hulett sold his crop of tobacco of 24,000 pounds at 12 ½ cents per pound. This is the best price that has been paid in Central Kentucky this year for a crop of tobacco, which shows plainly that Mr. Hulett stands on the topmost round as one of the best farmers in the State.—Jessamine Journal.

One of the biggest cattle sales to take place at Danville for some time was consummated when Jerre Caldwell sold to J. C. Bales, of Richmond, 312 head of 1,400 pound feeders for approximately $25,000.

Sheriff's Sale for Taxes.

Boone County, Ky.

Administrator's Notice.

All perpsns indebted to the estate of L. S. Clutterbuck, deceased, must come forward and settle, and those having claims against said estate must present them to the undersigned proven as by law required.

J. R. Clutterbuck, Admr.

House and Lot For Sale.

House, and lot about 110 feet square, located in the town of Walton, Boone county, Ky. The property is better known as the old Snow homestead. This property will be sold regardless of price. Address all communications to W. F. Pangle, 1558 Williams Street, Louisville, Ky.

The day of national thanksgiving will soon be at hand, and no dinner will be complete that has not its roast turkey and cranberry sauce.

There is just time yet for us to get our turkeys in prime condition for this least day dinner, but we should not delay.

The young and old turkeys should be fed some kind of grain, such as corn and wheat, with milk and table scraps when such are at hand.

Local News.

A very small crowd attended court Monday.

The winter crop of tobacco is not as large as usual.

Mrs. B. W. Adams has been quite sick for several days.

Ezra Aylor, near Burlington has a fine 6 months old Thinrind boar for sale.

The Boone County Deposit Bank elected a board of directors, last Monday.

For Sale—A nice yearling short-horn bull and a heifer. Apply to J. J. Underhill.

Quite a good number of subscribers called Monday and renewed for another year.

A great deal of summer work has been done by high priced coal fires in the last three weeks.

The equalization board is in session at the court house, going over the work of assessor Watts.

It is not near so cold when you are not aware of the location of the mercury in the thermometers.

There is said to be some grip in the country. Weather conditions have been very favorable for that disease.

S. P. Gibbs, of Petersburg neighborhood, will have a big sale on the 19th inst., after which he will move to Missouri.

Elder W. A. Chastaine will be at Salem church, near Walton, on the 4th Saturday and Sunday in this month at 11 a. m.

The report of the Boone County Deposit Bank shows the stock is worth over $200 a share of $100. It has been a good investment.

Our mail carrier, J. L. Clore, made good use of a sled last week, and it was a great pleasure to make a trip with him to Erlanger and return.

Mrs. Mary Carpenter got the clock that was guessed off at M. L Riddell's grocery. The guesses were openedand the award made on New Year's.

The sheriff and ex-sheriff take up a great deal of our space this week, necessitating the leaving out of part of each of the communications. Some of the items will be used next week.

Our local realestate agent W. E. Vest, closed out Jno. L. Rouse's real estate last week, and Mr. Rouse is now fancy free. This county will lose one of its best citizens when he goes south.

Friday morning a steamboat sounded it they was trying to make a landing outabout Sam Halls. You could almost hear the command ofthe captain and the oaths of the mate.

"Bunk" Black, of Mudlick, came up last Thursday with a wagon load of corn, meat, &c., for B. B. Allphin. "Bunk" looks after Ben pretty closely, attending to his wants in the provision line.

Some fellow with feet of very great dimensions paid his respects to the RECORDER's coal bin a few nights since. If he repeats the visit the RECORDER will print a picture of the track with the maker attached.

The Greenwood Grange Dramatic Company played to a good sized and appreciated audience here last Thursday night. The individual members are well up in their parts and the fun they furnish the audience is well worth many times the price of admission.

When Dr. Crisler opened his front hall door, last Thursday morning two barrels were standing on the step, and he at once concluded that some friend had made him a new year's present of a barrel of flour and a barrel of salt, but upon closer inspection he discovered that both barrels were empty

The usual ringing out of the old year and the ringing in of the new year was observed here last Wednesday night. In addition to the several bells, the whistle at the saw mill added its eloquence to the pandemonium, while gates, wagons, wagon beds, &c., &c., capered about the streets and mobilized their forces on the most public conners.

Printed stationery is something that every farmer and stock dealer ought to have. Every business man uses printed stationary even though he has paper stock on his shelves at about half the cost because he knows the advantage of the prompt return of letters that are not delivered in a reasonable time after reaching their destination. It is also more business like and many times saves the trouble of writing a second letter. Call on the RECORDER.

Heads Should Never Ache.

Never endure this trouble. Use at once the remedy that stopped it for Mrs. N. A. Webster, of Winnie, Va., she writes "Dr. King's new Life Pills wholly cured me of sick headaches I had suffered from for two years." Cure Headache, Constipation, Biliousness. 25c at W. F. Miss Effie Clore entertained the following guests on New Year's day with a big dinner: Nettie Hensley, Lenora Cason, Edna Cason, Hattie White, Nellie Maxwell, Alice Eddins, Sadie Crisler, Mrs. Eddins and Atha May Eddins, Carl Cason, Lawrence Phipps, Vernon Pope, Elbert Clore, Hubert White, Jack Sandford, Tom Rice, Jesse Eddins, Linnie Eddins, Ben Clutterbuck, Leslie Baker, Leslie Goodridge. Noah was kept very busy looking after the comfort of the guests.

Sheriff Allphin received a telephoue message from Idlewild, last Thursday, that John Leopold, who escaped from jail here several years ago, had been seen in that neighborhood, and had said he was going to Petersburg to take a boat for Vevay that evening. The sheriff started in pursuit of Leopold at once, but was unable to locate his man. There is no doubt but what Leopold was seen as reported, but he is too sharp to let people know his intention. He is wanted here for robbing the store at Idlewild.

One of the leading social functions during the holidays was the Beall-Eddins rabbit roast. They had only 8 rabbits, therefore there were no invited guests. Upon investigation it was ascertained that the bill of fare consisted of the following items:

Rabbits, 8;
Butter, 1½ pounds;
Salt, 1½ pounds;
Pepper, 1½ pounds;
Cheese, 2½ pounds;
Crackers, 2½ pounds;
Uneda Biscuit, 2 boxes.

It was a late bour when the feast concluded.

Colonel Hubbard Taylor Buckner 75, an honored and respected pioneer citizen died at his late home in Erlanger last Thursday. Deceased's mother was the aunt of ex-Congressman Albert Berry, of Newport. Buckner served as First Lieutenant in the Mexican War, and when the Civil War broke out, in 1860, he formed what was then known as the Kentucky Home Guards. He was a prosperous farmer and speculator in fine driving and trotting horses and became widely known throughout the country. His handsome house, stables and barns, on the Lexington pike, were destroyed by fire during the war by the Union soldiers, his horses taken from him and the vehicles broken to smithereens. He leaves two sons, Alexander S. and Hubbard G. Buckner, and three daughters, Lucy, Alice and Sophia Buckner, to mourn the loss. Deceased was an uncle of Attorney S. B. Wise and also a prominent Mason.

We made a business trip to Union, last Saturday, and jotted down the following notes:

Very few persons were astir along the road, but when we passed the comfortable and commodious shop of L. H. Busby, near Gunpowder, the heavy blows that were being rained within were proof that Mr. Busby was engaged in a redhot business of some class peculiar to his vocation.

Upon entering Union our attention was at once attracted by the very inviting appearance of the Eagle Hotel, of which L. H. Voshell is owner and proprietor. Besides having put the large building in first class repair throughout, Mr. Voshell has put in position an iron fence enclosing his yard, that is an ornament to the premises. Under its present management the Eagle is a very popular hostelry.

Calling at the large general store of W. M. Rachal & Co., we found Messrs. Rachal and Norman in work up to their eyes. They were taking the annual inwoice of the very large, varied and well selected stock of goods, preparatory to an effort to increase the large trade the firm already enjoys. It was here we met Sol Long, the inventor, whose latest invention is a mouse trap which catches and kills mice. The trap is wound up like a clock, its capacity being the catching and killing of seven mice after each winding. This is only one of several of Mr. Long's inventions.

James Bristow, the village smithy was overrun with work, but Jim is never better pleased than when he has more work on hands than three men can do.

After enjoying a good dinner with Miss Nannie D. Bristow and her venerable parents, where we met Mesdames Rachal Rice J. N. Gibson, two very entertaining ladies, we shook the mud of Union from off our feet and journeyed homeward.

The winter spell was nice weather for feeding fodder to stock.

At the examining trial of Aquilla Jackson, charged with the killing of Claud McGuire, at Dry Ridge on Christmas eve, held before Judge Conrad, Saturday Jackson was held to appear before the next Grand Jury on a bond of $3,000, which he gave.

McGuire lived but a short time after the cutting, which was done in front of Judy's Mill with what is known as a "hawk-bill" knife. The prosecution claims that McGuire was acting as a peacemaker between young Jackson and an older man of the same name. While Jackson claims that McGuire ran around a horse and tried to cut him, and he acted only in self defense.

The case will be called at the Febuary term of the Grant Circuit Court.—Williamstown Courier.

New Century Comfort,

Millions are daily finding a world of comfort in Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It kills pain from Burns, Scalds, Cuts, Bruises; conquers Ulcers, and Fever Sores; cures Eruptions, Salt Rheum, Boils and Felons; removes Corns and Warts. Best Pile cure on earth. Only 25c at W. F. By actual experiment it has been demonstrated that the saving of food by means of good shelter is equal to the cost of the shelter in a short time. Pigs, when provided with good shelter and warm quarters (by experiment made), fattened on much less food than was required to simply keep the unprotected animal alive The comparison is an important one. In the first place, the animals not properly provided with suitable accommodations, not gaining in weight at all, really destroyed or wasted all that had been provided them, for the food was converted into heat, in order to give the animals protection that should have been furnished with boards and shingles. In the one sense it might be asked whether feeding an animal on the products of the farm, which require labor in order to be produced, is cheaper than the shelter which, when once erected, lasts for a number of years and does service for successive seasons. The quality of the shelter is as important as the quality of the feed.

A pig fed occasionally on a mass of bulky provender, containing but little nutrition, certainly is not expected to do as well as one that receives a plentiful supply of all that is needed to promote growth, health and condition, and neither should it be expected that a shelter which allows the cold to enter, or the water to leak in, can properly protect the animal against the rigors of winter and the moisture of early spring. Good, warm, dry quarters lessen the quantity of food required for bodily heat, and should any surplus food above that required for warmth be fed it will be converted by the animal into healthy growth, and add so much actual value to itself, but if the shelter is such that the animal is compelled to depend upon the food for heat the food so fed is a loss and an expense. Nor is it in winter only that shelter should be provided. All seasons have their disadvantages in that respect. Warmth in winter and sufficient ventilation in summer should be allowed. In fact, the comfort of the animals should be considered. In feeding an animal the object is profit, and every advantage must be taken if the profit is to be increased.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucus membrane surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and is made in toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

GIVE GOD A CHANCE.

The Omnipotent Arm Shortened by the Activity of the Flesh.

Christian Aggressiveness Often Limits the Work of the Spirit of God —Sermon by the "Highway and Byway" Preacher.

[Copyright, 1902, by A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Co.]

Chicago, Jan. 4, 1903.

Text:—"Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts."—Zech. 4:6.

"God works in a mysterious way
His wonders to perform."

The magic wand of the good fairy of my boyhood story books ... held a peculiar fascination for me. That the simple waving of the rod in the hands of the little creature could accomplish such wonderful things so easily and so quickly impressed me very deeply, and I sighed for the fairy's talisman that would make of life such an easy problem. It seemed such a desirable thing to be able to do things as the fairy did, and my imaginative mind pictured all the good deeds I would perform if the fairy's wand were placed in my hand. Little then did I think, as I pored over the fascinating stories, and spent hours in idle dreaming, that the wonderful things in the fairy story had their realization in the spiritual realm, and that the potency of the fairy's wand was as nothing in comparison with the marvelous operations of the Spirit of God. It was the Spirit of God moving through the rod in Moses' hand which wrought such mighty wonders in the presence of Pharaoh, which opened a way through the Red sea, which made the hard rocks of the wilderness yield their gushing waters, which gave the Israelites the victory over the Amalekites. It was the Spirit of God that circled the city of Jericho in answer to the obedient tread of God's people and that rang out in the shout and the trumpet blast and laid the massive walls of the heathen stronghold low upon the ground. It was the Spirit of God that moved in the times of the judges and wrought mighty deliverances for God's oppressed people. It was the Spirit of God which on the day of Pentecost transformed a handful of simple-hearted, ignorant disciples into fluent linguists preaching the Gospel of Jesus Christ in every known tongue. It was the Spirit of God which wrought such mighty wonders through the instrumentality of the disciples in the early days of the church. It is the Spirit of God Whose tracings can be discovered running through the sacred pages of God's Word from Genesis to Revelation. More marvelous and fascinating is it all than the most extravagant fairy tale. The latter is naught but a tale, but the former is the truth and majesty and power of God.

There are two reasons why man fails to understand and appreciate the operations of the Spirit of God: First, because he does not know God's will, and, second, because he is an alien from the righteousness of God; for the Spirit of God always operates along the line of God's will and moves within the sphere of His perfect righteousness. In this materialistic age man's will shuts out the vision of the will of God and man's self-righteousness and self-esteem render him insensible to the righteousness of God, and hence the "might and power" of man is unduly magnified and emphasized and the workings of God's Spirit are lost sight of. But nevertheless it is the eternal and unchangeable truth of God that it is "not by might, nor by power of man," but by the Spirit of God, that the purposes of God are wrought out through men.

Zerubbabel, to whom the words of our text were sent through the prophet Zechariah, had been called to a great work by the Lord. The task of rebuilding the wall around Jerusalem and the restoring of the temple had rested upon him. After the first burst of enthusiasm of the people incident to the return from captivity and the reestablishment of their homes in Jerusalem, the work of rearing the city's protecting wall and restoring the temple lagged. Zerubbabel felt the burden of the gigantic task. As Christian people are always so prone to do, he came to feel that he was carrying the burden all alone. That it all depended upon him, if the walls were completed and the temple reconstructed. And in proportion as he took his eyes off God and looked within himself for the power and ability to carry on the power work, he became discouraged and perhaps was almost ready to give up in disgust. He did not have the sympathy and cooperation of the inhabitants of the city as was his right to demand and expect. He doubtless tried to push and drive them to the completion of the task which he knew God had set him to accomplish. Perhaps he set to scolding them in the impatience of his discouragement. Perhaps he went as far as some Christians do when facing difficulties similar to those of Zerubbabel, and threatened to quit and go back to the easier surroundings of the Babylonian home. And just at the point when he fully realized how utterly helpless he was to accomplish the task before him, and when, utterly discouraged, he was ready to give up, God sent His prophet to him with the reassuring message that it was "not by the might and power" of a talented and able Zerubbabel that the work of the Lord was to be completed, but that it was through the mysterious and marvelous operations of the Spirit of God.

Christian people everywhere today are meeting with discouragements and delays in the tasks which God has given them to do and, Zerubbabel-like, they feel that the whole burden rests upon them, that they are not appreciated, that they are not receiving the support it is their right to expect, and that the unkind criticism and strong opposition met with are more than they can endure. They become discouraged, they lose heart and confidence, they are ready to throw up their hands in despair and give up the task altogether. It is then that God comes, as He came to Zerubbabel, and whispers to the troubled soul to look away from self and the discouragements and learn that it is "not by might, nor by power," but by the Spirit of God that His work is to be accomplished. Oh, what a lesson to learn! No Christian can do constant and successful work for God until he has mourned in despair with Zerubbabel over the uncompleted wall and temple of the task God has given him to do, and has finally, in the last dying hope of utter discouragement, looked up and caught a vision of the Eternal God and beheld His omnipotent arm moving to his aid.

I imagine I can see Zerubbabel sitting with bowed head in his home after another discouraging day on the city wall and amidst the unsightly ruins of the temple. It has been a push and a drive all day, and apparently nothing done. He has been unable to inspire the people with a sense of the task before them. They are more concerned about their homes and the gratification of their own desires and the carrying out of their own plans than they are to perform the work of the Lord. He has just about made up his mind that with the morning light he will send in his resignation and abandon the people to their indifference and their fate, when lo! a gentle tap on the door announces a visitor. Without looking up, too discouraged to be hospitable, or even civil, he impatiently bids the waiting one to enter. Dear Christian soul, have you ever felt as Zerubbabel did that night? Have you come home discouraged from Sunday school, from church, from young people's meeting, from junior meeting, from any of the varied forms of religious activity which it may be God has called you to perform for Him, and thrown yourself into a chair or upon the couch and, covering your face with your hands, given way to your discouragement? Such experiences come to us all. But let us return to Zerubbabel and see who his visitor is and what his message.

The door is pushed open and the prophet, Zechariah, enters. A quick glance at the bowed figure tells him the whole story. God has sent him just in time. God always comes when the soul is best prepared to receive His message and to learn the Divine lesson. If the prophet had come a few days before, when Zerubbabel was confidently depending upon himself and was planning a new method to arouse the people to the task before them, his message would not have been received or understood. But now the Jewish leader has come to the end of his resources. He has tried everything to make the Lord's work go. Perhaps he had stirred the good ladies up and had tried church suppers and bazars on the temple site to encourage the rebuilding. Perhaps he had offered prizes out on the city wall for the fastest and best worker, or had started unique little entertainments, sort of side shows, you know, to draw the crowds out to the walls in the hope that once he had enticed them there he could set them to work. And so it had gone on, day after day. Each day saw a failure of his own plans, and each night sleepless eyes and wakeful brain sought for new methods to be tried on the morrow. Have you ever been in poor Zerubbabel's fix? Have you wrestled in such a desperate way with the work of the Lord? Well, at last his resourceful brain, and his wonderful patience and perseverance, failed him. The prophet understands it all as he quickly advances across the room through the gathering gloom. With a tender touch, born of the infinite love of God which floods his soul after his wonderful visions, he places his hand upon the bowed head of the discouraged leader, and speaks in cheery, confident tones: "This is the word of the Lord unto Zerubbabel: Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts."

Like a drowning man grasps after a straw, the soul of Zerubbabel eagerly drinks in the prophet's message. As he lifts his head new light bursts in upon his soul. He is humbled as he realizes how he has magnified his own importance in the Lord's work and has failed to reckon God as a factor in the tasks given him to do. Here was a revelation to him of the relation which God always sustains to the work He gives His children to do for Him. Here was a powerful factor in the accomplishment of the great public and religious enterprises which he had entirely overlooked. A new hope kindled in his breast as he felt the arm of God was linked in his to the successful completion of the great work. It was a different man who went out to direct the work on the wall and at the temple the next morning. Discouragements and difficulties became stepping stones to success. He knew that he could not do God's Spirit would do. He knew he did not have to scold and drive any more. A new light burned in his eye. Confidence was marked in his every move and tone. It was no longer Zerubbabel and God, but God and Zerubbabel. The people noted the change. They realized their leader had had a revelation and that a new hope burned within his breast. And by the mysterious workings of the Spirit of God it began to spread, until the heavy feet and lagging hands became transformed into quick feet and eager hands, and as though by magic the walls of the city and the temple began to grow. Zerubbabel had learned the supremely important lesson of giving God a chance. You and I need to learn it, too, if we would do successful work for Him. Oh, that the message that was blazoned upon the heart of Zerubbabel might burn itself deep into the heart of every Christian: "Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts."

Give God a chance. This sounds like rather a startling suggestion. And it might hastily be concluded that if was quite an unnecessary one in this advanced ecclesiastical age, when some form of religion or other is observed and practiced by nearly every one, and when the different denominations have perfected the machinery of their church organizations to such a high degree and have all their varied forces so well and thoroughly equipped. "Why," you exclaim, "whenever before has God had such a chance as He has to-day? Look at the schools, ... and theological seminaries equipping young men as never before for God's work; look at the wealth and power and extended influence of the church; look at the great institutional churches rearing themselves in every large city; look at the great missionary organizations that collect hundreds of thousands of dollars every year and freely spend the same in maintaining missionaries in every nation and every clime; look at the great denominational gatherings every year, see the enthusiasm, hear the reports, take in the scope of the enlarged plans for the new year, and when the mind has in some degree grasped the magnificent range of Christian activities of the twentieth century, turn," you say, "and study the enlarged and improved forces at work in the individual churches. When has the pastor been so alive to the responsibilities, or so thorough in his methods? Whenever before have his forces been so well organized? The churches have been equipped with every modern comfort and convenience, the service has been beautified and the standard of the music rendered raised to meet cultivated and refined tastes. Surely," you exclaim, "God never before had such an opportunity." Perhaps? Let us pause in the light and thought of our text may it not be that the very argument you have used to prove your point that God never before had such a chance may prove a boomerang and become an argument against you? Is it possible for man to do so much that he crowds God out and renders His Spirit inoperative? Is it possible that the "might and power" of the twentieth century Christian is making him forget the supreme need of reliance upon God and preventing patient waiting for the cooperation of the Spirit of God? Surely the empty pews in thousands of churches, the thinning ranks of theological students, the feverish discussions among churchmen for new methods, the modernized Gospel, and popular preaching are the strong internal evidence and admission that something is lacking. What is that something? Is it not the Spirit of God? for "not by might, nor by power," but by the Spirit of God are the purposes and plans of God to be worked out.

Man is coming so willingly to carry much of the burden of Christian work in his own wisdom and own strength, that God is withdrawing and leaving the church to struggle on alone. And what is needed is not new methods, a modernized Gospel and popular preaching, but an humble seeking of God and a patient wooing of the Spirit of God back to His rightful place in the Christian heart, and Christian life, and church activity, and a yielding to Him the full scope of His omnipotent resources. And this is the message echoed from the sacred page in the ears of the church and Christian people of to-day: "Give God a chance."

Note in connection with our text the vision which came to Zechariah to illuminate and reveal its wonderful meaning: A golden candlestick with bowl at the top for the oil to feed the seven lamps through the numerous pipes. The humble but wonderful mission which those pipes performed typifies our relation to God's work. Ours not to be the olive trees at the side of the candlestick pouring their oil into the bowl at the top. Ours not to be the bowl. Ours to be only the pipes through which the oil of God's power can flow to feed the light which we bravely hold up to shine in the darkness of the world for God. Rev. Dr. Meyer, in his comment in his "Daily Homily" on this chapter, exclaims:

"What a sermon there is in a wick! Sit beside it, and ask how it dares hope to be able to supply light for hours and hours to come. 'Will you not soon burn to an end, you wick of a lamp?' 'No; I do not fear it, since the light does not burn me, though it burns on me. I only bear to it the oil which saturates my texture. I am but the ladder up which it climbs. It is not I, but the oil that is in me, that furnishes the light.' But how necessary it is that nothing interrupt the flow of oil; that there be no uncleanliness permitted to clog and obstruct the narrow bore of the golden spout of faith. . . . It cannot be too often repeated, that it is not what we do for Him, but what He does through us, which really blesses men. Be satisfied then to be only a wick unseen amid the glory of the light that crowns it, and willing to be consumed by the daily removal of the charred fringe. Delivered to death for Jesus' sake, that the life of Jesus may be manifest in your mortal flesh."

Oh, Christian, give God a chance in your life! Hear Him as He speaks: "Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit." Let your Christian service take on new meaning! Let God work through you!

DID THE ANCIENTS SMOKE?

Archaeologists Assert Excavations of Queer Pipes Are Proof That They Did.

In England, Ireland, Germany, Switzerland and France old pipes made of clay, wood and metal, have frequently been found and they closely resemble modern pipes.

Certain archaeologists have now come forward to claim that the ancients must have smoked, as the existence of the old pipes cannot be explained on any other theory. Some of the pipes, they point out, date back to the Roman and Merovingian epochs, and, so far as can be discovered, all are apparently genuine.

In several old authors, they say, passages can be found which prove clearly that certain ancient peoples were accustomed to inhale the vapor of plants, both for the purpose of becoming exhilarated and of curing certain diseases. Herodotus says that the inhabitants of the great islands of the Araxes, which is supposed to be the modern Volga, "were wont to throw piles of fruit on a fire and then to inhale the vapor, with the result that they became as drunk as ever the Greeks became after drinking wine, and the more fruit they threw on the fire the more drunk they became."

Pomponius Mela, the Roman geographer tells a somewhat similar story about certain Thracian tribes. They knew nothing about wine, he says, but when they feasted they threw seeds on a fire, and the vapor which arose made them just as lively as though they had become drunk with wine. A work, attributed to Plutarch, further says that these seeds were obtained from a grass which grew beside the rivers of Thrace.

Pliny says that the vapor of plants was used to cure diseases, and he especially mentioned that in some instances it was inhaled through a tube, in the same manner as tobacco is now smoked. "The smoke of dried colt's foot and roots, inhaled through a tube or reed," he says, is considered an admirable cure for a cough. It is necessary, however, to take a sup of wine every time the smoke is inhaled."

From these and other passages it is evident that in ancient times certain barbarous races inhaled vapor, and that in some instances pipes were used.

A curious fact, by the way, says the New York Times, is that many of the ancient pipes found in Ireland are very small, and there is a popular belief that they have never been smoked except by fairies. If the ancient Danes or Milesians ever smoked them, they must have used something much stronger than tobacco, as otherwise they would have been obliged to fill them several times in succession in order to get a comfortable smoke.

THRIFTY, NOT PATRIOTIC.

An Auction in Hong-Kong Shows That This Is the Nature of John Chinaman.

An auction sale in Shanghai of some spoils from the imperial palace at Peking shows that there is no mania for curios in the Celestial empire. The account is from "The North China Herald," and a tael is equivalent to 60 cents or so, according to the price of silver.

"The imperial sedan chair used by the emperor on his way to the Temple of Heaven was one of many curios offered. Appeals to the patriotism of the Chinese purchasers brought a price of 11 taels only. A set of beautiful drawings, said to have been made by the members of the imperial family with their finger nails, found a purchaser at 60 taels, while 50 taels was forthcoming for an elaborate square of imperial embroidery in gold. The same amount was asked for a small bloodstone vase, and also for a larger one in cloisonne, dating from the Ching Tah dynasty.

"Beautiful embroidered imperial robes and skirts averaged from 30 to 50 taels apiece. Among the numerous jewels offered, the largest, a massive brass image, was sold for 50 taels; 45 taels secured a magnificent tiger skin, while a couple of leopards, so far from rivaling their cousin in value, were knocked down for two taels apiece. Historical interest as well as intrinsic beauty brought seven taels each for four porcelain plates belonging to the Chingaloong dynasty. Other imperial relics included a white jade seal and a brass cup of the Gobi dynasty, each of which realized ten taels."

Babies Never Get Seasick.

"Babies never get seasick. I have carried thousands of them in my time," said an American line steward, "and in rough weather I have seen their fathers, mothers, brothers and sisters keel over like soldiers before a cannon-ball; but not so with the babies. Whether it be rough or smooth at sea, a baby is always an excellent sailor—rosy, jolly and with the appetite of a horse. Do you know the explanation of this singular fact? It is simple as the fact is strange. Babies don't get seasick because they are accustomed to the rocking of the cradle. That movement is much like the rocking of a ship. A baby aboard ship, therefore, is merely a baby in an unusually big cradle, and there is nothing odd to him about the rocking, for it is what he has been accustomed to all his life."—Philadelphia Record.

Community in a Crater.

In the interior of the extinct crater Aso San, about 30 miles from the city of Kumanmeto, in Japan, 20,000 people live and prosper. The vertical wall of the crater is 500 feet high. The inhabitants rarely make a journey into the outer world, but form almost a little nation by themselves.—London News.

A prominent club woman, Mrs. Danforth, of St. Joseph, Mich., tells how she was cured of falling of the womb and its accompanying pains and misery by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Life looks dark indeed when a woman feels that her strength is fading away and she has no hopes of ever being restored. Such was my feeling a few months ago when I was advised that my poor health was caused by prolapsus or falling of the womb. The words sounded like a knell to me, I felt that my sun had set; but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound came to me as an elixir of life; it restored the lost forces and built me up until my good health returned to me. For four months I took the medicine daily and each dose added health and strength. I am so thankful for the help I obtained through its use."—MRS. FLORENCE DANFORTH, 1007 Miles Ave., St. Joseph, Mich.

A medicine that has restored so many women to health and can produce proof of the fact must be regarded with respect. This is the record of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which cannot be equalled by any other medicine the world has ever produced. Here is another case:—

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For years I was troubled with falling of the womb, irregular and painful menstruation, leucorrhœa, bearing-down pains, backache, headache, dizzy and fainting spells, and stomach trouble.

"I doctored for about five years but did not seem to improve. I began the use of your medicine, and have taken seven bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, three of Blood Purifier, and also used the Sanative Wash and Liver Pills, and am now enjoying good health, and have gained in flesh. I thank you very much for what you have done for me, and heartily recommend your medicine to all suffering women."—MISS EMMA SNYDER, 218 East Center St., Marion, Ohio.

"FREE MEDICAL ADVICE TO WOMEN."

Women would save time and much sickness if they would write to Mrs. Pinkham for advice as soon as any distressing symptoms appear. It is free, and has put thousands of women on the right road to recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham never violates the confidence thus entrusted to her, and although she publishes thousands of testimonials from women who have been benefited by her advice and medicine, never in all her experience has she published such a letter without the full consent, and often by special request of the writer.

FIGHTING HAIL IN FRANCE.

History of the Efforts of the City of Lyons to Dissipate Destructive Storms.

The state department has received from Consul J. C. Covert at Lyons, the official report of the international congress for the protection of that city against hail. The report reviews the history of efforts in the direction of protection against hail, which became widespread in France, by means of firing cannon, toward the close of the eighteenth century. In 1891 efforts were exerted to produce rain by the use of cannon and a professor of the University of Bologna inaugurated a similar process for protection against hail. The consul states that in 1896 Albert Stieger, Burgemeister of Windisch Feistrita, is said to have turned a hailstorm into a full of fine rain by the detonations from a number of mortars. The latter part of 1900 from 10,000 to 12,000 cloud-firing stations were represented at the congress at Padua, at which congress it was voted to continue the war against hail, on condition that it should be done systematically.

Further along in the report of the international congress the statement is made that it was almost always observed that the firing stopped the wind or diminished its force, considerably perforated or cleared away the clouds entirely or very largely stopped the electrical discharges above the protected zone; the lightning and thunder raging only outside of it.

MIGRATION OF PEASANTS.

Peculiar Movement of Laborers Which Prevails on Large Scale in European Russia.

The annual migration of Russian Polish laborers to Prussia is well known. Attention is directed by the St. Petersburg Vedomosti to a similar movement on a larger scale within the borders of European Russia. It is calculated that 2,137,000 peasants, insufficiently provided with arable land, leave their homes in the central and northern province every year to seek work in the south. Most of them start with only about a dollar in their pockets—borrowed from a usurer generally—and it is the exception when they know where work is to be found. Owing to the great variation in the yield many arrive in famine-stricken districts. The writer proposes the organization of an information bureau to communicate to the migrators the government crop reports. The peasants still largely form a separate world and few know that such things as crop reports exist.

REFORM IN RUSSIA.

Publication of a New Criminal Law Book Is Imminent, Says the Minister of Justice.

The Russian Minister of Justice Muraviff has made the following statement in regard to reforms in Russia: "The publication of a new criminal law book is imminent in Russia. The council of the empire has recently received a project for the complete reorganization of criminal court procedure. Important changes have been made in our penitentiary system. Suffice it to mention the abolition of deportation (by judgment of court) to Siberia, the transfer of prison management from the ministry of the interior to that of justice, the reform of our prison system, especially of prison labor; the establishment of correctional institutions and the preliminary work in the matter of conditional sentences."

THE WOEFUL WHEEL.

George Thought He Was Doing His Duty, But It Was Labor Lost:

A young man in a cricket shirt and straw hat was wheeling a baby carriage backward and forward along the pavement in front of a small house in Westgate-on-Sea.

The hot afternoon sun poured pitilessly down upon him, and he was angry as any man in the neighborhood, relates the Manchester Guardian.

"My dear," came a voice from the upper window of the house.

"Let me alone, can't you?" he shrieked back, and went on wheeling and mopping his face.

An hour later the same voice came from the window in earnest, pleading tones:

"George, dear!"

"Well, what on earth do you want?" he shouted! "Have the water pipes burst?"

"No, George, dear," wailed the voice, "the water pipes are all right, but you've been wheeling Amy a doll all the afternoon. Hadn't you better let baby have a turn now?"

"Indigestion, congested liver, impure blood, constipation, these are what afflict thousands of people who do not know what is the matter with them. They drag along a miserable existence; they apply to the local doctors occasionally, and sometimes obtain a little temporary relief, but the old, tired, worn-out, all-gone, distressed feeling always comes back again worse than ever, until in time they become tired of living, wonder why they were ever born, and why they are alive unless to endure constant suffering. To such sufferers there is a haven of refuge in Dr. August Koenig's Hamburg Drops, which is a wonderful medicine. One trial will convince the most sceptical that any or all of these difficulties may be removed, and a perfect cure effected, by taking Dr. August Koenig's Hamburg Drops. Get a bottle at once, before it is too late.

It Was the Card.

The weary housekeeper paused beside the basket of eggs that bore the card labeled: "Fresh this morning—38 cents." "Give me a dozen of these eggs," she said. "I suppose you guarantee their freshness?"

"Well, no," said the hesitating storekeeper, "we wouldn't like to do that."

"But the card says: 'Fresh this morning.'"

"Yes'm," the storekeeper reluctantly admitted. "But you see, it's the card that's fresh—not the eggs."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

California, the State of Big Things.

California produces 22 per cent. of the country's barley, 40 per cent. of the country's gold, 70 per cent. of the country's beet sugar, 90 per cent. of the country's raisins, and from 90 per cent. to 99 per cent. of a great many other important commodities. California is one of the largest producers of beans in the world and the only producer of Lima beans for commercial purposes in the United States. California yields more honey than all the rest of the Union. California supplies nearly all the vegetable and flower seeds to the markets of the world. California sends outside her borders 20,000,000 bushels of wheat every year. San Francisco, the metropolis of California, is now the sixth city in financial importance in the United States.

"His Little Scheme."

He was cutting an item from a newspaper. "It tells how a house was robbed, and I want to show it to my wife," he explained.

"What good will that do?" a friend inquired.

"A whole lot," was the reply. "You see, this house was robbed while a man was at church with his wife."

"Say!" exclaimed the friend, excitedly, "you haven't got a duplicate copy of that paper, have you?"—Chicago Post.

SYRUP OF FIGS

Acts Gently;
Acts Pleasantly;
Acts Beneficially;
Acts truly as a Laxative.

Syrup of Figs appeals to the cultured and the well-informed and to the healthy, because its component parts are simple and wholesome and because it acts without disturbing the natural functions, as it is wholly free from every objectionable quality or substance. In the process of manufacturing figs are used, as they are pleasant to the taste, but the medicinal virtues of Syrup of Figs are obtained from an excellent combination of plants known to be medicinally laxative and to act most beneficially.

PLATTSBURG.

Jan. 5.—The public school at this place commenced again Monday.

Jas. K. Sebree and family, spent Wednesday with F. J. Rue and family.

The health in this vicinity is generally good. Some few have a bad cold.

J. D. McNeely gave the young folks a play party last Thursday night.

Jno. D. McNeely and family spent Wednesday with Nathan Clements and wife.

W. S. White was the guest of his son James, of near Petersburg, last Thursday.

F. J. Rue delivered his crop of tobacco to O. W. Adams, at Rising Sun, at 6 and 4 cents.

Robert Adams, of Buffalo, spent Saturday night and Sunday with Jas. W. Ryle, of near Beech Grove.

Miss Mira Craig, of near Burlington, was visiting her relatives and friends in this neighborhood the past week.

William Sebree and family, of Woolper heights, were visiting his brother of this place and his wife's parents on Gunpowder, a couple of days last week.

HATHAWAY.

Dec. 5.—George Bachelor will occupy the Split Rock farm the coming season.

The prospects for fruit the coming season is first class.

The marriage of Ed Nixon and Miss Edna Sullivan announced for the holidays did not materialize.

Killing hogs at home is a thing of the past here. They are butchered by Mr. Ruth, the Petersburg butcher.

John McMurray and Miss Lonie Burns, of the Steep Gut, Woolper vicinity, were married during the holidays.

Miss Fannie Bondurant received a nice gold watch and chain for a christmas present from an uncle in Portsmouth, Ohio.

Lloyd Norris, who has been keeping hotel in Osgood, Ind., for many years, has quit the business and is spending the winter with Ben Berkshire and family.

John Parker, of Cincinnati, spent Sunday with his parents here. He reports his brother Paris, who is down with typhoid fever, as being well and will probably leave the hospital about the middle of the month.

Miss Georgia Parker entertained with a dinner, last Sunday in honor of Miss Eunie Willis. Those present were Misses Elizabeth Ferris, Bess, Edna, and Alice Berkshire, Amanda Terrill, Hazel McWethy and Elizabeth Walton, Messrs. Carl Alden and George Riley.

HEBRON.

Mrs. Bradford still remains very poorly.

A few have put up ice.

The infant child of Chas. Robinson, died last Monday.

J. H. Newman called in this neighborhood recently.

Sunday school closed last Sunday until the first Sunday in April.

Ed Ernsts, wife and sister made a flying trip to the city, Saturday.

Dr. and Mrs. L. C. Hafer, of Union visited their parents here last Sunday.

Bert Jones, of Idlewild, visits our village quite often. Just why we can not tell.

Will Riddell, of Lexington, came down for a few days with his parents last week.

A select party will be given at the hall over Clore's store, next Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Davis, of Ludlow, spent last Saturday and Sunday with relatives here.

The semi monthly C. E. meeting was held at the church Sunday night with a good attendance.

The sleighing here was excellent. The only fault we had to find, was that it did not last long enough.

Miss Clara Hossman was the recipient of a handsome cherry book case from her father for christmas.

Miss Fannie Gordon is visiting her brother, George and family. Mrs. Dr. Jewitt, of Eminence, is also here.

The ladies of the Lutheran church will give an oyster supper Jan. 11th, supper commencing at 3 p. m. Admission 20c. Come one, come all.

The news of the marriage of Miss Cassie Sederberg and Will Moore, last Wednesday, came somewhat as a surprise. We extend our congratulations.

There have been very few parties this season—only three during the holidays. One given by Misses Jesse and Mamie Gordon, one at Miss Ethel Souther's and the C. E. social at Will McGlasson's.

The monthly council meeting of the Lutheran church, and the yearly election of officers was held Saturday. With some exceptions the former ones were reelected. Will Crigler was elected Assistant Superintendent.

Rabbit roasts are becoming quite popular in this locality.

The board adjourned to meet again next Monday, (Jan. 19,) to give each person whose valuations was increased, an opportunity to show cause, if any, he has why the increase should not stand as made by the Supervisors.

The ex-Confederates of Boone county are hereby notified that there will be a meeting of the boys of Boone and Kenton counties who wore the Gray, at the city building in Covington on the nineteenth of January at 7:30 p. m., at which time a Cross of Honor will be conferred on all who served with distinction. Papers have been sent to everyone I know in the county, asking them to become members of Tandy Pryor Camp. Many of the boys have sent in their papers, and we would be glad if everyone would send his paper in at once, as I would be glad to see every ex in the county a member of our camp. B. F. NORMAN.

The startling announcement of a Discovery that will surely lengthen life is made by editor O. H. Downey, of Churubusco, Ind. "I wish to state," he writes, "that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is the most unfailible remedy that I have ever known for coughs, Colds and Grip. It's invaluable to people with weak lungs. Having this wonderful medicine no one need dread Pneumonia or Consumption. Its relief is instant and cure certain," W. F. McKim, Burlington; J. G. Oesner, Florence; A. W. Smith, Walton; Union Drug Store, Union; O. N. Grant, Bellevue, guarantee every 50c and $1.00 bottle, and give trial bottles free.

Several members that are in good standing belonging to the Hay Mow Poker Club, met at the paiatial residence of Harvey McGiasson last Wednesday night. The purpose of the meeting was to reorganize and elect officers for the year '03 A quorum being present the house was called to order and the minutes of last meeting read. The officers were then elected and installed and the regular business was taken up. Some valuable suggestions were made pertaining to the by-laws of the organization; words of wisdom was listened to from several that knows. A committee of four was appointed to revise Hoyl's tactics on American games—they will report at the next meeting. Duriug the progress of the meeting the question arose and was discussed, at considerable length, as to whether a brother had the right to borrow chips after going dead broke and a jack-pot in sight. This was disposed of by a show-down, the winner of course, being the one that wanted to borrow, and thus the evening whiled away until the hostess announced lunch. Here I wish to pause and reflect, for I cannot describe that elaborate spread. The table was artistically decorated—there was several different kinds of cake, peaches and cream, tropical fruits and nuts, native wiue, old Hyson tea, &c. All these rich viands the good hostess had prepared for the occasion. The genial hospitality of our host and hostess won the admiration of all present. A vote of thanks were tendered them, and an order made to record the proceedings on the minutes of the meeting and a copy sent to each absent member with regrets. The meeting then adjourned to meet again the first windy night on or before the next snow storm.

VERONA.

Jan. 12.—Your correspondent was laid up last week with Lagrippe, but he is able to resume his business.

Charles Harrall sold the Lewis Marr farm to Marshall Kennedy for $700 cash, a few days since.

Last Thursday when the Recorder arrived, it created quite a stir among those who owed taxes.

Our local tobacco merchants do not seem to be very anxious about buying any of the weed this season.

The lecture at the hall last Tuesday night, was attended by a small crowd. Subject, "The wild goose chase."

J. Showers is having a paneled petition put under the counters in O. K. Whitson's store, which adds very much to the appearance.

Our people are delighted over the prospects of a bank being organized here. Nearly the entire capital stock of $15,000 has been taken. It is believed here that a bank will pay well from the fact that it will have a wide scope of country and many wealthy farmers upon which to depend for support.

Our old batchelor friend, George W. Popham, who lives across Gunpowder, was among the few who defied old Boreas and came to town last Monday.

BEAVER

J. H. Polly, of whose death the RECORDER gave a brief statement, last week, was laid to rest on the 7th inst. in Hughes Chapel cemetery, after a few remarks by Revs. R. Mills and C. A. Earl. He was a grandson of James D. Polly, who came to this county at an early day, from Jessamine county, this state, and settled near Big Bone Springs. He raised two sons, Marion and Joseph, and four daughters. Two of the latter are still living, one in this county, the wife of the late Jacob Cleek, aged 78 years. Marion and Joseph Polly fell victims to the cholera plague in the fall of 1866, aged respectively 40 and 32. Marion left one son and one daughter. The son died at the age of 16 years. Joseph left one son and four daughters. The son, Jacob Harmon Polly, of whom we speak, was never married, so the name Polly is lost. While he never attended any school except a few common schools in his early boyhood, Harmon, nevertheless, acquired an extensive and polished education He was master of the English language in all of its branches. He could read, write and speak German fluently, and with his pen he had few equals. He wrote a beautiful hand and could readily duplicate any specimen of drawing that came under his observation. He was well versed in the Bible, although he had never attached himself to any church He had been a newspaper correspondent for a number of years and will be missed by the readers of the RECORDER and the Warsaw Independent. He met everybody pleasantly and was a good conversationalist, and was a lover of any good literature to the reading of which he devoted a great portion of his time.

My Visit to Old Boone.

From Christmas until New Year's, I spent a delightful time in old Boone and to say that I had an enjoyable time, would be expressing it too mildly. For of all the places I have ever been, I have never yet found more fun or hospitality than in Boone. I fully agree with the "editor of the Union Blade," that no where on earth can these delightful peculiarities be found except in "Old Kentucky." No State can excel her in sociability and the art of entertaining. While over there I was honored by invitations to several turkey dinners, which to me, were very enjoyable and unique.

On Sunday I spent the day at Mr. Will Clore's; Monday, at Mr. Lineas Kelly's, and on Wednesday at Mr. Chas. Kelly's. Three more delightful days, I never spent, and never did I find more entertaining hosts and hostesses.

One amusing feature, to me, was "horse back riding" and as it was something new to me, I enjoyed it very much and saw some rugged yet beautiful country. The old Parson's mill had an attraction for me, it brought to my mind these lines,

Nestled down in the snowy hills
It stood in silence dark and grim,
A structure in ruins and sad decay,
That fraiier grew as the years grew dim."

Then after sampling some of Mr. Parson's "chewing gum," and viewing his neat little store, our gay little party turned our horses heads homeward. I, especially, feel amply repaid for my ride over the hills.

I also had the pleasure of calling on the Misses Cook, and meeting many of Boone's young people, that every one should feel honored to become acquainted with. As far as my visit at Mr. Doc Clore's is concerned. Well, there is no need of me giving an account of that, for every one knows "Cousin Doc" and his family to be one of the best and most entertaining in the county.

The 2d of Jan. I returned home. My ride on the "Swan" was enjoyable and as the hills of "Old Kentucky" faded into a dim outline, against which the mist above the water nestled in shadowy folds, I took one last look at them, sincerely hoping that before many months I may again visit that enchanting region, called "Old Boone."

Personal Mentions.

John Early is now in charge of the county infirmary

Sheriff Aliphin has been on the sick list for several days.

Hal Biantou, one of Erlanger's liverymen, came over Monday.

Lee Gaines, of Walton, was among those doing business in Burlington, last Saturday.

A. M. Edwards, one of Walton's enterprising citizens, was transacting business here last Saturday.

W. M. Rogers, of Walton, spent a few days last week, with his daughter, Mrs. C. C. Roberts, of this place.

Ex Assessor R. A. Brady, from down on Middle creek, was looking after business here last Saturday. He has been suffering with rheumatism for some time.

Thos. F. Graut, a promiuent Bullittsville citizen, was in town Monday. It was a nice day for pleasure trips—neither mud nor heat to annoy a person.

E. H. Snyder, a clever denizen of the Gunpowder settlement, was delivering tobacco here last Wednesday, notwithstanding the blizzard that prevailed that day.

A. C. Vaughn, the piano man, dropped in to see the RECORDER one of those delightful mornings that made last week famous. He is selling a great many instruments.

County Attorney Castleman spent a few days the latter part of last week with friends at Frankfort. He returned home Sunday morning, bringing with him his little daughter, Mary, who had been with Frankfort relatives since the holidays.

Agricultural Hints.

BREAKING CORN STALKS.

Two Devices Whose Use Enables Two Persons to Clear Large Tract in One Day.

When the ground is frozen hard, if the land is not too hilly or rough, the breaking of the corn stubble is not difficult if the farmer has the proper implements. For those living handy to a railway, it is a good plan to buy an old rail or part of a rail discarded from the track. About four feet from each end of it a hole is drilled through the narrow part. A chain is attached at each hole by a bolt or hook and the chains being brought together at the other end, a ring is attached, to which three horses are hitched. The chains may be attached without drilling holes, if iron rods of suitable size be heated and bent round the rail at the proper places, so as to form eyes or hooks.

Another good stalk breaker may be made by selecting a wooden pole of as uniform diameter as possible and long enough to break five or seven rows of stalks. After ascertaining the center of gravity by balancing over a log or some like object, cut notches at 3½ or 4 feet on each side of this center. Fasten chains around the pole at the notches and to a doubletree and single-trees, as shown in Fig. 1.

The breaker shown in Fig. 2 is harder to construct but is a very effective one on level ground. A couple of pieces of 2x4 or 2x6-inch stuff about 20 feet long are connected by two cross-pieces, about 2x4 inches by 3½ feet. A 4½-inch bolt at each of the connecting points holds the frame together. A light chain is looped round each cross-piece and held at the desired point by a wooden or iron pin or bolt. Singletrees are attached to the chains. The chains are adjusted so that the horses will not raise the front of the stalk breaker. Two persons are necessary to drive this kind of stalk breaker, but a great deal of ground can be gone over in a short time.—J. G. Allshouse, in Ohio Farmer.

POTATOES THAT ROT.

It Is Not Only Advisable, But Absolutely Necessary, to Dispose of Them at Once.

If the potatoes in the cellar begin to rot it is well to dispose of them as soon as possible. None of them should be kept over for the coming spring, as they will then carry into the next crop the mycellium that has been the cause of the rot this year. Potato rot begins in the form of blight in the field. Later it shows itself in the tubers stored in the cellar. Ignorance regarding this has kept many a farm infected from year to year, as the farmer has carried over infected seed from one year to another. When rot has appeared, therefore, the only thing to do is to get rid of the potatoes before they have begun to show the disease. If the rot is very bad, it will pay better to feed the smallest of the tubers to stock rather than run the risk of having them all rot in the bins. In the ordinary cellar it is rather difficult to keep potatoes of any kind, much less those with the rot mycellium concealed within. In cold storage where the temperature is kept at near the freezing point there is less danger in trying to hold them for some months. In the ordinary cellar the temperature frequently goes up to near the seventies on warm winter days, and this is especially so now that many farm houses are heated by furnaces.—Farmers' Review.

Facts for Potato Growers.

Potatoes are the most expensive of all the staple foods. They contain from 750 to 800 pounds of water in every 1,000 pounds, the solid matter being mostly starch. The farmer also finds the potato crop one of the most exacting in its requirements of labor, one of the greatest obstacles being warfare against beetles and diseases. At present prices potatoes are more expensive than beef, considering the actual proportion of nutritious matter contained, but it is only when prices are high that the potato crop is very profitable, owing to the expenses necessary for its cultivation.

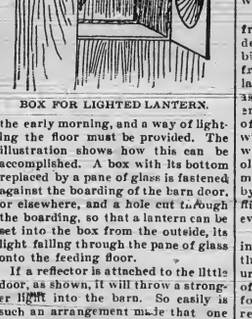
When to Plow for Corn.

Usualy it is better to plow for corn in the spring, because if the land is plowed in the fall it has a tendency to become solid—that is, "run together" more or less by the winter and spring rains, and this results in keeping the ground cold in the spring. Corn, above most other plants raised on the farm, requires a warm soil rather early in the season. Plow two to three weeks, if the land is in good condition, before the time of planting, and allow the furrows to lie for this period without being harrowed.—Country Gentleman.

TEXAS BEEF CATTLE.

Trading in This Sort of Stock Has Been Decidedly Inactive During the Last Half Year.

Barring the purchase of nearly all of the two-year-old steers located above the quarantine line by the northern ranchmen, but little has been done in the way of trading during the past six months. It is difficult, under existing circumstances, to account for this dullness and activity. The speculator or buyer would explain it with the statement that cattle were too high; that there was no longer any profit or speculation in the business. The cattle owner, while contending for good, strong prices, would point to the fancy price being paid for beef and base his claim on this argument. Both arguments are, in a measure, correct. The greatest drawback, the thing perhaps more than any other cause responsible for the inactivity of the cattle trade, is the unsettled condition of affairs.



A great portion of the range country of Texas is at present section-ized, much being owned by the state school fund, which cannot be controlled absolutely by the ranchmen either by leases or purchases. This existing condition of affairs, from the cattlemen's standpoint, surrounds the ranch business with an uncertain tenure which is very unsatisfactory and which necessarily has a tendency to lower prices of stock cattle. Besides, there is a feeling among the would-be investors in cattle that the present high price of beef will not continue always, but that partly from natural, but mainly from unnatural, causes, there may, and probably will, be a material reduction in the price of beef in the market centers within the next 12 months.

The cattle business under proper management is, and will always continue, to be, a profitable one. To obtain the best results, however, the cattle must be well bred, well fed and properly managed, and must not be expected, in addition to paying interest on the land that they graze upon, to also pay the fabulous interest usually charged on cattle loans for a large percentage of their cost. Even the cattle business, profitable as it is under favorable conditions, can be and often is overstocked.—Dallas Farm and Ranch.

NEAT SAFETY DEVICE.

It Should Be Adopted by All Farmers Who Have to Use Lighted Lanterns in the Barn.

The safest kind of a "safety" lantern is not sufficiently safe to carry into a barn in the night. Accidents will occur. The lantern may be set down on the floor for a moment, and accidentally knocked over. It is a wise rule that keeps all lamps and lanterns out of the barn entirely. It is often necessary, however, to go into the feeding floor in the evening, or in the early morning, and a way of lighting the floor must be provided. The illustration shows how this can be accomplished. A box with its bottom replaced by a pane of glass is fastened against the boarding of the barn door, or elsewhere, and a hole cut through the boarding, so that a lantern can be set into the box from the outside, its light falling through the pane of glass onto the feeding floor.

If a reflector is attached to the little door, as shown, it will throw a stronger light into the barn. So easily is such an arrangement made that one could well be provided for the feeding floor and one for the door leading into the cattle stalls. The lantern then need never be carried into the stable, but the interior lighted at any time without any danger. Where the position of the box would make it desirable to throw the light to both sides as well as straight ahead the two sides of the box, as well as the back of it, can be provided with panes of glass. This would be especially desirable when lighting a "tie-up" for milking time. The box could be arranged midway between the ends.—Orange Judd Farmer.

Feeding of Soft Corn.

There is very little difference in feeding value of the dry matter of soft, or thoroughly ripened corn, pound for pound, but it requires about 20 per cent. more soft corn to make an even amount of dry matter. Of course the same amount of cob is necessary to grow a soft ear that is required to grow a good ear. A good deal of soft corn is musty. This may or may not be injurious to stock. It is better to use caution in feeding soft corn until its effect on the animals eating it is determined. Ordinarily there is very little trouble from this source, but specific cases of stomach trouble have been traced to damaged or moldy corn. As there is so much of this class of stock food in the country this year, it is better to go slow.—Henry Payne in Farm and Home.

CONDITION IS WOEFUL.

Porto Rico Is Worse Off Now Than Under Spain, Says a Native at Cornell.

Martin Travieso, Jr., of San Juan, Porto Rico, now a senior in the Cornell law school, declares that conditions in Porto Rico are far worse than they were under the rule of Spain, and that the government party is carrying on with a high hand, favoring a minority which consists of worthless politicians, while the best and honest people suffer. These statements, says the Chicago Chronicle, made in a speech which was delivered at one of the meetings of the Cornell class in oratory, made a profound impression, for Travieso is well liked by the students, who admire his devotion to his country's cause. In part he said:

"When the flag of Spain was pulled down from every place in the island of Porto Rico and that of the stars and stripes supplanted in its stead the great heart of the Porto Rican people was glad, for we thought that liberty had for the first time made its appearance on our dear island. We had read and heard of Washington, Lincoln, Jefferson, and other immortal Americans and had also learned to love and admire them. We knew that the American nation all men were free and equal, and we had read the American constitution and therefore we hoped that the blessings of liberty guaranteed in that document would be extended to us.

"Have our hopes been realized? Nay, they have been dissipated and blasted. The supreme court has held that the constitution does not extend to Porto Rico. And instead of autonomy which had been conceded to us by Spain we now have a government which gives the governor more despotic powers than any Spanish governor ever had.

"The election of November was the greatest political crime of the century. All means were used from fraud to murder to give the victory to the governmental party. The insular police instead of preserving order were used by the government to intimidate the opposing party and to prevent the honest citizens from casting their ballots and the criminals will remain unpunished because the ministers in the temple of justice are politicians.

"We have gone back to the dark days of Spanish administration of 1887, when our mothers and sisters were in constant fear that their sons and brothers might be arrested by the Spanish soldiers to be thrown into a dungeon and suffer torture for the sole crime of being a patriot. To-day under the present government they are in constant dread lest their loved ones may be brought back to them maimed or murdered for the sole crime of being opposed to the party protected by the governor.

"But only the official reports reach this country, and in them Porto Rico is represented as being a happy and prosperous country. But these reports are false and I so denounce them. Porto Rico is passing through the greatest crisis of its history and the island is prostrated.

"I believe that my country is entitled to have a government founded on the same principles that have made this nation the greatest nation in the world, and I believe we are at least entitled, as civilized and Christian people, to have our natural rights guaranteed by the government to which we owe allegiance. In heaven's name we want instead of profligacy, honesty; instead of extravagance, economy; instead of rioting, peace. So that everyone from our beautiful shores to our evergreen mountains may learn to love and respect the flag which floats overhead and be willing to die in its defense."

NOT HARD TO EXPLAIN.

Why There Was Such an Increase in the Socialistic Vote at Recent Election.

The republicans are looking for an explanation of the great increase in the socialist vote at the recent election. The party of "stand-patters" in special privileges and distributor of vested wrongs need not look far for the explanation. Henry Fawcett gave it when he said:

"It has repeatedly shown that the friends of revolutionary changes derive their motive power from the bigotted opponents of progress, and from the stubborn upholders of unwise laws and unjust privileges. It might as well be supposed that the railway engine would move if it were deprived of steam, that wheat could grow without soil, or that man could live without food, as to imagine that a revolutionary propagandism could be maintained if it were not kept alive by the recollection of some wrong inflicted, and by the continuance of some evil unredressed."

Not only will socialism continue to increase rapidly, but it will soon be the law of the land if effective measures are not taken to curb the power of the trusts. The people may do some foolish things and jump in wrong directions when they see danger ahead, but they will not much longer stand still while the trusts plunder them. Possibly Herbert Spencer was right when, in 1894, he said: "The movement toward dissolution of existing social forms and reorganization on a socialistic basis I believe to be irresistible." He then prophesied "civil war, immense bloodshed, and eventually military despotism of the severest type."

DRIFT OF OPINION.

——Well, the democrats won't be able to elect a man in 1904 who is suitable to the republicans.—Rochester Herald.

——There was an organization in Ohio 25 years or more ago based on the proposition that the democratic party had outlived its usefulness; but it has lived to fight many a battle since, and it is now prancing into the arena for victory in 1904. Those who think the Monroe doctrine is "in the sere and yellow" might find a lesson in this.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

——Representative Grosvenor, of Ohio, had begun to tell about the trusts which the republican party has destroyed. He mentioned the whisky trust. "Was the whisky trust broken up by federal or state laws?" inquired Representative Cochran. "I do not know," confessed Grosvenor. "Name one trust that was broken up by the Sherman law," challenged Cochran. "I decline to be interrupted," answered Grosvenor, who knows when he has said enough.—Albany Argus.

NO RELIEF FROM COAL TRUST.

The Republican Administration Responsible for the Present State of Things.

There is no more reason for a tariff tax on coal than for one on ice, and the latter necessity—and it almost is a necessity—is on the free list of the Dingley tariff act.

Coal is taxed 67 cents a ton to protect the coal barons and allow them to charge that much more profit—in fact the duty was intended as a subsidy. The coal barons are important people. They control United States senators and congressmen from a number of strong republican states, and when the subsidies have been dealt out in the tariff bill they demanded that coal should be protected from competition. This, of course, was conceded by the republican majority that passed the bill and the republican president that signed it. So there is no escape from the fact that the republican party is responsible for at least 67 cents a ton of the extortionate prices for coal which the trust is now charging.

It is also not difficult to prove that the republican party is also responsible for the coal strike, and, until election day was near, made no serious attempt to stop it. There is a community of interests between the trusts and the republican party leaders. A wireless telegraph keeps them in constant touch with each other and when important elections are about to occur the contact becomes closer, like the embrace of lovers.

The party in power is responsible for the execution of the federal laws and, in times of stress, at least, when the anti-trust law was notoriously being nullified, the same party should enforce it. When the beef trust began to hold up the American people, as it did last winter, if the administration had begun proceedings against the beef barons under the criminal section of the Sherman law, there would have been but little doubt of their conviction. Mr. Armour or Mr. Swift convicted and in jail for combining to fleece the people, would have at once stopped their extortions and would have been a warning to other monopolists, especially to the coal trust magnates, when combination to restrict the output of coal and keep up prices was notorious. The fear of an impartial enforcement of the law would have made the coal barons think twice before they declined to make a small advance in the wages of the miners. Ten cents a ton advance in wages would have settled the coal strike, ten days after it began. A threat, at that time, of prosecution, by President Roosevelt, or his attorney general even if the beef trust had not been dealt with, would have brought the haughty barons to time.

No such effort, or even attempt, was made. The trusts are still in the saddle, booted and spurred, riding the long-suffering people to their undoing. The president has washed his hands of the wretched business and his "commission" drags along without much prospect of either miners or people being helped by its deliberations. The only relief in sight is balmy spring, which nature fortunately will provide in due course of time.

INFLUENCES CORRUPT.

Protection a System That Is Based on Fallacies and Is Unsound.

Mr. William Lloyd Garrison has a most excellent article in the Free Trade Almanac for 1903, from which the following is a part:

"A system built on fallacies has its root in corruption, and its fruit bears evidence of its parentage. From untruths to misuse and misappropriation of r. Mues to ... Mts of privil... Mor favors received and expected, to corruption of public and private morals, the step is easy and inevitable. To comprehend the demoralized state which public sentiment has reached, one has only to observe the indifference and derision which meet the reformer who preaches ethics in politics. It is tacitly taken for granted that politics to be practical, must be impure. Expediency is the gospel of the hour, and principles are considered academic and irrelevant. . . .

"Corruption, having exploited the people through the tariff, next seeks to tax them further by domesitc monopoly. Trusts are the instruments. The tariff enables them to escape foreign competition and more easily to throttle competition at home. The machinery of selfish government becomes at length subordinated to the representatives of selfish combinations. They dictate laws, hold in subjection university, press and pulpit, instigate foreign aggression, encourage war, and put imperialism and militarism in the place of a "government of the people, for the people, and by the people." The protective tariff is a viper's nest. Unless it is destroyed, the United States will be a democracy only in name."

——Thomas C. Platt, of New York, has again "consented" to be a candidate from his state for the United States senate. The situation reminds us of that in a Boston engine company in the old volunteer days when the members annually elected their foreman. In this particular company the foreman who belonged to the old school of "vets" would say to his men a few days before the date for making a choice: "It won't be necessary to hold an election, boys; I am willing to serve you for another year."—Boston Transcript (Rep.).

Constipation Will Undermine Your Health.

Mull's Grape Tonic Cures Constipation.

When the sewer of a city becomes stopped up, the refuse backs into the streets where it decays and rots, spreading disease-creating germs throughout the entire city. An epidemic of sickness follows. It is the same way when the bowels fail to work. The undigested food backs into the system and there it rots and decays. From this festering mass the blood saps up all the disease germs, and at every heart beat carries them to every tissue, just as the water works of a city forces impure water into every house. The only way to cure a condition like this is to cure the constipation. Pills and the ordinary cathartics will do no good.

is a crushed fruit tonic-laxative

which permanently cures the affliction. The tonic properties contained in the grape go into every afflicted tissue and creates strength and health. It will quickly restore lost flesh and make rich, red blood. As a laxative its action is immediate and positive, gentle and natural. Mull's Grape Tonic is guaranteed or money back.

THE THEATER TALKER.

An Intolerable Nuisance Quickly and Quietly Suppressed by a Little Wit.

They had been reading a Rolfe annotated edition of the play, and there was nothing in "Julius Caesar" that they were not perfectly familiar with. Before the performance was half through there was nothing that they knew which everybody within half a dozen rows did not hear about; for among the three of them—a man and two women—there were such capacities for superfluous conversation as are met with nowhere except in a theater, says the New York Mail and Express.

In tones that alternately hissed and brayed and rasped till spinal columns all around them ached they told one another that Antony was much better done than Brutus, that Portia would come on in a minute in the garden scene; that Casca was supposed to be a gruff old Roman; that Caesar actually did have fits—think of it! that it was a pity (this in a whisper that shivered far down the aisle and splintered at least a score of vertebrae) Roman ladies didn't wear corsets. So on, ad nauseam.

At last the ghost and the distraught Brutus met and there was a thrilled silence in all the crowded house save in row Q, where a strident voice complained:

"I can't hear a word the ghost says. Why doesn't he speak louder?"

A man behind the querulous disturber, quite beside himself with rage, leaned forward and said in tones as courteously sweet as the sting of a honey bee:

"Perhaps the ghost is a gentleman, and does not like to annoy people."

Which, of course, was very rude, though it did fill many hearts with an unholy joy.

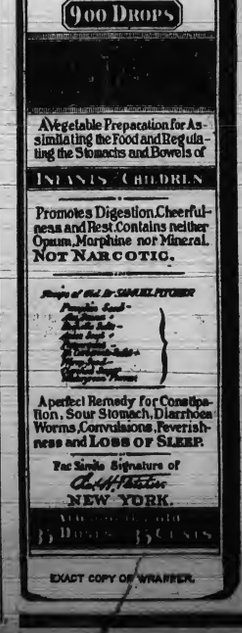
SHE WAS AHEAD.

When It Came to Ornamental Letters on Packages Her Father Had Theirs Beaten.

An uptown reader tells of the "break" made by a little tot of the family who was one of a party of little girls at a recent strawberry festival in the vicinity of her home. She had been valiantly boasting of the manifold advantages of belonging to her family, and had managed to hold her own against the vainglorious and ingenuous discourses of her companions, relates the Philadelphia Times. They had gone from clothes to personal appearance, then to interior furnishings, then to the number of tons of coal consumed in the home of each during the last winter, and finally brought up at parental dignity. The minister little girl boasted:

"Every package that comes for my papa is marked 'D. D.!'"

"An' every package that comes for my papa is marked 'M. D.!'" retorted the daughter of a physician of the neighborhood.



Then came a fine snort of contempt from the heroine of this anecdote. "Huh!" she exclaimed. "Every package that comes to our house is marked 'C. O. D.!' There now!"

Practice Makes Perfect.

"Yes, father, when I graduate I am going to follow my literary bent and write for money."

THE HUNGRY SOUL.

It Travels the Road of the Blessed in Christ's Kingdom.

And Has the Comfort of the Promise That It Shall Be Filled—Sermon by the "Highway and Byway" Preacher.

[Copyright, 1902, by A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Co.]

Chicago, January 11, 1903.

Text: "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled." Matt. 5:6.

The hungry soul is one of the characters met with in the Kingdom of Jesus Christ. And because it is a hungry soul it is plainly and self-evidently a live soul, a healthy soul and a growing soul. A dead body never yet hungered and thirsted, and a dead soul is as insensible to desire for the righteousness of God as is the dead body to the tempting viands placed at its side. Jesus declares: "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled." For thirty years the Son of God had walked the pathway of the blessed. In Him was found the perfect expression of David's outpoured heart: "Oh, how love I Thy law (righteousness), it is my meditation all the day." In the humble home at Nazareth during his boyhood as He learned at His parents' knees; in the first journey to Jerusalem at the age of twelve, when He sought out the rabbis in the temple and questioned them eagerly out of the law and the prophets; during the long years of waiting in the rude carpenter shop at Nazareth, while He wrought with His hands for His daily bread, oh, how His soul hungered and thirsted for the righteousness of God! He learned to know that blessed indeed was he who hungered and thirsted for righteousness, and the fullness of God was His portion as day by day His soul sat at His Father's table and ate and drank of the spiritual bounties so lavishly set before Him. And then in the fullness of God's time He came to set up His Kingdom, and in the Sermon on the Mount we have, not the Magna Charta of the human race, as it has been falsely called, but the recasting of the inflexible law of God's righteousness as the declaration of principles of the Kingdom of Jesus Christ. The Magna Charta of the human race rang forth in Christ's words from the cross: "It is finished," as He, the Righteous One, bore the sins of the world, and wrought for mankind a mighty deliverance from sin and death, but in the Sermon on the Mount we have the perfect righteousness of God made manifest in new form, and perfectly lived out in the life of Jesus. Jesus was a practical theologian, and step by step during the actual experiences of everyday life He had come to know that the poor in spirit, the mourner, the meek, the hungry soul, the merciful, the pure-hearted, the peacemaker, were all blessed, and that every promise given to them by God was as certain of fulfillment as His coming had been the fulfillment of prophecy.

The clear understanding of this shuts every door of human possibility of realizing the lofty heights of this towering mountain of God's righteousness; but, blessed be God! it opens the "Via Christi" along which the soul may walk and realize all the righteousness and fullness of Christ Jesus. Man may not look through the natural lenses of the human heart upon the rare and priceless gems studding this Sermon on the Mount and appropriate them to his use. God must fit glasses to the eyes of his soul before he can see clearly the beauty of these jewels and understand their true setting. Belshazzar, king of Babylon, appropriated the holy vessels taken from the temple at Jerusalem to his own use, and the finger of God traced His indelible judgment upon the walls of his palace. The prophet Daniel read: "Thou art weighed in the balances and found wanting." And it is ever thus. If the natural man appropriates the holy things of God, he does so to his own destruction. As Peter puts it: "They that are unlearned and unstable wrest . . . the Scriptures unto their own destruction." And every verse, and every line, and every word, in the Sermon on the Mount bears its overwhelming indictment of the natural man: "Thou art weighed in the balances and found wanting." But the soul which has been quickened into life by the touch of Him Who has sealed its every glistening height and has measured its length and breadth of possibilities may follow over the pathway marked out by Jesus' patient, bleeding feet, and rejoice that he can sit in the School of Heaven and learn the Divine secrets of the Kingdom of God.

And so our text is not for the dead soul of the natural man, but is a message to the quickened soul of the regenerate man, and blessed is he when he hungers and thirsts after righteousness, for he shall be filled.

There are just two kinds of soul—dead souls and live souls; the soul that hungers and the soul that does not. The young and democratic son of President Roosevelt was returning home from the public school at Washington one day when he was stopped in his play with the other boys by a gentleman who asked in astonishment if he, the president's son, was allowed to play with such a common class of boys. The little fellow looked up in wonder, and said: "Why, my papa says there are only two kinds of boys, good boys and bad boys, and that I can play with the good boys," and he rushed off pellmell after his companions. And God only recognizes two kinds of souls, the soul dead in trespasses and sins and the soul that has been quickened into life by the touch of the nail-pierced hand of Jesus. There were just two kinds of people when the mighty floods of God's judgments swept over the corrupted earth: Those lying dead under the rolling waters because of their unbelief, and those eight living souls sheltered in the ark which their faith had reared. There were just two kinds of homes in the land of Egypt when the death angel passed through it: Homes where the first-born lay stretched cold in death, and the homes where death had been shut out by the sign of the blood upon the lintel and door posts. There were just two kinds of people in the wilderness when the fiery serpents came upon them: Those who miserably perished and those who obtained life by lifting a dying gaze to the brazen serpent which Moses held up. And the coming of Jesus sharply marked the line of separation, on one side of which are the souls that have found life by a look at the Crucified One, and on the other side the souls that are dead in trespasses and sins because they will not look away from self and the mirage of a false hope to the One Who has been lifted up for the salvation of the world. Only a living organism can hunger, and so, in the consideration of our text, we have to do only with those who have found life in Jesus.

Take your Bibles and read the first two verses of the fifth chapter of Matthew. It is carefully and explicitly stated that He separated Himself from the multitude and went up into a mountain. And in the quietude of some retiring nook among the rocks away from the surging and curious multitudes, He sat Him down, and His disciples came unto Him and He taught them. This was not a message for the multitudes; it was for His true followers who were to be instructed in the principles of His Kingdom. They were to become preachers of salvation, and in preparation must come to know the righteousness of God and the utter hopelessness of any attempt of man to attain that righteousness by his own efforts. Why, the Sermon on the Mount is a terrific Gatling gun riddling man through and through. Who is there who can stand up before its declaration that whosoever is angry with his brother hath committed murder already in his heart? What a terrible and sweeping indictment of man is the statement that "whosoever looketh upon a woman to lust after her, hath committed adultery with her already in his heart." In this day of loose marriage and easy divorce observe Jesus' declaration of the one single ground of divorce. Observe the standards which rule in the world today and then hear Jesus say: "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you." Every word and syllable of these declarations is a terrific judgment upon the soul of the natural man. It prostrates him in the dust and makes him realize his utter sinfulness and need of a Saviour. Man attempting to live out the Sermon on the Mount! Preposterous! Impossible! It would be an easier task to search out Jacob's ladder and climb up by it into Heaven, than to keep this perfect law of God. The dead soul might cram itself full with it, it might weave for itself a beautiful robe of covering, it might garland its brow with the sparkling gems of the beatitudes, but underneath it all would still remain the specter of the dead soul, and no thrill of Divine life would be felt. But meet Jesus at the cross with the filthy rags of your own righteousness and He will call your dead soul into life and clothe you with His righteousness, and on the other side of the cross with Jesus as your Guide and Helper the Sermon on the Mount becomes the beautiful and shining way along which you will walk. Then, and not until then, "blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled."

It is a charming and beautiful picture which God's Word gives us in the story of Ruth, the sweet, gentle Moabitish woman. From her mother-in-law's lips she had heard of the true God, and putting away the gods of her own people she came to believe in Him. And with His coming into her heart came such a hungering and thirsting after Him and His people that she forsook all to have her soul hunger satisfied. And how God filled her! Her cup of blessing overflowed. She became the great-grandmother of David, through whose line came the Christ. What a wonderful illustration this is of our text. How perfectly precept and example in God's Word fit together. The hungering for God of a simple-hearted woman of Moab started a stream of blessing which did not end until upon the flood-tide of its fullness the Son of God was swept from Heaven to earth and spoke the words: "Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled." Our text is a perfect epitome of the life of Ruth.

Notice the contrasts between Ruth and Naomi which strikingly emphasize important spiritual truths. Naomi went out full from the presence of the Lord and was brought back empty. Ruth was found by God empty and was brought into His land and filled. Naomi did not hunger after God and was content to abide in a heathen land away from her God. Ruth, a daughter of Moab, learned of the true God, and was not content until she had gone into God's land and obtained God's blessing. And notice this in regard to Naomi, God had to take away that in which her heart was centered (her husband and two sons) before she knew what it was to hunger after God. Naomi is a type of the self-satisfied Christian, the worldly Christian. There is such a low order of spiritual life there that there is no sense of real hunger. Like the pampered appetite, it has no relish for wholesome food, but delights to feed on the sweets of its own will. With no heart pangs it can leave the presence of the Lord and dwell in the midst of the world. Like Lot in Sodom it becomes immersed in the affairs of a great city and forgets all about God until affliction comes and it is stripped of its every possession. Then comes the healthy hunger after God, and the longing to get back to Him. How merciful God is, and how patiently He deals with the worldly, hungerless Christian.

I was talking with a man the other evening who had been a great sufferer from dyspepsia. He told me of his years of misery; of his trying this doctor and that doctor, this medicine and that, without obtaining any relief, until at last he started off with his dyspeptic-racked body for Nebraska. He quit taking man's medicine and began to take the medicine which Nature gives of fresh air and sunshine and plain food of the countryside. In time his dyspepsia disappeared and a healthy appetite was restored, and for the first time in years he knew what it was to be hungry. There are lots of dyspeptic Christians. They have no healthy appetite for spiritual food and are miserable in consequence, but instead of going to the countryside retreat away from the allurements of the world, where God can give the fresh air and sunshine of His loving presence and provide the wholesome food of His eternal truth, they dope themselves with all manner of man-devised remedies, but obtain no relief. The dyspeptic Christian is a sad spectacle.

Ruth is a type of the hungry and thirsty Christian. With soul awakened by the Divine touch and yielded to Him, there comes an intense longing after God and His righteousness. She is not content to remain in the old land, with its godless conditions and surroundings, but eagerly presses towards God's land and God's people. Yes, there is much to give up, but they are as nothing to her hungry soul in comparison to the blessing and filling to be obtained from God. Think of what Ruth had to give up! Her land and her people, her friends and loved ones, all the dear associations of her childhood! In the land of Moab there were home and comfort and ease for her; in the new land there were poverty, and privation, and hardship, but God was there and His blessing was better to her soul than all that the land of Moab could offer her. Orpha, like multitudes of people in the world today, was not willing when the testing time came, to give up all, that she might dwell in God's land and with God's people. She went back. What a sad thing to write of any soul! That it should choose the riches of the world rather than the blessing of God. Orpha went back and oblivion swallows up the Moabitish woman. Nothing more is heard of her. But Ruth, the hungry Christian, turns her back upon everything that is separating her from God and His blessing and presses forward, and through every century which has rolled around since she made her wise choice, the beautiful story of Ruth has comforted and inspired and strengthened other hungry souls.

Hunger is one of the strongest impulses of the human body and it must be satisfied. What can keep a hungry man from the smoking dinner before him? There is nothing that can lure him away; there is nothing else that can satisfy. He is hungry. He must be fed. Hunger makes the dinner the supreme object of the moment. It is so with the hungry soul. To feed on the righteousness of God is the supreme delight. It must be satisfied. It cannot be drawn away by the riches, or attractions, or friends of Moab. It must be fed. There is a vast difference between the idle longing of the soul after the righteousness of God and the real hunger of soul which makes it willing to give up anything and endure any hardship and face any danger in order that it may feed on God and be satisfied. The soul that hungers shall be filled, because it will not rest until it is fed. God loves to see hungry souls. He can detect the sham longing that the soul thinks is real hunger. He never feeds such a soul. It is too full of self and its own desires to let God in to fill it. But the hungry soul! God gives it a taste of His righteousness, and waits until it cries for more. He never overfeeds, so as to spoil the healthy appetite. He waits until the hunger is keen, and sharp, so that it will be satisfied with nothing short of His righteousness, and then He gives fullness of blessing.

Hunger is not a condition into which one can think himself. It is the manifestation of the need of the body because life is operative therein. Hunger must be gratified if health is to be retained and growth attained. Soul hunger is not the expression of the natural man, but it is the manifestation of God's presence in the heart by His Holy Spirit. God's Word tells us that "Likewise the Spirit also helpeth our infirmities; for we know not what we should pray for (hunger for) as we ought; but the Spirit itself maketh intercession for us with groanings (with intensity of hunger) which cannot be uttered" (which cannot be quieted until that hunger is appeased). Make room for the filling of the Holy Spirit, by casting out self and the desires of the flesh, and your soul will begin to hunger after the righteousness of God, and you will realize that "Blessed (indeed) are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled."

HEALTHY WOMEN

Praise Pe-ru-na as a Cure for Colds and a Preventive of Catarrh.

MRS. M. J. BRINK

FIRST STAGE OF CATARRH

A Serious Mistake Which Thousands Are Making.

The first stage of catarrh is what is commonly known as "catching cold." It may be in the head, nose, throat or lungs. Its beginning is sometimes so severe as to cause a chill and considerable fever, or it may be so slight as to not hinder a person from his usual business. In perhaps a majority of cases little or no attention is paid to the first stage of catarrh, and hence it is that nearly one-half of the people have chronic catarrh in some form.

To neglect a cold is to invite chronic catarrh. As soon as any one discovers the first symptoms of catching cold he should at once begin the use of Peruna according to directions on the bottle, and the cold is sure to pass away without leaving any bad effects.

Unless this is done the cold is almost sure to end in the second stage of catarrh, which is making so many lives miserable. If Peruna was taken every time one has a cold or cough, chronic catarrh would be practically an unknown disease.

Miss Elizabeth Uber, No. 57 Bassett street, Albany, N. Y., writes:

"I have always dreaded unsettled weather because of my extreme liability to catch cold, when a catarrhal trouble would quickly develop through my entire system, which it would take weeks to drive away. I am thankful to say that since I have taken PERUNA I do not have any reason to dread this anymore. If I have been at all exposed to the damp, wet or cold weather, I take a dose or two of PERUNA, and it throws out any hint of sickness from my system."—Miss Elizabeth Uber.

MISS SARA McGAHAN.

Mrs. M. J. Brink, No. 839 Michigan avenue, St. Joseph, Mich., writes:

"This past winter during the wet and cold weather I caught a sudden and severe cold, which developed a catarrhal condition through my entire system, and so affected my general health that I was completely broken down, and became nervous and hysterical and unfit to supervise my home. My physician prescribed for me, but somehow his medicine did me no good. Reading of PERUNA I decided to try it. After I had taken but three bottles I found myself in fine health."—Mrs. M. J. Brink.

Sibyl A. Hadley, 26 Main street, Huntington, Ind., writes: "Last winter after getting my feet wet I began to cough, which gradually grew worse until my throat was sore and raw. Ordinary remedies did not help me and cough remedies nauseated me. Reading an advertisement of what PERUNA could do, I decided to try a bottle, and you can imagine how glad I felt when it began to relieve me in a very short time. In less than two weeks I was completely cured."—Sibyl A. Hadley.

Miss Sarah McGahan, No. 197 3d street, Albany, N. Y., writes:

"A few months ago I suffered with a severe attack of influenza, which nothing seemed to relieve. My hearing became bad, my eyes became irritated and feverish. Nothing seemed right and nothing I ate tasted good. I took PERUNA and within two weeks I was perfectly well."—Sarah McGahan.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be glad to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

Railway to Build Huge Hotel.

It was learned to-day on the best authority that the plans of the Pennsylvania railroad for its new central station in the heart of Manhattan include the construction of a huge skyscraper hotel, which will probably be the biggest of the many grand hostelries projected in this city. Four square blocks of city property owned by the railroad company are available for this station hotel, but only two of these will be utilized.

The Shah's Cash.

It is said that the shah of Persia has more hard cash put by than any other sovereign. In his palace at Teheran the "king of kings" is supposed to have a sum estimated at $50,000,000 in specie.

Never take your troubles to bed with you.—United Presbyterian.

[Communicated from Ludlow.]

"At whose door should the Democratic reverses be laid?"

I see from an article in last week's RECORDER that the editor understands the political situation in Kenton county exactly.

The Covington Courier and many pretended Democrats in this county call to my mind the story of the Irishman who was shipwrecked. Having floated around in the water for sometime, he finally landed on an island. After climbing up the bank he met a native, and the Irishman says to him "have you a government here?" The native answered, "we have." "Then," says the Irishman, "I'm forninst it." The anti-Pugh people want "to rule or ruin." Before the last city election in Covington these same people wanted a primary election, and made their threats if they did not get it they would go over to the Republicans, and the result of the last election shows that they did it. Now they do not want a primary election, and, according to newspaper reports, one of the anti-Pugh leaders has threatened Gov. Beckham that if they hold a primary, he will turn Kenton county over to the Republicans. Thank God Kenton county don't rule Kentucky.

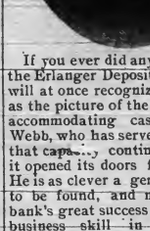
Now, as to Judge Paynter. A truer and an honester jurist never sat on the appellate bench. His Democracy cannot be questioned, and every Democrat who voted against him should hang his head in shame. The word was passed around in Ludlow among the anti-Pugh people to vote for Gooch and Deering. The idea was to run Gooch ahead of Paynter to show what pull the anti-Pugh people had, but a friend to Judge Paynter got on to their nefarious scheme, and went to work and brought Paynter out 6 votes ahead of Gooch, and then there was weeping, wailing and gnashing of teeth, and breaking of glasses because Gooch had run 6 votes behind the ticket in the home town of the anti-Pugh boss. And these same so-called Democrats who are blaming Pugh claim that they are the true disciples of the late Gov. Goebel.

In 1901 they went into a combination by which they gave the Republicans every office in the county from State Senator down to constable except the sheriff and county attorney, and the latter office they gave to a Brown Democrat who had always opposed Gov. Goebel, and was one of the Brown leaders of that campaign.

A leading Republican made the assertion that it was by and with the combination and understanding that the Republicans had with the present sheriff of Kenton county, that elected the Republican ticket.

Ancient mythologists tell us that the race of giants made war against Jupiter, and that one of them threw 100 rocks against him at one throw; that Jupiter defeated him with thunder and confined him afterwards under Mt. Aetna, and that every time the giant turns Mt. Aetna belches fire. The part that the socalled true disciples and followers of the late Gov. Goebel took in the 1901 election in Kenton county would have caused the superstitious people to watch the cliff that overlooks Frankfort, Ky., for some strange phenomenon on the night after the 1901 November election.

T. J. MCNEAL



County Judge Cason and County Attorney Castleman furnished the RECORDER the following statement of expense of maintaining the Co. Infirmary for the year 1902: Allowances made, $1,428 37; average number of inmates, 19; cost per inmate, $75 17. They also furnished the following figures showing the cost of supporting the infirmary for several years last past, viz: 1897, the cost was $2,076 32; 1898, $1,903 52; 1899, $1,647 15; 1900, $1,558 60; 1901, $1,424 48. They are gratified to know that they succeeded in carrying the institution through last year at a less expense than any year for the 5 preceding except 1901, which has the advantage by $3 89. It must be remembered, too, the cost of living last year was greater than for several years past.

Those desiring certificates of graduation in the common school, are hereby notified that examinations for that purpose will take place at the county seat on the last Friday and Saturday in this month and second Friday and Saturday in May. Examination will begin at 10 o'clock sun time. D. M. SNYDER Supt.

Edson Riddell and Otto Crisler installed the switch board for the Boone County Telephone Company, at Mrs. Adams', last Saturday. They spent a day or two studying the machine before they undertook to put it in position. It is a very delicate and complicated piece of work.

If you ever did any business in the Erlanger Deposit Bank, you will at once recognize the above as the picture of the efficient and accommodating cashier, S. L. Webb, who has served the bank in that capacity continuously since it opened its doors for business. He is as clever a gentleman as is to be found, and much of the bank's great success is due to his business skill in commercial affairs. He is a leading member in the Erlanger Baptist church, and the most prominent citizen of the town.

The above is readily recognized as the picture of J. C. Revill, the efficient cashier of the Boone County Deposit Bank. Save about one year he has been the cashier of that institution since its organization, a position for which he is eminently qualified and which he has filled to the entire satisfaction of the stockholders. He is a prominent member of the Baptist church, in the affairs of which he takes great interest. His home, which he owns, is just north of town, and is the nicest and most commodious residence in this vicinity.

Mrs. Judge Riddell has been quite sick of cold.

Take the Recorder.

Local News.

The snow was a great protection to the wheat.

Saturday was a splendid day for putting up ice, and many houses were filled.

The K. of P's. had a lunch at the close of their lodge meeting, last Saturday night.

Mrs. Mary E. Kendall will have a sale on her farm on the afternoon of the 17th inst.

The supervisors of tax held two or three night sessions during their sitting last week.

The rabbit roasters club has been having some very enjoyable meetings for the select few.

The cold weather last year paralyzed nearly all kinds of business here, although it was not as cold as has been experienced here in the past.

The cold weather caught several coal bins in nearly an exhausted condition. The high price of coal is causing people to buy as little coal as possible.

A postal from John L. Rouse requests his Recorder sent to Dalton, Georgia, his new home. Hope Mr. Rouse and family will be well pleased, and prosper in their new home.

News was received here one day last week, of the death of Richmond Reed, in his 84 year, at his home at Amite City, La. He was a brother of the late Wm. Reed, of this place.

Remember the oyster supper to be given on the evening of the 17th inst., by the ladies of Hebron for the benefit of the church. Admission, 25 cents. Go and take your best girl.

A Burlington boy, C. C. Coleman, is now Attorney-General of the great state of Kansas, having gone into office last Monday. "We always knowed that boy would make his mark in this world."

For, lease March 1st, 1903, the "Boone Hotel," in Burlington, Ky., in good order and partly furnished. Inquire of G. G. Hughes, Burlington Ky., L. N. CRIGLER, by G. G. Hughes.

Two below zero Monday at 6 a.m. and the ice wagons began performing at an early hour, and the music made by the wagon tires was almost equal to some brass bands. If you have an ice house and it is not filled, you can not blame the weather department.

We wish to thank our friends and relatives for the Xmas box we received so unexpectedly. Far away from them, nothing brings more happiness than to be remembered by those we love. We also wish to say that the RECORDER is like a ray of sunshine in our home.

A. J. BARKER AND FAMILY,
127 n Market St. Nashville, Tenn.

"Mr." Ike Smith was taken before Judge Cason, Monday morning and tried on an indictment returned against him and six others at the last term of the Boone circuit court. The Judge didn't do a thing to him but fine him $30 and the costs, and he went back to jail to lay out the fine at the rate of one day for each $2 of the fine and cost. He was charged with gaming.

The following society elections of officers for this year have been reported to this office, and were carried over from last week on account of a rush of matter:

Bellevue Masonic Lodge:—Chas. Maurer, W. M.; W. H. Marshall, S. W.; Clifford Sutton, J. W.; R. O. Ryle, Treas.; Moses Scott, Sec.

Old Fellows Lodge at Petersburg:—Thos. Howard, N. G.; Earl Walton, V. G.; S. C. Buchanan, Secty.; Solon Early, Treas.

The Petersburg K. of P. Lodge:—Marshall Terrill, C. C.; John Geisler, V. C.; J. M Botts, K. of R.; Solon Early, Treas.

The Christian Sunday School elected the following officers:—E. L. Helms, Supt; Will Snyder, assistant; Raymond Tilley, Secty.; S. C. Buchanan, Treas.; Miss Maud Belden, organist.

On Saturday morning, Dec. 27th, the election of officers of Walton Lodge 719, F. & A. M. was held at 10 a.m, and the following were elected to serve the ensuing year: J. W. Rogers Worshipful Master; Omar Whitson, Senior Warden; Edward P. Bristow, Junior Warden; W. R. Rouse, Senior Deacon; T. F. Snider, Junior Deacon; C. C. Metcalfe, Secretary, S. L. Edwards, Treasurer. In the afternoon the new officers were duly installed. The banquet given in their honor came off at 8 p. m. The attendance numbered sixty. The affair was a success in the fullest sense of that term. It has never before been equalled here and surpassed the expectations of all. The music was furnished by Miss Mollie Cassiday, and was a pleasant surprise to everybody.

A CARD.

Having allowed my personal and political opponents to talk unanswered for some months, and they having exercised that right freely, I will now make a statement to the people of Boone county.

On or about July 1, 1902, I presented a bill of the colored trustees to the trustees of the Walton Graded school, a claim in writing for their part of the railroad tax given them by law. There could have been no misunderstanding of the claim, yet, in a few hours, the report was in circulation that a suit had been brought to force mixed schools, and from that time to this, in regular succession, one after another, silly and groundless reports have been in circulation.

The aforesaid claim was rejected by the trustees of the Walton Graded School, and I promptly brought suit for the amount involved, to wit: $145, in time for the August term of the Boone circuit court. The school board, by their attorney, asked for time, and in a manner it was granted. The demurrer to the petition came up for hearing at the December term of the Boone circuit court, and was ably argued for defendant by W. W. Dickerson, and it was promptly overruled. They again asked for 60 days in which to answer, and, as a courtesy, I granted it.

That this is a legal, valid and just claim there can be no doubt. The law has been passed three times by the Kentucky legislature and approved by the Governor. It has been twice construed and upheld by the court of appeals. It is, therefore, not only a constitutional law, but is clearly the result of the legislative policy of the State, without regard to politics. That the school board and its attorney were ignorant of it was no fault of mine, in as much as I am not and have never been the attorney for the Graded School Board.

My opponents have untruely stated, and without reason, that I am unfriendly to the Graded School. I answer this statement by saying I was one of the originators of it—voted for it and pay the largest tax of any single individual in the district towards its support, and pay it with pleasure.

Since my residence in the county I have in season and out of season, at all times and places, advocated the maintenance of public schools by local taxes. Nothing has been said or done—nothing that will be said or done can move me from my stand in favor of the school. But this is entirely a different thing from being in favor of the Walton Graded School holding and using without right or law a fund of money which legally and equitably belongs to another common school district.

In accepting this case I but exercised my constitutional right as a lawyer, and I resent, as an insult, the questioning of that right by any one or any number of persons.

I challenge my opponents, singly or collectively, to publish a single statement, charging me with any wrong or wrongs in regard to this case or the school. I give them free scope to make it as stinging as possible, and I promise in advance, not to sue them for libel as I have not for slander, but I will confine myself to a brief, courteous answer.

Numbers of people have not understood the situation, and that they have not I feel it largely due thoughtless or malicious mistatements of the facts by those who knew or ought to have known better.

Respectfully,
J. G. TOMLIN.

Chas. Hughes came up from Petersburg, last Saturday afternoon and remained until Sunday afternoon. He says the distillery at that place will start about February 1st. That is good news for Petersburg.

The young folks had a nice little "tip of the fantastic" at the Boone House, last Friday night. It was a local affair, gotten up on a very short notice.

To prevent suffering with cold feet on his trip from Bellevue to Burlington, last Saturday morning Supt. D. M. Snyder resorted to a very simple and very satisfactory scheme. He took a piece of plank large enough on which to place both of his feet (and you know it was a large piece,) and heated it very hot, rapped it in paper and placed it in his buggy. He says it furnished ample protection against cold, and is perfectly safe.

Some of the local cooks received a consignment of California dried peaches, last Friday. They were shipped from Barker-field.

Fiscal Court.

Following is a condensed report of the principal business transacted by the fiscal court at its session last week:

The pauper practice in the several voting precints was let same as last year, except Burlington precinct was reduced from $140 last year to $125 this year.

F. & W. L. Riddell were allowed $20 for building used as a pest house.

O. S. Watts was allowed $61 50 for listing 1,230 dogs for taxation.

The county infirmary was let to John W. Early on same terms and conditions that it was let out last year.

Delinquent taxes were reported collected as follows: Eqs. Early, $22 34; Ryle, $2; Walton, $1; Watson, $1.

The iron bridge that use to span Woolper creek, at Plattsburg, was donated for use at the point where the Woolper [illegible] crosses Ashby Fork, provided the citizens who are interested will put same in position without cost to the county, but before possession of the bridge is given, good and substantial abutments, accepted by a committee of the fiscal court, must be completed and ready to receive the bridge.

The sheriff was allowed delinquents as follows: Tithes, 932; dogs; 242; bitches, 32.

The county levy was fixed at 10 cents on each $100 worth of taxable property for the year 1903.

Judge Cason and County Attorney Castleman were appointed a commitee to borrow money for use of the county should any be needed.

D. M. Snyder was allowed $200 balance of salary as county superintendent, and the sheriff was ordered to pay him, in three equal installments, $300 on salary for 1903.

The salary of the superintendent of the county infirmary was fixed at $250, which is to be full pay for all his services. All revenues accruing on account of the farm and orchard shall be accounted for by him. He shall keep up the ordinary repairs of the buildings, fences, &c., the county to pay the expenses thereof, except for labor of superintendent. Superintendent to require all the inmates who are able to assist him in doing work. The garden is to be properly cultivated—the orchard cared for, and the fruit and vegetables preserved, if possible, for winter use. County to furnish all seeds and grain and whatever is necessary to operate the infirmary. The superintendent is to care for the poultry, cows and hogs (no turkeys to be raised on the farm) for use and benefit of infirmary. The superintendent is assigned 4 rooms, on first floor, north side of the building, which he will furnish at his own expense, and they will be for his exclusive use. No person to be received as an inmate except upon the written order of the county Judge, and in his absence, upon the written order of the county attorney. Superintendent to be under the supervision and control of the county Judge, who shall see that the rules and contract are complied with. Supplies, so far as possible, are to be bought at wholesale. Record of number of inmates to be kept. Superintendent may own and keep 2 horses at expense of county, and with a vehicle to be furnished at his expense, he shall do all the hauling of supplies, and plowing, furnishing the necessary implements for the latter work, the county to pay all tolls necessary in hauling. Superintendent's visitor's may stay not to exceed two days at county's expense, if they stay longer the superintendent to be charged therefor at a reasonable rate.

TRAINS CRASH.

Three Men Killed and Others Injured, One Fatally.

Ada, O., Jan. 9.—Three men dead and 14 persons injured, one fatally, as the result of a rear-end collision Thursday night between two trains of the Pennsylvania railroad on the main street of Ada.

The Dead—Joseph Stein, Ft. Wayne, Ind.; M. McPool, Ft. Wayne, Ind.; Alonzo Harley, Van Wert, O.

The injured—W. A. Freeze, Chicago; J. J. Casey, Toledo, may die; Mr. and Mrs. Duelselman and daughter, Van Wert; Peter Tracy, conductor; Curtis McElroy, Ada; Andrew Brunner, Ft. Wayne, Ind.; M. Geise, Ottawa; Walter Klinger, Ada; W. B. Blackburn, baggagemaster; Guy Kingshury, editor of the Dunkirk Standard; Benjamin Zooke, Ft. Wayne, Ind.; T. J. Burdette, Dayton, O.

The accident occurred when the main street was crowded with people. Passenger Train No. —, was bound, had started out of the station, but at the Main street crossing was compelled to stop on account of some accident to the air brakes. A flagman was sent back to flag a fast train which followed. On account of the driving snowstorm the engineer on the second train did not see the signal in time to stop and his locomotive crashed into the rear coach of the former train, which consisted of two cars, while running 40 miles an hour. The rear coach of the standing train was a combination baggage and passenger car. Another passenger car was in front. The two coaches telescoped and nearly every passenger was injured. The engineer and fireman of the fast train were slightly hurt.

The crash of the collision was heard all over the city, and almost the entire population was soon on hand to render what assistance it could in caring for the wounded. The dead were carried to the freight depot and the wounded to the station, where they were laid on improvised beds. Most of the injured seemed to be hurt about the head.

The locomotive of the express train was almost demolished, but the cars behind it were not damaged and none of the passengers were bruised. Wreckage was strewn about the tracks. A few minutes after the collision the Chicago and New York limited, east bound, crashed through on the other track at 60 miles an hour, hurling the debris in all directions, but never paused in its flight until it was half a mile beyond Ada, when the train was stopped and backed to the scene of the accident to get orders. No damage was done to the locomotive of the flyer, but a piece of the wreckage flew into the cab and bruised the engineer. He was able to continue his run, and left in a few minutes with his train.

Traffic on the west-bound track was delayed several hours. Every physician in the city was summoned to minister to the victims, and outside of one person probably fatally wounded. It is said that the passengers escaped with nothing more than painful bruises and lacerations.

ARMY HOSPITAL CORPS.

A Bill For the Reorganization of This Branch of the Service.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Secretary Root has forwarded to congress with his hearty commendation a plan and bill prepared by Surgeon General O'Reilly for the reorganization of the army hospital corps. It provides that hereafter the hospital corps shall consist of 300 first-class sergeants at $540 per annum; 300 sergeants at $300; 20 corporals at $240; 1,600 privates, first-class, at $216, and 875 privates at $192, making the total annual cost of $770,400. It is explained that the proposed distribution of the appropriation for the hospital corps would result in an actual gain of 95 in the personnel at no additional cost to the government.

Earthquake in Mexico.

Laredo, Tex., Jan. 9.—A Chilpancingo, Mex., special says: Information has been received here that a severe earthquake shock was felt at Tapachula. At La Union, not far from that place, subterranean noises have been frequently heard since the eruption of the Santa Maria volcano in Guatemala. The shock at Tapachula was of short duration and did no considerable damage to property, but the people were panic-stricken, and many of them refuse to return to their homes.

Firemen to Strike.

Chicago, Jan. 9.—The locomotive firemen employed by the Chicago & Alton railroad have decided to go on strike to enforce the demands presented to the officials of the road December 1 for an increase of 12½ per cent. in wages.

Col. Schiltree's Estate.

New York, Jan. 9.—Virginia May Morris, of Texas, a sister of the late Col. Thomas P. Schiltree, was Thursday granted letters of administration on her brother's estate, which consists of about $20,000 of personal property.

GERMAN AMBASSADOR.

Baron Speck Von Sternberg to Succeed Herr Von Holleben.

On Learning That His Government Was Not Wholly Satisfied With His Work He Asked For a Long Leave of Absence.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Herr Von Holleben, the German ambassador, left here for New York Thursday to consult specialists. He has been a sick man for some time and his indisposition has been aggravated by a protracted spell of inclement weather. He expects that his physician will advise a prolonged rest at some of the health resorts in Southern Europe and therefore has arranged to sail on Saturday. At the ambassador's request he has been granted a prolonged leave of absence in the hope that he may seek good health.

Berlin, Jan. 10.—Ambassador Von Holleben was not recalled from Washington, but, learning that his government was not wholly satisfied with his work and feeling ill and depressed, he cabled for a long leave of absence which was immediately granted. He will not return to Washington. Baron Speck Von Sternberg's temporary assignment as charge d'affaires of Germany at Washington will be followed after an interval by his appointment as ambassador. The baron, in the meantime, will retain his position as consul general of Germany at Calcutta. Oddly enough, the exact whereabouts of Baron Von Sternberg is not known at the foreign office. It is thought, however, that he is visiting kinspeople in Saxony.

All the foreign office officials will say about Dr. Von Holleben is: "He has not been recalled and his leave is granted upon his own initiative. The government would never recall an ambassador in the midst of important negotiations without grave reasons and these certainly do not exist in this case. The supposition that the government is annoyed because the ambassador failed to obtain President Roosevelt's acceptance of the arbitraborship of the Venezuelan dispute is wholly incorrect.

"Germany reckoned in advance that the president might have weighty reasons for declining; hence her note of December 22 contained the alternative proposition to refer the matter to The Hague arbitration court. Still it was felt that the international political factors in the case dictated the appropriateness of first offering the president the arbitratorship."

PNEUMATIC TUBE SERVICE.

Proposals For Use in Chicago Opened and Contract Awarded.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Proposals for the pneumatic tube service for the use of the mails in Chicago were opened by Second Assistant Postmaster General Shallenberger Thursday. The contract when awarded will run for four years, beginning October 1 next. The bidders were the Chicago Postal Pneumatic Tube Co., the lowest bidder; the Batcheller Pneumatic Tube Co. and the Chicago Pneumatic Service Co. The lowest bid was $440,687 a year, or $13,750 a mile.

ENGINE JUMPED THE TRACK.

The Fireman Killed and the Engineer Severely Injured.

St. Louis, Jan. 10.—A Vandalia locomotive, pulling the outbound Indianapolis express, jumped the track at the mouth of the tunnel Friday and dashed against the heavy stone work. Fireman Oscar Meldrun was killed and Engineer M. E. Young was severely hurt. The passengers were shaken up but none was injured. The coaches were switched to another track and the journey was resumed. Traffic in the tunnel was obstructed for several hours.

EVENING RECEPTION.

President Roosevelt Entertained the Diplomatic Corps.

Washington, Jan. 9.—President Roosevelt Thursday night held the first of his four annual evening receptions. Thursday night's event was in honor of the diplomatic corps. The white house was brilliantly decorated and illuminated for the occasion and was crowded with people of high standing in official and social life. A number of guests from out of town attended the reception.

Railway Extension.

Guthrie, Okla., Jan. 10.—The Orient railroad has announced an extension from the main line at Barton, in Western Oklahoma, through Hobart and Cooperton, to Lawton, a distance of 100 miles. This will pass through the mining regions of the Wichita mountains.

Senator Pritchard Renominated.

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 9.—The republican members of the legislature in caucus Thursday night nominated Senator Jeter C. Pritchard to succeed himself. The nomination is an honorary one, as the democrats control the legislature.

Next Convention at Columbus.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 9.—Columbus O., was Thursday chosen as the next convention city for the Custom Cutters' association. Pittsburg, New York city, Philadelphia, Louisville and Buffalo were in the fight.

THE PLAGUE EPIDEMIC.

Thirty-Seven Cases in Lazaretos and Six Deaths at Mazatlan.

Mazatlan, Mex., Jan. 10.—Thirty-seven people are in the lazaretos and six deaths occurred Friday, one entire family having died of the plague. Many people have left the city and gone to live on the islands near this city. A number of Americans have also departed. It has been decided to disinfect the entire city at once. The charity commission will pay for the houses that have to be burned and for all clothing destroyed. A man attacked by the plague was found on his way to El Castillo. He was brought to the city to be sent to a lazareto, but he died on the way there.

A woman, in order to save her son from being taken to a lazareto, put him in bed at home. His father and she herself were in consequence attacked by the plague and they died within a few hours. The house has been burned by the authorities. The people seem to be afraid of being taken to the lazaretos, preferring to remain at their houses when attacked by the plague, but the authorities are constantly hunting up sick people and taking them to lazaretos. Many residents are being sent to the department of observation.

Laredo, Tex., Jan. 10.—A Mexico special says: Of the deaths at Mazatlan Monday, 13 were certified by physicians as being from bubonic plague. The aversion to medical attendance is one of the hardest problems the health officials have to deal with.

FOOT AND MOUTH EPIDEMIC.

The Disease Will Be Stamped Out This Winter, Says Dr. Salmon.

Washington, Jan. 10.—In a report received Friday by Secretary Wilson, Dr. Salmon, the chief of the bureau of animal industry, who is in Boston directing the campaign against the foot and mouth epidemic, says that the disease will be stamped out this winter, unless it has been carried to some other part of the country where it is yet undiscovered. The experts have only two herds on hand, which were reported within the last two or three days. The largest of these herds was to have been killed Friday. Dr. Salmon speaks of irritation among the farmers to receive as recompense the full value of the animals killed, but says the government methods were endorsed in a resolution passed by the Stockholders' Association of Massachusetts at Worcester. Complaints of damage to the milk supply caused by disinfection are being filed, and hereafter barns where milk cattle are housed will be disinfected in such a way as to leave as little odor as possible.

AN ANTI-TRUST BILL.

The Sub-Committee Has Practically Agreed Upon One.

Washington, Jan. 10.—As a result of extended consideration of the various pending anti-trust bills, the sub-committee of the house judiciary committee, of which Representative Littlefield is chairman, has practically agreed on an anti-trust bill. It has not yet been adopted formally, but it is said to meet the approval of all members of the sub-committee. It will be laid before the full committee Saturday, when it is expected its features will be made public. It is understood that it provides for publicity, not through a new commission to be created, but through the interstate commerce commission. It is further understood that the bill covers the administration's suggestions for anti-trust legislation.

The anti trust bills introduced Thursday, which were drawn by the attorney general, will go to the judiciary sub-committee under the general rule adopted at the time the sub-committee was created.

FIRE DEPARTMENT STRIKES.

City of Tampa, Fla., Is Without Fire Protection.

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 10.—Tampa's entire fire department is on a strike and the city was without fire protection Friday night. The firemen organized a union recently. The chief discharged three men Tuesday and the union made a demand on the council that the men be reinstated. At a meeting of the council Friday night the matter was referred to the fire committee for investigation. The firemen demanded immediate action and when this was refused all the men were ordered out and abandoned the stations. The policemen now are placed in charge of the stations until other arrangements can be made.

Oldest Postal Clerk Dead.

Oil City, Pa., Jan. 10.—G. W. Putnam, 84 years old, probably the oldest postal clerk in the country, is dead at his home in Westfield, N. Y. He was appointed during President Lincoln's first administration and held that position continuously to his death.

The Pretender Defeated.

Madrid, Jan. 10.—A dispatch from Morocco says that Bu Hamara, the pretender to the throne, has been defeated near Fez, and has retreated to Taza. Several more tribes have abandoned the revolutionary movement and have submitted to the sultan.

West Virginia Miners to Strike.

New York, Jan. 10.—According to a report of a representative of the Chesapeake & Ohio Coal Co. a strike of the soft coal miners in West Virginia for large advances in wages will probably go into effect April 1.

AFTER THE COAL MEN.

Special Grand Jury to Investigate Alleged Conspiracy.

The Coal Operators, Railroads and Big Dealers Are the Ones Sought—A Venire of Seventy-Five Men Has Been Selected.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 10.—A special grand jury will meet in Chicago Saturday to investigate the alleged conspiracy between coal operators, railroads and coal dealers to increase the price of coal in the Chicago market. Attorney General Hamlin left Friday night for Chicago, and with State's Attorney Charles S. Deneen, will lead the investigation. He took with him evidence which he says will show that a combination exists.

Attorney General Hamlin secured the services of competent men, who visited many mines, and the reports which they made convinced Judge Hamlin that the market was being controlled by certain dealers and operators. The latest report to be made to the attorney general was received Friday afternoon and contained some valuable information. Before leaving for Chicago, Mr. Hamlin said that his evidence would show that certain coal operators and dealers had entered into an agreement, by which they could control the coal market. He did not say that any railroads were interested in the alleged combination.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—To determine whether a conspiracy has existed to force up the price of coal, Judge Willard M. McEwen Friday night, on the petition of State's Attorney Deneen, summoned a venire of 75 men of whom 23 will be selected for a special grand jury Saturday morning. Forty witnesses were named in subpoenaes and the whole number was given to the sheriff to serve.

Deputy sheriffs to the number of 20 were sent out simultaneously Friday night by Sheriff Barrett to summon prospective jurors and witnesses.

Small dealers are not the mark at which the state's attorney aims. While the names of witnesses are withheld it is known that they are those of mine owners and wholesale dealers in coal.

State's Attorney Deneen used names given to him by the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

A CONFLAGRATION.

Big Factory in London, Ont., Damaged to the Amount of $300,000.

London, Ont., Jan. 10.—Fire Friday night caused $300,000 damages to the McClary Manufacturing Co., manufacturers of tinware. A boy dropped a burning match into a vat of oil and with a report like a cannon the oil went up in a sheet of flames. The 500 employes rushed from the building in a panic. There was a rush for the elevator and the stairs, and in a crush scorched and smoke begrimed, the men, women and boys reached the street. No one was seriously injured. The fire burned for hours, the firemen being unable to cope with it. The McClary firm is the largest in Canada.

CONSUMPTIVE HOSPITAL.

Institution For the Treatment and Study of the Disease to Be Erected.

Philadelphia, Jan. 10.—Dr. I. F. Flick, president of the free hospital for poor consumptives, Friday night announced that Henry Phipps, of New York, formerly a partner of Andrew Carnegie, had contributed $300,000 for the establishment of an institution in this city for the treatment and study of consumption. The institution is to be known as "The Henry Phipps institute for the study, treatment and prevention of tuberculosis." It will be so endowed as to derive an income of about $30,000 to $40,000 annually.

UXORCIDE AND SUICIDE.

Wm. B. Chio Killed His Wife and Committed Suicide.

Adrian, Mich., Jan. 10.—William B. Chio, of Toledo, Friday shot and killed his wife Elizabeth, and then killed himself in the parlor of Platt's hotel.

Chio and his wife had been living apart. Mrs. Chio was an employe of the hotel. Chio came to Adrian from Toledo Thursday. Chio called on his wife and the two had been conversing alone in the parlor about 15 minutes when the five shots that ended their lives rang out in rapid succession.

Ex-Congressman Bromwell Dead.

Denver, Col., Jan. 10.—Former Congressman H. P. H. Bromwell died Friday. He was born in Baltimore, was admitted to the bar at Vandalia, Ill., in 1853, was for four years county judge there, and, after removing to Charleston, Ill., was elected to congress, serving from 1865 to 1869.

Parson Fined For Contempt.

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 10.—Dr. J. T. McFarland, pastor of the First M. E. church, was fined $100 Friday by a police magistrate for contempt of court. Dr. McFarland scored the judge in open court for a fine imposed on Mrs. Nation, with the above result.

Hobson Will Not Be Retired.

Washington, Jan. 10.—The naval affairs committee of the house decided by a vote of five to four not to report the bill authorizing the transfer of Naval Constructor Hobson to the retired list.

Insurance Has Its Humor.

An enterprising insurance agent induced an Irishman to take out an accident policy for his wife. A few days later, while conversing with a friend in his office, he was startled to see the Irishman rush in, brandishing fiercely a stout cane.

"Ye rascal!" he yelled, springing toward the agent, "ye wanter cheat me?"

Fortunately the enraged man was disarmed and held fast by the agent's friend, who was a powerfully built man. The Irishman, struggling to get free, shouted:

"Let me git at the spalpeen. Think ov it, chargin' me foive dollars fer an accident ticket fer me ole woman, an' she goes an' breaks her leg a-fallin' down stairs. Wot's the good of the ticket, anyhow?"—N. Y. Times.

Unnecessary.

The barber had about finished shaving the man in the chair, and, passing his hand over his chin investigatingly, leaned forward and said:

"Shall I go over the chin again?"

"No, thanks," replied the customer, cheerfully. "I think I can remember everything you said."—N. Y. Times.

PAINFUL PERIODS

are overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Miss Menard cured after doctors failed to help her.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me after doctors had failed, and I want other girls to know about it. During menstruation I suffered most intense pain low in the abdomen and in my limbs. At other times I had a heavy, depressed feeling which made my work seem twice as hard, and I grew pale and thin. The medicine the doctor gave me did not do me one bit of good, and I was thoroughly discouraged. The doctor wanted me to stop work, but, of course, I could not do it. I finally began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and felt better after taking the first bottle, and after taking six bottles I was entirely cured, and am now in perfect health, and I am so grateful for it."—Miss Georgie Menard, 37 E. 152nd St., New York City.—5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

CONSUMPTION

AFFAIRS IN MOROCCO.

The Government Troops Defeated by the Rebels.

His Majesty Keeps the Loyal Horsemen From the South Around His Person Instead of Sending Them Against the Rebels.

London, Jan. 12.-A dispatch to the Daily Express from Tangier, Morocco, says all the Europeans of Fez have now left that place and that the foreign consuls there will follow immediately.

Tangier, Morocco, Jan. 12.—The departure of the five women missionaries, four of whom are English and one American, from Fez January 8 for Tangier, had long been meditated and was not an outcome of new developments.

Many sensational reports are current here of affairs in Fez, but there is little reliable news to be had. It is considered a satisfactory feature, however, that the tribes to the south of Fez are remaining quiet.

Seven Jews have been murdered in the Naina region.

The sultan is reported to be suspicious of the movements of his brother Mulai Mohammed. His majesty keeps the loyal horsemen from the south around his person instead of sending them against the rebels.

Heavy rains now threaten to interrupt communication with the interior of the country at an interesting moment.

Madrid, Jan. 12.—A dispatch to El Liberal from Tangier, Morocco, says:

Official reports from Fez declare the sultan has rearrested his brother, Mulai Mohammed.

London, Jan. 12.—A dispatch to the Morning Leader from Tangier dated Sunday, says the sultan has left Fez with his army and is awaiting the rebels at the Zeh river. The sultan's uncle, Mulai Arafa, has arrived at Tangier and is seeking to raise money for the sultan. The imperial troops are badly armed and unreliable, continues the correspondent, while the rebel soldiers are well organized and better armed.

Paris, Jan. 12.—A dispatch to the Journal from Tangiers says a Moorish courier who left Fez January 7 brings news of a battle between the sultan's troops and the rebels, in which the former were defeated. The sultan has made known his intention, according to the correspondent, of abandoning Fez and taking refuge at Rabat, where he will establish his capital.

A CORPSE AT THE THROTTLE.

The Fireman Found the Engineer Dead on the Engine Seat.

Knoxville, Tenn., Jan. 12.—Passengers on an incoming Knoxville & Ohio railroad train rode several miles Sunday afternoon with the hand of a corpse at the throttle of the engine. The train left Buckeye, Tenn., on time, and ran through to Careyville, the next station. When Engineer A. C. Young ran through the latter town Fireman Matlock knew something was wrong and stepped to the engineer's side of the engine. He found Young dead and immediately stopped the train. There is a wound on the left side of the engineer's head, and the supposition is that a piece fell from the side of a high cut through the mountains and killed him instantly. The train ran perhaps eight miles after Young was killed.

DEATH OF GEN. SAM. THOMAS.

He Was a Railroad Man and Financier. His Age Was 63 Years.

New York, Jan. 12.—Gen. Samuel Thomas, 63 years old, a prominent railroad man and financier, died Sunday night.

Gen. Thomas was born at South Point, O., in 1846 and entered the railway service in 1878. In 1862 he became president of the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia railway and Memphis & Charleston railroad, and subsequently president of the Louisville, New Albany & Chicago railroad and president of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railway.

JUDGE LUCIEN B. OTIS DEAD.

He Went From Ohio to Chicago Forty-Seven Years Ago.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Judge Lucien Bolles Otis, aged 80, who came to Chicago 47 years ago from Ohio, died at his residence, 2458 Michigan avenue, Sunday. Before coming to Illinois, he was judge of the court of common pleas for the counties of Huron, Erie, Sandusky, Ottawa and Lucas, in Ohio. Among the members of the bar who practiced at that time in his court were Rutherford B. Hayes and Morrison R. Waite. In Chicago Judge Otis engaged in the real estate business and became wealthy.

Metropolitan Holiness Seminary.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Announcement has been made that a Metropolitan Holiness seminary will be built at Rockford, Ill., at a cost of $50,00 by Duke Mc. Farson, millionaire evangelist. Rev. C. Wetherell, pastor of the local church, is to select the site.

"Baby" Josephine Fatally Burned.

Cattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 12.—"Baby" Josephine, 7 years old, daughter of Mrs. Kercher, who has been playing juvenile parts with an opera company, was fatally burned here Sunday. The mother was also badly burned.

ABRAM S. HEWITT DYING.

Politician, Philanthropist, Student and Ex-Mayor.

New York, Jan. 12.—Abram Stevens Hewitt, former mayor of New York city, and distinguished as a philanthropist, politician and student, is dying.

Sunday night it was announced that Mr. Hewitt was growing weaker and that there was but a bare possibility that he might survive the night.

Mr. Hewitt, who is 81 years old, has been confined to his bed since Thursday at his home in New York. He is suffering from obstructive jaundice.

The immediate members of the family were summoned to the house Sunday night.

Mr. Hewitt was born in Haverstraw, N. Y., July 31, 1822, and was graduated from Columbia college at the head of his class in 1842. With Edward Cooper son of Peter Cooper, he founded the firm of Cooper & Hewitt, to which Peter Cooper, whose daughter Mr. Hewitt married, turned over his iron business. Mr. Hewitt organized the Cooper union. He has been the secretary of the board of trustees continuously. In 1874 Mr. Hewitt was elected to congress, serving with the exception of one term until 1886, when he was elected mayor of New York.

TWO WOMEN BURNED TO DEATH.

Wealthy Coffee Merchant's Wife and a Domestic Perished.

New York, Jan. 12.—Mrs. Floine Henry, the wife of Philip S. Henry, a wealthy coffee merchant and daughter of the late banker, Leonard Lewisohn, was burned to death Sunday by a fire that almost entirely destroyed the residence of the family at 54 East Fifty-sixth street.

Alberta Erickson, a domestic, jumped from the fourth-story window and received injuries from which she died soon afterwards. The fire, which originated from some unknown cause, had gained considerable headway before it was discovered, for when the first alarm was sent out the house was in flames from cellar to roof. Mrs. Henry's two infant children were saved by their nurse, who ran with them to the street immediately after the discovery of the fire. Mr. Henry, who was slightly burned, was rescued by a policeman, who entered the house before the arrival of the firemen. It was supposed that his wife had already made her escape.

NOT AN ANARCHIST.

Felto, Who Fired at the Royal Procession, a Monomoniac.

Madrid, Jan. 12.—Felto, the man who fired a pistol Saturday at the carriage in the royal procession in which the duke of Sotomayor, the grand chamberlain, was supposed to be riding, was examined again Sunday. His hearing during the questioning confirmed the previous reports that he is suffering from Monomania. A careful official inquiry has shown that Felto is not connected with anarchists. It was first reported that Felto had attempted to assassinate King Alfonso. His majesty has received a host of royal and other congratulations upon his escape.

A dynamite bomb, which was sent here by rail in a box from Barcelona, has been found at the railroad station. All attempts to discover the consignee of the box have been fruitless. The bomb reached here the day before the funeral of Senor Sagasta, and is supposed to have been for use during the passage of the funeral cortege.

CONGRESSMAN THOS. H. TONGUE.

Passed Away Suddenly at His Residence in Washington.

Washington, Jan. 12.—Representative Thomas H. Tongue, of the First congressional district of Oregon, died suddenly at his residence in this city at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon of heart failure following an attack of dyspepsia.

At his bedside when the end came were his daughter, Miss Bertha, and an adopted daughter, Miss Ruane Mrs. Tongue is in Hillsboro, Mr Tongue's Oregon home, and to that place the remains will be taken for interment, leaving here at 7:45 o'clock Monday night.

A congressional committee will be appointed Monday to escort the remains to their last resting place. Mr. Tongue was in his 59th year of his age, was a lawyer by profession, was prominent in Oregon republican politics, and had served in the 55th, 56th, 57th congresses and had been elected to the 58th congress.

Burned Mother and Babe.

San Francisco, Jan. 12.—Mrs. Mary Kline and her baby died in a hospital from burns received at her home. Before dying Mrs. Kline declared that Mrs. Mary Davis had come into her room and thrown a burning lamp under the bed in which she and her baby lay.

Plenty of Coal in Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 12.—Sunday night the temperature was 11 degrees above zero. There is no scarcity of coal, the yards being better stocked now than at this time last year. In many towns of Kansas and Western Missouri fuel can not be purchased.

The Motor Car Race.

London, Jan. 12.—The Daily Mail Monday morning says it understands that King Edward has expressed his disapproval of the idea of holding the motor car race for the James Gordon Bennett cup in England.

OUR PHILIPPINE TRADE

Large Increase in Exports Since American Occupation.

Imports During the Nine Months Ended September 30, 1902, Were Valued at $24,338,322, An Increase Over Same in 1901.

Washington, Jan. 12.—A statement compiled by the bureau of insular affairs of the war department from official returns shows that during the month of September, 1902, the imports of merchandise into the Philippine islands amounted to $2,785,009, an increase of more than a half million dollars over the corresponding month of 1901, and considerably above the average monthly value for nine months of the current year. The export trade of $3,589,535 is the largest of any single month since American occupation, the exportation of hemp alone amounting to over two and one-half million dollars, practically three-fourths of which was sent to the United States, sugar and tobacco shipments to all countries during the month aggregating $573,679.

The recent legislation favorable to the direct shipment of hemp to this country is apparent beginning with the month of May, 1902. This trade for the five months ended with September 30, 1902, being $5,081,165, as compared with $1,624,527 for the corresponding period of 1901.

Imports of merchandise during the nine months ended September 30, 1902, were valued at $24,338,322, against $21,818,212 for the same period of 1901 and $17,187,991 in 1900. Manufactured articles continue to make up more than half the purchases, although two-fifths of the current nine months' trade (including nearly six million dollars' worth of rice) consists of foodstuffs, as compared with one-fourth in the corresponding period of the preceding year, in which the value of rice received approximately three and a half millions. Reports received from the United States showed a steady growth.

The total value of exports for nine months ended September 30, 1902, was $19,239,018, as compared with $18,860,798 during the previous year, and $17,833,200 in 1900. Almost two-fifths or $7,232,411 worth of the total export trade for nine months of the current year is credited to the United States, placing this country far in advance as the leading buyer of Philippine products.

POPULAR DEMONSTRATION.

Filipino People Generally Regret the Possible Departure of Gov. Taft.

Manila, Jan. 12.—The general regret of the Filipino people at the possible departure of Gov. Taft resulted Sunday in a popular demonstration for the purpose of urging the governor to remain in the islands. The streets of Manila have been placarded with signs saying, "We want Gov. Taft," in English, Tagalo and Spanish. A crowd of 8,000 men marched to Malacanan palace, the governor's residence, Sunday. Upon reaching the palace speeches were made by representatives of all parties in which the governor was urged to remain. The speakers said Mr. Taft's presence was necessary to preserve order, for the prevention of political disruption and to insure the maintenance of the present policy. The speakers paid personal tributes to the governor, the crowd cheering its approval.

In replying to the addresses, Gov. Taft said it would not be decided at present whether he leave the islands or remain until next August. He assured the people that if he did leave, the present policy of the American government would suffer no change, it being not a question of individual, but of national policy.

After the speeches the thousands of natives who filled the grounds of the palace broke into a cheer for the governor.

FATAL BULL FIGHT.

Five Thousand People Witnessed the Death of a Banderillo.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 12.—Five thousand spectators Sunday witnessed a bullfight in Juarez, which resulted in the fatality of Francisco Matillero, who is famous on the continent as a banderillo. Four-fifths of the audience were Americans, and when the ferocious bull pinned Matillero to the ground, many women were overcome and fainted. Matillero was carried from the ring with both legs broken and in a dying condition.

Emgiration Statistics.

Berlin, Jan 12.—The emigration for the year 1902, through Hamburg and Bremen, amounted to 266,884 persons, an increase of 65,586 over 1901. The number of emigrants sailing from these ports has trebled since 1898, the majority of them going to the United States.

Increases Coal Prices.

Hazleton, Pa., Jan. 12.—The Lehigh Valley Coal Co increased the price of all prepared sizes of coal for the local trade 25 cents a ton. C. Pardee Sons & Co., independent operators, have advanced the price of coal for home consumption from 15 to 20 cents a ton.

Movement of Anthracite.

Reading, Pa., Jan. 12.—The Philadelphia & Reading railroad officials announce that for the week ending Sunday night more anthracite coal was taken down the main line than for any previous week in years.

FIFTY-SEVENTH CONGRESS.

Second Session.

Washington Jan. 7.—Senate—The day in the senate was eventful because of a notable speech by Senator Hoar on his bill regulating trusts and an attack by Senator Vest on protected industries through the operation of the Dingley law. Senator Hoar's utterances were listened to with marked attention. He said that nearly all thoughtful men in this country are agreed that some legislation, state or national, ought to be had for the regulation and control of what are called "trusts."

House—The house Tuesday passed the bill for the creation of a general staff for the army by a vote of 153 to 52. By the terms of the bill it becomes the duty of the general staff to prepare plans for the national defense and for the mobilization of the army in time of war to investigate and report on all questions affecting the efficiency of the service and to render professional aid to the secretary of war and to general officers and other superior commanders. The general staff corps is to consist of one chief of staff and two general officers, all to be detailed by the president from officers of the army at large, not below the grade of brigadier general; four colonels, six lieutenant colonels and 12 majors, 20 captains to be detailed from officers of the grade of captain or first lieutenant who, while so serving, shall have the rank, pay and allowances of captains mounted.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Senate—The senate Wednesday discussed the bill for the reorganization of the militia and also the statehood bill. Mr. Malory (Fla.) led the democratic senators in opposition to the section of the militia bill providing for a reserve force of trained men, the contention being that it not only infringed the rights of the several states, but also increased the standing army by a hundred thousand men. When the statehood bill came up Mr. Beveridge had read a number of resolutions adopted at a recent convention in Oklahoma favoring single statehood with Indian territory. Mr. Quay, who is leading the fight for the admission of Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico, criticised the resolutions, saying the people who adopted them had not acted intelligently because the single statehood bill had been withdrawn.

House—The session of the house lasted a little more than two hours. The senate bill for the redemption of the silver coinage of the Hawaiian islands and its recoinage into United States coin, was passed after an hour's debate. It provides for the redemption of silver coins by being received either in Hawaii or the United States in the payment of dues. Standard silver coins of the United States may be exchanged for coin of Hawaii at their face value. Hawaiian silver coins will be legal tender until January 1, 1904. Hawaiian silver certificates shall be redeemed before January 1, 1905, and thereafter can not lawfully circulate as money.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Senate—Thursday the senate again discussed the Vest resolution requesting the finance committee to report a bill removing the duty on anthracite coal and Mr. Aldrich replied to some of the criticisms Mr. Vest made last Tuesday. Mr. Aldrich insisted that the resolution would not accomplish the result sought and that it infringed the constitutional rights of the public in respect to revenue bills. The resolution finally went over until the next legislative day. Mr. Nelson continued his remarks against the omnibus bill. A number of minor bills were passed and the senate adjourned until Monday.

House—The house Thursday passed the Philippine constabulary bill as it was reported from the committee except for an amendment limiting the number of assistant chiefs to four. The bill provides that the chief of the constabulary and the assistant chiefs who are United States army officers, shall have the rank, pay and allowances of brigadier general and colonel respectively, the difference between such pay and their pay in their regular grades to be paid out of the Philippine treasury. The bill also provides that when the Philippine scouts are ordered to assist the constabulary they shall be under the command of the chief or assistant chiefs. The present chief of the constabulary is captain of the army.

Washington, Jan. 10.—House—Friday was private pension day in the house and 144 bills were passed, none of especial importance. Mr Russell (Tex.), the successor of the late Mr. DeGraffenreid, criticised the house for undue haste in the consideration of private pension legislation and precipitated quite a debate. He called attention to the fact that since the civil war 10,000 special bills had been passed by congress, over 1,000 of these in the first session of the present congress. One hundred and forty four bills were passed. Mr De Armond (Mo.) on the conference committee on the anarchist bill to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr Lanham (Tex.). At 4:05 the house adjourned until Monday.

Charged With Swindling.

San Francisco, Jan. 10.—The police have arrested Clarence Rein, of New Orleans, on charge of swindling the Western Union Telegraph Co. out of $20,000, with the assistance of Andrew Houser, who is now awaiting trial in New Orleans.

The Week's Business Failures.

New York, Jan. 10.—Business failures in the United States for the week ending with January 8 number 335, as against 200 last week; 346 in the like week in 1902, 322 in 1901, 295 in 1900, and 304 in 1899. The failures in Canada number 30, against 30 last week.

Duty on Anthracite Coal.

Ottawa, Ont., Jan 10.—D. Gallery, M. Montreal, conferred with Premier Laurier Friday regarding the advisability of removing the duty on anthracite coal. Sir Wilfrid promised to take the matter under consideration.

STATE NEWS HAPPENINGS.

PRICE OF WHISKIES RAISED.

There Is An Advance of Two and One-Half Cents on the New Crop.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 10.—All new whiskies of the crops 1899, 1900, 1901, 1902 and 1903 were advanced 2½ cents a gallon Friday by the local distillers. Whiskies of the '99 crop which have been on the market for six months without a bid being made for them were snapped up in lots of five to fifty barrels. The scramble for '99 goods was one of the liveliest ever seen in this city. Several distilleries which had sold their product bought it back at higher prices in the hope of a further advance.

The passage of the outage bill is largely responsible for the activity of the market. For the past six months the whisky market has been in a state of uncertainty. Retailers, rectifiers and wholesale houses have bought no more goods than they actually needed for immediate use.

The advance caused general surprise as it was not expected to some so soon after the passage of the outage bill and distillers believed prices would remain stationary for several days. If the demand continues a further advance is probable.

DISTILLERS' ASSOCIATION.

Committee Decided to Incorporate a Mutual Insurance Co.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 8.—The insurance committee of the Kentucky Distillers' association, at a meeting Wednesday afternoon, decided to incorporate a mutual insurance company with paid-up premiums of not less than $100,000. The movement looking toward this has been under way for some time. Attorneys were instructed to draw up the papers at once. Thos. C. Gilmore was appointed to represent the association at a meeting to be held in Cincinnati at an early date, when representatives of various interests will discuss mutual insurance.

FROM JAIL TO ASYLUM.

Prisoner Became Insane While Awaiting His Trial.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 9.—Albert Pach, 19 years old, was brought here by Ashley Ward, sheriff of Johnson county, and incarcerated in the Eastern Kentucky lunatic asylum. Pach was arrested at Paintsville on a charge of stealing a horse from a widow named Mrs. Julia Davis. While awaiting trial he became insane. He had to be strapped to boards and brought to this city to keep him from injuring himself or the officers. Pach is a son of Eph Pach, who was slain in one of the mountain feuds.

Confessed to Killing Babe.

Rockport, Ky., Jan. 10.—Mrs. Carrie Hoffendofer, who Thursday accused an unknown man of assaulting her and killing her 2-year-old babe, has confessed that she murdered it herself. She says she is weak-minded, and has no recollection of the details of the murder. She and her husband have been arrested.

To Confer Cross of Honor.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 9.—The cross of honor is to be conferred upon 50 confederate veterans here by a committee from the Daughters of the Confederacy on Gen. Robert E Lee's birthday, January 19. This will be the first time this honor has been conferred in this county.

Lead In Kentucky.

Smithville, Ky., Jan. [illegible] and capitalists leased lands near here. Lead ore is known to exist in the county, and these men, under the superintendency of Dr. Barlow, of Tennessee, have declared their intentions to give it a thorough test.

Sweethearts in Youth.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., Jan. 8.—Rev. C. F. Reid, Methodist missionary to Korea, was married Wednesday night to Mrs. Blanche Miller. They were sweethearts in their youth, and both have been married and have children. They will reside in Tennessee.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 8.—The cases against W. S. Taylor, Charles Finley, John Powers, Will Culton and the Goldens for complicity in the Goebel murder were called Wednesday and continued, as none of the fugitives have been captured.

To Begin Work on Elkhorn Line.

Mayking, Ky., Jan. 9.—It is announced here that the Sandy Valley & Elkhorn Railroad Co., which is surveyed between here and Pikeville, in Pike county, which road is to traverse the famous Elkhorn Creek coal belt, will be begun by March 1.

Accidentally Shot.

Versailles, Ky., Jan. 8.—Near Millville, this county, while several boys were out skating, Benjamin Hedrick was shot in the foot and ankle by Samuel Goins, and painfully wounded. The shooting is said to have been accidental.

New Well in Knox County.

Barbourville, Ky., Jan. 8.—The Sioux Falls Oil Co. has completed another good well in this county. The Berry No. 3 is just in with a showing that the manager of the company says warrants a capacity of 150 barrels.

MACHINERY ON HAND.

The Kentucky Ragland Co. to Operate Twenty-Seven Wells.

Morehead, Ky., Jan. 8.—The Kentucky Ragland Oil Co., composed of Kentucky capitalists, with ex-Chief Justice James H. Hazelrigg, John Rodman, C. P. Chenault, Charles E. Day and Biscoe Hindman at the head, are forging ahead in the development of Rowan county's oil fields. This company has $35,000 invested in 2,815 acres of oil land.

The company has nine carloads of machinery ready to set up with which to operate 27 oil wells, with an estimated average capacity of 23 barrels a day each. The pumping machinery will be operated by natural gas from wells on the company's property.

LAGGARDS TO BE INDICTED.

Manufacturers Must Make Reports to the State Auditor.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 8.—The revenue law passed by the last legislature requires all foreign and domestic manufacturers of cigarettes and plug tobacco and all pork and other meat establishments to report to the state auditor by December 31 each year, or ten days thereafter, as to the amount of business done, and unless a report is made the penalty is a $500 fine. Only a very small number have so far reported, and on January 11 the officers will go before the Franklin county grand jury and indict the laggards for failure to report.

AMERICAN BOWLING CONGRESS.

Louisville Bowlers Will Make An Effort to Secure Next Convention.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 9.—At a conference of the Louisville bowlers held here Thursday night it was decided to make an effort to secure the next annual convention of the American Bowling Congress for this city. W. V. Thompson, of Indianapolis, president of the congress, and Mr. Bryson, the secretary, were present and made short addresses, which encouraged the local bowlers in their plans for securing the convention. Mayor Bookwalter, of Indianapolis, had also been invited to speak, but he was unable to attend the meeting.

MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

Louisville Shoemaker Found Dead in His Lodging House.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 10.—The dead body of Joseph Maier, a shoemaker, was found Friday in a darkened room on East Madison street by Mrs. Frances Wimberg, from whom he rented the lodgings. Maier evidently had been dead for days, but it is not known what caused his death. He was last seen alive about Christmas. At that time he had considerable money with which he said he intended to return to his native land, Germany. No money was found on the body and considerable mystery surrounds the case. At one time Maier lived in Chicago.

She Proved Self-Defense.

Henderson, Ky., Jan. 9.—A jury after being out ten minutes acquitted Essie George, colored, of the murder of Mack Valentine, her lover, in this city last summer. The woman killed Valentine in her room and proved in court Thursday that she did it in self-defense. It was also shown that Valentine twice attempted to kill her, but was disarmed.

Made Another Payment.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 10.—The Equitable Life Assurance society paid another $65,000 to the R. C. Whayne estate Friday. This amount was paid on a policy whose premium had been extended. Two policies of $50,000 each remain unpaid, and it is believed they will be contested. So far the Equitable Life Assurance society has paid the R. C. Whayne estate $130,000.

Kentucky's Finances.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 10.—The report of the state inspector and examiner showing the condition of the treasury on December 31, 1902, is as follows: Balance to credit of sinking fund, $1,380,882.22; balance to credit of school fund, $19,975.46; total, $1,400,857.68. Deficit in general expense fund, $403,092.75; balance in treasury December 31, 1902, $997,764.93.

Shipping Coal to Cuba.

Paducah, Ky., Jan. 9.—The Paducah Coal and Mining Co. made its first shipment of coal for Cuba. The Kenton left with a big fleet for New Orleans, where it will be transferred to a sea-going vessel and shipped to Havana. The company expects to build up a big trade in the island.

Eye Destroyed With Hot Poker.

Newport, Ky., Jan. 10.—Earl, 5, son of Louis Hammer, of Garden place, may lose his left eye. While seated at the hearth his 2-year-old brother ran a poker that he had taken from the fire, and almost red hot, into Earl's eye.

Against Bridge Company.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 9.—Judgment against the Covington & Cincinnati Bridge Co. for $1,600 franchise tax due the state for 1898 and 1899 was entered in the Franklin circuit court Thursday.

"I dreaded the change of life which was fast approaching. I noticed Wine of Cardui, and decided to try a bottle. I experienced some relief the first month, so I kept on taking it for three months and now I menstruate with no pain and I shall take it off and on now until I have passed the climax."

Female weakness, disordered menses, falling of the womb and ovarian troubles do not wear off. They follow a woman to the change of life. Do not wait but take Wine of Cardui now and avoid the trouble. Wine of Cardui never fails to benefit a suffering woman of any age. Wine of Cardui relieved Mrs. Webb when she was in danger. When you come to the change of life Mrs. Webb's letter will mean more to you than it does now. But you may now avoid the suffering she endured. Druggists sell $1 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXVIII. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 21, 1903. NO. 14.

County Correspondence.

PLATTSBURG, Jan. 17.

Woody Sullivan is firing at the sawmill.

We are glad to report Mrs. Charles Hensley as better.

Albert Acra visited his daughter here, one day last week.

Glad to hear that our old friend, J. J. Berkshire, is getting along so nicely

Dol Rogers, of Belleview, was a guest at J. W. Gaines', one day last week.

Robert Aylor and wife, of Waterloo neighborhood, visited here, Saturday.

Miss Bettie Botts had her mother and sisters as her guests one day last week

Miss Pearl Aylor has returned from a visit to her uncle, Robert, at Waterloo.

Bert Smith gave the young people of the neighborhood a dance a few nights since.

Miss Julia Smith entertained Mrs. Mamie Sullivan and Mrs. Ethel Wofford, one day last week.

Edward Botts went to Petersburg, one day last week, to visit his venerable uncle, S. G. Botts, who is very poorly.

Botts & Setters have moved their saw mill to the Rice farm near Locust Grove school house, where they will do a large amount of sawing.

Cage Stephens and wife entertained quite a number of young people, Thursday night, and on Friday night Miss Lou Acra had the youngters as her guests.

FLICKERTOWN—Jany. 17.

Ice harvesters put up a good quality of ice last week.

Cy Passons will return to Tuscola, Illinois, next Tuesday.

Barney Sullivan gave the young folks a dance, Friday night.

Miss Lena Messer, of Florence, was visiting relatives in the city, last week.

Charley Hensley lost nine of his best sheep not long since. They ate paris green.

Monday of last week was the most disagreeable day experienced her for a long time

Chess Aylor left for Illinois, Friday where he will work on a farm at $25 a month and board.

Les Nichols attended a dance at Albert Conner's over on Gunpowder, last Wednesday night.

Miss Anna Schwartz's pupils are preparing some nice recitations for the commencement exercises.

Mrs. Sallie Clore, from over on the East Bend road, was visiting at Chas. Hensley's, Wednesday.

In a letter from J. F. Cason, of Covington, last week, he reported his entire family considerably improved.

Geo. Ruth, the Petersburg butcher, filled his ice house with 6 inch ice from the creek here, last week. He hauled 50 loads, about 75 tons.

Petersburg hunters are still annoying this community with their ferrets. Why will the farmers allow them to trespass on their premises in such a manner?

COMMISSARY, Jan. 17.

Ransom Ryle and wife spent last Saturday night and Sunday until after noon with Gilly Weisickle and wife.

Bert Parsons came down from Cincinnati, last Monday, on a visit, and returned Tuesday by way of Burlington, on account of the ice in the river.

Harry Acra and family visited relatives on Ankrom, Saturday and Sunday, and as they returned home they went down Rock Branch. God pity them!

Now that Miss Pearl Bachelor, of McVille, is married, Mrs. Bachelor is spending a few weeks in the country, and is at present staying with Mrs. Clyde Berkshire.

Ryburn Williamson and wife gave Ransom Ryle and wife a short call Sunday evening before church service. Certainly, Mr. Williamson, you shall see your name in the paper.

On Thursday night Wilber Scott and Ira and Stella Ryle attended a dance at Harry Acra's on Middle creek. There was a dance at Jap Sullivan's either Wednesday or Thursday night. I suppose each was a success.

Hubert Rouse and Rex Berkshire, of Long street, and Ira and Stella Ryle, of North Median, attended the dance at Albert Conner's, on Wednesday night. They report quite a number in attendance, good music, and an enjoyable time.

Miss Nannie Goodridge entertained Ira Ryle, Elbert Clore and Miss Nannie Pope, last Saturday night, and on Sunday, Orrie Phipps and wife, Lawrence Phipps, and Carl Cason and sisters, Annie and May. All had a nice time.

Thomas Marshall is making his home with H. P. Parsons since his daughter left for Illinois. Mrs. Kelly writes that she likes her new home very much. There is quite a difference in the price of coal there and here, as coal is only 6c per bushel there.

Mrs. R. M. Parsons, the Middle creek merchant, reports having goods shipped by way of Erlanger on account of there being too much ice for boats to run on the river, besides she had a 12 lb. box of Star tobacco swiped from the landing at Belleview a short time since.

Rolen McCarty, living on the John Henderson farm, will move on the farm of E. Grant this week. We are sorry to lose him as a neighbor. He is a model family. Three or four years ago I was in their house almost every day for a year, as his wife did my baking, and in all that time I never heard an unkind or cross word, nor saw an unpleasant look between them nor toward their children.

After reading "Union Blade's and Miss Daisy Rouse's" letters, people may think that true hospitality, sociability, and the art of entertaining exists nowhere except in Kentucky, especially in old Boone. I have nothing to say against the people of old Boone, for they are good, kind and hospitable, but they are no better than are in other states I have no donbt there is as much hospitality and sociability among the people of Alexandria as any place in Kentucky, and I know there is among the people of Miss Daisy's home county in Indiana. Miss Daisy, you should have made yourself more conversant with the facts before writing up the Parsons mill, and his little store. What particular brand of chawing gum is the old gentleman using now? Old Kentucky, Index, 9 for 10, you know-me, Star," or what? I have no doubt but what you enjoyed your horse back ride." Where is the lady that would not enjoy such a "ride" with her arm encircling her best young man's"

HATHAWAY, Jan. 19.

R. Lee Huey was putting up ice, last week.

Nathan Smith is feeding 58 nice hogs for market.

A. O. Rouse was on the sick list several days, last week.

James G. Smith was out on Gunpowder, last week, trading horses.

Robert Sullivan and wife spent Tuesday with G L. Smith and family.

Clay White made a business trip to Ohio and returned again the past week.

Houston & Weaver went to Rising Sunrafter a load of 14c coal a few days ago.

Ealy Conley and family, of Gunpowder, were guests of S. H. Marshall recently.

H. O. Adams delivered his crop of tobacco to his brother at Rising Sun, last week.

John Horten and family spent last Thursday with his father and brother, near Beech Grove.

John Summers and family of Kenton county, are visiting their relatives and friends near here.

C. S. Smith and family were visiting his children, who reside in the Big Bone neighborhood, recently.

Jas. Sebree and family were visiting Jasper Sullivan, of Waterloo neighborhood, Thursday night and Friday.

Carl Price and family, of Florence, were visiting Mrs. Price's parents of near Big Bone several days last week.

Jno. S. Mason wants to purchase a couple of yoke of oxen to do his logging for the saw mill he recently purchased.

Miss Fannie Smith accompanied by Claud M. Utz, was the guest of her brother and wife, near Big Bone Saturday night and Sunday.

Jas. E. Aylor and wife gave the young generation a party last Wednesday night. It was attended by about 75 old and young. They enjoyed the evening until a late hour when they took their departure for their several homes, hoping that they may meet again sood on a like occasion.

CRESCENT—Jan. 19.

Mrs. Mary Bethman, of Cincinnati, is the guest of Mrs Ernst Groger.

John Brames, of Covington; was the guest of John Conner and family Sunday.

Some one made an unsuccessful attempt to break into H. P. Dixon's store, Friday night.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Effie Hogriffe, who has been seriously ill for some time, is better.

Henry Groger sold his crop of tobacco, Friday, to Joe Shaw, of Covington. We did not learn the price.

Bert Worthington says he is going to organize a crusade against that species of the canine family, known as the bull dog. He says it is extremely undignified for a young man of his capabilities to be seen leaving a water melon patch or other places of interest, with a 100 pound bull dog sampling his wardrobe, and Bert knows whereof he speaks.

J. Z. Bristow exhibited his pens of Plymouth Rock chickens at the Cincinnati Poultry Show, last week, and captured 2nd, 3rd and 4th premiums on cockrels; 1st, 2nd and 4th on hens; 1st and 2nd on breeding pens and a $5 special premium for having 10 highest scoring birds. Julius certainly has a right to be proud of his record as a poultry fancier. He will attend the Poultry exhibition at Louisville, next week.

RABBIT HASH—Jan. 19.

Lots of ice in the river.

Hubert Brady and Sam Wilson are prizing tobacco at Calvert's warehouse.

Several from here attended the party at Willie Clore's, and they report a good time.

Filmore Ryle sold his crop of tobacco to Elijah Hodges at an average of about $5 20 per 100.

The Grangers had an all day meeting last Saturday. Dinner was served by the ladies, and the day passed very pleasantly.

J. P. Ryle and son, Ernst, prized R. L. Platt's crop of tobacco last week. There were 5,500 pounds. Bobby will ship to Louisville as soon as the river opens.

The change in the weather spoiled the sleighing, which our young people were enjoying, but no one seemed to mind the change as much as did our genial M. D., Frank Hopkins.

The dance given by Sid Stephens and wife, Saturday night, was the event of the season in R. H. Fully 100 persons were present, and had an enjoyable time until the hour of midnight, when all departed, wishing Sid and his estimable wife many happy returns for the pleasure they had furnished them.

One of our young men reports that while coming from the party at Mr. Clore's, he was fired on from ambush, but that by a lucky chance the bullet passed through his hat, and striking his head, glanced off. No damage except slightly frightening his horse. He shows the hat with the bullet hole in the top to prove his statement.

UNION—Jan. 19.

Miss Nida Dickey is better after a short illness.

James Gaines Huey has been ill for several days.

Mrs. C. P. Baker is quite sick. Pneumonia is feared.

Miss Lillian Corbin's school will close next Friday.

Golden Grange meets Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Richard Head spent Monday with relatives here.

A. H. Norman dined, Sunday, with B. L. Norman and wife.

Hon. J W. Kennedy spent several days last week in Corinth.

Mrs. Wallace Garrison dined with Mrs. Lizzie Huey, Tuesday.

J. W Conner and wife spent Sunday with B. L. Rice and family.

Miss Martha Ewing is home, after a visit of several months in the South.

Miss Marietta Riley is spending several days with her aunt, Mrs. S. S. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hicks, of Walton, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Voshell, Friday.

Rev. A. P. Gregory will preach Sabbath morning at 11 o'clock at the Presbyterian church

The "candy pulling" given by Miss Bristow's school, Friday afternoon was a very enjoyable affair.

The Ladies' Society of the Baptist church gave Mrs. Rachal Rice a surprise, Thursday, and quilted for her.

GUNPOWDER—Jan. 19.

J. H. Tanner entertained several of his friends, last Sunday.

Otis Ronse began moving, last week, to the farm he bought of J. L. Rouse.

Rev. Slater and wife were pleasant guests of the writer, on Tuesday of last week.

M. R. Tanner and wife were visiting at Erlanger, last Saturday, guests of P. O. Griffin

Will Star purchased of Mrs Bettie Rouse her farm near Gunpowder, a few days since. Price private.

Hen Tanner, who has been sojourning in Campbell county for a few weeks is seriously sick with typhoid fever.

Clint Blankenbecker, who has been confined to his room for some time, is improving, and we hope to see him out in the near future.

Last week was the time to get first class ice, and everybody who has an ice house took advantage of the season and filled it. The ice will average about 8 inches.

BEAVER—Jan. 19.

Mrs. J. H. Sleet is very sick of pneumonia.

Mrs. Omer Cleek is ill, threatened with pneumonia.

Misses Nell Cleek and Alpha Hance are visiting relatives in Louisville.

William Lancaster has moved to his farm, lately purchased in Kenton county, near Walton.

We are glad to learn Sam Sleet, who has been dangerously ill at Colorado Springs, is improving.

J. C. Hughes purchased several crops of tobacco last week at prices ranging from 3 to 7 cents per pound.

Marion Johnson, on starting to church, last Sunday morning, slipped on the ice and fell, breaking his left arm just above the wrist.

RICHWOOD, Jan. 19.

Miss Fannie Cleek is better.

Mrs. Fielding Dickey does not improve.

Thomas Murray was the guest of Walter Grubbs, Sunday.

Charley Flunell and bride will make their home with Mrs. Tillie Flunell.

Ambrose Easton shipped a car-load of hogs from here to the city, last week

Wm. Woodward and family, of Crescent, were guests at J. R. Carpenter's, Saturday.

Jeff Carpenter, Wm. Carpenter and L. D. Jackson filled their ice houses with 9 inch ice.

Willie, son of Jerry Carpenter, is seriously ill at his home with symptoms of typhoid fever.

Mrs. Amanda Carpenter has been confined to her room for several days with a severe cold.

We have had several inquiries as to the non-appearance of our town's news. We promise to do better.

A car load of coal arrived here one day last week and inside of three hours it was sold and unloaded.

Our transient citizens, about 40 railway fence builders and telegraph polesetters have moved down the line.

Excelsior Grange met Saturday—called meeting, Friday at 7 p. m. All members are requested to be present.

Dick Lampton's condition does not improve and the doctor thinks it will not until the return of warm weather.

J. R. Carpenter's horses have been sick with some strange disease, he having lost one, and all of his others have been affected.

A. P. Glacken lost a valuable horse—this is the second horse that has died there recently, his father, J. H. Glacken, losing one.

Letters from J. W. Dixon, of Cocoa, Fla., states that he expects to return to his "old Ky. home" in a few weeks. Well-come, Jerry.

Bro. Ditzler preached at Mt. Zion, in Bro Bedinger's place, the latter having gone south with his wife for the benefit of her health.

Barlow & Son shipped a mixed load of stock to the city, and John Dennedy and F. F. Robinson shipped a load of hogs, last week.

Wm. Rice, while chopping wood, cut his hand severely. The doctor thought for some time amputation of two fingers would be necessary.

M. Grubbs, while hauling fodder, was severely hurt about the neck and back by the sudden jerking of the sled by the horses starting suddenly.

The railway has made nice death traps for animals by fencing their right of way, and then connecting the fences with cattle guards, and they also make a 10 foot gate-way while a 12 foot load of hay will not shrink to 10ft., and who can solve the problem?

MOUND FIELD, Jan. 19.

Jerry Garnett has a very sick child.

W. R. Rouse has purchased the T. A. Crigler farm near Hebron.

Mike Dye has scarcely time to eat his meals, he is so crowded with work.

Charlie Clore had several experts employed, last week, invoicing his stock of goods.

Daisy, my famous Beagle hound, a world beater for rabbits and fresh eggs, died on the 10th inst.

Perry and Bart Aylor hauled some very fine Poplar and Chestnut logs from Taylorport to Limaburg mill, last week.

Dr. Sayre was called to Constance, last Monday, to set a broken limb for a Miss Peno, who sustained the accident while coasting.

The remains of Mrs. Elvira Warner (nee Turner), wife of Henry Warner, of Newport, were interred in the Hebron cemetery, last Saturday.

Ed Ernstes traded his dog. Snyder, for a kodac, Saturday. He will engage at once in the picture business, making landscape views a specialty.

One of the social events of the season, was the oyster supper at the residence of Walter Poulston, on the Bird Clore farm, last Wednesday night.

The oyster supper given at the Hafer homestead was a decided success, both socially and financially. The amount realized from all sources was $76.

Mrs. Will Aylor wrenched one of her limbs someway, in turning around, and it has since given her a great deal of pain. She has not been able to walk any since the accident.

Jacob Crigler is quite extensively engaged in the poultry business, and is feeding his hens mutton this winter. He finds that mutton produces more eggs than anyother food.

WALTON.

John Fink goes to Paris, this week, having secured the contract for painting the double house lately erected by Edward Stamler for D. S. Lemond.

W. H. Metcalfe, who has been superintendent of the Canning Factory for several years, has resigned, and John R. Johnson has been appointed in his place.

On Saturday last, J. W. Cluster finished hauling off the stalks of his 1901 crop of tobacco preparing to beginning the stripping of the crop of 1902. Mr. Cluster does but one thing at a time.

Miss Stella Senour has returned from a long and pleasant visit to Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Bradley, of Louisville. She had been missing so long that it was feared that she had gone from us for good—as the children say. It was pleasant to see her again.

There is the usual winter cropping talk among the farmers and just now the tobacco culture holds the edge over the tomato with a big hand. Several of our most enterprising farmers have promised to give the status of their prominence for the coming crop.

A handsome party was given by Mrs. Tompkins on the evening of the 16th inst., in honor of her sister, Miss Jennie Hamilton. It was so numerously attended that it was impossible to recognize who, of all the younger set, was absent. Misses Johnnie Carpenter, of Richwood, and Annie Green Hind, of Verona, were the stranger guests and they enjoyed it heartily.

Britteuhelm Bros. having lost faith in the power of wind have put one of F. B. Watkin & Co's gasoline engines into their mill and commenced corn and cob crushing on Saturday. They are greatly pleased with it and say that they are able to grind corn into as good meal as was made by the obsolete water mill of former generations. All they require is the sound corn that was selected in the days of yore.

It began to look as if our old friend, H. C. Diers, who is "not only witty himself, but is the cause of wit in others," had given the town the shake—so to speak, but on last Saturday his genial countenance illuminated our streets once more and it was learned that he is again selling fruit trees, and incidentally, buggies, wagons and other things When a man can sell three buggies in two weeks, in such weather as we have had, he cannot by any means be designated a slouch. May his shadow never grow less.

IDLEWILD—Jan. 19.

The coldest weather here was 2 below zero.

The Lawrenceburg wharfboat was badly damaged by the ice.

Mrs. George Walton spent Thursday with Mrs, Charles Baisly, of Bullittsville.

A. E. Chambers has returned from Peoria, Ill., where he was in the revenue service.

John Cropper and daughter, Mrs. R. C. Gaines, spent Thursday at Mr. Legrand Gaines'.

Owing to the intense cold Rev. Edgar Jones did not preach at Bullittsville, last night.

Tinker Hall, who has lived at North Bend for several years, has moved to B. R. Gaines' farm.

Joseph Graddy, of Lexington, has been the guest of his brother and sister near here for several days.

Thursday Mrs. W. L. Cropper had an old fashioned carpet rag sewing. A good dinner was served.

Rev. J. A. Kirtley reported 12 inch ice, C. E. Stephens, 9 inch, on ponds; on the creek the ice was 4 inches thick.

At the conclusion of his studies, J. A. Kirtley, jr., will assist Rev. Pattridge with his work in Ninth Street Baptist church, Cincinnati.

I request all my friends to aid me in making this column interesting by leaving news items in box No. 7, at the postoffice, this place.

We are sorry to hear that Miss Mattie Kreyleich has been so ill since her return home, that it was necessary to call a physician. She is much better.

James T. Grant and wife, of Bullittsville, were guests at Homer Grant's, last week. Owen Gaines carried the mail for Mr. Grant while he was on his vacation.

BELLEVUE—Jan. 16

L. L. Snyder is very ill.

Bro. Tom Willis appears to be very proud of his grandson.

Mrs. Josie Grant visited her mother several days last week.

Herbert Kirkpatrick, of Burlington, was here a few days since buying furs.

Our friend E. L. Grant had lots of pleasure sleighriding during the recent snow.

Several of Orlando Snyder's relatives visited him Sunday. He is a very sick man.

Johnnie Moody and sisters entertained several of their young friends last Sunday.

Our steamboat pilots, Will, John and Ed Maner, are at home because of the ice in the river.

A good sized congregation turned out to hear Bro. Nooe preach on the 11th, notwithstanding the very cold weather.

W. B. Arnold and Lum Popham delivered their tobacco to Berkshire & McWethy at Petersburg. Price, $6 85.

There cent cold spell tested the quality of the cent coal. We burnt it very sparingly, and warmed one side at a time.

Leonard Kite, of Waterloo, called on your reporter, Saturday. He says his town is in a healthy and prosperous condition.

John Tresser has more applications from persons who want him to build houses and barns for them than he can accommodate. Glad to see his work so highly appreciated by the people.

The Christian church Sunday school has reorganized, and introduced the burden contest with sisters Alice Cook and Claude Smith as captains, with 3 or 4 lieutenants each to assist them. The school began last Sunday with 22 pupils. The contest will close in June.

PETERSBURG—Jan. 20.

Two 12 year old boys here in town weigh 320 pounds.

Only one mail a day now on account of the ice in the river.

The Petersburg pupils of the Aurora school cannot cross the river now.

Robert Clark and wife have returned to the home of the bride's parents.

Glad to report David Alcorn, Orlando Snyder and S. G. Botts each very much improved.

Mrs. Katie O'Brian, Miss Florence O'Brian and Miss Phoebe Jones, all of Hamilton, Ohio, are guests at W. T. Evans'.

Rev. Atkinson and wife were given a house warming last Friday night, and they received useful and handsome presents galore,

Grant Mathews has been assigned to the distillery at Carrollton. There is an entirely new force of men on duty at the distillery here.

S P. Gibbs' sale was well attended yesterday, and everything brought extra prices. Corn, 40 to 43cents; horses, $80 and upwards; cow, $49

Miss Pearl Crisler gave a birthday party yesterday. It was attended by a large number of her friends who were entertained in a royal manner.

H. E. Arnold and wife entertained E. L. Grant and wife and Miss Katie Arnold of Bellevue, and J. R. Clutterbuck and wife, of Burlington, last Sunday.

While coasting on the Jenkins hill, one day last week, Will Alden got a knee cap fractured. Lawrence Chambers was in the accident and was pretty badly bruised.

Those who were pupils of Orlando Snyder at the several places he taught school in this county, presented him with a handsome gold-headed cain a few days since as a token of their appreciation of him as an instructor. He was one of the best teachers in the county when he followed that profession, and he appreciates highly the present from those once his pupils.

HEBRON.

Miss Pearl Crisler, of Petersburg, was visiting relatives here Saturday night and Sunday.

Mrs. Emma Clore, of Ludlow, spent Saturday and Sunday with her sister, Mrs. R. C. McGlasson.

Lewis Harding and mother will move to their farm they purchased from R L. Aylor, some time in March.

There was a dance at Mr. Polston's on Elijah creek, last Thursday night. An oyster supper was a feature.

Miss Laura Beall, who has been visiting her sister in Covington for several weeks, returned home last week.

LUDLOW.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church met Thursday after noon at the residence of Mrs. D. S. Buchanan, on Elm street.

Hundreds of people visit the Lagoon every day to participate in skating. The ice has been about a foot thick and as yet there have been no accidents.

Five shares of First National Bank stock sold last Wednesday for $200,00 per share, the greatest record in the history of the bank, which has only been organized three years. The stock has gone up 63 points in the last month. An offer was made for 10 shares at the same price but was refused.

Finds Way to Live Long.

The startling announcement of a Discovery that will surely lengthen life is made by editor O. H. Downey, of Churuhusco, Ind. "I wish to state," he writes, "that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is the most infallible remedy that I have ever known for coughs, Colds and Grip. It's invaluable to people with weak lungs. Having this wonderful medicine no one need dread Pneumonia or Consumption. Its relief is instant and cure certain." W. E. McKim, Burlington; J. G. Oelsner, Florence; A. W. Smith, Walton; Union Drug Store, Union; O. N. Grant, Bellevue, guarantee every 50c and $1.00 bottle, and give trial bottles free.

Personal Mentions.

Orin Phipps rented the Kendall place for this year.

Travel along creek roads has been rather hazardous for several days.

Miss Olga Kirkpatrick dined several of her young lady friends, Sunday.

C. C. Hughes was transferred from Petersburg to the distillery at Milton, last Thursday.

Bud Conner, one of Hebron's scientific checker players, was in town Friday afternoon.

Mr. John L. Rouse sends the RECORDER an interesting letter from his new home, Dalton, Georgia.

Clem Kendall came up from Lakeland, last Friday, to attend his mother's sale last Saturday afternoon,

Mrs H. W. Ryle and little son, Floyd, were guests of Mrs. Ryle's mother, Mrs. Kirkpatrick, a few days last week.

W. C. Rouse, of Limaburg, was in town, yesterday. He had been amusing himself with the toothache for several days.

Mr. W. A. Gaines of Idlewild neighborhood, was in to see the RECORDER, last Friday. He is one of the paper's substantial friends.

Peter Hager, from near the mouth of Gunpowder, was in town early last Sunday morning for an interview with the supervisors of tax.

Mr. W. H. Senior, one of the most prosperous and best equipped farmers in the Walton neighborhood, called on the RECORDER, Monday.

H. G. Blanton spent the day last Thursday in Burlington. His double team of fast steppers and handsome cutter were very much in demand.

Two business like little boys from Constance, called at the RECORDER office, last Friday, and subscribed for a paper for Shelby England. We suppose they were his sons.

Messrs. Ben Berkshire and George Guisinger, of Petersburg, and Don and George Williamson, and W. J. and Walter Ryle, of Beech Grove, were callers at this office, Monday.

Meredeth Conner, of Richwood, called on the RECORDER last Monday. He looks better than we ever saw him, and is as genial as of yore. He has a fine daughter at his house, of which he is very proud.

Our friend, Dr. Jacob Tanner, of Hebron, called in to see us last Thursday morning. He had but recently returned from an extended visit among friends in Missouri, having been in a half dozen or more counties out there. He was in excellent spirits and said he found Missouri are to be found fine cattle, immense corn and handsome ladies to beat the band. We verily believe the doctor has an especial favorite among the ladies he met in Missouri, and will make it convenient to journey toward the setting sun again in the near future.

Obituary.

The funeral of Miss Lizzie Conner, who died Friday night at her home near here, was held Sunday afternoon at the Lutheran church, in the presence of a large number of her friends and relatives. Rev. Slater conducted the services. He took his text from the 14th chapter of John, and gave many comforting words to the deceased's family. Miss Lizzie was a woman who was widely known, and there is hardly a man, woman or child in the vicinity but who has some time in his life, gone to school to her. She was born Feb. 14th, 1848, being 54 years 10 months and 26 days old. She united with the Hebron church in 1868, and has been a faithful member since then. She was a teacher in the S. S. the past year, and only two weeks before her death read the report of her class for the year. Here words are but shadows of what our lives are; we can not describe one another's past, only actions tell. "So live that when thy summons comes to join the unnumberable caravan that moves to the pale realms of shade, where each shall take his chamber in the silent halls of death, thou go not, like the quarry slave at night, scourged to his dungeon, but sustained and soothed by an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave, like one who winds the drapery of his couch about him, and lies down to pleasant dreams."

Walter, 22, son of Peter Hager, of near the mouth of Gunpowder, attended a party last Friday night, at William Clore's, on Clore's Ridge. He started home about midnight, and had been on the road but a short time when he heard five pistol shots. To this he paid no attention, and had proceeded on his way to a point opposite Moses Ryle's where the road from Kite's store to Gunpowder crosses a deep ravine, when a man stepped out in the road, and with an oath, ordered the young man to dismount, which he did, when the highwayman thrust a pistol into his face. Young Hager threw up his hand and knocked the pistol to one side, when it was discharged, the ball passing just over his left ear. A considerable bunch of hair was singed, and the young man was so badly blinded that he could not see his assailant who fled, yelling as though he had been shot. Young Hager has no idea who the man is, and can conceive of no reason for his action, unless he expected to rob him.

STARTLING TRAGEDY.

Lieut. Gov. Tillman Dangerously Wounds Editor Gonzales.

The Shootist Was Arrested and Taken to the County Jail—Gonzales, in His Paper, Bitterly Criticizes Tillman.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 16.—Narciso Gonzales, editor of the State, is at the Columbia hospital in a critical condition from a pistol wound inflicted by James H. Tillman, lieutenant governor of South Carolina, and a nephew of United States Senator Benjamin R. Tillman.

It was just a few minutes before 2 o'clock when the cry was passed along the streets that "Jim Tillman has shot N. G. Gonzales." Immediately there was a rush towards the scene of the tragedy. The offices of the State are on the same block as the scene of the shooting, and it took but a few moments for a great throng to assemble in front of the newspaper. The excitement and indignation on the streets was intense. Mr. Gonzales was taken to the office of the State, where physicians pronounced his wound very dangerous and probably fatal.

Policeman Boland immediately after the shooting arrested Lieut. Gov. Tillman and took him to police headquarters, where he was relieved of two pistols, the one with which he shot Mr. Gonzales and a second large revolver of 38 caliber. From the police station he was taken to the county jail, where he was Thursday night under the protection of officers. The only attributed cause for the shooting is that during the recent primary election Mr. Gonzales bitterly opposed Lieut.-Gov. Tillman in his race for governor.

During the progress of that campaign Mr. Gonzales, in his fight to defeat Mr. Tillman, had editorially called him a debauche and blackguard and denounced him as a "criminal candidate" and a proven liar. It was this and other such editorials, it is supposed, that goaded Mr. Tillman to the desperate deed of Thursday. Since the first primary, August 26, 1902, Mr. Gonzales has had nothing to say about Mr. Tillman except to comment upon the result of the primary.

There appears to be no conflict of testimony as to the essential features of the tragedy. Mr. Gonzales was walking home alone from his office to his lunch. Lieut.-Gov. Tillman left the state house just after the senate, over which he presided, had adjourned. He came out of the state house accompanied by Senator Talbord, of Beaufort, and Senator Brown, of Darlington, and was joined on his way up town by Congressman-elect Wyatt Aiken and former Representative Dominick. The meeting with Gonzales was just at the turn of Main and Gervais streets. There was no encounter, no fist fighting, no laying on of hands. Tillman, so far as the evidence discloses, simply drew his revolver and fired at Gonzales. Most of those who saw the affair say there was nothing said until after the shooting. One of Tilman's escorts says he thinks Tillman said:

"I received your message," and then fired.

Gonzales gave an explicit statement of the affair prior to being put under an anaesthetic. He was very emphatic in saying that he had not sent any message to Tillman at any time and that Tillman said nothing until after he had fired, and after he had shot he said something about taking him (Gonzales) at his word. Gonzales took this to mean that Tillman told him that he was settling old issues face to face with him. Gonzales is certain that nothing was said until after the shot was fired, when he tottered to the street car transfer station, where he leaned. Mr. Tillman was still pointing his pistol at him, whereupon Gonzales said: "Shoot again, you coward."

Lieut. Gov. Tillman lowered his pistol and walked away.

There was only one shot fired, and that entered the right side between the eighth and ninth ribs and passed through the fore part of the body, coming out just above the free border rib. The bullet was picked up on the pavement.

The affair caused great excitement in the city, which is filled with politicians, who are here to participate in the inauguration of the new state government. Lieut. Gov. Tillman's term will expire within a few days.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 16.—Gov. McSweeney said Thursday night, speaking of the attempted assassination of Gonzales:

"It was a deplorable act, and that is all I can say about it just now, further than to say that the conduct of a statesman in carrying concealed weapons can not be too severely condemned, whose sworn duty is to uphold the law, and to defend the law in this respect, as well as in others."

Washington, Jan. 16.—The agricultural appropriation bill has been prepared by the house committee on agriculture. It carries approximately $6,000,000, about $80,000 more than the current appropriation.

THE CONFEDERATE DEAD.

Report on the Bill Providing For the Marking of Their Graves.

Washington, Jan. 17.—Secretary Root Friday forwarded to the senate military committee a memorandum prepared by Quartermaster Gen. Ludington in regard to the bill introduced by Senator Foraker to provide for the appropriate marking of the graves of the soldiers of the confederate army and navy and directing the secretary of war to ascertain the location and condition of the graves of such soldiers, who died in federal prisons and military hospitals in the north during the civil war and who were buried near the place of imprisonment.

Gen. Ludington says 30,152 confederate prisoners of war were buried in 89 localities throughout the country, many having been buried in trenches, as in the case of the remains of the confederates removed from Fort Delaware and Patch Island, Pa., to the Finns Point National cemetery, N. J. He says that it would be impracticable to identify individual graves notwithstanding the names of persons may be found on record. He also says that the appropriation of $100,000 made by the bill is inadequate for the purpose, the headstones costing $2.13 each at the place of manufacture, to which $1.25 approximately should be added. He says the appropriation should be $200,000.

STEAMER ST. LOUIS.

The American Liner Was Sighted Off Nantucket Lightship.

New York, Jan. 17.—Word reached this city Friday evening that the American line steamer St. Louis, from Southampton January 3, for New York, was sighted off Nantucket lightship at 5:40 o'clock Friday evening. Signals were made to the South Shore lightship, but owing to the fact that a heavy gale was blowing they were unintelligible. The slow rate of speed at which the St. Louis was traveling indicates that unless assisted it will not reach New York until late Saturday night. Appearances indicated that the St. Louis was short of steam power, and the signals were thought to imply that the trouble with her boilers had been experienced.

Clement A. Griscom, Jr., said Friday night that agents of the line had heard nothing of the St. Louis beyond the fact that she had been sighted. It was not considered necessary, he said, to dispatch a vessel to her assistance, because if aid be needed, the St. Louis will have ample opportunity to signal for it when she arrives off Fire island. He does not expect that the St. Louis will reach Sandy Hook before noon Saturday.

KEGS OF POWDER EXPLODED.

Six Men Are Believed to Be Mortally Wounded.

Johnstown, Pa., Jan. 17.—Four kegs of powder exploded in a Slav boarding house in Windber Friday night. John Chupa, Seacco Chupa, Meek Soutemba, Frank Freask, John Modes and M. Folerick are believed to be mortally injured. The men were seated together in a room, and, it is said, that one of them was endeavoring to dry a quantity of the powder when the explosion occurred. The side of the building was blown out and the six victims were found unconscious on the floor.

IT THE YOUTSEY CASE.

Juror Says He Was Offered Money to Divulge Secrets.

If There Was Enough Evidence to Convict Taylor He Would Be Kidnaped and the Reward Money Divided With the Juror.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 17.—A sensation was caused in the Franklin circuit court Friday when Circuit Judge Cantrill summoned the grand jury, which has had under investigation the Goebel murder case, hearing the testimony of Henry E. Youtsey, into open court. Judge Cantrill said to the jury:

"Gentlemen, I understand that certain person or persons have approached some member of the jury and made inquiry as to matters which have been before this jury. If this is a fact, I want you to report it to the court, or if there have been any overtures or intimations to you."

James Riddell, who lives at Benson, arose and stated that on his return home Thursday night a man of medium height, with black hair, well dressed, and of good address, was at his home. He stated:

"The man gave his name as McDowell, and said his home was at Indianapolis, Ind.; that he knew W. S. Taylor; that he knew I was a member of the jury, which had the investigation of Henry E. Youtsey; that since the investigation of this case and the testimony of Youtsey, that Taylor was much worried, had grown thin and emaciated; that he (McDowell) knew who all the members of the jury were, had a diagram of their houses, and knew where they lived. He said he wanted to talk privately with me, and said that he wanted information about the testimony of Youtsey and would get money for it, and that he would divide with me.

"He called me outside of the house and stated that if there was enough evidence against Taylor to convict him (Taylor), that he with others would kidnap Taylor and bring him here and divide the reward with me. He then offered me money, which he had in his hand, and I refused it; then he shoved some money in my vest pocket and told me to buy me a hat with it; that he saw there was no opportunity to get the information. He said he was stopping at the Capitol hotel and had driven out to my house."

The judge instructed the money to be turned over to the trustees of the jury fund, which was done, and the grand jury instructed to investigate the matter. A warning to secrecy was given.

To a friend Riddell said:

"This man said that there was $2,000 offered for Taylor's delivery at Frankfort and that he would give one-fifth of the money if I would tell him all that Youtsey had said about the conspiracy to kill Gov. Goebel. I told him I could not be induced to tell any one what I had heard Youtsey say in the jury room, and that I had not even told my wife that Youtsey was before the jury."

FRENCH EXPEDITION.

It Will Start For Franz Josef land May 15 Next.

Paris, Jan. 17.—Dr. Jean Charcot has announced the plans for the Arctic expedition under the patronage of the academy of science and the ministry of public instruction. A ship for the voyage is now under construction at Saint-Malo. She will be specially equipped to resist ice. The party will leave France May 15 for Spitzbergen and thence will start for Franz Josef-land. The expedition will be exclusively French. Lieut. De Gerlach, who commanded the Belgian Ant-Arctic steamer Belgica, will probably be a member of the party, which will also comprise several scientists. Dr. Charcot says France has hitherto left Arctic exploration to foreigners and his hopes to revive French attention to the subject.

Death of James MacHardie.

Missoula, Mont., Jan. 17.—Jas. Hartford, a "forty-niner" Argonaut in Vuba county, California, a companion of John W. Mackay, in operations there, and since 1864 the best-known placer miner in Montana, is dead of paralysis. He leaves an estate of several hundred thousand dollars.

His Father's Example.

Army and navy officers are enjoying a hearty chuckle over the discomfiture of a well-known retired officer who is a familiar figure at several clubs in Washington. This officer had a son of considerable promise, but of tender years. A few years ago, so the story goes, the officer married a fortune and soon after discovered that he had heart disease and went on the retired list. "Jack," said a visitor to the son the other day, "what are you going to be when you grow up?" "Well," said the eight-year-old with grave deliberation, "I've been thinking of that for some time and I think that when I'm a man I'll get heart disease and go on the retired list, just like papa."—Chicago Chronicle.

Mrs. F. Wright, of Oelwein, Iowa, is another one of the million women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

A Young New York Lady Tells of a Wonderful Cure:—

"My trouble was with the ovaries; I am tall, and the doctor said I grew too fast for my strength. I suffered dreadfully from inflammation and doctored continually, but got no help. I suffered from terrible dragging sensations with the most awful pains low down in the side and pains in the back, and the most agonizing headaches. No one knows what I endured. Often I was sick to the stomach, and every little while I would be too sick to go to work, for three or four days; I work in a large store, and I suppose standing on my feet all day made me worse.

"At the suggestion of a friend of my mother's I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it is simply wonderful. I felt better after the first two or three doses; it seemed as though a weight was taken off my shoulders; I continued its use until now I can truthfully say I am entirely cured. Young girls who are always paying doctor's bills without getting any help as I did, ought to take your medicine. It costs so much less, and it is sure to cure them.—Yours truly, ADELAIDE PRAHL, 174 St. Ann's Ave., New York City."—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

ATTACKED THE FORT.

German Cruiser Panther Shelled It For an Hour.

Panther Was Obliged to Abandon the Fight and Retreated in the Direction of Curacao—Demonstration at Maracaibo.

Maracaibo, Jan. 19.—The German cruiser Panther shelled Fort San Carlos, at the entrance to Lake Maracaibo, Saturday afternoon for one hour. The fort returned fire with four guns. The Panther withdrew in the direction of Curacao.

Fort San Carlos is 22 miles from Maracaibo and commands the entrance to the lake, or inner bay.

A correspondent here has received the following letter from Gen. Bello, the commander of the fort:

"Yesterday afternoon at half-past 12 Fort San Carlos was attacked and shelled, without any provocation on our part, without previous notification or the delivering of an ultimatum by the German cruiser Panther, which tried to force the entrance. After a fight lasting an hour, during which the fort used only four guns, the Panther was obliged to abandon the fight and retreated in the direction of Curacao. The fort has suffered no damage and only three men were wounded.

There have been popular demonstrations on the streets here as a result of the shelling of the fort.

TRAIN ACCIDENTS.

Past Three Months 265 Persons Were Killed and 2,613 Hurt.

Washington, Jan. 19.—A statement prepared by the interstate commerce commission shows that during the three months ended September 30, 1902, there were 265 persons killed and 2,613 injured in train accidents. Other kinds of accidents, including those sustained by employes while at work and by passengers in getting on or off the cars, etc., bring the total number of casualties up to 12,007, the killed numbering 345 and the injured 11,162 During the three months covered by the statement, the traffic of a large majority of the railroads has been heavier than ever before, necessitating the employment of new men for service in train and yard work. The total number of collisions and derailments was 2,448, of which 1,444 were collisions and 1,014 derailments, of which 51 collisions and 92 derailments affected passenger trains. The damage to cars, engines and roadway by these accidents amounted to $2,198,500.

New York, Jan. 19.—A chess match by wireless telegraphy served to enliven the voyage of the American liner Philadelphia and the Cunader Lucania, which arrived here Sunday. The two vessels got into wireless communication on Friday when a suggestion for a chess match was flashed from the Lucania and eagerly accepted by the Philadelphia. On the latter vessel a team was selected consisting of W. B. Wheelan, of Philadelphia; Frank Cauldwell, of Chicago, and Waldemar Weiss, of New York. The Lucania champions were E. Marshall Fox and E. Horace Mundy, of London; R. W. Milbank, of Liverpool and Capt. H. R. Campbell and William Evans. The Philadelphia team was victorious, their opponents resigning after 12 moves.

FOREIGN MINISTERS' NOTE.

The Chinese Government Has Made No Reply As Yet.

Pekin, Jan. 19.—China has not yet replied to the notes of all the foreign ministers here with the exception of United States Minister Conger, informing the Chinese government that the failure to fulfill its obligation, in refusing to pay the war indemnity on a gold basis as provided for by the peace protocol, would entail grave consequences. The government undoubtedly is hard pressed for money, although, if the provincial officials collected the revenues honestly, the indemnity could be paid.

WILL BE INDICTED.

True Bills Found Against Chicago Coal Dealers.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—Forty indictments have been voted by the special grand jury which during the past week has been ingestigating the causes for the shortage of coal in Chicago. It is said that among the men against whom it is the intention to return indictments are many who stand high in the business and social world.

When the grand jury, especialy convened to investigate the coal famine in Chicago, shall make its report Monday, it is expected that there will be 39 true bills returned against coal dealers. The indictments, it is said, will charge the coal dealers with violations of the anti-trust laws and with blacklisting. For several hours Sunday stenographers were at work writing up the indictments, which will be submitted when the grand jury shall convene at 10 o'clock Monday morning. It is asserted that there are one or two indictments which at least three of the jurors are in favor of withdrawing, and there will be a vote taken on these bills before the report of the jury is made to the court. The charges made against the coal dealers, it is said, are of three kinds, conspiracy to fix prices (this charge is made against retailers), combination to fix prices (this charge is made against operators), and blacklisting (this charge is made against retailers, and especially, it is said, against the Retail Dealers' association of Illinois and Wisconsin.

RUSHING OUT COAL.

Four Collieries Near Scranton Were Operated Saturday Night.

Scranton, Pa., Jan. 19.—As an experiment the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Co. operated its Brisbin, Cayuga and Diamond collieries in this city Saturday night until 10:30, and its Storrs colliery until 8 o'clock, making 16 and 12 hours, respectively, for the day. The output of the collieries for the day was 8,500 tons, or 2,200 tons more than their normal output. The results was entirely satisfactory and the mines can be run every night if the men will work.

A canvass was made of the men working at the different collieries of the company but only at the mines mentioned would the men volunteer to work. The company has two washeries that ran all Saturday night, and four that worked Sunday. The Saturday and Sunday shipments of the company aggregated 64,000 tons. Up to date the shipments of the company from its collieries exceed by 75,000 tons the shipments for the same period of December.

NINE WERE KILLED.

An Explosion On Board the Battleship Massachusetts.

San Juan, Jan. 19.—Nine men are reported to have been killed and two others wounded, probably fatally, by the explosion of a powder charge of an eight-inch gun on board the United States battleship Massachusetts Saturday morning while at target practice off Culebra island. The explosion occurred in the star-board after eight-inch turret shortly before noon and was due to the accidental discharge of a percussion primer while the breech of the gun was open. The full charge exploded in the turret and killed or injured all the crew of the gun. Ensign Ward K. Weekman, who was in charge of the turret, escaped injury, though he was standing near the scene of the explosion. Robert B. Rule, of Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, was among the killed.

FLED THE COUNTRY.

Citizens Indicted for Lynching Two Negroes Are Missing.

Jackson, Miss., Jan. 19.—Seventeen citizens of the Ethel district of Attala county, indicted for lynching two Negroes named Hall and Gaston a short time ago, have fled from the country to escape arrest. The grand jury indicted 28 in all, and Saturday the officers arrested 11 and took them to Kosciuskio jail. The remaining 17, however, had gotten wind of the forthcoming arrest and hurriedly left the community.

The indictments were returned over a month ago, but no arrests were made until Saturday. The names of those indicted were not ascertained.

HEWITT PASSED AWAY.

Was Former Mayor of New York and Congressman.

The Funeral Services Will Be Conducted By Bishop Potter in Calvary Church, of Which Mr. Hewitt Was a Member.

New York, Jan. 19.—Abram S. Hewitt, former mayor of New York and for many years representative in Congress, died at 6 o'clock Sunday morning in his 81st year, having been critically ill for ten days. With him at the moment of death were his wife, his three sons and three daughters.

Mr. Hewitt, who has been in feeble health for some months, was attacked with obstructive jaundice on January 8, and from the first it was realized by his attending physicians, Dr. E. L. Keyes and Dr. E. L. Keyes, jr., that there was practically no hope of the aged patient's recovery. On the following Sunday it was thought that Mr. Hewitt could not survive the night and the members of his family were summoned to his bedside, but his wonderful vitality kept him alive for a week longer. On Thursday Mr. Hewitt rallied so thoroughly that some hope was entertained that he might recover, but on the following night a relapse occurred and it was then evident that the end was not far off. A slight improvement was noted on Saturday morning but late that night the physicians notified Mr. Hewitt's son, Peter Cooper Hewitt, that death was imminent and the other children, Edward R. Hewitt, Erskine Hewitt, Mrs. J. O. Green, Miss Sarah Hewitt and Miss Eleanor G. Hewitt were summoned and with their mother remained by the bedside until the end.

The funeral services, which will be conducted by Bishop Potter, will be held in Calvary church, of which Mr. Hewitt was a member.

THE BUBONIC PLAGUE.

There Were 107 Deaths in Mazatlan Since January 1.

Mazatlan, Jan. 19.—There have been 107 deaths from the plague since January 1. The death on the 15th numbered seven and many news cases are reported. The number of wooden houses burned is 106.

The coaches, in which plague-stricken people sought to escape from the city, will be burned.

A young workman's mother died from the plague at the family 's house. Some military inspectors entered the house and took possession of the corpse and the young man was sent to the department of observation. His wife and sister were absent at the time of the inspector's visit and afterwards disappeared, fearing they would be taken by the Lazarete. Sunday morning one of the women was found dead from the plague and the other has not been heard of. The young man has not been attacked by the epidemic, but has become insane.

FIFTY-SEVENTH CONGRESS.

Second Session.

Washington, Jan. 15.—Senate—The senate Wednesday acted promptly on the house bill, providing rebate of the duty on coal, and passed it unanimously, without debate, a few minutes after it was brought over from the house. The militia bill also was passed, with an amendment striking out of the bill the section providing for a reserve force of trained men, thus removing the objections made against it. The statehood bill was up for a short time, during which Mr. McCumber spoke in favor of granting statehood to Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico.

House—The bill reported from the ways and means committee Tuesday to provide for a rebate of the duties on foreign coal for a period of one year was passed in short order by the house Wednesday, by practically an unanimous vote, 258—5, those voting against it being Messrs. Cushman and Jones (Wash.), Gaines (W. Va.), Mendell (Wyo.) and Patterson (Pa.), all republicans. The bill was considered under the operation of a rule, which cut off opportunity to amend. The only opposition to the measure came from some of the members representing coal states, who expressed the fear that the admission of Chinese mined coal in Canada would injure the coal industry of their states. Both Mr. Dalzell (Pa.) and Mr. Payne (N. Y.), the republican leaders, expressed the opinion on the floor that the bill would not relieve the existing distress. They said it would satisfy, however, public demand for action and show the disposition of congress to do what it could. The democrats, although they all supported the bill, took the view that it did not go far enough, saying that coal should go on the free list, and when the bill came back from the senate, with a provision which virtually placed anthracite coal on the free list, they applauded vigorously. The senate amendment was adopted without division. Rapid progress was made with the army appropriation bill after the coal bill had been passed. The most important amendments adopted were to increase the numuer of officers in the signal corp.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Senate—In the senate Thursday Mr. Tillman continued his arraignment of trusts and monopolies and again charged that the attorney general was responsible primarily for lack of action against trusts. The statehood bill was under discussion for a short time. Mr. Forraker urged the right of Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico to be admitted into the union. Mr. McLaurin (Miss.) called attention to charges that the people of Indianola, Miss., had been guilty of threats and intimidation against the postmaster, and declared them to be untrue, remarking that his object in bringing the matter to the attention of the senate was in order that his denial might go into the Congressional Record as an answer to those who made the charge. The senate at 5 o'clock adjourned until Monday.

House—The house passed the army appropriation bill and began consideration of the department of commerce bill, under a special rule making it a continuing order until disposed of. The opposition to the measure came entirely from the democratic side and was based chiefly on the ground that the transfer of the bureau of labor to the new department would subordinate that bureau to a department which would represent capitalistic interests. The friends of the bill denied the assumption that the head of the new department would be hostile to labor. They maintained that the bill would increase the dignity of the bureau of labor by giving the head of the department a seat in the cabinet. Those who participated in the debate were Messrs. Mann (Ill.), Corliss (Mich.), Adamson (Ga.), Scott (Kan.) and Hepburn (Ia.) in favor of the measure, and Messrs. Richardson (Ala.), Shackleford (Mo.), Cochran (Mo.) and Weston (Tex.) against it.

Washington, Jan. 17.—House—The house devoted the day to private war claims, passing about 20. The two features of the day were the defeat of a claim of B. F. Moody & Co., of Keokuk, Ia., for the payment of the amount deducted from their contract for furnishing equipment to the Third Iowa cavalry by the famous commission which unearthed the army contract frauds in St. Louis in 1863 and the fight of Mr. Payne, the floor leader of the majority, against an omnibus resolution to refer 90 southern claims, aggregating $400,000, for stores and supplies, taken by the union army during the civil war, to the court of claims for finding of fact under the Tucker act. The former bill led to a lively controversy between two Iowa members, Messrs. Smith and Hedge. Mr. Hitt (Ill.), the chairman of the foreign affairs committee, was the stenographer of the commission and was able personally to corroborate Mr. Hedge in his opposition to the bill. The combination favor of the omnibus claims resolution was too strong for Mr. Payne, but on the final vote the quorum failed. As the previous question has been ordered the vote on the adoption of the resolution will be the first thing in order on the next claims day.

Mother and Daughter Fatally Burned.

Rich Hill, Mo., Jan. 16.—Mrs. Chas. Walker, of this city, and her grown daughter were fatally burned Thursday as a result of an explosion of gasoline, and Charles Walker, the husband and father, was severely burned while trying to extinguish the flames.

CONSUMPTIVES PAROLED.

No Provision For Isolation For Patients at the Eddyville Prison.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 17.—Because no provision has ever been made at the Eddyville branch penitentiary for the isolation of inmates suffering from contagious diseases, the state prison commissioners Thursday released from that institution on parole four convicts who are ill of consumption. The men—two waite and two Negroes—have been confined for some time in the general hospital of the prison, along with a number of other prisoners. They are:

John Holly, of Lyon county, who was serving a life sentence on conviction for murder. He was sent up in December, 1897.

Albert Bowling, of Graves county, serving a sentence of four years for forgery. He was received in July, 1902.

Robert Coleman, of Christian county, sent up in July, 1897, to serve a sentence of 11 years and 10 months on conviction for murder.

James Mason, of Warren county, serving a sentence of two years for grand larceny. He has been confined since January, 1902.

HURLED TO DEATH.

Geo. Meimann, Kenton County Farmer, Meets With Singuar Accident.

Covington, Ky., Jan. 16.—Geo. Meimann, one of the wealthiest and best-known farmers in Kenton county, met his death in a very peculiar manner Thursday morning at his farm on the Lexington pike, a half mile this side of Erlanger. Mr. Meimann, two of his sons and several laborers had gone out on the farm to fell some trees. One tree was about to fall in a direction opposite to where space had been prepared for it, and a rope was tied around the top and tied to another tree. Mr. Meimann caught hold of the rope and endeavored to draw the tree toward him. The rope snapped and the part attached to the falling tree remained in his hands, and before he could loosen his hold he was hurled into the air for a distance of 50 feet and fell in a near-by pond, which was filled with ice.

When picked up it was found that his skull had been fractured and that he had received numerous bruises. He was unconscious, and died shortly after being removed to his residence.

SYMPATHY FOR THEM.

Strong Effort Made to Save Whitney and O'Brien From Hanging.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 16.—A strong effort is being made to prevent the hanging of Earl Whitney and Claude O'Brien, the boys who murdered A. B. Chinn, here, while trying to rob his residence last December. Both have been given the death sentence, to be hanged on February 13, but their cases have been appealed and a stay of execution will be granted awaiting the decision of the court of appeals. Officers of the Tennessee reform school, where Whitney served a term, have offered evidence of a good reputation while he was there.

Paducah Saloon Ordinance.

Paducah, Ky., Jan. 15.—Circuit Judge L. D. Husbands decided that the part of the saloon closing ordinance requiring the saloons to close at 10:30 p. m. is constitutional, but that the portion requiring them to take down screens and stained glass is unconstitutional, as is also the provision relative to drug stores selling whisky after 10:30.

Dr. J. A. Dixon Dead.

Explosion In a Hot House.

Owingsville, Ky., Jan. 15.—At Sharpsburg, this county, Miss Minnie Rails placed a coal oil lamp in her hot house, where there were stored a large collection of choice flowers and plants. The lamp generated a gas which exploded, wrecking the hot house and ruining the plants and flowers.

Sold a Trotter.

Versailles, Ky., Jan. 17.—J. W. Newman sold Friday to Col. A. L. Snowden, of Philadelphia, bay mare Audrey, 4 yr. o., by Ashland Wilkes, dam Madge Fullerton, by Young Fullerton, for $3,000. Audrey has trotted a mile in 2:16.

One Hundred Dollars and Cost.

New Castle, Ky., Jan. 17.—In the circuit court the damage suit of Mrs. Frank Botts against J. J. Harford, for squeesing her hand, the jury awarded her one dollar and put the costs on Mr. Harford, aggregating about $300.

TO WED ROSEBERY.

Engagement of Mrs. Chauncey to Ex-Prime Minister of England.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 15.—The Carr girls, of Louisville, are again in the public eye. News of the reported engagement of Mrs. Alice Chauncey, formerly Miss Alice Carr, of Louisville, and Lord Rosebery, ex-prime minister of England, has been received here. The interesting information comes from Mrs. Josephine Armstrong, of this city, who is sojourning in Vevay, Switzerland, in a letter to her sister, Mrs. William Bennett. Mrs. Armstrong states that the report of the distinguished Englishman's engagement to the Louisville beauty is being discussed with the keenest interest.

The Carr family consisted of father, mother and two girls, Alice and Grace. The girls were born in a small Southern Indiana town. At one time the family lived in Jefferson street, below Twenty-second. When Col. Carr died he left a few thousand dollars insurance. The ambitious mother decided to invest the whole sum in an effort to launch the girls on a social career.

HOME CAPITALISTS.

They Have Bought From Cudahy the Louisville Packing Plant.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 17.—The plant of the Louisville Packing Co., on Story avenue, has been sold to a syndicate of capitalists for about $210,000. The title to the property is now being examined and the transfer is expected to take place in a few days. The purchasers of the plant are Capt. S. S. Brown and Col. I. F. Brainard, of Pittsburg; Henry Raub, of Indianapolis, and a number of local capitalists, who are keeping in the background.

The price was that demanded by John Cudahy, of Chicago, who established the Louisville Packing Co. The plant will be operated in connection with large stock yards to be erected here.

IN A LOG CABIN.

Young Men Exposed to Smallpox Voluntarily Quarantined Themselves.

Greenup, Ky., Jan. 15.—Will S. Hurst, George A. Bailey and Nathan Bailey, young men living at Slash Branch, were exposed to smallpox in Ironton two weeks ago. They rented a log cabin in a secinded nook, obtained provisions and bedding, and have quarantined themselves against the world.

Hurst is temporarily cut off from a bride of only two months, but he is highly applauded by his neighbors for his praiseworthy act.

John W. Berkley's Will.

THE weather clerk shows a disposition to be very liberal with "the beautiful," this winter.

THEY are having a hot old time at Denver, Colorado, trying to elect a United States Senator.

This is another beautiful winter morning. The snow that fell yesterday afternoon was very wet and clings to everything tenaciously.

THE Democrat says the supervisors of tax in Carroll county increased the lists of five hundred taxpayers, and it predicts that the State board will give the county a raise again.

OWING to a hitch in the mails somewhere all the country correspence, except two or three, arrived in Monday night's mail. The daily papers of Monday morning did not reach Burlington until yesterday at noon.

THE newspapers in Covington and adjoining towns agree that Geo. H. Davison will be a candidate for mayor, but they can not decide whether he will ask the Democrats or the Republicans to nominate him. That is an indication that Mr. Davison doesn't know "where he is at," politically.

MR. YERKES, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, has declined to accept the Gubernatorial nomination tendered him a few days since by the machine at the head of which is Senator Deboe. The machine has turned to Judge DuRelle, of Louisville as the person to harmonize the Republican factions in this State.

Only a few persons appeared before the board of supervisors tax Monday, and as the clerk went to the city yesterday, we failed to secure a copy of the record of their action, and will have to defer its publication until next week. We understand, however, the proposed raise of Peter Hager's list was reconsidered, and not made, and that the increase on the list was reduced. This is given only as hearsay.

The governor of South Carolina has issued an order against bull-fighting. The governor takes the position that while there are so many negroes in the state who can be utilized for hanging and burning purposes, there is no use importing any foreign sport as uninteresting as bull-fighting. —Aurora Independent.

And for the same reason it may be said that bull-fighting is unpopular in some of the States outside of that section of the country known as the south.

THE people in the country read about the suffering poor in the cites, but the pens of the very best reporters can not convey to the minds more than the shadow of the real distress that prevails in the large cities. Cold and hunger combined or singly are unknown to the people of this county, and the misery and suffering that follows is something that is not realized unless seen. The poor in the cities are having an unusually hard time this winter, and the charity organizations are kept busy looking after them and ministering to their nceds.

YOUTSEY and Mathews have created considerable anxiety on the part of a great many persons in the last few days. While the public is in possession of the statement of J. B. Mathews in regard to the assassination of Gov. Gobel, it has no information as to what Youtsey has been telling the Franklin county grand jury, nor is it likely to have until he appears before the trial jury. Mathews was the private secretary of Caleb Powers, and says he has argued all the time that it is the duty of Republicans as well as Democrats to bring to justice the parties who assassinated Goebel, and the indications are that Youtsey has arrived at the same conclusion.

The City of Louisville, just after leaving the wharf at Louisville Monday evening, was caught in the heavy ice and wind, and drifted at once over the falls. The alarm was given, but her position was such a dangerous one the life-saving station could not come to her rescue. Every passenger had on a life preserver, and the life boats were ordered to be lowered.

Fortunately she drifted into the chute, and coal was poured into her furnaces until the flames came belching out of her chimneys. With this increased power she was able to make way up the chute, and started on her way.

Between this city and Louisville it was discovered that she had a hole in her and was leaking badly. By constant pumping she succeeding in reaching Carrollton, where she took refuge in the Kentucky river, where, with the aid of the Cincinnati, she was pumped out and repaired sufficiently to leave Tuesday at 10 o'clock.

The passengers state that the officers of the boat behaved admirably. They say that at one time both the officers and they themselves had given up all hope.

Capt. C. J. Dufour, who was on as a passenger, has been in a number of accidents, but never has had an accident while at the wheel. He was on the Gen. Lytle when she blew up, and was carried several hundred feet in the air and fell in the water. He was on the Pat Rogers when she burned. He was on the Telegraph, and was just in the act of drinking a cup of coffee when she struck the shore, breaking in two. He was also on the United States, but had gotten off at Ghent the night the United States and America collided just above Warsaw.

W. L. Gaines was the only one on from Carrollton. He says he put a life preserver on; he does not know whether he had it upside down or not. Over his life preserver he buttoned his overcoat. All the passengers, ladies and gentlemen were going about with life preservers. Mr. Gaines' description of the accident is very exciting. He says the boat had gone over the falls before the passengers knew of the trouble. As soon as all steam was gotten up that the boat could carry, she stood for a moment trembling and quivering in the balance. If the boat could not stem the current, it meant destruction to the boat and death to the passengers, for the bridge was only 200 yards below, and they must inevitably be dashed against its piers. It is not to be wondered that, for a moment, the cheek of the bravest blanched and hearts ceased to beat; but this was but for a moment, for the grand old boat began to move slowly, seeming to realize that she carried a burden more priceless than much gold, and though slowly, yet surely, she made her way against wind ice, and the elements.

Capt. Brennan was on watch; Jack Lindenburg at the wheel, and Mr. McClanahan at the engine. To the breavery of the these men, more than any others, is probably due the fact that a fearful accident was averted.—Carrollton Democrat.

The Boone Co. Pomona Grange will hold its next Meeting in the Greenwood hall at Hebron, Saturday, January 31st, at which time the officers will be installed, Fifth Degree conferred, and other important business attended to. Grange to be opened at 10 a. m. All members are requested to be present.

Local News.

It will soon be time to tap those sugar trees, wont it?

W. E. Vest was surveying the McConnell farm in East Bend, last week.

Considerable corn out yet, notwithstanding all that good weather last fall.

Nice moonlight nights and good sleighing are a very pleasant combination.

There are a great many slick places, which render traveling rather dangerous yet.

The Euchre Club enjoyed an elegant spread at the Boone House, last Saturday night.

If snow and freezing makes land plow well, it will certainly break nicely again next spring.

Owen Conner bought of James A. Duncan, last week, his saddle and harness mare, for $100.

A great many are complaining of the defective illuminating properties of the coal oil they are using.

Richard White went to Covington to attend the meeting of the Confederates tnere Monday night.

Since the installing of the exchange the individual telephone bells ring a great deal less than heretofore.

The Postmaster General has ruled that no more free rural mail delivery routes shall be established over turnpikes that require the government to pay toll.

If you ever catch Messrs. George Thomas, the RECORDER's Commissary scribe, and Thomas Jackson, of this place, together insist on them telling their World's Fair premium jokes.

W. E. Walton, one of the prospering farmers of Pt. Pleasant neighborhood was in town, Thursday. He appears to have had an abundantly supplied larder this winter, which he has not neglected.

Quite a good crowd attended the sale of Mrs. Mary Kendall, last Saturday afternoon. Some things sold very high. For instance, a 150 pound hog brought $24; yearling colt, $40; corn, 51 cents a bushel.

The slick roads that resulted from the recent cold spell, gave our local smiths considerable work. On several occasions they had to fire up on Sunday to accommodate a customer who had an ox in the mire, or rather a slick horse.

Joseph Birkle, of Bellevue, called on the RECORDER, Friday morning as he was enroute to Covington. Joe says he is still doing business at the old stand and wants the people's patronage. Joe is a good workman, and has many friends.

Cy Passons, who is now making his home in Douglas county, Ill., made this office a call last Friday. Cy is delighted with his new home and the people, and already he talks like a westerner of many years. The RECORDER will be his weeks visitor.

The Lawrenceburg Press came to hand this week an eight column 8 page paper. The readers never know one week what the shape of the Press will be the next week, but they always know it will come out in good style, handsome and full of news.

Elmer Beall, and William Hughes started out early, last Saturday morning to capture possums enough for a supper for several of the possum eaters about town. It was so slick that they thought they might succeed in slippling up on a few qualified for roasting.

Following the ruling handed down by the Court of Appeals in the case of the Covington Perpetual Building Association against Theodore Kleimeier, Master Commissioner Keefe Wednesday reported that $500 claimed by the building society must be refunded to Kleimeier, and this was confirmed by Judge Tarvin. This is in accordance with the Appellate Court ruling, exclusively given in The Post at the time to the effect that building association can only charge the legal rate of interest for money loaned, and no more.—Ky. Post January 15.

J. B. Mathews, of Somerset, who was Assistant Secretary of State under Caleb Powers, has made a statement in regard to the assassination of Gov. William Goebel. He names W. S. Taylor, Charles Finley, Henry E. Youtsey, W. H. Culton and Wharton Golden as the men responsible for the murder conspiracy. Matthews says he has told all he knows to the Commonwealth's Attorney. He expresses the belief that Caleb Powers is innocent, though he admits that others than those he names may have figured in the conspiracy.

Heads Should Never Ache.

It is a little early for 1903 snake stories, but the Press hands out this one with the assurance that it is absolutely truthful. On Saturday Mrs. Edward Hayes, in breaking an egg for a cake, discovered in it a snake about four inches long and about the diameter of a lead pencil. The snake's eyes were readily distinguished, though smaller than a pin head. In color the snake was a yellowish gray with white stripes. In ordinary snake stories the reptile is usually alive and doing something but in this instance it was different. The snake was dead—so dead, in fact, that there was no doubt about it.—Lawrenceburg Press.

Quite a serious coasting accident happened, one day last week, at the foot of the hill near the toll gate at Constance. Two girls, one Joe Peno's daughter, and the other Peter Fox's, came down the hill on a sled at a terrific rate of speed. When near the foot of the hill they lost control of the sled, and missed the bridge that spans World's Run near the toll gate, and went over a high bank into the creek. The two girls were picked up more dead than alive, and for a while it was thought they could not recover from their injuries, but at last accounts they had improved considerably and were regarded as out of danger.

Geo. Meiman, 62, a wealthy German farmer, who resided on the Lexington pike a half mile below Erlanger, was killed in a peculiar manner, one day last week. He was assisting some of his employes to fell a tree, which was inclined to go in a direction contrary to that desired, when he tied a rope to the top of the tree and fastened the other end of the rope to another tree which stood near. When the tree started to fall he grabbed the rope which broke between his hand and the second tree to which it was tied, and before he could let loose of the rope he was hurled a considerable distance on to the ice in a pond. His skull was crushed and several other injuries were inflicted. He lived but a short time after the accident.

The biggest land sale by and between Boone county parties, made in a long time, was that of last week, when Ben R. Berkshire and Lloyd Norris purchased from Geo. Guisinger, the farm of 450 acres adjoining the town of Petersburg, and owned by the late Joseph C. Jenkins at the time of his death. Price, $21,500. This farm is one of the best in Boone county. Being partly hill and partly river bottom land, it is especially adapted to farming and stock raising, while the improvements in the way of a residence, barns, etc., are not equaled by those on anyother farm in Boone. Mr. Berkshire is a very successful tiller of the soil and stock raiser, and the farm of which he is now part owner with his brother-in-law, will afford him an ample opportunity to increase his finance and develop his muscle.

I would like to tell my friends in Boone county, through the RECORDER, that we are enjoying good health, and are well pleased with our location. If you will allow me a little space I will tell something about our city. Dalton is located in a valley, surrounded by hills and mountains, and has a population of 6,000.

I have the city clerk's report for 1901, which shows that $50,000 was expended during 1901 in erecting of enterprises, and $20,000 in building residences. Since the above report there has been added a large chair factory and knitting mills. In 1901 Dalton buyers paid $600,000 for cotton, $500,000 for grain, peas and hay, $30,000 for general produce. They shipped in 1901, 12,000 bushels of peas, 3,500 coops of chickens, 3,000 boxes of eggs and 5,000 cans of butter.

Dalton's mercantile business for 1901 amounted to $1,500,000. Her factories turned out $2,000,000 worth of finished goods.

Dalton has two railroads and a third nearly completed. She has many churches and schools and no saloons. I could write more but must stop. Will write in the future about the country. Would be pleased to answer letters from any of my old friends.

Respectfully,
JOHN L. ROUSE.

In this issue C. W. Robinson, of Constance, advertises his property at the ferry for sale. It is the best business property in this end of the county. He has a good livery and a good grocery trade. If you want to make a good investment go see the property.

Why not Give all the Record?

When Cason and Castleman made their report, last week, in regard to the county infirmary expense, they went back five years. They gave the cost for five years, but they did not give the average number of inmates for these years. 1897, average number of inmates 36, cost, $2,076 32; 1898, average number of inmates 34½, cost, $1,903 52; 1899, average number of inmates 31, cost, $1,647-15; 1900, average number of inmates 28½, cost $1,558 60; 1901, average number of inmates 27½, cost $1,424-48.

They say they are gratified that they carried the house at a less expense than the past five years. The taxpayers can see they are cheap officials. You can't find on the book in the county clerk's office what it did cost the county for the year 1902. Mode Scott told me the cost was $1,900 and the average number of inmates was 18½ for the year 1902. The taxpayers can compare these figures and see which is the less cost. The record for the years I kept the county infirmary is on the books in the county clerk's office where anyone desiring, can see it. J. F. BLYTH, ex-Supt.

Master Henry Adams arrived home last Friday night. He is the youngest child of the late Jailer, Thomas J. Adams. He went to Louisville about four months ago with the intention of having one of his lower limbs amputated, it having been rendered useless by a white swelling or something of that nature. The surgeon to whom he went thought he could save the limb and the amputation idea was abandoned, and the operation to which the little fellow submitted, the removal of the diseased portions of the bone, will doubtless prove a success and he will be spared the limb, which will be of great benefit to him through life. The limb is now in a appliance for straightening it.

The past few days has been of no advatage to the growing wheat.

To say that I am glad to be back in Kentucky for a season does not express my real feelings by any means. I have met with a reception that has been so gratifying and pleasant that nothing but the expression of deepest gratitude can describe the situation. My stay has been one continuous round of delightful entertainments, and so long as my journey of life continues I will remember each person and each day of the period with kindest regards. Hoping each day of 1903 and years to come may bring prosperity and happiness to all my friends in Boone ED UNION BLADE.

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucus membrane surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. It is calculated that more than 25,000 New Yorkers dine every day in the underground restaurants, which are now an important feature of the city's life. In fact ancient looking rathskellers and weirdly-decorated dungeons one or more stories underground are rapidly becoming New York's most popular form of restaurant. Vast sums have been spent in fiting up these unusual interiors. There are dungeon restaurants in New York to suit every taste. One may dine in a prison cell, served by a waiter in prison stripes and be free to leave the place when the dinner is over. Large parties may be served in elaborate papier mache dungeons behind grated doors. Until recently the first restaurant, with wids op en windows looking directly upon the pavements, attracted the majority of patrons. Hotel men generally welcome the change, since it enables them to utilize for a general dining-room what has heretofore been virtually waste space. In the business section of the city as well as the fashionable uptown neighborhoods this preference for eating underground is very marked.

The Poultry Yard.

Never trust to luck in your poultry yard. Have a system and live up to it at all seasons of the year.

Don't blame the breed if your hens do not lay. If your methods are wrong the hens need pity rather than censure.

The early hatched pullets make the best layers, even the following year, so try to have them hatched during February and March.

After the first week little chicks will stand the cold weather all right if they have a warm dry place to run to when they prefer.

Chicks must never be allowed to get wet. Dew is fatal to them, and they should never be allowed out during the early morning.

Brooder chicks never have gaps, which proves that filth gathered from the yards is the cause of the trouble.

Give the chicks fine grit with their first food. They must get their first teeth early in life.

Too many eggs under a setting hen will always result in poor hatches. Better have too few than too many.

Don't let ducks and geese stay where young chicks are kept. The two will never thrive in the same yards

There is no scratching shed and they must either brave the weather or stay inside the foul-smelling roosting room.

Keep only one pure breed of fowls and try to improve that each year. By careful attention they will constantly grow better.

At such times the hens catch cold and from this springs roup. The entire flock becomes a worthless and unprofitable one and the owner blames the pesky old hens.

Use a little common sense and do not mistreat the hens. If the weather is severe keep the house warm, but when pleasant do not fail to give some ventilation. Build a scratching shed and do not compel the hens to stay out in mud and snow.

Poultry will suffer a great deal from severe cold, but the greatest danger lies in sudden changes, where no protection is provided. The hens are housed in almost air-tight houses from dusk till daylight, when they are mercilessly turned out where the mercury is hovering around zero, there to remain throughout the day. When the weather moderates they are still kept in the air-tight room and perhaps turned out in a cold rain or snow. No thought of their comfort during the day, it is simply a question of warmth at night.

Considerrble wood is being hauled to town for heating purposes.

It looks like we are about to have another edition of winter.

A CALL TO SERVICE.

Some Helpful Lessons from the Experience of Peter.

The Double Nature of the Call of the Apostle—Sermon by the "High-way and Byway" Preacher.

Chicago, January 18, 1903.

Text:—"Wherefore the rather, brethren, give diligence to make your calling and election sure: for if ye do these things, ye shall never fall: for so an entrance shall be ministered unto you abundantly into the everlasting Kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ."—II. Peter, 1:10 and 11.

Advice of a Veteran.—The value of an admonition or a piece of advice is measured by the character and the experience of the one from whom such admonition or advice emanates. The old soldier who has been long in the service is qualified to speak of matters pertaining to the calling to which he has devoted his life. He fully appreciates its dignity, he understands its hardships and dangers, and in the school of experience he has learned faithfulness to its responsibilities. The story of his life is a living commentary on the advice which he gives; it illuminates the thought and the lesson he would drive home. As you travel back over the milestones in his life you can read the letterings which spell out the advice he has given. Take away the identity of the speaker and, though the thoughts expressed are recognized as self-evident truths, still half of their force is lost. Advice without an experience behind it is like a picture without a background. The coloring may be vivid and the figure perfect in outline, but if the deeper shades of the artist's brush have been left out the effect of the painting is to a very great extent lost. Precept and example go hand in hand, and to separate the two is to do violence to both and to mar the individual beauty of each and destroy their harmonious blending.

God's word is an exquisite dovetailing of precept and example, of eternal truth and living expression of that truth in the lives of those whose history fills the sacred pages. David's Psalms are illuminated by the experiences in his life which gave them birth. The teachings of Christ are reenforced and explained by His matchless life, His sacrificial death, His triumphant resurrection and His glorious ascension. The epistles of Paul, and the other apostles take on new meaning and force as we read them through the lives lived by their authors. It is a fascinating study to discover the experiences in the life of a Paul or a Peter which have revealed to their hearts some wonderful spiritual truth and to which they give expression in their letters. Their letters help to fill out the fragmentary account which God's Word gives to us of their lives, and on the other hand the incidents in their lives which God has been pleased to preserve for our edification are wonderful lenses through which to obtain a clearer and better view of the truths to which they have given expression.

Our text throbs with the deepest experiences in the life of Peter. When this aged veteran of the cross of Jesus Christ penned its words, he was living over again for you and for me incidents which had stirred his impulsive soul to its utmost depths. The silver lining to the cloud of his denial which came between his Lord and himself shines forth in our text with rare beauty as we hear the reinstated disciple pleading with his brethren in the faith to give diligence to make their calling and election sure. The palace of the high-priest, the questioning damsel, the black lie and foul oath, the reproachful look of his fettered and soldier-guarded Lord, and his wail of heart anguish on the darkness of the night air, all come crowding on memory's canvas as he earnestly points out in the preceding verses the safe and shining way along which there could be no such stumbling and falling as had come into his experience, "for," he says, "if ye do these things, ye shall never fall." And then he hears again the words of Jesus: "Feed My lambs. Tend My sheep. Follow Me!" and he feels anew the emotion that swelled in his soul that morning before Galilee's lake as he realized that Jesus was swinging wide the doors of His Kingdom to him and giving him abundant entrance to the place from which he felt his denial had shut him out forever. And with the stirring of his soul, his faithful hand writes to you and to me that "an entrance shall be ministered unto you abundantly into the everlasting Kingdom of our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ." Our text issues not from the bare, narrow walls of the cloister of a monastery, but it echoes with the footsteps of Peter as he walked the streets of Jerusalem on that dreadful night, as he went with fearful heart to the tomb on resurrection morning, and as he stood in the presence of His risen Lord and received His rebuke and His forgiveness. Surely we may well sit in Peter's school and learn the true meaning of the call to service in the Kingdom of Jesus Christ!

The Call to Service.—It came to Peter away back in the early days of Jesus' ministry, when he met Him and heard His words: "Follow Me." It comes to every soul as it meets Jesus and He quickly calls: "Follow Me, follow Me." But it is not the call which Peter emphasizes, but the making of that calling and diligent effort. Here we have the other side of the matter. The call of God is universal, for He would have all men to be saved and to come to the knowledge of the truth. But His election is sure, for in His infinite wisdom and knowledge of God understandeth the end of man from the beginning, and He makes no mistakes or blunders. The finite mind of man cannot compass the doctrine of election, or how it can be reconciled with the doctrine of free grace, but, as it has been beautifully expressed, they are like the two sloping sides of a roof, we know they meet, though the point of union is hidden from our view in the mysterious glories of eternity. From God's point of view the election precedes the call; from man's side of the case, the call is heard and obeyed before the fact of the election is realized. As Henry Ward Beecher once said: "The elect are the 'whosoever will,' and the non-elect are the 'whosoever won't.'" Only God knows into which division man is going to cast himself by the exercise of the power of choice, which God has given to him. And as we have already said, our text considers the matter from man's standpoint, and Peter may well admonish us: "Wherefore the rather, brethren, give diligence to make your calling and election sure."

A Good Start.—It is comparatively easy to make a good start, but the start is not the finish. Between the two, there may be many a failure and many a fall. It is a long, weary journey, sometimes, from the point where the call is first heard to the time when the call is realized to be the supreme purpose and privilege of life. But a good start is important, and the failure and fall, the wandering and backsliding which may come before the soul is fixed steadfastly in its purpose towards God must not and need not become an insurmountable barrier cutting the soul off from a realization of its earlier hopes and aspirations. Peter made a good start. He heard the call of the Master as he fished by the lake of Galilee, and leaving all he followed the Christ through the three brief years of His ministry. He drank in the spiritual truths as they dropped from the Master's lips, and he beheld the mighty miracles which testified that Jesus was the Son of God, and the One sent to be the Saviour of the world. When the controversy grew sharp among the multitudes as to who Jesus was and the disciples were asked: "But Whom say ye that I am?" Peter quickly and boldly declares: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." When Jesus warned Peter that he was to deny Him before the morning light gilded the dome of the temple with its glory, he was vehement in his protestations of loyalty, declaring that he was willing to die with Him. But when the awful fury of the betrayal and trial of Jesus burst upon them, overconfident Peter fell before the prying question of a maiden and thrice over denied that he knew the Christ, and the vile oath stained his lips in his effort to convince his questioners. It was a terrible fall before a terrible temptation. His first call to service by the Master and his three years of tutelage seemed as naught to him now as he went out into the blackness of the night and wept tears of bitter repentance. The possibility of further service for the Master, of even the slightest association and fellowship with Him, seemed closed forever. Peter stood where every backsliding, turn-coat Christian is standing or has stood. The good start made when the call of Jesus came to the soul, and it surrendered to Him, or obediently turned and followed Him, has been succeeded by the period of failure and disloyalty, which began at the point where self-interest was allowed to dominate in the life and which had its full fruitage in the final denial. And when the soul awakened to a realization of its failure bitter anguish crushed with its load and all was felt to be lost. The period between the death and resurrection of Jesus must have been full of awful dread and suspense to poor Peter, and not until his Lord appeared unto him was a new hope revived in his heart. It is at this point that the calling and election of God are made sure. When the heart is humbled and broken as a consequence of repentance after the failure and the fall Jesus always comes and reveals Himself anew to that soul. It is the first step to reinstatement. In the verse preceding the ones of our text Peter speaks of a class of so-called Christians, who, have failed to seek with diligence to make their calling and election sure and have as a consequence become blind and unable to see afar off and have even forgotten that Jesus had purged them from their sins. It is not to these that Jesus appears and revives the hope of a new and sure call, for they are blind and would be unable to see Him; they are unrepentant, and not in a position to receive His full and free forgiveness. But he who walks with Peter over the hard stones of repentance and waits patiently through the dark days which follow failure and disloyalty will be rewarded by a new vision of his Lord and a new call to service.

Days of Diligent Seeking.—Those were days of diligent seeking for Peter after he was granted a vision of his Lord. He gives us a hint of what he was seeking for in the fourth verse, where he speaks of the exceeding great and precious promises, which, believed, would enable one to become a partaker of the Divine nature. That which he says he wants to do for you and me in the thirteenth verse, "stir you up, by putting you in remembrance," was exactly what was taking place in his heart during those days of doubt and conflict. His conscience was stirring up his memory, and every word of Jesus which he could recall which bore on his special case and his special need was cherished and became the sure foundation of his confidence, so that when Jesus again appeared to the disciples at the lake of Galilee and John told him it was Jesus on the shore, he could not wait for the boat to land, but his impatience to reach the side of his Lord impelled him to cast himself into the sea and wade to shore. He knew that he was not cast off, for Jesus had said "him that cometh unto Me I will in no wise cast out." He knew that he was forgiven his egregious sin, for Jesus had told him during the days of His ministry that every sin would be forgiven man save the sin against the Holy Ghost. He knew that he had salvation, for he remembered that Jesus had said that "whosoever believeth in Him hath everlasting life." Resting on the "exceeding great and precious promises" which he sought out during these long days of waiting he came to understand all this, and so was glad to see Jesus and rushed confidently to Him.

Many Christians there are who have forsaken and denied their Lord, who have proved faithless, who have wandered away from Him and forgotten their first call, and who prolong the days of their mourning and fail to come to the light because they do not with diligence seek among the "exceeding great and precious promises" given to them for help! Are you in the darkness, oh Christian? Do you feel that because of your failure you are shut away from your Lord and that He has no further use for you? Take your Bible and search diligently until you find the promises of God which fit your case. Stand boldly upon them in faith and the clouds will disappear and you will realize that your calling and election are sure in Christ Jesus. I was talking with a dear old Christian the other day whose peace and confidence were disturbed by the harrowing memory of a wicked and ill-spent life. He knew He had salvation in Christ Jesus, and yet the record of the past seemed too great for even the blood of Jesus to wipe out, and not being willing to step in full faith upon the promises of God which gave him complete deliverance he was but a burden and an encumbrance, a gloomy Christian, instead of the happy, joyful Christian who is always found resting upon the "exceeding great and precious promises" of God.

But to return to Peter. He knew he could take his place at Jesus' side again, because the promises of Jesus made him bold to claim the right, but he did not know that he could, nor did he claim the right to, be reinstated to his old place of service and trust in the Master's Kingdom. He was, as was David, willing to be only a doorkeeper in the house of his God. He was willing to be anything, to do anything. And oh, what mighty things God can do with a Christian when He gets him into that position before Him! Here is where failure and defeat are made to glow with a Divine victory, and the soul brought to realize that "all things work together for good to them that love God," even when the "all things" consists of a distressing and wicked failure. Peter stood that morning by his Lord's side a willing instrument for His use. Like the clay in the hands of the potter, he was willing to be molded into any sort of vessel for the Master's service. What a beautiful picture we have here of our Lord's patience and love in dealing with a wayward soul. Jesus, by His thrice repeated question, "Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me?" led Peter back to the point of his failure and by His commands, "feed My lambs," "feed My sheep," He gave him a new start in His service. Here was the call to service. The sure calling which was to have its realization in Peter's subsequent wonderful ministry. And this is the way Jesus deals with every Christian. The backsliding, failing, disloyal Christian may always catch a new glimpse of his Lord through the repentant tears, and as new hope springs in the breast there comes a turning to the promises of God for help and assurance. Then surely follows the coming of Jesus, His leading back to the point of failure, and the reinstatement and renewed call to service.

The Pathway of No Falls.—Peter sets the sign posts that mark the pathway along which there is no stumbling or falling. Out of Peter's ripe experience he learned the way over which it led. He had not always walked along its safe roadbed. Where is there the Christian who has? But even though we fail always to follow the right path, it is comforting to know where it lies, for after the fall the Christian more than ever before realizes the desirability and blessing of traveling the pathway which contains no pitfalls and is not overcast with fogs of doubt and uncertainty. Peter says in the words of our text: "For if ye do these things, ye shall never fall," and by reading the preceding verses we discover the route through which the sure, victorious pathway leads. The starting point is at the cross where faith in the Crucified One cleanses from all sin and gives life to the soul. The next step leads to virtue, and virtue leads on to knowledge, and knowledge to temperance, and temperance to patience, and patience to godliness, and godliness to brotherly kindness, and brotherly kindness to love. What a glorious pathway! Every step of the way lit up by the presence of Jesus, Whose presence makes it possible for the soul to travel over such a perfect way. And to such as walk in the pathway of these attainments, there is no such thing as failure, no such thing as backsliding. "Wherefore," oh, Christian, "give diligence to make your calling and election sure" by walking with Jesus over this glorious pathway, "for," as Peter's swelling heart declares, "so an entrance shall be ministered unto you abundantly into the everlasting Kingdom of our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ."

THEY TRUCKLE TO TRUSTS.

Treasurer Roberts Tries to Fool the People as to the Cause of High Prices.

As a rule the present heads of the government departments and bureaus recognize the trusts as the real power behind the republican throne, and understand what is required of them if they wish to hold onto their jobs. In short, they serve the trusts. Some serve in their official capacity only, others curry favor and promotions by serving with all their faculties at all times. These latter are the wise ones, as is evident from the kind of men appointed to commissions, bureaus, etc.

Treasurer Ellis H. Roberts was undoubtedly right when he told the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science that:

"With all other things equal, large additions to the currency carry up the prices of commodities measured by it."

He then said that "notable advances have taken place in the prices of articles of necessity during the past five years." His estimate of the increased cost of living as 25 to 30 per cent. is undoubtedly too low, however.

Treasurer Roberts would have us infer that these increased prices and higher cost of living is due entirely to the additions to the currency of the country. The increase in gold alone in this country, he said, had averaged $107,783,639 a year since January 1, 1898. He said nothing about the marvelous growth of trusts, since the passage of the Dingley act in 1897, and the probability, amounting almost to a certainty, that most of the advance in prices is due to the monopoly of our markets by these protected trusts. In fact, most of the notable advances can be traced to some trust formed since 1897, or to natural causes, such as poor crops abroad or poor crops at home. Some farm products are selling for less now than in 1897 in spite of the great scarcity abroad. Thus Mr. Roberts mentions wheat as being lower than in 1897.

That the trusts are the real culprits in putting up prices is evident from a consideration of foreign prices. France, England and Germany have increased their gold holdings since 1898 almost as much as has this country. Yet the cost of living in those countries has increased only about one-third as much as here and, in fact, has probably declined considerably during the last two years, in spite of poor crops there, and while it was rapidly rising in our trust-ridden country. Sauerbeck's "index" tables show that prices in England declined five per cent. in 1901, and were only 16 per cent. higher than in 1896. Prices there probably declined further in 1902, although most meat and other products imported from the United States were higher.

It is up to Treasurer Roberts to tell us why, with greatly increased currency, both here and abroad, prices have not risen almost as much there as here. "With all other things equal," he said. Will he please tell us what other things, that might affect prices, were as unequal in this period as the growth of trusts here and abroad?

No, he will not. He prefers to play the sycophant and to apologize for trusts. He says:

"Great corporations cannot throttle competition; they arouse it on a larger scale. The giants among them promise moderate prices with a view to steady profit."

Here is trust truckling for you. He well knows that great trusts do throttle competition and charge immoderate prices. He knows what the beef and coal trusts did in 1902, for he must have read the reports of the Washington (city) committees that investigated these trusts. He must know that the railroad and coal mining companies in control of the anthracite mines have stopped competition almost absolutely, and are charging prices limited only by the competition from other products and by the fear of the wrath of an outraged people. He is, perhaps, no worse than most others above and below him in the government employ. All recognize and serve their real masters, the trusts that contributed the funds, that carried the elections, that put the republican administration in power. They will ever remain faithful to their trusts and will always be ready, at command, to fool the people by throwing statistical dust into their eyes or by injecting official sophistry into their heads, whenever the trusts think there is serious danger of trouble to their monopolies.

UNDER THE AUSPICES OF THE CAT.

SPARE THE HOLY TAXES.

The Tariff Must Not Be Touched, Lest We Take Something from the Trusts.

It is interesting to note that while Secretary Shaw recognizes the evil of locking up money in the treasury and proposes to remedy it by facilitating the deposit of public money with national banks neither he nor the president suggests the one natural and proper complete cure, says the Chicago Chronicle.

That is to say, neither of them suggests that the lock-up be prevented by not taking from the people and putting into the treasury more than is needed for public purposes. That is the perfectly obvious and natural thing to do. Yet neither of them suggests it. Why?

Because the use of this remedy for a recognized evil would necessarily involve either increased expenditure or a reduction of taxes.

The former would not do, for it might be very unpopular to increase expenditures which are already enormous. If the latter were proposed it would be impossible to suppress those who wish to abolish or reduce the duties which shelter monopoly, and their demand would bring down the sky with a terrific crash.

What! Touch the inviolable tariff or even point a sacrilegious finger at it? Has not Mr. Roosevelt said in his message that "the mere threat (not to speak of the performance)" to "dislocate" our wonderful system of monopoly shelter "would produce paralysis in the business energies of the country?"

Outrageous! Would anybody utter such a threat and strike down the business energy of the country with paralysis? Anybody so abandoned as to do such a thing should be consigned to torment without hope of reprieve. Therefore there must not be even an official whisper of such a thing as relieving the treasury glut by reducing the taxes.

Taxes must not be touched lest we stab prosperity and bring ruin and desolation upon a land rolling in tariff abundance—or abundance or tariff. Such treason is not to be tolerated for an instant in deed or even in word or in thought.

FREE BEEF, FREE COAL.

Mass Meeting in Boston Demands Both as a Starter Towards Fair Treatment.

A tremendous mass meeting was held in Faneuil hall on December 30. It was called under the auspices of the American Free Trade league. The audience stood on its hind legs and yelled its approval of the most vehement arraignments of the coal, beef and other trusts. Some of the speakers were Gen. Hazard Stevens, Robert Treat Paine, Jr., Rev. Edward A. Horton, Hon. Eugene N. Foss, Col. Norman F. Hesseltine, Hon. Charles S. Hamlin and Samuel W. Meadum.

Among other things Mr. Hesseltine said:

"Our secretary of the navy has said that the duty on coal was a fraud. The secretary of the treasury has illegally directed custom house officials to neglect the levy. If it was a good thing why was the tax fraudulently imposed and its assessment illegally abated? Since it is a fraud shame on those congressmen who are responsible for it."

Mr. Samuel W. Meadum said:

"The duties on meats are maintained by and for the money oligarchy which controls the American meat market. In other words this is not a question of free trade or protection, but a question of right or wrong." * * *

Do our great beef packers need the protective duty when they sent abroad last year $44,000,000 worth of beef and $13,000,000 worth of pork? On the other hand, do not the people need free beef and pork when domestic beef are scarce and high? An instance: A cargo of foreign meat arrived at New York this last fall, paid a duty of two cents a pound, and sold at a profit. Now, the United States government did not need this money, and every unnecessary tax collected of the people is extortion."

—The St. Paul Pioneer-Press compares the present flood of anti-trust bills to the anti-anarchy bills which were introduced after President McKinley's assassination, but came to nothing. "With all these physicians ready to prescribe," it says, "it is doubtful whether congress will accomplish much more than it did in the case of the anti-anarchy furore." There was at least sincerity in the crusade against the anarchists, but as for the trusts—well, everybody knows how hostile a republican congress is likely to be against the trusts!—Albany Argus.

IN HIGH POLITICAL OFFICE.

Mr. Ware, commissioner of pensions, was not much inclined to accept the position when it was first offered him. He told President Roosevelt so, saying: "I don't like that job." The president frankly answered: "I assure you, Mr. Ware, that the longer you have the place the less you will like it, but still I urge you to accept."

Congressman Loudenslager came upon a party of friends in a cafe and said to them, with appearance of some excitement: "Ever hear of this fellow who can stick out his tongue and touch his ear?" All declared such a thing to be impossible. "Oh, no it isn't. Why, I can do it," said the man from New Jersey. Everybody present made a bet with him on the subject, and then Loudenslager won all around by sticking out his tongue and touching his ear with his finger.

Senator Heitfeld, of Idaho, says that when he was campaigning last fall in that state he did a good deal of traveling in a buggy. One day a wheel came off his conveyance and he went to a near-by farmhouse owned by a huge Swede. "Can you tell me where I can find a monkey wrench?" asked the senator. The farmer looked at him gravely for a moment and replied: "This bin a sheep ranch. 'Bout two mile over thar you find Ole Hansen's cattle ranch. Don't know whar you find monkey ranch."

Mr. Bowen, the American minister to Venezuela, has been in the consular service for a dozen years. He is a son of the late Henry C. Bowen, of the New York Independent. He was transferred to his present post from Spain, where, as consul at Barcelona, he got a good insight into Spanish character. Besides being a diplomat he is a poet, a fighter and a linguist, speaking French, Italian and Spanish. Born in New York, he was educated in Germany, Italy and France before entering Yale and the law school of Columbia university. When he was a student at Yale he had a little difficulty with a tutor on matters not affecting his scholarship and he was graduated somewhat prematurely. Minister Bowen has achieved an honorable distinction in the public service, besides writing a book on international law which is rated of standard quality.

CHURCH AND CLERGY.

A careful count of church attendance in the borough of Manhattan—that is, in New York city proper—showed an average of 74,000 Protestant adults against 279,000 Catholic adults attending church in the morning on three consecutive Sundays. And yet there are, we suppose, twice as many nominal Protestants as Catholics in that city.

When Bishop Thoburn went to India, 35 years ago, a European gentleman pointed out to him a brick pillar, and said: "You might as well try to make a Christian out of that pillar as out of one of these people." To-day there are in India nearly 3,000,000 native Christians, and among them are doctors, lawyers, judges, editors, teachers and business men.

The annual report from the Harput district in Asia Minor shows that the average attendance of the 36 missionary Sunday schools is nearly 4,300, and of the 41 congregations almost 5,000. The personnel of the station includes 14 pastors, four preachers, two colporteurs, five Bible women, five other helpers and 60 teachers, a total of 90 besides the 36 native teachers in Euphrates college.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS.

SOUTHERN FORAGE CROP.

Japan Clover Hay Is Highly Prized for All Kinds of Stock by the Texas Station.

The botanical name is Lespedeza striata. Of it a bulletin of the Texas station says: This is a summer-growing plant that thrives on most of the light soils found between the Trinity river and the Carolinas, throughout the gulf states. It is strictly a southern forage plant, and will not thrive north of the latitude of Kentucky. Seeds have been distributed all over the south from an original shipment that was received at Charleston, S. C., some years ago. Birds, winds and all classes of live stock have been instrumental in scattering the seed westward. When this weed first makes its appearance in a community it is looked upon as a small weed and causes some discussion on account of its salivating effect upon horses. After a year or two, this tendency to salivate disappears and the new clover is recognized as a valuable forage crop to the community. In other instances, progressive stockmen buy the seeds and plant them in the community, where seeds have not been distributed by natural means, and these, in turn, are disseminated throughout the soils to which the plant is suited by the agencies mentioned.

Seed should be sown in late spring—either upon well-prepared land or the moist, protected soils of partial woodland. Usually, a peck to one-half bushel of seed per acre is planted in April and May, often in March. The plant grows slowly at first, but with a fair amount of rainfall it will establish itself and will remain green through severe droughts until frost. The slow start at first that occurs during July and August is often overlooked, but the plant seeds the land abundantly... and the crop of clover will repeat itself annually, if soil and seasons are favorable. In many portions of the older states, where the crop has been grown and cared for, Lespedeza hay is highly prized for all kinds of stock, and its reclaiming influence upon worn-out soils is highly appreciated.

USE OF WIDE TIRES.

A Matter That Is of Vital Interest to the Preservation of Roads in Good Condition.

One of the greatest aids to better roads is the use of wider tires on the wagons. No matter what kind of material is used for the construction of the road, the width of the tire is of vital importance. It is also vastly to the interest of almost every farmer from an economic standpoint to have at least a three or four inch tire in place of the old fashioned narrow tire. The loads will draw more easily about his fields and on almost all kinds of roads. The wide tired wheels are much stronger and more lasting and present much less trouble in the shape of loose tires. In many sections their economic advantages are being recognized and they are rapidly replacing the narrow tire. This transition should be hastened as rapidly as possible. All new purchases should be of the wide sort. So thoroughly has the relation of wide tires to good roads been recognized abroad that laws have been passed regulating the width of tires. In Germany four-inch tires are required. In France traffic tires must be from three to ten inches wide, according to the weight of the load, and the front axle must be shorter than the rear axle, to prevent "tracking." In Austria wagons carrying more than two and a quarter tons are required to have tires at least four and one-third inches wide and every load over four and a half tons must be carried on tires of six and one-fourth inches in width.—Prairie Farmer.

Farms in Dismal Swamp.

A group of Ohio capitalists, incorporated as the Virginia Land and Lumber company, has purchased 10,000 acres of land in Dismal Swamp from the Wallace company. They have made complete plans to clear up and drain the land, expecting to sell it to settlers from Ohio. They have already constructed a large lumber mill and are employing a hundred hands in turning out great quantities of lumber. Houses are already being built, and soon prosperous farms will exist where now there are only tangled swamps. The land is naturally exceedingly fertile.

MANAGING MILK COWS.

Much of the Dairyman's Success with His Stock Depends on Careful, Regular Milking.

I wish to give you a few hints on milking cows. The farm hand who knows how to milk properly is more valuable to the careful dairyman than any other help. To milk a cow requires time and patience. The milk should be drawn slowly and steadily. Some cows have very tender teats, and if you want a well-disposed cow, be gentle in your treatment toward her, as she is naturally impatient and does not like rough handling. With constant irritation she will fall in quantity of milk. As the udder becomes filled with milk she is anxious to be relieved of its contents and will seldom offer resistence without a cause. When a patient cow becomes fractious we can always trace it to the milker. Note this: We should not allow them to stand a long time waiting to be milked. To cows give a large quantity of milk it is very painful when the udder has filled to the utmost therefore causing them to become very nervous and restless. To delay milking at the proper time will do more to cause a cow to go dry before her period than anything else. She should also be milked to the last drop, if possible, for the last portion of milk is said to be the richest. Still another point: There are many ways of conducting a dairy. Among these are: Wholesome food, such as wheat bran, cottonseed meal. Always be careful to keep the cows well salted, protected from bad weather, giving kind handling, careful milking, regular feeding, clean stabling, good ventilation and plenty of pure water. In some sections we have what is called bitter weed, which cows are fond of, causing the milk to become so much affected that it is hardly fit for use. I find that by giving the cow about two tablespoonfuls of sugar at each meal for two or three days the milk is entirely relieved of the bitter taste.—Barnum's Midland Farmer.

SIMPLE CHEESE PRESS.

It Can Be Made at Home at a Trifling Cost and Will Be Found to Be Very Useful.

Here is a sketch of a cheese press that we have found to be very useful to us and hope that your readers will profit by it; it can be made at a trifling cost. The uprights are 2x4 inch scantling, four or five feet long, with pieces of the same fastened to the bottom for bases; 30 inches from the floor stout cleats are nailed firmly to the uprights, upon which rests a two-inch plank, which serves as a table; upon this plank is a cheese hoop with a cheese inside to be pressed; above this is a stout strip (2x4) with ends resting in mortises cut in the uprights; this strip should be five or six feet in length; under it, in the center, is a block which rests upon a round follower the exact size of the cheese to be pressed. The power is furnished by the eccentrics, or arms, which are merely levers with unequal circular ends; these work on a bolt which pierces the circle near the top; to the ends of the arms fasten strings, which are tied to the side of the table to maintain the pressure. When the cheese is placed in the hoop, the follower and block adjusted, by pulling down on the eccentrics a pressure of any required degree is applied upon the cheese. Both the board and strip being elastic, the pressure is maintained as long as required.—Jacob Harper, in Epitomist.

The Coloring of Butter.

Since butterine is sold under its natural color the makers of winter butter have found the look of color in their product somewhat detrimental to its sale or longlive they have so found. Some are advocating coloring all the butter to resemble June butter and thus distinguish it from butterine. This is a point of not so much value as some might suppose. There is not the same reason for coloring butter uniformly as there was to color butterine to resemble butter. Yellow butterine was sold for butter. White butterine is not sold for butter, and is not likely to be. Even the whitest of butter does not look like butterine. We do not attach much importance to the question of coloring butter, and believe the less color used the better.—Farmers' Review.

Cleaning Dairy Utensils.

To clean tin utensils properly rinse them in lukewarm water. Never allow the milk adhering to the vessel to dry, as it is hard to remove it then. Scrub the vessels in hot water with some cleaning material, such as soda or soap, added to it, rinse in clean hot water, and finally expose utensils to live steam, if possible, or put into boiling water for a somewhat longer time. If vessels are treated to live steam, they will dry quicker. After washing, remove to a place where the atmosphere is pure, and which is exposed to sunshine.—Robert Weldig, in Farm and Home.

THE BOY TURNED OUT.

Knowledge Gained at First Hand, in His Case, Was Not Easily Forgotten.

He was a boy of 12 who was at the zoo with his father to see the sights, and as they stood before the cage occupied by the chimpanzee the boy inquired:

"Father, do them things like boys?"

"Mebbe they do, my son," replied the father; "but I guess I wouldn't git too near."

"But that one wants to shake hands."

"Yes, he pears to; but I wouldn't shake."

"Don't you think he wants to be friends?"

"Mebbe so, but you kin jest wink at him to let him know how you feel."

That didn't exactly satisfy the boy, however. The "chim" insisted on reaching out his black paw for a friendly grip, and while the father's back was turned the lad extended his hand, says the Boston Globe.

Next instant his howls caused a rush of the crowd to see what was the matter, and as he held up a finger which was bitten to the bone and danced about, the father produced a handkerchief to tie it up and explained to the people:

"He's my son Claudius, and he's a great hand to find out things. He's just found out that them critters her teeth, and if he ever gits over this, he won't never want to shake hands with no more monkeys."

The Seaboard Air Line Railway, of Portsmouth, Va., is advertising a beautiful, but comparatively little known, region on the West Coast of Florida in three booklets called "The Land of Manatee." They are issued by the Seaboard, but can scarcely be termed a railroad advertisement, as the only mention of the road is in a brief and modest note printed on the inside of one of the cover pages. They are, in fact, a description of Manatee County, Florida, with some account of its history and its many interesting features which will appeal equally to the general reader, the investor, the fruit and vegetable grower, and to the tourist and sportsman. The author is Mr. Morton M. Cassaday, a writer of experience. The beauty of the Manatee country is well described, and the marvelous fertility of the soil and equally wonderful healthfulness of the climate are told of in a way to leave no doubt in the reader's mind. Manatee county must be the garden spot of all Florida, and the wonder is that it has not sooner been settled and the latent riches of its soil turned into good American dollars. A most charming feature of these booklets is their typographical appearance. They are printed on hand-made paper, and are delightfully illustrated with photographic half-tone plates and ornamented with decorative designs in flat monotones that make them really valuable brochures. Persons interested in Florida, and especially in the possibilities of orange growing and truck gardening below the frost line, will find these booklets not only interesting, but full of valuable and practical information. They may be had from representatives of the Seaboard Air Line Railway, or upon application to the General Passenger Agent, Portsmouth, Va.

This honored pastor, in a recent letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., of Columbus, Ohio, says concerning their famous catarrh remedy, Peruna:

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.

Gentlemen: "I had hemorrhages of the lungs for a long time, and all despaired of me. I took Peruna and was cured. It gave me strength and courage, and made healthy, pure blood. It increased my weight, gave me a healthy color, and I feel well. It is the best medicine in the world. If everyone kept Peruna in the house it would save many from death every year."—H. STUBENVOLL.

Thousands of people have catarrh who would be surprised to know it, because it has been called some other name than catarrh. The fact is catarrh is catarrh wherever located; and another fact which is of equally great importance, is that Peruna cures catarrh wherever located.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

Mr. Pitt looked with something like contemptuous amusement at the collection of oriental curios in his wife's boudoir.

"So that's what you call your Japanese corner, is it?" he said. "It looks like rather a childish business for a full-grown woman to waste her time on."

"Yes," she replied; "it may be somewhat childish, but it's entirely honest and respectable. Can you say as much for the wheat corner you are putting your time and money into building, up?"—Chicago Tribune.

Mamma—"Don't be so selfish. Let your baby brother play with your marbles a little while." Tommy—"But he means to keep them always." Mamma—"O, I guess not." Tommy—"I guess yes, 'cause he's swallered 'em!"—Philadelphia Press.

Why Syrup of Figs is the best family laxative

It is pure.

It is gentle.

It is pleasant.

It is efficacious.

It is not expensive.

It is good for children.

It is excellent for ladies.

It is convenient for business men.

It is perfectly safe under all circumstances.

It is used by millions of families the world over.

It stands highest, as a laxative, with physicians.

If you use it you have the best laxative the world produces.

Because

Its component parts are all wholesome.
It acts gently without unpleasant after-effects.
It is wholly free from objectionable substances.

It contains the laxative principles of plants.
It contains the carminative principles of plants.
It contains wholesome aromatic liquids which are agreeable and refreshing to the taste.

All are pure.
All are delicately blended.
All are skillfully and scientifically compounded.

Its value is due to our method of manufacture and to the originality and simplicity of the combination.

To get its beneficial effects—buy the genuine.

W. L. RIDDELL, - - Publisher.

The London Times calls attention to the fact that the live stock of Great Britain is constantly growing less, and says that the latest statistics show that Great Britain during the year preceding had lost 297,918 head of cattle and 611,494 head of sheep. There was a decline in the number of she animals availing for breeding purposes of 46,168 head, or 1-8 per cent during the year. The number of cows in Great Britain has declined from 2,681,260 in 1899 to 2,556, 126 in 1902. The crop of lambs this season is half a million short of what it was four years ago, and there is a proportionate decline in the hog production. The prospect for an improvement in the breeding industry in Great Britain in the near future is dark. This year there was a partial failure of crops, the corn being especially poor. There is not in the country enough feed to support the present supply of live stock.

A committee from the Royal Statistical Society has been making an investigation of the production and consumption of meat in Great Britain, and the result is so discouraging that it is withholding its report and going over the ground a second time in the hope of finding that a mistake has been made. The figures gathered indicate that the production of meat in the United Kingdom has been greatly overestimated, and that it forms a much smaller ratio to the consumption even than was thought.

Great Britain is yearly increasing its consumption of meats, and now looks to Australia, Argentine and the United States for its supplies. Its home production is a mere drop in the bucket. In fact, the beef producing industry in Great Britain has no future. American refrigerator beef can be laid down in the British capital cheaper than beef can be produced in England, and there are now few persons who do not prefer it to home grown beef. Great Britain's glory as a breeding country is on the wane.

The Indiana Farmer has several times in the past year called attention to the shortage in horses. The Breeder's Gazette calls attention to the same condition, and says:

It is plain that there is a great shortage of work horses in most of the grain-growing States, and when the market in Chicago dipped off a fortnight ago as much as $20 a head some of the planter sorts a number of country buyers appeared eager to take advantage of the decline, momentary though it might be. Some men, even, who were buying feed cattle to take to Indiana, Ohio and States still further east, stopped the purchase of the steers and turned their attention to the horses. There is no doubt that by so doing they made some money and saved their prospective patrons some also but what sort of a condition must the supply be in when such things are done? Horses that will be coming to full age next spring were foaled in 1897-8, therefore got in 1896-7. Now we all remember that there was hardly any breeding done at all in 1896 and 1897, so that there can not be many recruits available for next season. If that means that the supply next year is to be even shorter than it is now and has been during the expired part of 1902 where are prices going to? It certainly looks very much as though we have not yet seen the worst and that a shortage will have to be faced next year that will send prices skyward. There was a time when Indiana and Ohio sent a lot of good horses to market and the same may be said of Michigan Wisconsin and Minnesota. Now shipments of farm workers are being regularly made in all these States, while many districts of Illinois and Iowa are so bare of horses as to require importations from the markets hundreds of pairs of horses will be required next spring in the Dakotas and on the Pacific coast. Where are they all coming from? Will some of our readers undertake to answer this question?

A book agent who has been talking to the county school teachers into buying a costly reference book, is having some trouble on his hands. He was arrested and fined $20 and costs the other day for disturbing a school. The teachers say his plan is to sell them a book and take their notes for it, with a written promise that if the book is not satisfactory by a given time they are to the County Superintendent get their notes back. But he sells them off by discounting the bank, and the teachers have to pay them whether or no. Teachers, as others should be shy of slick-tongued agents, as there is trouble for the unwary. Don't sign any notes or obligations of any sorts. Nine times out of ten they turn up in the hands of a bona fide, innocent purchasers, and if your resources and have to pay whether you have the article or not.

RABBIT HASH.

Jan. 23.—Ben Merrick is laid up with a complication of diseases—back, kidney and stomach troubles.

S. N. Riggs, of McVille, is here putting a new power in the ferry boat.

Mrs. James H. Hastings has been complaining very much for the past few weeks.

The mercury was doing business in the lower ward of the thermometer, last Monday.

Hubert Brady is receiving quite a large quantity of tobacco at the B. C. Calvert warehouse.

Jay Calvert is filling the dual position of floor-walker and porter at S. J. Stephens' general store here.

The McConnell heirs have had the land that belonged to their mother divided, but have not made an allotment.

James (Tucker) Aylor passed through here enroute to Indiana, a few days ago. He says he left his family with plenty of coal.

The annual changing of base will soon begin. Will Hankinson will move to Indiana, near Patriot, in a few days, which will start the procession.

L. L. Stephens has been recommended as Assistant Postmaster General at the office here. He is expecting his commission to arrive any old time.

Joseph Weaver, a Hathaway merchant, has attended several parties in this neighborhood, recently, and some of the boys are looking "kinder" bine because of his winning ways among the girls.

J. Wingate has returned from Peoria, Illinois, where he was employed for 10 months as a brakeman and conductor on a clay car in a brick yard. His looks indicate that he was well cared for at Peoria.

Andrew Jackson Icenogle was here recently on his way back to his home in Illinois. He says he cannot climb the hills of old Boone as he did in his younger days, hence the level country is preferred by him.

Will Craig, who has typhoid fever, is improving under the skillful treatment of Dr. Hopkins, who is very successful with that disease. He has had many cases of typhoid fever since he located here, and has lost none.

Professor Thomas Jefferson Clore, of Bellevue, came down not long since, and gave a graphophone entertainment at the hall. Everything was entirely satisfactory to his "large and appreciative audience," except the awarding of the box of cigars to Dr. Hopkins as the ugliest man in the hall. It was almost a unanimous opinion that Sam Wilson, J. M. Hodges or Cal Riddell should have received that prize. They were so certain that one or the other would win it that they had made arrangements to divide the cigars.

PLATTSBURG.

Farmers are having good luck with their lambs

Mrs. Chas. Hensley has improved very much during the last week.

Miss May Butler, of Cincinnati, is the guest of Miss Lena Messmer.

Lewis Sullivan gave the young people a party, last Thursday night.

R. C. and Elmo Gaines were guests at J. W. Gaines, one day last week.

A two-horse wagon load of Bellevue bon-tons passed the Commissary last Tuesday night. It would have been more to their credit had they passed by more quietly, and not disturbed the peaceful slumbers of the citizens. If it had been a wagon load of the common herd, such conduct would have been perfectly ridiculous.

Benjamin Kelly, of Locust Grove neighborhood, was a guest of Henry Parsons and wife, last Tuesday. He is a great reader, has a good memory, and has a happy faculty of telling what he knows or reads about. They had a spirited discussion as to the number of years that elapsed between the creation and the building of the ark; on politics, and the advertising of property for sale for taxes

Complaints have been made that some of my "visiting items" have been incorrect—that much of the correspondence of the other reporters is "truslv." I always write my items as I understand them, and I go to considerable trouble to collect items, and to have them correct. I do the best I can, and that is all anyone can do. If I was a betting man I would wager a coonskin that the "smarties," who made the complaint of "trashy," cannot do any better, if as well. I don't care what is said about my items, so the lip is kept off of others.

THE DIVINE WOOING.

What God Has Done to Win Sinful Man Back to Himself.

Ransacked by Sin, Man Finds Reconciliation Through Christ Jesus —Sermon by the "Highway and Byway" Preacher.

Chicago, Jan. 25, 1903.

Text:—"Now then we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us; we pray you in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God. For He hath made Him, to be sin for us, Who knew no sin; that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him."—II. Cor. 5:20-21.

A love story with the triune God as the wooer, the world as the object of His affection, and those who have accepted Christ as Saviour and Lord as the ambassadors of God to carry the love messages to the world, which He seeks to win back to Himself. A love story is always readable and fascinating. A true love story more than any other appeals to the human heart. Fiction is all well enough in its place, but there is nothing that stirs as a chapter from real life. There is always added interest and power in a story which we know to be based on facts. Our text is suggestive of love and love's great yearning. Separation has come. The world has been lured and enticed away from the True Lover's side. Reconciliation is sought. The True Lover is willing to sacrifice His greatest treasure to win back the wandering one. Who is there who truly loves who would not be willing to give all in order that the heart hunger might be satisfied? Why, that is the test of love.

Because the mother loves, the hours and days and perhaps months and years which mark the separation of the son or daughter from the shelter of the home, wandering, she knows not whither, are periods of unbroken heart-yearning and anguish. Ah, if the boy would only return home and cease his wanderings! There is nothing she would not give if only she could win him back again.

Because Jacob loved he could serve seven long years to win Rachel to wife, and "they seemed unto him but a few days, for the love he had to her." And when Laban, his father-in-law, dealt deceitfully with him and gave him Leah to wife, instead, love made him patient to serve seven more years for Rachel.

Because the father of the prodigal son loved, not a day went by after the wayward boy left home but that he watched eagerly the roadway for the return of the prodigal from the far country. Love kept him at his post, and when at last one day the straining eyes of the father caught a glimpse of the ragged, wretched boy in the distance, love gave his feet wings as he rushed out to meet him. Love shut his eyes to the rags and disgrace of the young man, and made him keen to see within the penitent heart that beat a prayer for forgiveness. Because of love the father received him back into his old place in the home, because of love he brought out the best robe, and the gold ring, and killed the choicest calf in the herd and made a feast of rejoicing, for the son who was dead was alive again, the son who was lost was found. The days of separation had been days of sorrow and bitterness, but now that the boy was home again, the father's heart sang for joy. There was nothing else on that farm, there was nothing else in all the world that could satisfy the longing of that father's heart. The obedient, faithful son who remained home and proved so dutiful could not fill the place left vacant by the departure of the younger boy. Love for the wayward boy could only be satisfied by the return of the prodigal.

"God is love." The eternal Spirit of Truth has recorded these words, and God's record of Himself and His dealings with man, from Genesis to Revelation, reveal Him as a God of love. God the world's Lover, and as such mourning the separation of the world from Himself by reason of sin, and planning in His eternal purposes to win the world back to Himself. The life experiences of Hosea, the prophet, give us a wonderful illustration of God's relation to the world as a lover. Hosea has fallen in love and wooed and married a woman who, after years of happy married life and when children have come to bless the union, proves untrue to him. Despite his pleadings and his utmost efforts to save her, she deserts her home, her children and her husband and runs after her false lovers. One by one they desert her as she sinks lower and lower in her life of iniquitous pleasure, until at last she reaches the very depths of iniquity and is found a slave offered for sale upon the market. Then it is that the constancy and true love of Hosea is revealed, as with breaking and yearning heart he seeks her out and buys her from her masters at the price which they have set upon her.

When God created man in His own image and placed him in the garden spot prepared for him, all was joy and peace as long as Adam and Eve continued to dwell in the realm of God's will. God, as the True Lover, delighted to come down in the cool of the day and commune with this sinless pair. But the day came when the sanctity of the garden home was violated and the human heart ruthlessly thrust aside the claims of the True Lover and prostituted itself to a false lover, and gave free reign to self-will. The word of the True Lover was doubted and denied, and the enticing promises of the false were allowed to lure away into the paths of sin, which led outside the garden. The garden home was disrupted, the sacred union which had existed between God and His children was destroyed, and the world turned to its own way in seeking its false loves, while God followed and sought to win it back to Himself. And God found the world in the slave market of sin. The price of death must be paid to redeem the world, and He paid the price in the gift of His Son, who, as our text declares, became "sin for us, Who knew no sin; that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him."

As century after century has come and gone since sin entered into the world, separating from God, God has patiently and persistently continued His wooing. Do you know what love unrequited is? It means that the one upon whom the heart's affections have been centered has not responded to the flow of love. The heart hunger takes the inspiration out of life. The heart is breaking with its grief. Human emotions may serve to help us understand the great, infinite love wherewith God has loved us and longed for us. The management of a universe could not divert the heart of God from the lost world. In the unseen realms of Heaven He had hosts of angels to do His good pleasure, but all the peace and joy and glory of the Heavenly places could not give His heart rest or satisfy His love. Not even the love of Jesus Christ, His Son, could satisfy the longing of the Father. And Jesus Christ felt the heart throbs of God for the world, and He so loved God the Father and so loved the lost world that He was willing to leave all the glory in Heaven in order that He might help God in His wooing. The world was separated forever from God because of sin. That barrier had to be swept away before man could be won back to God. The wages of sin is death. The penalty of sin must be paid as the price of reconciliation. And therefore Jesus, the Sinless One, offered Himself as man's substitute and became sin for us, that "we might be made the righteousness of God in Him."

And if we would understand the manner of the wooing of God, we must study the attributes of the Lover Himself. In human love affairs the character and temperament of the lower determines to very large degree the methods which he will follow in winning the object of his affections, and it is because of what God is and what He longs for that the wooing of the world back to Himself is so faithfully and completely accomplished.

God is a righteous Lover, and as such He cannot permit or countenance unrighteousness in the object of His affections. He hates sin with an eternal hatred which has planned the ultimate and utter destruction of the devil and his angels in the lake of fire. Fellowship and communion of man with man is dependent upon similarity of tastes and of aspirations. There can be no fellowship and communion between God the Lover and the world, the object of His affections, while its desires are centered upon the things of time and while its aspirations reach not higher than the human life. God, the righteous Lover, cannot swerve one hair's breadth from the eternal truth of His word. Love with Him does not mean blindness. It is not the weak, devilish human substitute for true love which covers up and condones sin and wrongdoing on the part of the object of the affections. God is the righteous Lover who must punish sin and Who chastens His people, Who sends upon them pestilence and famine, and cruel captivity when they wander from Him and indulge in sin. God, the righteous Lover, cannot abide in the dwelling place of sin, and the world cannot come to Him until it is cleansed from all unrighteousness, and for this He has marvelously provided by the sacrifice of His Son.

God is a jealous Lover, and jealousy along the line of His righteous will is another kind of jealousy than that which surges in the human heart and so often has its full fruitage in blind passion and black crime. God's jealousy is measured by His intense love and He cannot be satisfied with a divided affection in return. Where is the part-hearted lover who is willing to share the affections of his heart's idol with some one else? He wants all the heart and devotion of the one whom he loves, and her whispered confession that there is none whom she loves as she loves him sends the thrill of joy coursing through every nerve in his body. He is not content with just a part of her love and devotion. He wants it all. It is his right to expect and demand it. And is God any the less jealous as a lover? Would the human heart dare to say that He had less right to claim that degree of love and devotion which human relationships recognize and demand? God is the jealous Lover because He wants and has a right to ask for and expect our best love and because He knows that the life that dwells within the realm of His will and His activity is the happiest and best life, and would the true lover ever desire less for the object of his affections?

And God is a just and merciful Lover. Just in that His righteousness demands the punishment of sin, and merciful in that the sinner is delivered from the consequences of his sin. God could not change His judgment of death pronounced against sin, but His infinite love and mercy could work out through the ages a marvelous plan of salvation, so that the judgment blow fell not upon man but upon man's willing substitute for sin, the perfect man Christ Jesus. The true lover always plans for his loved one so that his gifts will not bring trouble or reproach upon her. I was reading the other day of a young man who had been tempted to steal from his employer that he might bestow upon the object of his affections rare and costly presents. His giving compromised the young woman and landed him in jail. He was not a just and merciful lover, else he would not have departed from the path of honesty and thus brought disgrace upon himself and humiliating notoriety upon his loved one. And when God began to plan for the winning back to Himself of the world lost in trespasses and sins, His pure love would not permit Him to violate truth and righteousness, but He must needs plan along the line of justice. Sin must be punished by death, and so love found its expression along the line of His perfect righteousness and justice, and "He gave His only begotten Son" to become "sin for us, Who knew no sin, that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him." And thus was realized the declaration of the Psalmist who says: "Mercy and truth are met together; righteousness and peace have kissed each other."

And so God, the world's Lover, is righteous according to the unchangeableness of His eternal truth and Holy Will; He is jealous with a jealousy as pure and intense as His love; He is just with a justice which compelled the complete punishment of sin, and He is merciful with a mercy which made Him willing to give His Son as a sacrifice for sin. Oh, what wonderful and complete provision God has made for sinful man! Yes, God in His wooing has bridged the chasm which separated the world from Him. The way of reconciliation has been made plain, and now we who rejoice in that reconciliation, we who have walked down the delightful lover's lane of God's Word and way, beseech you in Christ's stead "be ye reconciled to God!"

God's wooing of the world.—What a theme! God's wooing carried on through human agencies.—What an exalted privilege! Ambassadors of Jesus Christ sent on the greatest mission ever committed to the hands of men or angels! We have not time to dwell upon this thought or to develop it. It is worthy a sermon of itself. But, Oh, we do want to say a word which will awaken the Christian heart to a realization of its great privilege and responsibility. Ambassadors for Christ! Then we cannot serve self or the world. Jesus Himself plainly said: "Ye cannot serve God and mammon." If we belong to Jesus Christ by faith in Him and cleansing in His shed blood, then we are His ambassadors. What a contempt we have for a traitor, for one who, when in the service of one person, turns about and betrays his trust into the hands of another! And, oh, how many Christians have forgotten their high calling in Christ Jesus, and are betraying their trust! As ambassadors of Jesus Christ we are sent into the world on one mission—that of telling the love message of God and seeking to win lost souls. The ambassador must know intimately the one who has sent him on his mission. Do you, oh ambassador of Jesus Christ, know your Lord intimately? The ambassador must come direct from the presence of the king, as he goes on his mission; he must receive his last instructions as to just how to carry the mission to a successful issue. As you go upon your mission, oh, ambassador of Jesus Christ, do you come direct from the presence of your Lord, with last instructions to guide you in the task before you? The ambassador must feel and believe his message. Your human love or your human faith will never succeed in winning a soul for God. You must have God's heart of love, you must have His faith, if you would prove a successful ambassador for Him. If we are going to stand in Christ's stead, we must have His love, we must have His faith. Human love can compass this life, but it takes the Divine love to reach into the eternities. Human faith may carry one through life's problem to the edge of the grave, but it takes the Divine faith of Jesus Christ to carry one through the blackness and death of the tomb into the light and glory of the Celestial City. As ambassadors of Jesus Christ we ought to begin to cry to God to give us His love, to fill us with the faith of Jesus Christ, so that we would be equipped for the greatest mission upon which man has ever been sent. Then we shall be able to stand in Christ's stead in the world, and beseech the world to become reconciled to God. And as we carry on the wooing for God, we will find sinful hearts melting like snow under the midday sun. We will find that the spirit of God will wonderfully cooperate with us and aid us as we tell the love story. Oh, Christian, be a true ambassador for Christ! Oh, unsaved soul, "We pray you in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God! For He hath made Christ to be sin for us, Who knew no sin; that we might be made the righteousness of God in Him."

Reason and Love.

It is a love story, and not a system of philosophy. The Gospel is preeminently a heart appeal. Is it therefore an unreasonable thing? No, it is all the more "reasonable" because it is indefinable. The invitation of the Old Testament is: "Come, let us reason together." The cry of the New Testament is: "Come unto Me and I will give you rest." The message of love goes further, sinks deeper, than the message of reason. You may reason out the construction of the rose, but no man yet defined its fragrance; it is an appeal to heart love; the fragrance always baffles our philosophy. The basis of the Gospel appeal is love—not fear, nor reason. The parables of Jesus are love appeals; the lost sheep, the lost son, tell of the Father's heart. The parables always suffer when one attempts to "reason" them out. The world knows enough to depart from evil, but it is love—and not knowledge—that will win the world, if it is ever won.—Baptist Union.

It will be time enough to indict others when we have finished the inventory of our own faults. — Ram's Horn.

SCANDALS IN DEPARTMENTS.

Nearly Every Department of Government Service Needs a Thorough Investigation.

The post office scandals are assuming huge dimensions. Nearly all the higher officials appear to be involved and yet no official investigation has been ordered by the postmaster general.

Perry Heath has come to town to help his former associates to cover up their delinquencies and there are good prospects that Senator Hanna will be as much interested in shielding them as he was in the Rathbone and Neely incident.

For a reform administration, the present one is attaining greater notoriety for scandals in the departments, that have, so far, come to the surface, than any since the second Grant administration.

The commissioner of the general land office has been forced to resign and some minor officials in the same department have been ordered to show cause why they should not be dismissed from the government service.

The customs department of the treasury is being investigated and in addition to the silk frauds, that are now in the courts, a general reorganization of the New York branch of the service has been determined upon, and the development will be far-reaching if an honest administration is desired.

The agricultural department is charged with fixing the crop statistics in the interest of speculation and with dealing out to favored brokers advance information that has proved valuable in rigging the markets for agricultural produce, ahead of the general public. For a long time it has been claimed that the agricultural statistics have been unreliable, and this contention has been made more certain by the discrepancies between the reports of the statistician and those of the census bureau. There is war between the two departments, and if the matter is not hushed up a scandal of magnitude will certainly be developed. The statistical bureaus of the various departments have been proven to be unreliable, to say the least, and investigation has shown that many of the figures have been doctored and fixed to suit the party in power.

The above are a few of the most recent scandals that have come to light and there is no doubt that if an impartial investigation of the departments could be had, the country would be aroused to the necessity of a change of administration.

Nor has the impartial rule in our new island possessions developed any better state of affairs. In Porto Rico, a smuggling scandal has developed and officers of the government are the principal ones implicated. It is also claimed that gross election frauds in that island were perpetrated to keep the government party in power and that no redress or investigation is permitted.

In the Philippines, matters seem to be going from bad to worse, and smuggling and even piracy are occurring within sight of Manila. Pestilence and famine are the added horrors that are now devastating those islands, and their condition is far worse than when under the despotism of Spain.

For a boasted reform administration, the present one is certainly facing an era of scandals that will require a great deal of whitewash to cover up the exposures, or it will sink to the level of the most corrupt one that has ever cursed the people of the United States.

The only way for President Roosevelt to save his own skirts from contamination is to insist on a thorough investigation and, if necessary, turn the Hanna machine politicians, who now have control, out into the cold world from the snug nests they now occupy.

——A notorious mouthpiece of monopoly hints that Senator Hoar's anti-trust bill suggests "a weakening of the rigidly logical facility hitherto enjoyed by the senator." In other words, the monopolists regard as crazy anybody who entertains the idea of interfering with their operations and, considering the attitude of a republican congress and a republican president, they are justified in the belief.—Chicago Chronicle.

A LIVELY MUMMY.

Something That Will Play Havoc with the Crumbling Idols of Protection.

The Washington Post, of January 4, says:

"The Chicago Chronicle's devotion to the decadent, the almost fossilized heresy of free trade is so intense that it never omits a possible opportunity to show its rabid animosity toward the triumphantly vindicated doctrine of protection. Indeed, the Chronicle hunts for such opportunities and invites that temptation, ignoring the abundant proofs that its idol is, for all practical purposes, as dead as the oldest Egyptian mummy."

Free trade is a "fossilized heresy" and an "Egyptian mummy," is it? It never was more animated than now. Not for years has there been as much free—not tariff reform, but radical free trade—talk, both in and out of Washington, as during the past four months. Hundreds of newspapers are demanding that coal, beef, steel, hides and numerous other trust products, be put on the free list. A free trade mass meeting was held in Faneuil hall, Boston on December 30. A great audience yelled itself hoarse for free trade in coal, beef and other articles.

The tariff tax now has more enemies in Boston than the tea tax had when Boston's famous "tea party" was in session. So lively is this free trade mummy that it has aroused the republican party from its Rip Van Winkle slumber. Speaker Henderson got frightened and fled when he saw this "fossilized heresy" approaching under the banner "Iowa idea." Babcock and other republican congressmen are introducing free trade bills as peace offerings to this free trade mummy. If President Roosevelt had thought that free trade was a mummy, instead of a live issue, he would not have advocated free coal in his message to congress.

The free trade mummy is so much alive that it is creating consternation in republican ranks. It will break all of their old protection idols and bric-a-brac fetiches if the republicans try to keep it in their museum of antiquities.

THE HEARTLESS COAL TRUST.

Money That Is Tainted.

Lecturing before the Philadelphia Society of Ethical Culture Mr. John A. Hobson, English economist and sociologist, said:

"Carnegie, Rockefeller and Rhodes, made rich by corrupt bargains with office holders, monopoly of oil wells and pipe lines, control of law courts and politicians, avoidance of taxes, ruthless crushing of independent dealers, control of markets by trusts, tariff protection purchased—is it safe and good to take charity from such men as these?"

This is the question, put in a slightly different form by Prof. Bascom, which is now agitating the pulpit and press of the country. However it may be settled it is certain that the power to advance prices, which these trust barons usually exercise just after they have announced to the world that they are about to give charity to some institution, should be taken from them. It is noticed that they collect from the the people, in enhanced prices, several times the amount to be given in charity. If, after being shorn of the power over prices, they should continue to give millions to subsidize colleges and enslave the professors, we might be more ready to give them some credit for their action, and not suspect that their charity was a cloak to cover their sin of monopoly and extortionate prices.

NOTES OF THE MODES.

Stylish Winter Costumes Are Noticeable for Elaborate Garnitures and Gay Colors.

The very latest tailor-made walking skirts are cut to show the feet to the top of the instep, and are of equal length all around, reports the New York Post.

Sable-brown cloth makes a stylish winter tailor costume, with cream velvet revers trimmed with gold-threaded appliques. The vest is of Persian embroidery outlined with gold. A model in dark Russian-green zibeline decorated with stitched cloth strappings and tailor buttons is an admirable style for a stout woman—the gown, en princesse, with long graduated bands reaching from the shoulder seams down each side of the front to the very edge of the skirt, where they terminate in decorated points.

On handsome cloth or velvet dresses, the garnitures used on the Achu or cape collar and sleeves appear likewise on the hip yoke of the skirt. Embroidery, stitching, and trappings are popular modes of trimming, and the yoke and collar give the gown a quaint and pretty effect. Soutache braid work done at home is another effective and economical mode of decorating the accessories.

Opal gray, sea shell pink, a new becoming tint of pale sage green, Roman red, and Persian mauves, voile, Henrietta cloth, and other beautiful silk warp woois, are made into very charming toilets for demi-dress wear. A number of the newest models are in Directoire styles with open fronts, very picturesque collars and sleeves, and petticoats of moire or figured silk.

The new corduroys in fine winter colorings are used for very pretty walking and traveling costumes, in which the corduroy appears either as a semi-loose Norfolk jacket or a Monte Carlo coat, on suite with one of the new strapped skirts which wears the ground by at least three and one-half inches. The winter invoice of corduroy is a marked improvement on the usual gamekeeper weaves, being light, flexible, and silky of surface. The new qualities in French hands are made to form entire costumes—often in combination with cloth or zibeline of matching color, and fashionable American tailors are using them in making up some very handsome skating costumes.

PROPERLY PUNISHED.

Club Man Relieved His Conscience When His Wife Insisted, Then Was Cured.

He said he had an out-of-town customer to entertain. Perhaps he told the truth; perhaps he did not. At any rate, he broke an engagement with his wife to make a call, and did not get home until after midnight. Of course, he made as little noise as possible, and was soon in bed dreaming, says the Chicago Post.

But those dreams!

He dreamed he was dead and in the place of torment. He could feel flames and hot iron applied to his skin. He moaned and tossed in his sleep to such an extent that he woke up his wife, but she said nothing. Finally he woke up with a start. It was no dream. He was actually burning up.

"Lizzie," he said, weakly, "I guess this is the finish."

"O, I guess not," she replied.

"I'm suffering the torments of the damned," he asserted.

"Perhaps you deserve it," she replied.

"I tell you," he protested, "I'm burning up; I'm blistered. I never knew a fever to get a grip like this on a fellow."

"O, it isn't a fever," she returned; "it's probably your conscience."

He was suffering too much to note the raillery in this.

"Get a doctor," he moaned. "I must have some relief."

"Relieve your conscience and you'll be all right," she answered. "Where were you to-night?"

"Don't torture a man," he expostulated.

"Where were you to-night?" she repeated.

"At the club. But Lizzie—"

"Answer my questions truthfully, and I'm sure you'll gain relief. If you won't I'll get a doctor. Did you have an out-of-town customer there?"

"No."

"What did you do?"

"Played poker."

"What did you drink?"

"Seven or eight highballs."

"Is that the whole truth?"

"O, Lizzie, yes; but, for heaven's sake—"

"Do you feel any better now?"

"Not a bit."

"Well, if you'll take the mustard plaster out of the pocket of your nightshirt I think you will," she answered calmly. "I told you if you'd relieve your conscience you'd be all right."

Salmi of Tongue with Olives.

Brown two tablespoonfuls of butter in a saucepan; add two tablespoonfuls of flour and brown again. Pour in one pint of stock or water, and stir until thick and smooth. Add one tablespoonful of Worcestershire, salt and pepper to taste, one pint of boiled tongue, cut in neat pieces, two dozen olives, stoned, and simmer for 15 minutes. Take from the fire, add two tablespoonfuls of sherry or Madeira and serve.—Table Talk.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS

USEFUL TREE INDEED.

Its Pith Is Being Used as a Candle and Sheep Feed by Farmers in the Antipodes.

We herewith reproduce from the Australasian a cut of the "bottle tree," which is now being used as fodder in Australia. According to some reports only the pith of the tree is used as feed; according to others all of the tree inside the bark is edible for cattle, and the branches also are utilized in this way. We quote from a Brisbane (Queensland, Australia,) paper: The value of the bottle tree as fodder for stock during times of drought has been brought under the notice of the agricultural department by Mr. E. Bowman, of Bauhinia vale, Taroom. He states that a trial was first made by a neighbor, Mr. Bowman was cutting down a tree for the leaves, when the sheep began to run after the chips, and so the tree was opened up with the result, he says, that every head of stock "went mad over it." Mr. Bowman, although he has no grass, has bought 900 merino ewes on the strength of the discovery. Lambs eat it as well as the old sheep. An instance is given of a 15-year-old pet wether, without a tooth, growing fat since eating the tree. Any kind of stock will eat the wood after a little use of it. Mr. Bowman considers that it will soon be carried on the railway at fodder rates. He stated that cows which were almost dry from want of condition are now not only fat and strong, but are giving a good yield of milk. Bottle trees often contain from 50 to 100 tons of fodder. There are plenty of bottle trees within easy reach of the railways. Mr. Bowman believes that hundreds of stock can be saved with it. The trees will keep for months in the log with the bark on. The tree is allied to the Gouty stem tree (Adansonia Gregorii), being thickened below, tapering upwards, or often swollen in the middle to the extent of 30 to 40 feet in circumference, with an apparently small tree growing out of its apex, so that it has been compared to the neck of a bottle. The gouty stem is soft and porous, and contains much mucilaginous gum, which is readily obtained by pressure, and is used as an article of food by the natives. It is also called barrell tree.

Profit in Large Flocks.

If a man can make a reasonable profit out of ten hens, and there can be no question but what he can, there is no reason why he cannot make 100 times as much out of a thousand hens, provided he gives them the same care and attention. Few, however, are prepared to do this, and it is for this reason that so many failures occur with a greater number. With large range, a few hens will take care of themselves and make up for a good deal of neglect that would prove fatal to success with a large number That there is money in poultry no one can doubt, but to get the most out of it one must have experience and learning sufficient to enable him to use feed, labor and all to advantage.—O. P. Bennett, in Farmers' Review.

Thoroughbred and Scrub.

In point of feed it costs less to maintain and mature a thoroughbred or high grade steer than a scrub; no more space for shelter is required for the one than the other, but the one of good blood can be put into marketable shape earlier, presents a better appearance and commands a higher market price than the scrub. And aside from a consideration of relative financial results there is a great deal more pleasure in caring for neat, compact, thrifty and handsome cattle than there is in "coaxing" a lot of angular, scrawny, coarse-haired scrubs.—C. R. Gentry, in Ruralist.

The Horse and His Feet.

Each time the horse comes into the stable the feet should be lifted and cleaned out with a hook. Where this is done there will be far fewer cases of nail prick, for it is a very common thing for a nail to lie alongside of the frog, or in the cleft, doing no harm until the horse happens to tip the nail in pawing; then it is stepped upon and the mischief is done. This practice also saves horses from becoming troubled with "thrush," for the disease is noticed at its inception and is then easily cured by application of calomel and the more careful cleansing of the stable.—Rural World.

WHAT AILS THE PIGS?

A Question That Cannot Always Be Answered to the Satisfaction of Anxious Inquirers.

Pigs get out of fix and it is usually through some disarrangement of the stomach. There are some general rules that should be observed at all times for the purpose of protecting the health of the herd. A profitable hog that is ready and eager to eat must, therefore, be a healthy hog. A great deal of the trouble with pigs and hogs is occasioned by constipation. This is the beginning of their troubles that later are not so easily removed, says American Swineherd.

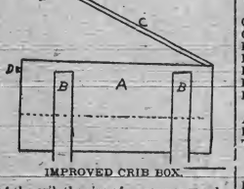
It is therefore one of the first things in looking after your hogs' health to prevent constipation. Of course, a hog may be all right in the bowels and yet become afflicted. But it is the exception and not the rule. It takes vigilance at all times to preserve the health of the hog. Adopt cleanly methods about the pens and feeding troughs. Have a dry place for them to sleep in. Don't expose them to draughts in their sleeping quarters. Don't overfeed. Don't make sudden changes of feed. Give them charcoal and ashes or charred cobs. Spread lime around their sleeping quarters and feed troughs.

When a pig is off his feed there is something wrong, and you want to get him back there as quick as possible. Don't do it by trying to force him to eat. On the other hand, take away his feed and if constipated give him a physic. Look out for worms, prevent lice, provide him with plenty of fresh water, plenty of salt and ashes, plenty of range and if he gets sick the percentage of exceptions are small.

The sick hog is an unprofitable hog. If you doctor him it costs money, it costs time and it causes loss of gain in the hog. It takes a great deal of extra feed to get him started again to the point where his health failed him. Therefore it is far better to spend a little time in preventing these ailments by careful watchfulness.

THE CRY FOR BONE.

To Improve Hogs Along This Line Care in Feeding and Judicious Treatment Are Necessary.



We hear a heap about bone in hogs, and it may be worth while to think a little about it. If some of those who write about more bone and how to get it would think a little more their articles would not mislead so much. We are told over and over, says the National Stockman, and many people actually believe, that the modern hog is "deficient in bone," and that we must turn to some big, coarse-boned strain to correct this defect.

There are two kinds of deficiency in bone. One is a lack of quantity and the other is a lack of quality. There are few domestic animals that have too little bone, but there are many that have too weak bone. The way to improve the bone is not to breed to increase its size but to feed to increase it's strength. In so doing the size will be increased somewhat. Rational care will also do much to improve the quality of bone. The brood sows and the sire should have plenty of exercise, they should be fed well-balanced foods, they should have access to the earth or to substitutes therefore. With this kind of treatment there is little danger of raising a hog without bone enough to support all the meat he ought to carry. And with this kind of treatment the modern American type—the best that has yet been produced from both the producer's and the killer's standpoint—can be preserved. A violent cross for bone is not necessary for the man who will study the feeding and care of hogs.

Warm Water for Poultry.

A good way to give the poultry water in the winter is to get a five-gallon oil can with a faucet near the bottom. Fill it with water and set it on the stove until the water is rather warm. Then wrap the can in old blankets or a piece of old carpet and set it on a block in the poultry house. Turn the faucet so it will drip rapidly but not run a stream, putting a pan under to catch the drip. Water in such a can will keep warm from morning till night and the fowls will be saved from warming it with the heat of their bodies after drinking it.—Commercial Poultry.

ENAMORED OF ACTRESS.

Prince of Siam Wanted to Wed Pretty Maybelle Gilliman, in England.

According to the veracious press agent of the Bijou theater, New York, what is claimed to be the life romance of the young crown prince of Siam has just been brought to light. It appears that while in England he became infatuated with a woman of comic opera fame, Maybelle Gilliman. He wanted to marry her but was forced to go to Russia. He ran away from the Siamese legation there, it is said, and returned to meet her in London. After imprisonment and other exertion of royal authority over him he finally abandoned the idea, but she is said to have been partly the cause of his recent visit to America. On his departure from New York he assured Miss Gilliman that he would come back to see her again some day. On the opening night of "The Mocking Bird" he sent a beautiful basket of flowers with a live mocking bird hidden in it.

In proof of the story which Miss Gilliman tells, she has a small trunkful of letters from the prince, numerous autograph pictures, presents and even the manuscripts of three plays which he wrote for her use on the stage. She gave out some of the letters and several poems she says the prince wrote to her.

FUTURE OF AUTOMOBILE.

Predicted That the Horseless Carriage Will Supplant the Locomotive in France.

A new system of railway communication will be inaugurated in France in June. It consists of the substitution of automobiles for the existing locomotives and cars.

Each automobile will be the size of the present corridor carriages and will accommodate 40 passengers and their baggage. They will contain a lavatory and a refreshment bar. They will be capable of making 61½ miles an hour.

The invention is beyond the experimental stage, and its application is only delayed for the construction of the necessary rolling stock. The initial trip will be from Paris to Dijon on June 18.

The name automobile is applied to the new car, the adoption of which, it is claimed, will not only dispense forever with the use of locomotives, but will abolish vibration and noise and the necessity for stopping for water. The motive power is steam, generated by petroleum. M. Noblemaire, manager of the Paris-Lyons railway and the greatest authority on the continent on railway traction, declares that the system will prove an absolute revolution.

New Issue for Kansas.

Out in Kansas a new issue has projected itself on the public. A new head of the state university just arrived from the east has tried to make the professors wear caps and gowns during class work, with the result of evoking scoffs from students and condemnatory resolutions from politicians. Eastern contemporaries are commenting on the narrowness of fighting against caps and gowns, but a word or two might also be said on the narrowness of fighting to introduce them where they are not wanted.

CAUGHT BY THE GRIP. RELEASED BY PE-RU-NA.

Congressman Geo. H. White's Case. A Noted Sculptress Cured.

The world of medicine recognizes Grip as epidemic catarrh.—Medical Talk.

LA GRIPPE is epidemic catarrh. It spares no class or nationality. The cultured and the ignorant, the aristocrat and the pauper, the masses and the classes are alike subject to la grippe. None are exempt—all are liable.

Have you the grip? Or, rather, has the grip got you? Grip is well named. The original French term, la grippe, has been shortened by the busy American to read "grip." Without intending to do so a new word has been coined that exactly describes the case. As if some hideous giant with awful Grip had clutched us in its fatal clasp. Men, women, children, whole towns and cities are caught in the baneful grip of a terrible monster.

Pe-ru-na for Grip.

Mrs. Theophile Schmitt, wife of the Ex-Secretary of the German Consulate, writes the following letter from 3417 Wabash avenue, Chicago, Ill.:

"I suffered this winter with a severe attack of la grippe. After using three bottles of Peruna I found the grip had disappeared."—Mrs. T. Schmitt.

Mrs. Celeste Covell writes from 319 N. avenue, Aurora, Ill.:

"Only those who have suffered with la grippe and been cured can appreciate how grateful I feel that such a splendid medicine as Peruna has been placed at the door of every suffering person."—Mrs. C. Covell.

Noted Sculptress Cured of Grip.

Mrs. M. C. Cooper, of the Royal Academy of Arts, of London, England, now residing in Washington, D. C., is one of the greatest living sculptors and painters of the world. She says:

"I take pleasure in recommending Peruna for catarrh and la grippe. I have suffered for months, and after the use of one bottle of Peruna I am entirely well."—Mrs. M. C. Cooper.

D. L. Wallace, a charter member of the International Barbers' Union, writes from 15 Western Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.:

"Following a severe attack of la grippe I seemed to be affected badly all over.

"One of my customers who was greatly helped by Peruna advised me to try it, and I procured a bottle the same day. Now my head is clear, my nerves are steady, I enjoy food and rest well. Peruna has been worth a dollar a dose to me."—D. L. Wallace.

Lieutenant Clarice Hunt, of the Salt Lake City Barracks of the Salvation Army, writes from Ogden, Utah:

"Two months ago I was suffering with so severe a cold that I could hardly speak.

"Our captain advised me to try Peruna and procured a bottle for me, and truly it worked wonders. Within two weeks I was entirely well."—Clarice Hunt.

Congressman White's Letter.

Tarboro, N. C.

Gentlemen: I am more than satisfied with Peruna and find it to be an excellent remedy for the grip and catarrh. I have used it in my family and they all join me in recommending it as an excellent remedy."—George H. White, Member of Congress.

Mrs. T. W. Collins, Treasurer Independent Order of Good Templars, of Everett, Wash., writes:

"After having a severe attack of la grippe I continued in a feeble condition even after the doctors called me cured. My blood seemed poisoned, Peruna cured me."—Mrs. T. W. Collins.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

GOT A NEEDED LESSON.

Maria Forgot the Salt and Her Employer Gave Her Something for Her Memory.

The forgetfulness of servants is the bane of all housekeepers. A London merchant has servant who, although possessing many good qualities, was at first very forgetful. This fault was especially annoying at meal times, when something essential was sure to be lacking from the table, relates the New York Times.

One day the family were seated at the table and the bell was rung as usual. The girl hurried to the dining-room.

"Maria," said Herr B——, "just run and fetch the big stepladder down from the attic and bring it here."

Maria, who had been disturbed at her dinner, gave a grunt of dissatisfaction, but ran up the three flights of stairs to fetch down the ladder. In about five minutes she returned to the room panting with her exertion.

"Now," said Herr B——, "put it up at that end of the room and climb to the top."

Maria did as she was told, and when she was at the top Herr B—— quietly observed:

"Maria, you have now got a better view than we have; just look around and tell us if you can see any salt on the table. My wife and I could not find it."

This settled the business. Maria has never forgotten the lesson.

Maude—"Belle said the other day when she saw you trying to get up such a desperate flirtation with Youngrox she could hardly keep her countenance." Mayn—"She wouldn't if she could help herself."—Baltimore American.

It sometimes takes a long time to make up a little mind.—Ram's Horn.

NOTICE.

The Boone County Telephone Company has installed a switch board, and Miss Emma Adams has been employed by the company as operator, and the company now gives its subscribers service from 7 a. m. until 8 p. m., daily, except Sunday, and a Sunday service from 7:30 a. m. to 8:30 a. m., and from 1 p. m. to 2 p. m. Messages of importance may be transmitted from 8 p. m. until 7 a. m., but subscribers are requested not to use the phones during those hours unless it is very important. In calling the operator give one long ring.

THE coal situation gets no better.

GERMANY has been pouring hot shot into Venzuela.

THE numerous sales that are being advertised indicates the coming of spring.

SEVERAL Boone county Democrats are said to have legislative bees in their head gear.

THE Court of Appeals overruled the Commonwealth's petition for a rehearing in the Caleb Powers.

THE canvass for the Democratic nomination for State offices will begin in earnest now in a few days.

SKY-SCRAPERS are quite the fad in Cincinnati, and some good buildings are being removed to be replaced by loftier and more pretentious structures.

THE last edition of the Williamstown Courier overflowed with financial statements of local banks and that of the county. There is considerable money in Grant county, and the people use it freely.

THERE does not seem to be much doing in this county in the interest of a Kentucky exhibit at St. Louis fair in 1904. In some parts of the State considerable money is being subscribed for that purpose.

THE County Judge will pass upon the sheep claims, next Monday. The Boone county dog law has provided considerable money with which to pay such claims, but not near as much as it should have done.

THE refusal of the Court of Appeals to docket and advance Meacham's injuction suit against the State Democratic Executive Committee is thought by many to be the end of the legal fight on the Democratic State primary election.

EASTERN Kentucky produces two thirds of all the sorghum molasses sold in the northern markets. The crop in Greenup county this year is estimated at two thousand barrels and several Sandy Valley counties will produce a larger amount.

THE State of Kentucky is soon to receive $1,300,000 on her war claim against Uncle Sam, and Governor Beckham proposes that it be used in payment of the State's bonded debt, a proposition that will be unanimously endorsed by the people. The bonded debt amounts to something over a million dollars.

THE RECORDER maintains a telephone service over all the lines in the county, and if you have an item of news do not neglect to call this office to report it. The local correspondents cannot get all the items. Will you remember to send in the next item you get? It will cost you nothing.

THE Negro applicants for appointments to office are pouring in on President Roosevelt at such a rapid rate as to become a source of annoyance, and his friends deem it advisable to arrange a system of red tape through which the Negroes' applications shall pass, hoping thereby to prevent the greater portion of the applications finding their way to the President's sanctum.

CHAS. FINLEY has published an interview, telling how Henry Youtsey was tortured in the Kentucky penitentiary until he agreed to make a statement in regard to the assassination of Gov. Goebel. The statement of Finley will carry no weight, because it is known that if Youtsey had been treated as Finley claims he was, some newspapers could not have found wood type large enough with which to head line their accounts of his torture. The country would have been informed of the fact long before this had there been anything in it. By the way, why did Finley not tell how it is that Mathews has been talking so much.

THE Indiana legislature is very much worked up over a ripper bill that has been introduced, and the Republicans out in the State are indignant at the Governor for carrying a personal quarrel into the party ranks. On with the dance.

THE action of the State Committee at Louisville, last Saturday, settled the question of the State Primary election, which will be held May 9th. Candidates for Representative and Circuit Clerk to be voted for this fall in this county, are to be nominated, and it is probable the county committee will call a county primary to be held on May 9th for these offices. It will reduce expenses on both county and State candidates.

IT is not known what course Internal Revenue Commissioner Yerkes will take toward the Republican gubernatorial nomination, but Senator Deboe says positively that the Commissioner will not be a candidate for the office. "It is now certain," said the Senator, "that Mr. Yerkes will not make the race. I do not know who will be nominated, but I think Judge DuRelle is the strongest man the Republicans of the State can put up. He is stronger in Louisville than Wilson, and I believe he can be elected.

Now listen to the woes of a lightning rod man. He lit down in Nebraska with a team of good horses, a new spring wagon, a limber tongue and a lot of rods. He was all prepared to rod up a lot of the unsophisticated old grangers of that state. In just a week he was after warrants for the arrest of twelve of these grangers who he claimed had beaten him out of everything he had in trading horses, so that he had lost his team and his rig and his rods and had to walk back to town. Finding out that Nebraska law did not prohibit men from making horse trades, he took the first train for the east with no money and a lot of experience.

Parties expecting to apply for divorces will be interested in learning that Circuit Judges have recommended that the Legislature shall pass some new laws greatly affecting divorces. They want the law so amended that divorced persons cannot marry short of 3 years after the divorce is granted. Also another act which provides that the defendant in a divorce suit may have a year in which to appear in court and show cause why the Judge shall revoke the order granting the decree. If the measures proposed become laws, securing divorces and marrying again immediately will be entirely out of the question.—Winchester Democrat.

THE State Democratic Executive Committee had a harmonious meeting in Louisville, last Saturday. All the members were present either in person or by proxy. Charles Meacham, the insurgent, was present and participated in the proceedings. He said he is yet opposed to a primary election but that he will submit to the action of the committee. The report of the sub-committee was received. The report recommends that a primary election be called for the purpose of nominating Democratic candidates for State officers, and that the primary be held on May 9, 1903, under the State primary election law; that the officers of election shall be appointed by the various county committees, the State Executive Committee reserving the right to change the officers wherever complaint is made. The various county committees are to meet at their respective county seats on May 12, and tabulate the returns and pass upon questioned ballots. The county committees are to certify as to the vote cast to the Chairman of the State Executive Committee at Frankfort not later than May 20. The State Committee to meet at Frankfort, May 30th, and tabulate the result from the various counties. The assessments for the various offices was fixed as follows:

For Governor, $2,500; Lieutenant Governor, $600.

Attorney General, $1,800.

Auditor, $2,200.

Treasurer, $1,800.

Secretary of State, $1,800.

Superintendent of Public Instructions, $1,800.

Clerk of Court of Appeals, $1,800.

Commissioner of Agricultnre, $1,700.

In the event that a candidate for one of the above offices shall have no opposition, he shall pay the entire assessment.

JUDGE Guffy, who retired from the appellate bench the first of this year, is a candidate for the legislature in his county.

THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT THE ORIGINAL LIVER MEDICINE

A sallow complexion, dizziness, biliousness and a coated tongue are common indications of liver and kidney diseases. Stomach and bowel troubles, severe as they are, give immediate warning by pain, but liver and kidney troubles, though less painful at the start, are much harder to cure. Thedford's Black-Draught never fails to benefit diseased liver and weakened kidneys. It stirs up the torpid liver to throw off the germs of fever and ague. It is a certain preventive of cholera and Bright's disease of the kidneys. With kidneys reinforced by Thedford's Black-Draught thousands of persons have dwelt immune in the midst of yellow fever. Many families live in perfect health and have no other doctor than Thedford's Black-Draught. It is always on hand for use in an emergency and saves many expensive calls of a doctor.

Mullins, S. C., March 10, 1901.

I have used Thedford's Black-Draught for three years and I have not had to go to a doctor since I have been taking it. It is the best medicine for me that is on the market for liver and kidney troubles and dyspepsia and other complaints. Rev. A. G. LEWIS.

Local News.

This is good grip weather.

The weather has softened up once more.

Everybody who owned a sleigh had it in service Sunday.

The colored school closed Friday, after a successful five months session.

For Sale—A good 5-year old Jersey cow and calf. Apply to L. T. Clore, Waterloo.

For Sale—Six months old thinrind mail hog, apply to Gus Freeman, at Gunpowder.

Were coal as plentiful as snow, this winter, the poor in the cities would not suffer so much.

For Sale—A large cow with Durham calf by her side. Apply to Geo. H. Gordon, just north of Hebron.

For Rent—2 houses and lots on the pike near Florence, known as the Harry Robinson property. Apply to F. F. Robinson, Richwood.

Your attention is called to the sale advertisement of Frank Hartman, in another column. He resides near the mouth of Woolper creek this county.

The high price of coal has reduced its consumption in Burlington very materially this winter. Burning coal that costs 21 cents a bushel is burning mighty, almost.

There are vague rumors of a local dramatic company being organized and that is the meaning of the recent advent of so many little, red back books in town.

The advance in the price of hay has put a move on the local hay haulers. They did not hesitate to pay as high as $12 for a good article in the stack, last week.

Some of the rural trappers were delivering their stocks of furs to the local dealer, last week, and the animals from which the hides were taken could be named without seeing the hides. Smell? Well you bet!

The Odd-Fellows' lodge at this place will give a ball at the Boone House in Burlington on the night of Friday, February 20th. Good music will be on hand, and everybody is invited. Supper, 25 cents.

Snow balling was very fine Saturday afternoon, and was engaged in freely by the men and boys. Newton Sullivan, sr., went home late in the afternoon, with one eye closed, the result of being in collision with a snow ball.

Capt. "Billy" Hartman, the ferryman, continued to make regular trips between Kentucky and this city during the heavy running ice in the river—with a skiff and not the ferryboat—and being the only ferryman on duty between Cincinnati and Madison. He is a hustler. —Lawrenceburg Register.

Jordon Beall, of Hebron neighborhood, was in town one day last week. He now tips the beam at 300 pounds. His weight has become annoying, and he is trying to reduce it by dieting, and, instead of four, he now eats only two, good sized heads of cabbage and other things in proportion at a sitting.

They do say that Duley Beall will start a possum farm this spring. He has been encouraged to undertake the business by the demand for these animals this winter, and which he has found to be very scarce, he not being able to capture but one, although he has made frequent searches for them in places supposed to be their resort.

Our old Confederate friend, John Crisler, who resides over on that classic stream, known as Long Branch, was in town a few days since. John does not come to Burlington very often, and all are glad to clasp his hands made hard by toil, when he does show up. He came in to see our gasoline engine do a stunt, and was delighted with it, and he is a man who knows something about machinery.

There is a diversity of opinion as to the effect a railroad down the Ohio river on the Indiana side would have on a traction road on this side of the river, built over the route recently surveyed. Some contend that if work on the railroad down on the other side of the river is begun with the coming spring, that no more will be heard of the Covington and Carrollton traction road. The construction of the railroad is not necessarily fatal to the traction road, which would draw its support from Kentucky territory while the railroad would depend on territory in Indiana to furnish its traffic. It is true that the traction road would draw considerable business from Indiana were there no railroad along the river, but the loss of that business would not be sufficient to cause the promoters of the traction road to abandon it.

Heads Should Never Ache,

Never endure this trouble. Use at once the remedy that stopped it for Mrs. N. A. Webster, of Winnie, Va., she writes "Dr. King's new Life Pills wholly cured me of sick headaches I had suffered from for two years." Cure Headache, Constipation, Biliousness. 25c at W. F. McKim's, Burlington; Union Drug Store, Union; J. G. Oelsner's, Florence; A. W. Smith's, Walton; O. N. Grant's, Belleview.

S. P. Gibbs, of Petersburg, was in town, Friday, closing up his business preparatory to leaving last Monday, for Kansas City, Mo., where his father and mother reside, and in which city, or in the vicinity thereof, he expects to make his future home. Mr. Gibbs is an industrious man, and he and his family will make good citizens in any community with which they cast their lot. Boone loses a worthy gentleman, but someother locality gains one. His friends here wish for him and his family health, prosperity and happiness in their new home.

Geo. H. Gordon, of Hebron neighborhood, called in to see the RECORDER, last Friday. He appears to have fared well since he moved from this neighborhood, which was very sorry to lose him. George says if the dam is built across the Ohio river below Taylorsport its construction will require an immense amount of stone, and in Elijah's creek, which runs through the Gordon farm, is stone enough to build half a dozen dams, and he expects his father's estate to make a big thing by selling it to the government, as it is very close to the place where they will be needed in the work and will not have to be quarried.

At its final session, last week, the board of supervisors of tax reconsidered its former action and let Peter Hager's list stand as returned by the assessor.

The raise of $3,000 given H. B. Hall on the A. G. Winston property, was reduced to $2,000.

The increase of $350 on B. L. Rich's 39 acres was taken off.

The increase of $600 on John Denedy's list was reduced to $300.

The increase made in W. H. Senior's list was reduced $500.

The raise of $400 on Jerry Beemon's list was reduced to $200.

The work of the board netted an increase of $260, in the entire county, over the amount returned by the assessor.

The total amount of taxable property in the county, according to assessor Watts' return, is $6,479,091, being $228,387 more than was listed last year.

When the weather in the last few days filled the Ohio with huge ice formations and threatened to freeze the stream over, river men recalled the events of the winter of 1852-56, the most severe on traffic within the last 50 years.

From Pittsburg to Cairo, "the beautiful river" was frozen to a depth of more than 3 feet for over two months. A loaded railroad car drawn by oxen was hauled across in safety near Louisville, and similar tests of the solidity of the ice were made at other points. Traffic was so completely tied up during the time that the price of ordinary commodities went soaring, and much suffering resulted. Pittsburg coal was retailed at $1 a bushel, and no greater quantity was to be had even at that price.

When moderating weather came and the ice subsequently broke up it swept furiously down stream, wreaking awful destruction. Coal boats and barges and all sorts of craft were wrecked at many points, and little of the wreckage remained. Steamboats were crated in log cribs, and thus protected partly until the danger subsided.—Cincinnati Post.

We all supposed that the people in the extreme northwest had been clad in their seal skin caps, fur overcoats and snow shoes, but along comes Bro. Westover's Oregon City Courier, and says:

"During the last week the ice king has laid his mailed hand upon all the country east of the Cascade mountains and eastward to the sea. Blizzards have swept down from the north carrying on their frozen breath desolation to the poor and death to all living things not properly housed and warmed. Millions of snowflakes have drifted down from the storm clouds and covered the land and the lakes and the rivers in a mantle of white while the wintry wind in its mad spirit has piled the flakes into minature mountains, blocked railroad travel, impeded business, chained the wheels of commerce and put all that great stretch of country under bondage to winter and his frozen satelites. While all this has been going on in the Eastern country, the Wilamette valley has been blessed with a week of sunshine and spring weather. Flowers are in bloom in the yards, vegetables are growing in the gardens and the grass is green in the fields, and the old timers talk of the budding of trees, the blooming of flowers and the early opening of Spring."

[Warsaw Independent.]

Probably one of the largest women who ever lived in Gallatin county died last Thursday night at her home on Park Ridge, near Sparta. It was the wife of Andy Gilmore, colored. She had been an invalid for about three years, and died from a dropsical complaint. It is stated that she weighed between five and six hundred pounds. Undertaker Jos. K. Nesbit, who conducted the funeral, was unable to furnish a coffin large enough to bury the remains in, unless specially ordered; consequently he had to trim the largest coffin box in which to bury her in. It required the combined efforts and strength of eight strong men to lower the remains into the grave. The deceased was a member of the Park Ridge Baptist church, and Rev. Randall, colored, preached the funeral sermon. The funeral occurred Saturday.

In an interview with E. F. Layman, the surveyor of the proposed Cincinnati and Louisville Traction road, Monday, while enroute to Louisville, he stated that on that day the company was to have a conference with the Board of Aldermen relative to the board granting the right of way for an entrance into Louisville. He stated that the Alderman were favorable to the traction road entering that city and expected the desired action by that board. He stated that the road was surveyed to Latonia, Kenton county, and they expected no opposition in entering Covington or Cincinnati. He stated that all arrangements were perfected to have eastern capital invest their money in the road, and in his judgment construction on the route would begin by March. In his estimation the road will unquestionably be built and will be a good money maker. He states that the $100,000 asked by subscription is not for the construction of the road but for the purpose of purchasing the right of way, chiefly at both terminals, where property was high and the holders numerous. M. I. Barker, of Carrollton, Ky., attended the meeting of the Louisville Aldermen and materially aided in securing the right of way through that city. The progressive citizens along the route should do everything in their power to assist in the building of this much needed road.

According to statistics compiled by a leading commercial paper, the tomato crop last year is the largest on record and the amount canned has eclipsed all previous. This enormous production is due to the shrinkage during 1899, 1900 and 1901, which resulted in a general depletion of stocks. Maryland is the heaviest producer of all the States, the output of its canneries this year aggregating almost one-half of the total production of canned tomatoes in the country. The United States consumes nearly 10,000,000 cases of two dozen tins each annually or about three quarts per capita. Owing to the increase in supplies, prices are more reasonable this winter than last.

The Grant county Court begins next Monday for a three weeks term.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh that contain Mercury,

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucus membrane surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and is made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c per bottle.

New Firm in Town.

Dr. L. H. Crisler and Marce Riddell have purchased the general store of Dudley Rouse here in Burlington, and an invoice of the stock was begun this morning. The new firm will be thoroughly installed in business by next Monday.

Walter Garnett and wife wish to thank their many friends for their kindness shown them during the short illness of their little son, Clifford William, who died January 19, 1903, aged 1 year, 1 month and 15 days.

We are having a great deal of foggy weather.

The sowing of tobacco beds will be in order.

Bad roads are due.

Personal Mentions.

Mrs. Dr. Rouse was visiting friends in Ludlow, last week.

Sorry to hear that Morgan Helms, of Taylorsport, is critically ill of erysipelas.

Leonard Kite and wife, of Waterloo, were guests at R. H. Cowen's Thursday.

H. W. Ryle and wife, of Erlanger, were guests at Mrs. Kirkpatrick's last Sunday.

Solon Rice, of McVille, passed here Monday morning with a drove of extra good cattle.

Begin getting ready for the I. O. O. F. ball in Burlington on the night of February 20th.

Martin Michaels, of Erlanger neighborhood, was transacting business, in Burlington, Monday.

Bert Rouse, Clint Weaver and Onnie Rouse propose connecting their residences with a telephone.

Scott Myers, of Verona, made this office a call, Monday. He is one of the greatest hustlers in his part of the county.

Eza Harper, of Hebron; Milton Portwood, of Waterloo, and F. F. Robinson, of Richwood, called on the RECORDER, Monday.

Dr. J. G. Furnish, Superintendent of the asylum for the insane, at Lakeland, came up Monday to spend a few days. The doctor is looking first-class.

Scott Chambers, of Hebron, was in town Monday, and advertised a big sale of live stock, &c., for the afternoon of February 10. Read the advertisement in another column.

Rev. Milo Atkinson, of Petersburg, Boone county, the regular pastor of the Warsaw Christian church, preached two very interesting sermons to appreciative audiences Sunday morning and evening.—Warsaw Independent.

G. L. Miller, a leading Republican and a prosperous farmer of Big Bone neighborhood, was transacting business in Burlington last Friday. He is one of the citizens who is enthusiastic in favor of the C. C. & M. traction road.

John McAtee and wife, of Ludlow, were guests of Mrs. McAtee's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Conner, of this place, from Friday evening to Monday morning. Mr. McAtee is a Q. & C. freight conductor from Cincinnati to Somerset.

Bert Rouse was in this office, last Saturday afternoon. He was in an excellent humor because he had butchered his hog and put the meat in neighbor Weaver's smokehouse. Bert says when he works his rabbit foot on his neighbor in that way his hog always yields four hams.

Perry Rice, who is visiting his brothers in Kansas, writes "I am enjoying good health and having a real pleasant stay, and am missing some very cold weather. If I expected to farm I would remain in Kansas, but as I am not in that line of business I will likely return to Kentucky between now and March. Kindest regards to all."

Hon. S. W. Tolin, of Burlington, Boone county, was here on legal business Monday, attending county court, and buying the Howlett land sold by the Master Commissioner. Mr. Tolin was the State Senator from the district composed of the counties of Gallatin, Owen and Boone, and made a first-class member.—Warsaw Independent.

THE TREATY SIGNED.

Uncle Sam and Colombia Come to Terms on Canal Question.

It is Believed That the Treaty Will Meet With the Approval of the Senate at the Present Session.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The treaty between the United States and Colombia for the construction of the Panama canal by the United States was signed Thursday in this city.

The canal treaty was signed at Secretary Hay's house Thursday afternoon, Mr. Hay acting for the United States, and Dr. Herran, the charge d'affairs of Colombia, who had been specially given full powers to negotiate the treaty, signing in behalf of Colombia. The treaty will have to go to the senate for ratification, and it is believed it will be transmitted to that body Friday. It is said that details of the agreement will not be made public in advance of the transmission of the treaty to the senate. It is thought that Secretary Hay, from time to time, consulted leading members of the senate on the essential features of the treaty he was negotiating, so that it is believed it will meet the approval of the senate at the present session.

Washington, Jan. 24.—The treaty between the United States and the government of Colombia which was signed Thursday by Secretary Hay and Dr. Herran, as the representatives of the two countries, was transmitted to the senate Friday and by the senate referred to the committee on foreign relations.

The treaty was read in executive session, but the injunction of secrecy was not removed. By the terms of the treaty the United States agrees to make a cash payment of $10,000,000 in gold to the Colombian government and after the expiration of nine years to pay a rental of $250,000 a year. The lease of the strip of land to be used for the canal purposes is practically made perpetual, the provision on this point being that the first lease shall be for 100 years and renewable thereafter in terms of 100 years at the pleasure of the United States. The strip is to be ten kilometers, or about six miles, in width, and over this territory the United States is given police and sanitary jurisdiction, although it is explicitly specified that Colombia does not surrender sovereignty over it. The United States is to have the privilege of free importation of vessels and material to be used in the construction of the canal. It also is given the right to improve, use and protect harbors at both the Atlantic and Pacific ends of the canal. The grant is made exclusive to the United States, and no taxes or rentals are to be charged in addition to the gross sums of $10,000,000 cash and $250,000 annually.

REFRACTORY BRICKS.

A Combination of All Manufacturers Outside Harbison-Walker Combine.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 23.—A combination of all the manufacturers of refractory brick who are outside the Harbison-Walker combination has been arranged with a capital of $15,000,000. It is the purpose of the company to buy the plants outright and to operate them as one concern with Pittsburg as the headquarters. The output of the plants will be 2,250,000,000 brick yearly. Not the least valuable part of the property taken over by the new company will be the large area of fire clay and coal lands now owned by the individual companies. The combination includes all the principal plants in Western Pennsylvania, Eastern Ohio, West Virginia, Kentucky and Maryland.

SENATOR PERKINS' BILL.

It Provides For the Creation of a Naval Reserve and Naval Militia.

Washington, Jan. 23.—Senator Perkins Thursday introduced bills providing for the creation of a naval reserve and a naval militia. The militia bill provides that the naval militia shall be a part of the regular militia of each state and leaves the determination of the proportion to the authorities of each state. It is provided, however, that members of the naval militia shall be sea-faring men or the owners of vessels.

TO MARK CONFEDERATE GRAVES.

Senate Committee Reports Favorably on Senator Forsker's Bill.

Washington, Jan. 23.—The senate committee on military affairs Thursday ordered a favorable report on the bill introduced by Senator Foraker appropriating money from the national treasury for the erection of headstones to mark the graves of confederate soldiers buried in the north. The amount to be used for this purpose was placed at $200,000 at the suggestion of Secretary Root.

COL. PHILIP DEITSCH DEAD.

Noted Cincinnati Chief of Police Passed Away Friday.

Cincinnati, Jan. 24.—Col. Philip Deitsch, chief of the police department of this city, died at 10:20 Friday morning. The chief had been ill with bronchial pneumonia for several days and his death was not unexpected. He passed away surrounded by a loving wife and members of his family.

Col. Deitsch's fame was not confined to Cincinnati, and was known throughout the United States as one of the greatest police chiefs in the world. He was president of the National Bureau of Identification, with headquarters at Chicago.

He was a 33d degree mason and past commander of Hanselmann commandery, and a member of the Scottish Rite and the Mystic Shrine, and the Scottish Insurance. He was also a member of the various G. A. R. organizations.

Philip Deitsch was born October 7, 1840, in a small town in the vineyard district of Rhenish, Bavaria, of French and German parentage. When 13 years of age he came to this country and settled in Cincinnati. At the age of 16 he enlisted in the United States army.

At the breaking out of the war in 1861 his time expired, but he re-enlisted. His company was part of the army of the Potomac, in the Fifth army corps, under Fitz John Porter. He participated in many battles.

He was wounded at the battle of Gettysburg, and the following October he was commissioned ordnance sergeant. At the close of the war he returned to Cincinnati and was soon appointed on the police force. His advance in the police department was rapid. He soon was promoted through the various branches to a lieutenancy. He took part in two riots, one at Front and Race streets and the other during the election riot.

In 1873 he resigned to accept a position in the revenue service, which he held continuously until 1885. In 1886 Mayor Amor Smith, jr., appointed him chief of police, and since then he had acted as chief executive of the department.

THE DIVORCE NUISANCE.

Religious Bodies Will Take Common Action in the Matter.

New York, Jan. 24.—Episcopal, Presbyterian and Methodist committees, in furtherance of common action by religious bodies to secure uniform marriage and divorce laws, have elected an executive committee, of which Bishop Doane, of Albany, has been made chairman, and Rev. Dr. W. H. Roberts, stated clerk of the Presbyterian general assembly, secretary.

The delegates agreed in the opinion that common action by all religious bodies in America is desirable to abate the number of divorces, and to secure uniform laws on the subject of marriage. Work is to be undertaken at once by the secretary of the committee.

VACCINATE CATTLE.

They Can Be Rendered Immune From Tuberculosis.

Philadelphia, Jan. 24.—Dr. Leonard Pearson, dean of the veterinary department of the University of Pennsylvania, Friday announced that experiments covering a period of more than two years had proved conclusively that the cattle may be rendered immune from tuberculosis by vaccination. The experiments, Dr. Pearson stated, were conducted by Dr. S. H. Gilliland and himself. The vaccination consisted of injecting into the vein of the animal a small quantity of a suspension of tubercle bacilli non-virulent for cattle.

MINERS' WAGE SCALE.

Will Demand Increase of 12 1-2 Cents Per Ton.

A Proportionate Advance to Inside and Outside Common Laborers Will Be Demanded—Minimum Rate in Indiana is $2.25 Per Day.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 24.—The convention of the United Mine Workers' of America, in executive session Friday afternoon completed the consideration of the wage scale and Secretary Wilson announced Friday night there would be no more executive sessions. The mine workers decided to demand an increase in wages of 12½ cents per ton on a run of mine basis and all coal to be paid for on that basis. A differential of seven cents between pick and machine mined coal will be asked for. The entire competitive district, composed of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and the Pittsburg district of Pennsylvania is governed by this scale. The present run of mine rate in Indiana is 49 cents, and the increase, if granted by the operators, would make the rate of wages 61½ cents per ton. In the Pittsburg district it would be 65 cents, in Ohio 70 cents, and in Illinois 61¼ cents. A demand will also be made for a proportionate advance to the inside and outside common laborers. The minimum rate of wages in Indiana for inside laborers is $2.25 per day.

The result of the committees' deliberations will not be satisfactory to some. Some of the demands were for nearly a 50 per cent advance, making run of mine the basis for wages in all cases. The run of mine is not looked upon favorably by some. In Indiana some of the mines pay on the run of mine basis and some on the screened coal basis. The present rate of wages for the latter is 80 cents per ton.

It was said Friday night that the desire of the convention was to ask for a reasonable increase and stand by it. There will be no receding from this demand, it was said. It was the opinion of the majority that it would be better to make the demand which they expected to enforce rather than to make a demand for a large increase and probably come down.

INDICTED COAL MEN.

At a Preliminary Hearing a Plea of "Not Guilty" Was Entered.

Chicago, Jan. 24.—The fight of the indicted coal men to clear themselves of guilt of "conspiracy to do an illegal act injurious to public trade," began before Judge Horton late Friday when the case against the Northern Illinois Soft Coal Dealers' association was called for preliminary hearing. Motion to quash in behalf of each of the 18 corporations composing the association were quickly overruled and pleas of "not guilty" entered. A stipulation of facts was then presented to the court, which had been agreed to by all parties to the suit, and it was announced that a date for the hearing of argument and the filing of briefs would be fixed early next week. At the request of States Attorney Deneen the case against the Braceville Coal Co. was dismissed.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE.

The Bill For Its Creation Was Under Consideration.

Washington, Jan. 24.—The bill for the creation of the new executive department of commerce was under consideration at the hands of a subcommittee of the senate committee on commerce for two hours Friday, and a decision was practically reached as to the lines of the recommendation to be made to the full committee. In a general way the subcommittee is inclined to adhere to the bill as it passed the senate, although there is a willingness to make minor concessions. The members were a unit, however, in the opinion that the provision authorizing the president to transfer the interstate commerce commission and other bureaus to the proposed department, which was inserted by the house, should go out, and will so recommend to the full committee. The subcommittee consists of Senators Hanna, Nelson and Gallinger, republicans, and Clay and Mallory, democrats.

Health Before Wealth.

Nine out of ten ailments first show themselves in constipation. Medical statistics show that a greater number of people suffer from Constipation than from all other diseases combined. A great talk is made about consumption, but, constipation kills more people than consumption. Within the last few years a medicine has been discovered of such merit in curing constipation and its consequences that now over ten million boxes of CASCARETS are sold every year, the greatest sale ever attained by any one medicine in the world and this is the strongest proof that it is the best and will do all and more than claimed. If you are a sufferer give CASCARETS a trial, and right here we want to warn you to get the genuine, because all great successes breed imitations. The genuine tablet is put up in metal boxes and has the word CASCARETS with the long-tailed "C" on the cover. Every Cascaret tablet is stamped C. C. C.

WEAK WOMEN.

CONSTIPATION STARTED YOUR SUFFERING, CURE IT AND YOUR AFFLICTION WILL VANISH.

Mull's Grape Tonic Cures Constipation.

When the bowels move irregularly the entire bodily system must suffer. Constipation more frequently occurs among women and it manifests itself in provoking profuse leucorrhea and other serious female diseases. Regular bowels will result in a complete cure when you use Mull's Grape Tonic. Unlike pills and ordinary cathartics, this remedy is a mild, gentle laxative in addition to being a greater flesh-builder, blood-maker and strength-giver than cod liver oil or any other preparation recommended for that purpose. Mull's Grape Tonic will permanently cure the most obstinate case of constipation, and the numerous afflictions that invariably follow in its wake. No matter if it is piles, liver complaint, kidney disorder, vertigo, palpitation of the heart, diarrhea or the self-poisoning which follows when the undigested food remains in the bowels where it putrefies and empties highly diseased germs into the blood, such as typhoid and malaria, Mull's Grape Tonic will positively cure. Large sample bottle will be sent free to any address on receipt of 10 cents to cover postage, by the Lightning Medicine Co., Rock Island, Ill. Send name of your druggist. All druggists sell Mull's Grape Tonic at 50 cents a bottle.

A CONFERENCE HELD.

The Venezuelan Question Will Be Settled This Week.

A Third Proposition Stating the Nature of the Guarantee Bowen is Prepared to Offer For Venezuela Sent Three Powers.

Maracaibo, Jan. 24.—At 2 o'clock Friday afternoon Fort San Carlos was in the possession of the government forces and the bombardment by the German warships was still going on.

Puerto Cabello, Venezuela, Jan. 26.—Persons in close touch with the blockading forces say that the Germans have captured Fort San Carlos, which commands the entrance to Lake Maracaibo, and that the fort has been blown up.

Brussels, Jan. 26.—A dispatch to the Petit Bleu from Berlin states that an agreement in the Venezuelan question will be reached this week and that a commission appointed by the United States government will be charged with the administration of all the maritime customs offices of Venezuela.

Rome, Jan. 26.—The Patria asserts that the Venezuelan blockade will be raised Monday.

Washington, Jan. 26.—A long conference between Minister Bowen and Sir Michael Herbert, the British ambassador, beginning at noon, followed by further conferences between Sir Michael, Signor Mayor des Planches, the Italian ambassador, and Count Quadt, the German charge d'affaires, indicated diplomatic activity in Washington Sunday over the Venezuelan situation. All the negotiators decline to discuss the results of Sunday's meeting, but general statements by them of the situation Sunday night warrants hope of early relief is significant of what has been accomplished by the last 24 hours.

By this time the London, Berlin and Rome foreign offices are in possession of Mr. Bowen's third proposition stating the nature of the guarantee he is prepared to offer for Venezuela if his initial request is complied with and the blockade raised at once.

Minister Bowen and also the state department are greatly impressed with the attitude of the representatives in Washington of the allies throughout the present negotiations. While acting at all times under instructions from their foreign offices, they have expedited matters considerably by their straightforward manner of dealing with Venezuela's representative. This fact has especially applied to the Washington officials, who, while not participating in the preliminaries necessarily are vitally interested in their results. Although Germany is sending a special envoy here to conduct the negotiations for her, Minister Bowen has taken occasion to express his absolute satisfaction with the manner in which Count Quadt has represented his government. The German charge of course has been acting under instructions from Berlin, but the point was made Sunday by Mr. Bowen and by an official of the Washington government that the activity of Germany's representative from the day of Mr. Bowen's arrival and the judgment he has shown has done much to aid in bringing about a solution of the present trouble.

Monday there were conferences between all of the negotiators, but no action is expected regarding the blockade before Tuesday or Wednesday. Throughout his negotiations here Mr. Bowen has dealt separately with the foreign envoys while they have kept in constant touch with one another. There has been no joint action on their part.

JAPANESE BUILDING.

Imperial Commissioners Looking Over the St. Louis World's Fair Site.

St. Louis, Jan. 26.—J. Kimm Kiuchi, of Tokio, Japan, the imperial Japanese commissioner to the Louisiana Purchase exposition, has arrived here, accompanied by M. Isobe, K. Yabashi and Y. Wooyeno, the other three members of the commission. The four commissioners spent Sunday in looking over the world's fair site and acquainting themselves with the maps and plans that they may decide on a location for Japan's building and exhibit. All four speak English fluently.

THE PRETENDER.

At Last Accounts He Was Marching on Fez With a Large Force.

Tangier, Jan. 26.—News from Fez dated January 21 states that the pretender, Bu Hamara, was then advancing at the head of large forces and had arrived at a point 25 miles from Fes. A decisive battle was expected and should the sultan's main army, which is posted on the Sebu river, be defeated, it was thought that the city of Fes would inevitably fall into the hands of Bu Hamara.

Formalin Didn't Save Her.

THE BUBONIC PLAGUE.

Money Flowing Into Mazatlan to Be Used in Combating Disease.

Mexico City, Jan. 26.—The charity commission at Mazatlan has received up to date $130,000 for use in combating the plague. Money is still pouring in from all parts of the country.

The official bulletin from Mazatlan reports four deaths and four new cases for Wednesday last and for Thursday reports five deaths and two new cases. The total number of cases in the hospital was 44, five of which were serious. At the pavillions are housed 520 persons, none of whom are sick.

Dr. J. H. Grimes, the bubonic plague expert, who offered his services to the government, has been notified to hold himself in readiness to proceed to the stricken city.

Culiacan, Sinaloa, Jan. 26.—Some of the wealthy families of this city have left and others are preparing to leave in a short time on account of a fear that the bubonic plague may reach this place. False rumors are frequently circulated regarding the appearance of the plague at places near Culiacan and these serve to keep up the anxiety of the people. The state government, assisted by the federal government, is doing everything possible to confine the plague to Mazatlan, and the officials here feel confident that there is no danger of the disease reaching this place.

The authorities are making a systematic war on rats. Thousands of them have been killed and the carcasses buried in the cemetery.

Guaymas, Mex., Jan. 26.—As a sanity measure the government has issued an order that fishermen must clean and decapitate their fish at sea. A heavy penalty is prescribed for cleaning fish and leaving the refuse on the shore, or bringing undressed fish into the market.

ESCAPED IN NIGHT CLOTHES.

Smallpox Hospital at Biddeford, Me., Destroyed By Fire.

Biddeford, Me., Jan. 26.—By the burning of the smallpox hospital Sunday 26 men, women and children patients were forced to escape in their night clothes. The mercury was several degrees below zero and all suffered terribly from exposure. One man is expected to die.

When the fire was discovered some of the patients seized mattresses and dragged them out on the snow far enough away from the building to be out of danger from the fire and huddled together upon them. Notwithstanding the dread of the disease, firemen and police went at the building with a will, but the hospital was burned to the ground. Both policemen and firemen gave up their outer garments to clothe the patients, who eventually were cared for in houses offered by the owners as temporary hospitals.

NEW BASEBALL LEAGUE.

One to Be Known as the Interstate Organized at Chicago.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—At a meeting here Sunday managers of star semi-professional baseball teams of Chicago and nearby towns organized what will be known as the Inter-State Baseball League. Towns in Wisconsin and Illinois, with five of the clubs to be located in Chicago, will make up the circuit.

A temporary organization was formed at the meeting, and the names of the clubs and towns to comprise the circuit announced. The few clubs to make Chicago their home are the Spaldings, Gunthers, Marquettes, Athletes and the M. and D. Ranges. The out-of-town clubs will be Elgin, Aurora and Sycamore, of Illinois, and Kenosha and Racine of Wisconsin.

MEMORIAL SERVICES SUNDAY.

House of Representatives Inaugurated a New Experiment.

Washington, Jan. 26.—The house of representatives Sunday inaugurated the experiment of holding memorial services for deceased members on the Sabbath. It will be followed hereafter during this session and probably will become the general practice in the house in the future. Heretofore, except on very rare occasions, the house has broken in on its executive work Friday and Saturday to listen to eulogies on deceased members, but the time has seldom been propitious and latterly the practice has been meeting with growing disfavor. On account of the pressure of public business at this session, it was decided to hold these memorial sessions on Sunday.

Sunday Work at Norfolk.

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 26.—All day employes have been busy at the navy yard. Quantities of coal were shipped to Culebra and much ammunition and ordnance received. Marines are here and ready for the field. The activity it is thought is on account of the Venezuelan troubles.

President Roosevelt's Contribution.

New York, Jan. 26.—President Roosevelt has contributed $100 to the Christian Herald's famine fund for the relief of the suffering peasantry of Finland, 400,000 of whom are reported to be on the verge of starvation.

Joseph Shepard Dead.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Joseph Shepard, assistant general manager of the western division of the United States Express Co., died here Sunday of a complication of diseases. Mr. Shepard was 74 years old.

THE ALASKA DISPUTE.

The Anglo-American Treaty Has Been Signed.

Regret Is Expressed That No Provision Is Made For Appointment of An Umpire In Event the Commission Disagrees.

London, Jan. 26.—The signatures of the Anglo-American treaty to settle the Alaska dispute at Washington Saturday has given great satisfaction to the English press on the ground that it gives at a critical moment in the Venezuelan trouble an undoubted proof of the uninterrupted friendliness existing between Great Britain and the United States. This is the point which is elaborated in all the editorials on the subject almost to the exclusion of discussion of the intrinsic merits of the arrangement concluded.

Little doubt is entertained here that the United States senate will accept the treaty and that the commission will ultimately meet in London, but regret is expressed that no provision is made for the appointment for an umpire because in the event of the commission being equally divided in opinion, it is said, the controversy will be very little nearer a settlement. One paper thinks that in this event the dispute would be referred to The Hague tribunal. It is hoped, however, that the publication of the text of the treaty may show a more favorable prospect of the commission arriving at a compromise, thus settling a long-standing dispute of which, it is admitted, a settlement is imperative if international friction is to be avoided.

The Times rejoices at the constitution of the proposed commission, which, it says, implies a high degree of confidence on each side in the equity and friendship of the other side. The same commission with an odd man added becomes virtually an arbitration court. Though arbitration is a very good thing in its way, continues the Times, it is not nearly so good as direct negotiation, if only because it does not imply so much mutual confidence and good will. Should it unfortunately happen that the commission be unable to arrive at a decision no harm will have been done to either party. We shall only obtain a striking evidence of the exceeding complexity of the question and can then resort to arbitration, but we fully believe that the commission will arrive at a settlement in the only manner which leaves no sense of soreness or disappointment on either side.

SENATOR TELLER.

Re-elected for His Second Term, Only Democrats Voting.

Denver, Col., Jan. 26.—Henry M. Teller, who was elected for his sixth term in the United States senate at a joint legislative session, in which only democrats participated, left the city for his country place at Grand Junction. Gov. Peabody, who went to Canyon City to spend Sunday at home was a passenger in the same train. The two men met in the train, and Gov. Peabody extended congratulations to the senator.

"My election, I feel sure, was perfectly legal and regular," said Senator Teller, in conversation with friends, "for I succeeded in getting the majority vote of both houses. I am entitled to a certificate from the governor, and expect it, but if I fail to secure the governor's credentials I shall be able to take my case before the senate nevertheless."

When asked if he would sign a certificate of election for Senator Teller, Gov. Peabody replied: "I will cross that bridge when I come to it."

Former Senator E. O. Wolcott, candidate for United States senator of the "stalwart" wing of the republican party, Sunday night announced his withdrawal from any further contest, and urged the people of Colorado to accept the re-election of Senator Henry M. Teller by the joint session of the democratic senators and representatives.

No Secret Clause.

Washington, Jan. 26.—The state department is considering the advisability of extending the time allowed for the ratification of the Cuban reciprocity treaty, now pending in the United States senate. It is declared there is no secret clause in the treaty.

Wants a Fourth Term.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—Carter H. Harrison Saturday publicly announced his candidacy for a fourth term as mayor of Chicago. The announcement was made in a speech to a delegation that called at his office for an expression from him.

The Sultan of Jolo.

Manila, Jan. 26.—The sultan of Jolo has announced his intention to visit the St. Louis exposition. It was erroneously announced from here January 19 that the sultan had died of cholera. It was the sultan's mother who died at that time.

Press Club Organized.

St. Louis, Jan. 26.—With the purpose in view of having an organization of newspaper men to meet and entertain visiting newspaper men during the World's fair, the St. Louis Press club was organized Sunday.

FIFTY-SEVENTH CONGRESS.

Second Session.

Washington, Jan. 21.—Senate—The senate Tuesday passed the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill. When the statehood bill was taken up Mr. Quay demanded an immediate vote, coupling his demand with the statement that he did not care whether any senators desired to speak on the subject or not. Mr. Beveridge discussed the measure, opposing statehood for Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico. On the conclusion of his remarks, Mr. Quay submitted a number of propositions for the fixing of a day when a vote could be taken, but to all such Mr. Beveridge objected. Senator Hanna spoke briefly in opposition to the bill.

House—The house passed the District of Columbia appropriation bill and subsequently began consideration of the Philippine coinage bill. The general debate on the District bill was largely devoted to discussion of the Alaska boundary line dispute. Mr. Cochran (Mo.) denounced as "a cowardly surrender" the course of the state department. Mr. Hepburn (Ia.) took up the challenge and countered with the charge that democratic administrations had surrendered the territory between latitudes 49 and 54:40 and also the republic of Texas. While Mr. Cochran was speaking of the "truckling policy of the United States to Great Britain" a stylishly dressed young woman in the gallery leaned forward and cried out: "You lie." She then left the gallery.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Senate—For three hours Wednesday Mr. Burnham (N. H.) addressed the senate in opposition to the omnibus statehood bill. Becoming fatigued, he suspended his remarks until Thursday. Mr. Cullom explained the necessity for considering the Cuban reciprocity treaty and appealed to Mr. Quay to permit an executive session. The latter refused and the matter was put to a vote, with the result that the senate refused to go into executive session, 37 to 27, which was the first test vote on the statehood bill. Toward the end of the day Mr. Hoar criticized the president for expressing his approval or disapproval of bills before congress had acted on them.

House—The house spent Wednesday in debate on the Philippine coinage bill. The minority offered a substitute providing for the introduction of the American currency system into the island and it received powerful support from Mr. Hill (rep., Ct.), who declared on the floor that the proposition for the extension of the American system had the support of Secretary Shaw and other high officials of the treasury department. Those who participated in the debate were Messrs. Cooper (Wis.), Jones (Va.), Maddox (Ga.), Patterson (Tenn.), Shafroth (Col.), Crumpacker (Ind.), Williams (Ill.), Hill (Ct.), Cannon (Ill.), Robinson (Ind.) and Williams (Miss.).

Washington, Jan. 23.—Senate—The statehood bill occupied the entire attention of the senate Thursday except for a few routine matters, which came up during the morning hour. After a brief executive session an adjournment was taken.

House—The house leaders went down to signal defeat Thursday when the house, by a vote of 146 to 128, rejected the Philippine coinage bill, reported by the insular affairs committee and adopted the substitute offered by the minority for the introduction of American currency and the American coinage system in the islands. The insular committees includes in its members the chairman of the most powerful committees of the house, Mr. Cannon, chairman of appropriations; Mr. Hitt, chairman of foreign affairs; Mr. Payne, chairman of ways and means; Mr. Hepburn, chairman of interstate commerce, and Mr. Tawney, chairman of the committee on expositions. They reported a bill to establish the gold standard in the islands and to authorize the coinage of silver pesos of 416 grains, to be made legal tender at the rate of two pesos for one gold dollar. The majority members made a gallant fight for their bill, but a considerable number of republicans, 28 on the final vote under the lead of Mr. Hill (Ct.), Mr. Fowler (N. J.) and Mr. McCall (Mass.), joined with the democrats and carried through the substitute. The fact that Secretary Shaw and other high treasury officials were quoted on the floor as favoring the substitute aided in the overthrow of the committee bill.

Washington, Jan. 24.—Senate—The statehood bill again occupied the attention of the senate Friday. During the debate several spirited colloquies occurred in which senators on both sides of the question charged the others with obstructing important legislation. Mr. Burnham continued his remarks in opposition to the admission of Oklahoma, Arizona and New Mexico. During the morning hour Mr. Fairbanks made an ineffectual attempt to secure consideration of the immigration bill. After an executive session the senate adjourned until Saturday.

House—The house passed 235 private pension bills. They included pensions to the widow of Gen. Franz Sigel at $100 a month, the widow of Gen. Jas. S. Negley at $50 a month and the widow of Rr. Adm. Henry Picking at $40. The Alaska delegate bill was passed. It provides for the representation of the territory of Alaska in the house of representatives by a delegate. It also defines the citizenship and the qualification of electors and creates the machinery for the elections, the date of which shall be the last Tuesday in September. The first delegate is to be elected next autumn and is to hold a seat in the 58th congress.

Plane For a New Building.

Washington, Jan. 24.—Secretary Langley, of the Smithsonian institution, transmitted to the house Friday plans for a new building for the United States national museum to cost not to exceed $3,000,000.

STATE NEWS PICK-UPS.

INJUNCTION GRANTED.

The Collection of County Taxes On Covington Property.

Covington, Ky., Jan. 23.—In the suit of H. B. Hulefeld against the sheriff of Kenton county to prevent the collection of county taxes on property in the city of Covington, Judge Tarvin, in the Kenton circuit court, granted a temporary injunction restraining the sheriff from collecting taxes.

Acting under an appellate court decision in the case of Richardson vs. Boske, the Kenton fiscal court claimed the right to assess city of Covington property for county purposes and levied a tax of 38 cents. Hulefeld was one of several hundred Covingtonians who resisted this.

In this decision, Judge Tarvin held that the city was separated from Kenton county for governmental purposes, this being so recognized by acts of the legislature from 1842 down, by the constitutional convention adopting Section 144, applying to Kenton county alone, and by the appellate court in 1898, in a local suit.

ENTRIES TO THE STAKES.

Over 150 Different Owners in the Louisville Jockey Club List.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 22.—Over 150 different owners are represented in the list of entries to the stakes of the new Louisville Jockey club, including all of the leading western stables. Omitting the steeple-chase handicap, which naturally has a limited number, the stakes have averaged over 100 each, the total being 991 entries, as follows:

Debutante, 93; Bashford Manor, 98; Juvenile, 96; Clark handicap, 71; Fehr, 88; Bluegrass, 81; Steeple-chase, 35; Kentucky Derby, 137; Kentucky Oaks, 105; Nursery, 187.

Shot the Wrong Man.

Middlesboro, Ky., Jan. 23.—Frank Adams, a Louisville & Nashville employe, was shot perhaps fatally late Wednesday night in a fight with Jas. Henderson. Adams had quarreled with Will Miracle, of Wasioto. He saw Henderson, and, mistaking him for Miracle, fired at him, breaking his leg. Henderson fell, but returned the fire, shooting Adams twice in the abdomen.

May Build Large School.

Stanford, Ky., Jan. 23.—Hon. P. M. McRoberts, representing Rt. Rev. William George McCloskey, of Louisville, has bought from O. L. Richards 65 acres of land at Ottenheim for $1,500. A Wealthy Farmer Killed in a Peculiar Manner.

Henderson, Ky., Jan. 24.—Henry Robarde, one of the county's leading farmers and a brother of David Robarde, senior member of the Robards Tobacco Co., of this city, was killed in a peculiar manner. He was driving along the road near his home at Niagara, when the wagon ran against a rail which was leaning against a fence and was turned over. Mr. Robards fell under the wagon, and was instantly killed. He was 73 years of age and was wealthy and prominently connected all over the county.

DAMAGES AND INJUNCTION.

Suits Brought By Home Co. Against Louisville Tobacco Concerns.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 22.—The Home Tobacco Co. Wednesday filed two suits against the Louisville leaf tobacco exchange, the Louisville Tobacco Warehouse Co. and members of the two organizations. In one suit an injunction is sought; in the other judgment is asked for $35,000 damages. In both portions, it is alleged that the defendants have formed an unlawful combination in restriction of trade and have boycotted the plaintiff.

ECCENTRIC MAGISTRATE.

Fined a Farmer $50 and Costs For Pulling Wife's Hair.

Owensboro, Ky., Jan. 24.—It comes high for a McLean county farmer to pull his wife's hair. M. A. Hinton, of Beech Grove, was tried before Justice Little, a well-known but eccentric country magistrate, and fined $50 and costs. The charge against Hinton was ordinary breach of the peace, which consisted of fighting with his wife and pulling her hair.

Crop and Stock.

Mr. Bruno Berry, of Hardin county, has a mule eight years old which is seventeen hands and one inch high and has tipped the scales at 1,350 pounds.

Monday was County Court day. Over 250 head of cattle on the market. Horses and mules were in demand. The crowd was larger than usual.—Georgetown Times.

J. R. Kimble, of Hardin county, sold to Hudson Bros., of Louisville, a pair of mules one of which weighed 1,450 pounds, the other 1,500, for $375. They were said to be the best pair of mules in Hardin county.

Mr. Giltner, of Shelby county, purchased an imported Hereford bull, Britisher, at a combination sale in Chicago, paying $3,800. Britisher is the winner of the championship of England and Scotland, and also of the United States.

Tobacco growers of the South have laid before the President and Attorney General a complaint that the trust is ruining the price of their product. Prices, especially in Virginia and North Carolina, have been on the decline, it is said, since the advent of the trust.

"Dutch" Kennedy butchered a hog the other day for home consumption that was a monster. The two hams after being closely trimmed, weighed eighty-five pounds each, and the carcass rendered sixteen and one-half gallons of lard.—Harrodsburg Democrat.

Those who feed swill in the winter know the trouble they have from the swill freezing when the extreme cold weather sets in. This can be prevented with very little trouble and without any expense to speak of. Procure a box that is large enough to admit the barrel and have a space of a foot and a half all around it. Put the barrel in the box and pack all around it with stable manure, as firm as you can stamp it in. Make a tight fitting cover and there will be no more complaint of frozen swill.

Minnesota has a law requiring all cases of hog cholera to be reported by the owners, all dead ones buried and forbidding infected ones running at large, with penalities for each offense. Lately a farmer in southern Minnesota was prosecuted and fined under this law, and they propose to enforce it. A similar law in each state would doubtless save a great deal of money, as well as much vexation. If all cases were reported the balance of the farmers would be put on their guard to avoid losses.

An orchard near Deleware, Ohio, is thus described in the Rural New Yorker: "As an object lesson on low-heading of apple trees. Mr. Vernon has placed thermometers here and there under the trees, one foot from the bodies and in like position. In comparison with high-headed trees he finds that, in the heated season, the temperature beneath the "lowdown" trees averages about three degrees cooler than at a like point under the higher heads, where sun and air have freer acces. As a matter of fact this, in a measure, retards the period of maturity—a point worthy of consideration in growing winter apples. The Rome Beauty tree is a typical representative of his plan of low-heading. The trees in this orchard are not pruned much for a few years after planting, and then only to preserve a well proportioned and evenly "screened" head. True, the little tree, at planting is carefully shaped with the knife and only those branches left which will form a well-balanced top which must begin with in 2½ or 3 feet from the ground.

New Century Comfort,

Millions are daily finding a world of comfort in Bucklen's Arnica Salve. Why is not something more being done to encourage horseback riding among the boys on the farm. Comparatively few farm boys can ride gracefully and with ease. They ride the old mare, and jog along to and from the stable and pasture, and call it riding a horse. How far from real genuine horseback riding as day is from night. The class of horses sells better on a street to-day than first class, well broke saddle horses. There are men, who make a business of buying these horses for the purpose. Why could not the farmer's boy do this work instead. If he needs some information as to the requirements of a good horse, and how to train a horse for riding, it would be to the farmer's pocket. Ed. Tanner's and Jessie Thompson's acre tracts; thence with the Turnpike n 70 w 9 20 chains to a corner of lot No. 2; thence with the lines of lot No. 2 n 50 e 7 97 chains to a stone; thence n 40, w 1.68 chains to a stone in a line of Mrs. Snyder; thence with her lines n 50, e 4 32 chains to a stone; thence n 40½ w 11 60 chains to a stone, a corner of lot No 9; thence with a line thereof n 50 e 5.36 chains to a stone in a line of lot No. 8; thence with a line of lots Nos. 8, 7, & 6, s 40½ e 21 30 chains to a stone, a corner of lot No. 6; thence with a line of lots No. 6 and No. 2, s 50 w 13 chains to the beginning, containing 20 acres.

(The one-tenth interest in the Dower Lot, above described, will be sold subject to the life estate of Caroline Tanner, widow.)

For the purchase price the purchaser, with approved security or securities, must execute bond, bearing legal interest from the day of sale until paid, and having the force and effect of a Judgment, with a lien retained thereon until all the purchase money is paid. Bidders will be prepared to comply promptly with these terms.

VOL. XXVIII. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1903. NO. 16.

County Correspondence.

RABBIT HASH.

The sick are all improving.

Born, to James Riggs and wife on the 28th, James, jr.

J. H. Lawell and wife, of Bellevue, were guests at J. R. Stephens', Monday.

Albert Clore is the county's champion ratter. He placed 23 to his credit, last week.

B. F. Mirrick, jr., has embarked in the livestock trade, and will buy and ship during the summer.

The Masons met at the K of P. hall a few nights ago, to arrange for instituting a lodge here.

Miss Trude VanNess gave the young people a dance, Tuesday night, at her home above Rabbit Hash.

John McConnell has been selling high bred Jersey sows at fancy prices, some of them going to Indiana.

Walter Hager has recovered from the nervous shock caused by his experience with a highwayman, a few nights ago.

D. Murray Ryle and wife came to town Monday, and before they got ready to start home the snow had disappeared.

Hubert Brady shipped 11 hogsheads of tobacco to Louisville, last Saturday morning. The boat stopped at East Bend and took on 6 for Robert Piatt.

Judge C. C. Roberts was here a few days ago collecting taxes due him for the years '98, '94, '95 and '96. Brother Aliphin is taking a shorter cut than that for collecting his taxes.

Mrs. Esaie Ryle will leave here next week to join her husband at Fatalums, California, where he has been for the last month. He is well pleased with the country, and has rented a farm for one year.

Mrs. G. H. Wilson and sister, Miss Nellie Strafer, visited the K. of P's. at this place, Saturday night, and they were very much surprised at the very nice style in which the hall is furnished.

The Hillis Wrecking Co. has been very busy for the last two weeks, wrecking the boats they caught in the last run. They never spend their time in landing wrecks for which the owners will come.

Chas. Cofield and wife gave the young people a dance, last Saturday night. Charles and wife will move back to Indiana, about the first of March, and this community will be sorry to lose him and his estimable wife, for they have been kind and good neighbors, and made many friends among our people.

Word was received here Wednesday morning of the killing of James Kent by James Mead, near Patriot. He was an excellent man, and was a citizen of this neighborhood until a few years ago, when he moved to a farm near Patriot, Indiana. He was a member in good standing of the K. of P. lodge at this place, which sent a committee to the Patriot lodge to have it take charge of the funeral services. About 80 of the members of the lodge here attended the funeral. The burial was in the Patriot cemetery.

Jan. 31.—James Kent, a former resident of East Bend, was killed near Patriot, Indiana, last Tuesday. It appears that they a have a Farmers' Telephone Company over there, of which Mr. Kent was treasurer, and James Mead, his slayer, was the secretary. They were setting telephone poles when a dispute arose about the manner of depositing the company's funds in bank—whether it should be placed in the secretary's or treasurer's account. An encounter ensued, when Mead hit Kent twice on the head with a spade, inflicting wounds from which he died in a few hours. At the examining trial Mead was acquitted, the proof being that he did the killing in selfdefense. Mr. Kent was a member of the K. of P. lodge of this place, and a large number of the members chartered the Swan and attended the funeral at Patriot.

L. L. Stephens entertained with a tobacco stripping, Thursday.

Miss Lulie Stephens is visiting her sister, Mrs. Aylor, near Aurora.

Miss Bessie VanNess' school near the East Bend Baptist church, closed last Thursday.

Ask C. C. Roberts what he thinks of Rabbit Hash sidewalks. He was trying them last Monday.

B. W. Nelson and Sam Wilson are the champion carom players, and are ready to meet any two persons who wish to try them a game.

Better Than Gold.

"I was troubled several years with chronic indigestion and nervous debility," writes F. J. Green, of Lancaster, N. H. "No remedy helped me until I began using Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicine I ever used. They have also kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bitters are just splendid for female troubles; that they are a grand tonic and invigorator for weak, run down woman. No other medicine can take its place in our family." Try Try them. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by W. F. McKim, Burlington; J. G. Delaney, of Florence; Union Drug Store, of Union; A. W. Smith, of Walton; O. N. Grant, of Grant.

PLATTSBURG.

Woody Sullivan has been laid up with a cold.

Kirby Leach is with his mother and sister again for a few days.

Claborn Campbell and wife visited in Petersburg, last Saturday.

Hogan Wingate has moved to the Wm. Hensley farm near here.

Miss Lou Akins entertained several of her young friends, last Saturday night.

Most of the tobacco in this neighborhood has been sold at prices ranging from $4 50 to $7 50.

On their return from Idlewild, last Tuesday, James Gaines and Mr. Leach found the creek past fording, and had to spend the night with Wge Stephens.

One of our gallants started to call on his girl, a few nights since, when he fell and rolled down the hill, soiling his good clothes so badly as to have to postpone his visit.

LIMABURG.

Feb. 2.—Miss Jennie Blyth's school closed last Friday.

Mrs. Geo. Rouse is improving.

The ground-hog saw his shadow.

Wheat and grass are looking fine.

Gunpowder creek was on a boom last Sunday.

The bottom fell out of the pikes and dirt roads, last week.

Miss Emilen Harding, of Hebron, will teach the spring school.

Fat hogs were never known to be as scarce in this part of the county as now.

Wm. Houston and a small force of hands were spreading stone on the pike last week.

Charles Garnett, who has been quite sick for several weeks, with liver trouble, is improving slowly.

Mr. Shaw, of Covington, was buying tobacco in this locality, last week. He bought two crops from James Waters—$6 50 and $7.60 all round.

BEAVER.

Sorry to report Edward Senior not so well.

C. C. Sleet sold four crops of tobacco to Warsaw buyers at 5½ to 6¾ cents.

Pat Ogde came in from Indiana, last Thursday, to see his mother, who is very ill.

G. O. Cleek went to Walton, one day last week to buy stock hogs, which are non est here.

R. O. Hughes is receiving tobacco at the Tomlin warehouse in Walton. He paid Tom Hood 6½ cents round for a nice crop.

Miss Pearl Hughes is visiting her brother, George, at Paris, Illinois. The young ladies' D. Q. R. society met with her one afternoon just before she left and had a very enjoyable time. The ladies bade her farewell, and were sorry to see her go.

It seems to me that Boone county farmers are furnishing the trusts a lot of valuable ammunition in selling their tobacco at 5 to 7 cents round to Continental representative, Wge Sire. From all indications the company with J. M. Gaunt, of Carrollton, at its head, with $3,000,000 can and will make the only organized opposition the trust has ever had among the farmers, and as they will be in the market for the 1903 crop, what is left over of the 1902 will command twice as much money next fall and winter as it brings now. Then why furnish the trust tobacco at half price to run on and fight you with next year?

LUDLOW.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Hankins, of Hebron, were guests of relatives here, Sunday.

J. L. Clore, of Burlingtou, passed through here one day last week, enroute to the city.

We were almost in the notion of donning our straw hat, last week—especially on Thursday.

Miss Nell Flannery, of Cincinnati, spent Sunday here as the guest of Mrs. M. Clore, of Elm Street.

Mr. Allison, our popular undertaker, had the distinction of having six funerals in one day, last week.

We do not think that people ought to complain of there not being any coal for the elevator here handled about 22,000, bushels, the past week.

Clore & Snyder invite the public in general to come in and view their handsomely improved drug store, and after they get in, to patronize them.

We would be glad to hear from other towns in Kenton county, through the colums of our worthy paper. How is it with you, Mr. Editor?—[Here, too.—ED.]

Miss Oma Hankins, of Hebron, has been spending a week or more with her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Davis; Miss Pauline Winston, of Idlewild, also, has been visiting them.

The Ladies' Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church met with Mrs. John McCormack, last Friday afternoon. After the regular program, a very delightful lunch was served.

WALTON.

Feb. 2.—Miss Edna May Ransiaer has the pleasure of entertaining Miss Kate Price, of Lexington. They were fellow students at Hamilton College.

One of our old friends came very near being a victim of his own carelessness on last Friday night. He had been out on a trip for several days and on his return was greatly fatigued, and be unwell concluded to take a dose of salts, which he knew was kept on a shelf in the kitchen in a tin can. In precisely the same kind of a can was kept side by side, some chloride of lime, and Mr. Lawe took a full dose and swallowed it. Realising in an instant what he had done he took a generous drink of milk and in a few moments there was a liberal outcasting from his stomach of milk, sulphate of zinc and so forth. Had he not been relieved so quickly a Coroner's jury would have no doubt found it to be a case of suicide.

COMMISSARY.

Jan. 31.—Eugene Kelly and family spent last Saturday with Mrs. Scott.

Rev. J. L. Sproles visited Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Rouse Wednesday evening and Thursday.

Ransom Ryle and better-half visited his father and mother, on Gunpowder, last Saturday and Sunday.

Hubert Brady and wife visited his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Brady, Saturday night and Sunday.

Miss Bessie Pope entertained very handsomely, one day last week, Everett Clore, Miss Zelna Kelly, Lawrence Phipps.

Misses Ethel and Florence Marquess, of E[illegible] were visiting their aunt Mrs. W. I. Rouse, last Thursday night and Friday.

Mrs. Bessie Koons has so far recovered from her recent indisposition, as to be able to visit her uncle Noah West, last Thursday.

Ryburn Williamson and wife called on Ransom Ryle and wife, last Saturday night, but as they were not at home Mr. Williamson turned and drove to Burlington and put up at the Hotel Adams.

Owing to the weather, I knew items would be scarce and on Friday afternoon I started on a ramble. The following are my pick-ups while rambling: Wanted—To purchase a kid goat. Any person having one to sell please address Jno. B. Walton, Grant, Ky., or leave word at Commissary.—While in Bellevue I called at the Muarer Basket Factory and found it running a full force of men on full time. The courteous and gentlemanly Superintendent escorted me through the different departments from reception office to that of shipping clerk, and gave me an introduction to the foremen of different departments.—After leaving the basket factory, I wabbled on to McVille ferry landing, and found the ferryboat still undergoing repairs, of which mention was made three or four weeks back. She will be ready to run in about three weeks, and will be a better boat than when first built.—Benny Kirtley has been in poor health for some time past, and was accompanied by Dr. Hopkins, of Rabbit Hash, to Louisville to the hospital for treatment. It is hoped he will soon return entirely recovered.—Any of the upper Woolper or Ashbyfork men that divide themselves on the speed of their dogs and desire a chase for trial or speed can be accommodated by calling on Dony Cook, of Bellevue, and arranging date and place.—McVille is enjoying a series of musical entertainments, both instrumental and vocal.—Every other night some one of town or nearby country people will have an entertainment. Their vocal music consists of singing Sunday school and church music. They have Sabbath school every Sunday, and preaching once a month. Mrs. Cad Berkshire entertained Friday night, and the music was excellent.

FLICKERTOWN.

Charlie Voshell, of Sparta, Indiana, passed here last Saturdry.

A couple of Petersburgs gallant gents have been making frequent calls in this neighborhood.

Surprise parties are becoming very annoying to some of the persons, who are being surprised.

Herbert Kirkpatrick, the Burlington fur dealer, was in this neighborhood buying furs, one day last week.

Will Sebree delivered his crop of tobacco to Wingate & Thompson, at Petersburg, last week, at 6¾ cents around.

John Presser and John and Ed Louden, of McVille and Bob Patterson are building a large barn for Charlie Hensley.

In traveling the Petersburg and Burlington pike, the other day, I found it in very bad condition since the recent thawout. More stone should be used on that road in the place of so much gravel.

A young man of this community says, he was returning from church, one night not long since, he saw eight skunks and three house cats playing together along the roadside.

Moving will be the order here in a few days. John Jarrell will move to Petersburg; Wood Sullivan will move to the place Mr. Jarrell vacates; Woody Sullivan, to the place his father vacates; A. C. Palmer to the place Woody vacates; Jim Aylor, to the place Mr. Passons vacates, and Dick Kittle, of Petersburg, to the place Mr. Aylor vacates.

GUNPOWDER.

Mr. Hewett, of way down on Woolper, was in our burg, last Friday.

Harry Tanner is nursing a badly sprained ankle, the result of a fall.

Omer Macraader has a position in Cincinnati. He is making base balls.

Feb. 2.—A number of her neighbors met and sawed Mrs. Alice Tanner a fine lot of wood, last Saturday.

Bud Wilkie, a popular liveryman, of Covington, was in this neighborhood last week, trying to buy horses.

W. R. Tanner, who has been on the sick list for several weeks, has not improved much since our last report.

Enoch and Spencer Rouse have bought, of Everett Dixon, 12½ acres of timber land, adjoining Geo. E. Rouse. Price, $600.

Fred Utz was doing some work on the Union pike, last week. He had a very small hammer with a broken handle to work with.

Henry Barlow is improving his farm on our Ridge, by making a new wire fence along the pike. His son Perry and Will Beemou are assisting him.

The thaw up, last week, was detrimental to turnpikes. The Union pike gave away in several places, but E. H. Blankenbeker, the Supt., with a full force of men and teams, soon put it in order by putting in stone.

Noah Zimmerman, mother and sister, visited one of their neighbors the early part of last week, part of the way was creek road, and while they were there the ice broke up and made it impossible. Noah unhitched his team and anchored his wagon to a tree and left it until the ice was cleared away.

BELLEVIEW.

Feb. 2.—Carl Cason says he will supply the Middlecreekers with vegetables next summer.

Miss Anna Schwartz is visiting her friends out on Middle creek.

Glad to know that the McVille Sunday school is proving a success.

Irvin Rue sold his crop of 5,000 pounds of tobacco at 6½ cents a pound.

Willis Huey and wife visited Chas. Kelly and wife on Middle creek, Sunday.

Horace Hewitt and wife, of Aurora, were guests of Mrs. Hewitt's mother, here, Sunday.

Perry Seemon, of Middle creek, was here Sunday, to see his sister, Mrs. Tim Sandford, who is quite sick.

Hon. D. Linn Gooch sent me 100 packages of garden seed, which I distributed among his Bellevue friends.

Miss Julia Dinsmore is spending two months in Florida. She writes that she is pleased with the country, and is having a delightful time.

Bro. Noce will preach here next Saturday at 7 p. m., and Sunday morning at 10:30, and at night at 7. Sunday school at 6 p. m., Sunday.

Your reporter ate a birthday dinner, last Friday, with his brother, W. L. Acra, who was 57 years old that day. His parents aged 78 and 73 were present.

J. W. Berkshire & Co. have received considerable tobacco from this neighborhood, in the last few weeks. The sellers got good weights and good prices.

James Rogers has a bunch of nice hogs following his cattle. The money he will realize for the hogs, cattle and tobacco he now has on hands will pay for another good farm.

Bro. Thomas' Bellevue bon-tons passed here so quietly we could not tell that they were bon-tons. Middle men or common herd, at any rate, I judge from their conduct and manners, they were ladies and gentlemen.

Chas. Clore, son of Thomas J. Clore, our merchant, and Miss Eva, daughter of H. C. Botts, surprised this community, on Tuesday night by eloping. As previously arranged they were met by a conveyance from Rising Sun, at a point across the river opposite here, and, with a couple of friends, they proceeded to Lawrenceburg, where they married. They returned home on the Swan, the next day, and received parental blessings. Their host of friends wish for them all the joy this earth can afford.

HEBRON.

Feb. 1.—Jeff Cloud is improving.

The mud roads in this vicinity are almost impassable.

Miss Emma Conner returned from the city, one day last week.

Sam Aylor's wife and children have been quite sick for several days.

Miss Lizzie Clore visited relatives in Burlington, several days last week.

The past week has been a fine one for colds, consilitis and pneumonia.

Spencer Aylor is able to be in the store again after his spell of sickness.

Lewis Harding bought J. T. Gaines' black mare, one day last week for $50.

The little 5-year-old son of Walter Garnett is very sick with appendicitis.

Very few were at the Christian Endeavor, Sunday evening, on account of the rain and mud.

Miss Daisy Harding, left, Saturday for Lebanon, Ohio, where she will attend Normal school.

Clyde Hafer, of Covington, has been at home for about two weeks, threatened with pneumonia.

Several from here attended the party in Ft. Pleasant neighborhood, given by Mr. and Mrs. Spencer Tanner.

We have not learned who will be our next toll-gate keeper. Mrs. Harding, our present one, has certainly been faithful in her duties.

MOUNDFIELD.

Feb. 2.—Mrs. James Beall is on the sick list.

We will gladly welcome Robt. W. Rouse as a citizen of this community.

Any persou wishing to purchase a run-about vehicle, should call on Thos. Hafer.

O. C. Hafer spent several days, last week, with his brother, Dr. L. C. Hafer, of Union.

Wilford Bullock is now a full-fledged Postmaster, having received his commission last week.

Communion services will be held at the Lutheran church at Hebron the third Sunday in February.

Miss Blanche Northcutt's school closed last Friday. She has given general satisfaction and was well liked as a teacher.

Mrs. Batterson returned home from Harrison, Ohio, last week. She left her sister much improved, with a chance of her recovery.

Miss Julia Lee, daughter of Spencer and Dora Aylor, made her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Hafer, a pleasant visit last week.

We are pleased to say that the latest reports from our friends, Chas. Garnett and Morgan Helms, are they are convalescing and will recover.

In our article last week regarding the sun shining on Saturday, we did not include the Antipodes. We simply had reference to Moundfield and yicinity.

The many friends here, of W. C. Rucker, of Cynthiana, congratulate him over his marriage, and wish him and his estimable wife many blessings.

The Y. P. C. E. Social will be held at the residence of Walter Geigel, on the Saturday night before the 2d Sunday, Feb. 7th. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Owing to the conditiun of the roads there were but few in attendance at the Pomona Grange meeting last Saturday. Some few of the more enthusiastic Grangers from Mt. Pleasant were present. Among them we will mention, Hon. N. S. Walton, who gave us a good talk; Bro. F. P. Wolcott, our State Master, was present and in the course of his remarks paid a touching tribute to the memory of our late National Secretary, John Trimball, recently deceased.

HATHAWAY.

James K. Sebree was in the hub on business, one day last week.

H. C. Presser, of Milldale, was here several days last week on a visit.

Jno. D. McNeely made a business trip to Rising Sun, last Monday a week.

Jno. D. McNeely has for sale two fat hogs, that will weigh about 200 pounds each.

G. L. Smith and wife were guests of the writer and family, last Tuesday week.

There was some very excellent weather for stripping tobacco the first of last week.

Robert Sullivan has moved to the farm of Dr. Ryle, vacated by Otis Rouse, recently.

Mrs. Chas. Kelly, of near Locust Grove, was the guest of Mrs. Myrtle Sebree, last Friday.

Nathan Clements and wife spent a couple of days, last week, visiting relatives on Gunpowder.

N. L. Moore did not make all of his regular trips with his baxter wagon, last week, on account of the ice along Gunpowder. It was piled up in the roads so as to prohibit travel.

IDLEWILD.

We are glad to say that the sick are all better.

Wm. Hedges is moving to the Stephens farm.

Mrs. R. C. Gaines entertained several of her friends, Thursday.

Felix Gaines, of Covington, is visiting his father, C. A. Gaines.

Miss George Walton visited her mother at Sand Run, Monday.

Miss Pauline Winston visited Mrs. C. A. Davis, of Ludlow, last week.

Everett Jones will begin teaching a spring term of school on the 9th inst.

Owing to the bad weather there was a small congregation at church, last Sunday.

Mrs. Edgar Cropper entertained 20 of her friends in a royal manner, last Thursday.

Allie Delph's son who died in Petersburg, a few days since, was brought to Bullittsburg for interment.

Mrs. G. Walton celebrated her birth day, last Friday, with a splendid dinner, which was enjoyed by many of her friends.

Hon. N. S. Walton, Wm. Berkshire and Mrs. Carrie Gaines and daughter, attended the grange meeting at Hebron, Saturday.

The funeral of Mrs. Henry Barlow, who died suddenly of heart disease, was preached by Rev. Sproles, at Bullittsburg, last Saturday.

Misses Zayda Gaines and Bessie Cropper were guests of the Misses Kirtley, of Covington, and Mrs. Dr. Walton, of Home City, recently.

Mrs. N. S. Walton had her brother, J. J. Rucker, and family, of Pt. Pleasant, and Miss Lizzie Walton, of Petersburg, as her guests, last week.

VERONA.

Mrs. Annie Powers, wife of the late Jeffrey Powers, was called to her reward January, 24th, 1903. Her death was caused by a tumor. Dr. R. L. Finnell was the attending physician, in whom the family has the utmost confidence. Although he knew from his first visit that she could not recover, yet he gave her his kindest attention, to alleviate her suffering. Her two daughters, Misses Ella and Katie and youngest son, Jeffrey, were living with her. Her only desire to remain longer, was to bear them company. They did all for her that could be done.

The funeral services were held at the Catholic church; the interment was at the church cemetery near Verona.

Mrs. Powers was born in Waterford, Ireland, December, 29, 1823. She and her husband were playmates from early childhood. Shortly after their marriage they bade farewell to loved scenes, and came to America, to find their earthly home and final resting place in Kentucky. Her husband preceded her by some eleven years. She never ceased to miss him; and while she was conscious that the hour of departure, yet, during her last hours, God in his loving kindness drew the vail which separates the now, from the hereafter and she plainly saw and conversed with her husband. Death to her was not a monster come to scare, but this coming was glorious.

"And the glory born of goodness never dies,
And its flag is not half masted in the skies."

RICHWOOD.

Ambrose Easton, who was on the sick list is better

Excelsior Grange meets Saturday Feb. 7th, at 2 p. m.

Felt boots are now a drag to their owners, yet they seem to have a strong pull.

Mrs. M. Grubbs has been confined to her room with an attack of rheumatism.

Miss Fannie Cleek does not improve as rapidly as her friends would like to see her.

Frogtown school begins Monday, with Miss Lillian Corbin, of Union, teacher.

J. L. Powers and family spent Monday a week in Verona, attending the funeral of his mother.

J. R. and Bud Carpenter killed hogs Saturday, which completes the list, excepting, perhaps, yours truly.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Z. Tanner spent Tuesday in Covington, called there by the sickness of Mrs. Tanner's brother.

The creeks and mud roads are horrible. We were caught away from home one evening last week, in a buggy and had a bad trip of it over the ice in the creek.

Mr. Peno and J. J. Tanner started to Covington with a load of tobacco, and on the pike near Jeff Carpenter's barn, their wagon out down through the pike to the hub, and they were some hours before they pulled out. We pay over 3 cents per mile for such privileges in bad weather.

PETERSBURG.

Orlando Snyder is no better.

S. G. Botts is very little, if any, better.

Miss Maud Belden was visiting Miss Bertha Martin, of Aurora, last week.

Leslie Aylor, of Hebron, was in town, Saturday, having some grinding done.

W. C. Hensley will leave, Tuesday, to visit his brother in Lincoln county.

Mr. Davis, the Louisville wool man was the guest of M. F. Wingate Thursday.

Dr. Geo. Smith is reported as having smallpox at his home in Weisburg, Indiana.

Miss Julia Smith, of Camp Foster, was the guest of Mrs. Anna Arnold, Friday.

Rev. H. R. Mills, of Walton, will preach at the Methodist church on the fifth Sunday in March.

Miss Nora Black united with the Methodist church and was baptized with her brother Charles.

The remains of Mrs. David Moyer, who died in Indiana, several days since, were interred here Friday.

It is evident that the ground hog did not study the situation, or he would not have inflicted six weeks more winter on us.

It was the intention of the family to bury Judge O. F. Roberts, of Aurora, here, and the grave had been dug, but Dearborn county Attorneys insisted that he be buried at Riverview, below Aurora, and it was done.

The Junior Endeavor Society has been organized at the Christian church with Steward Berkshire, president; Charles Beiden, vice-president; Orville Buchanan, secretary; Lindell Alloway, treasurer. Mrs. Alene Atkinson is president of the Woman's Board of Foreign Missions, recently organized.

On last Friday evening Mrs. J. B. Berkshire entertained at euchre, a select party, in honor of her sister, Miss Cordie Ryle, who is visiting her from Florence. The honored guests were Misses Ella Walker, of Logansport, Indiana, and Pearl Crisler, of the Crisler Hosteirie, and Messrs. Earl Walton, J. A. Wathen, W. H. Silvernagel and G. C. Cuddy.

Mrs. Berkshire entertains beautifully, and especially when assisted by her interesting and handsome sister, her guests are assured a hearty welcome and a delightful time in attending any of her social entertainments.

Miss Walker is a handsome, dignified and highly accomplished young lady who is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Leslie Early. Your readers are well acquainted with Miss Pearl, the beautiful and exquisite little hostess of our Crisler Hotel.

Our brave, handsome, jolly and gallant Earl has a national fame as the leader of the "400" in our beautiful little city on the Ohio. Mr. J. A. Wathen, a very agreeable gentleman, is the Supervisor of the fermenting department of the Kentucky branch of the Whisky Trust. He has been stationed in Louisville, and his services commaud the handsome recompense of ten thousand per annum. Mr. W. H. Silvernagel, a genial, whole-souled fellow, is Mr. Walthen's local agent at our Boone County distillery.

The guests departed at midnight singing the praises of Mrs. Berkshire and her sister for their delightful entertainment accorded them.

Petersburg, like the Phœnix, has risen from the ashes, and with reinvigorating pinions is sailing in the atmosphere of prosperity. About fifty of her citizens are employed at the distillery, receiving liberal rewards for their labor. The Crisler Hosteiry is filled with boarders and instead of the gloom of the past year that over shadowed it, it is filled with sunshine, smiles, cheerfulness and business activity.

Our far-famed flouring mill is in full blast—running night and day and unable to supply the demand.

Our merchants have removed their sleeping chairs, oiled the locks to their cash drawers and sent in orders for increased supplies.

Our enterprising tonsor has added to his tonsorial operations the "witchhazel phiz" and the "massage soak." He recommends that it will remove the dirt, fill up the cracks and open up the pores of our faces—that we may have our youth restored, preparatory to entering into the new life that has been given to our city.

My landlady has just interrupted me to show me a parsnip she had gathered from the garden. It measured 14 inches in circumference and 13 inches long. It seems the dirt even in Petersburg is giving evidence of prosperity. By the way, this parsnip grew from seed sent to Capt. Billy Stott by Col. Gooch.

UNION.

Harry Riley is much improved.

Miss Ella B. Norman's school at Mt. Zion, closed Friday.

Miss Nannie Bristow entertained a few friends at dinner, Saturday.

Mrs. B. L. Norman is in Cincinnati, making her parents a short visit.

Miss Bernice Johnson spent Saturday and Sunday with Mrs. James Huey.

Mrs. Belle Dickey has as her guest her brother, Mr. Waterfuld, of Texas.

Miss Helen Dickey and friend, Miss Wade, are visiting friends in Cincinnati.

Miss Stella Myers and George Weeden Sleet called on friends here Sunday afternoon.

The mud roads are desperate. Horseback riders can scarcely travel them at this writing.

Mrs. Sallie Hicks spent the greater part of last week with her sister, Mrs. L. H. Voshell.

Miss Lillian Corbin began a four months' term at the Cleek school house Monday.

Mrs. W. M. Rachal and Miss Lillian Corbin, spent Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Belle Dickey.

Rev. A. P. Gregory did not fill his regular appointment Sunday afternoon on account of the church undergoing repairs.

UNIQUE SCARECROW.

It Is the Invention of an Australian Genius Who Pronounces It a Great Success.

A writer in Garden and Field, an excellent Australian paper, says that a scarecrow made like the one pictured proved very effective. He describes it as follows:

"A is a piece of three-fourths-inch gas pipe inserted firmly in the soil so as to stand six feet above ground; the top end must be smooth. B is of galvanized downpipe, with an end soldered on the top. C C are short pieces of downpipe soldered on B. N is a piece of tin or iron cut as described and shown. D is a dead bird or wing of a fowl. If a noisy toy windmill were fixed on the top, it would be an improvement. To be of any real use the scarecrows must not be placed in position until they are absolutely required and removed directly they have served their purpose, otherwise spoggie will get as familiar with them as with the trees themselves, and thus all beneficial results will be lost. To make the movable scarecrow, get three pieces of two-inch iron galvanized downpipe, viz., one four feet and the other two feet long. Solder them together in the shape of a cross, with a cap soldered on the top end of the four-foot length. At the end of one arm fasten a piece of tin, say one side of a kerosene tin with about half an inch of the top edge, cut along three inches from each end, and one strip bent out at right angles on one side, the other the same on the opposite side, to form two short arms, from which arms hang iron nuts suspended by strings. These nuts will keep on striking the tin as the figure revolves with the wind (when there is any). Drive a six-foot length of three-fourths-inch gas pipe and dress it up accordingly to taste, either as a lady or gentleman. A kerosene tin with a hole in the bottom and a two-inch slit on each side about half way down would perhaps help to form the body, as well as causing more noise, especially if three or four iron nuts were suspended by strings inside of it."

THE LIFE OF SEEDS.

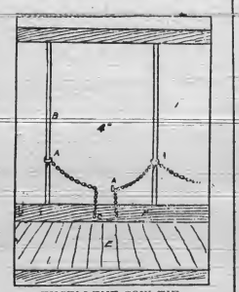
Some Were in Good Condition Hundreds of Years After They Had Been Put Away.

For the benefit of those who often desire to know how long seeds will keep well, we take the following from an old table, which was made for home-grown seeds, saved with care: Parsnips, one year; beans, one to two years; borage, cress, balm and salsify, two years; corn, nasturtiums and peas, two to three years; garlic and onions, three years; lettuce, leek, savory, spinach and turnip, three to four years; carraway, margoram and rutabagas, four years; fennel, five years; parsley and peppers, five to six years; carrots, cabbages, celery and radishes, six to eight years; beets, cucumbers, mangel-wurzel, pumpkins, squashes and melons, eight to ten years. Much depends upon how ripe they are when gathered and how they are kept. If placed in a nearly air-tight metal box, they will keep much longer than if left exposed to air, dampness and the extremes of heat and cold.

Melons and rye have been known to grow when 40 years old, sensitive plants at 60 years and kidney beans at 100 years. There are now growing at various places in this country berry vines from seeds 1,700 years old, also various grains found in Egyptian tombs and supposed to be at least 4,000 years old. Another important point is that many seeds are improved by a certain amount of keeping. Some gardeners will not use melon, cucumber or squash seeds until three or four years old, claiming that new seeds produce more vine than fruit while older seeds produce correspondingly less vine and more fruit. Celery seed also does better at three years, and cabbage seeds from two to three years old are said to make less leaves and more solid heads.

Milking at five o'clock in the afternoon of one day and seven of another is the surest way to serve notice on the cow that you do not care whether she does her best or not. If you fail on your part, she will certainly not work hard to keep up her part of the bargain.—Farm Journal.

CAUSES GREAT LOSS.



Instructive Information Concerning Aphous Fever, or Foot and Mouth Disease.

The outbreak of aphous fever, commonly known as foot-and-mouth disease, among cattle in several New England states, carries with it a fear of widespread human infection, says the Rural New Yorker, as the disease is highly contagious among warm-blooded animals, and is known to be transmissible to humans under certain conditions of exposure, but such infection is really so rare as not to be worth consideration. Like many other plagues and pests it came to this country originally from northern Europe. Though seldom fatal, aphous fever causes great loss in reducing the flesh and vitality of the animals attacked, but particularly through the interference of commerce by the rigid quarantine needed to limit an epidemic of this serious affection. The average loss of flesh in horned cattle attacked by aphous fever is estimated at nearly $10 each, and in dairy cows much more. The disease is primarily a skin affection, and is especially severe about the mouth, udder and feet, developing severe and extensive blisters about these parts. The hoofs, as appendages of the skin, suffer great damage in neglected cases especially among hogs and sheep. The most efficient treatment consists mainly in the local application of antiseptics and should always be given by a competent veterinarian. The infection of aphous fever appears to be entirely transmitted by direct contact with disease products and chiefly affects humans through milk from sick animals, when it may produce dangerous irritation of the intestines. It is plain the most radical means should be taken to stamp out the disease on its first appearance and limit outbreaks to the smallest possible territory, and it is in every case a fit subject for control by local health boards. Aphous fever is one of a small group of diseases communicated to man by domestic animals, among which rabies or dog madness is the most common and distressing. Glanders and carbuncle, or malignant postule, both fortunately quite rare, are examples of this class, while authorities still deny the possibility of consumption or bovine tuberculosis being transmitted from cattle to man.

SANITARY COW TIE.

It Is Made of Chain and Thoroughly Clean, and for the Ladies Reason Highly Recommended.

The cleanest possible way to fasten a cow in the stall is by the chain tie. Dirt and microbes do not adhere readily to a chain that is in motion. Another very important advantage is the freedom of motion allowed the cow. The uprights (b b) are 1½ in. gas pipe.

EXCELLENT COW TIE.

Rings (a a a) permit the cow to raise or lower her head or to move sideways the width of the stall, while she cannot move ahead or back more than a step. The snap (c) hooks into the other end of the collar chain, rendering it impossible for the cow to get loose. A cement rail (f) forms the back part of the manger, into which the gas pipe uprights (a) are set. The uprights (c c) are shown four feet apart, but this distance should be governed by the size of the cow. The floor is shown at e, sloping to the gutter in the usual way.—F. A. Converse, in Farm and Home.

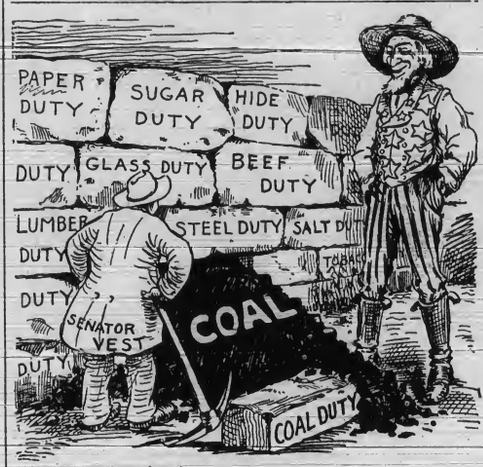
Sterilizing Garden Soil.

The practice of sterilizing the soil for greenhouse or cold-frame work is coming more and more in vogue with large market gardeners. Exposure to steam heat, which raises the temperature to above 150 or 160, or even 180, degrees will kill the germs of damping-off, blights, rots, etc. W. W. Rawson says he can now grow better crops on sterilized soil under glass than outdoors. A writer in Farm and Fireside says: "We who have not the facilities for sterilizing the soil in this manner must content ourselves with changing the soil on the greenhouse benches every year, getting a new supply where we believe it to be uninfected from such disease germs."

Do not turn a cow off just because she is old. The question of usefulness is far more important than that of age. Not that we should be swerved from our best judgment by sentiment. The butter tub tells the story.

If your cow puts up her foot to push you aside when you go up to her when she does not know it, don't kick the cow, but say: "Excuse me," and speak to her the next time you pass her.

Give the lambs clear wheat for the first third of the fattening period, half wheat and half corn for the second third, and corn alone for the last third.



THEY ARE HAVING TROUBLE.

Republicans in a Row Over the Divergence of Opinion on Tariff and Trusts.

Senator Dolliver, of Iowa, has fallen foul of Senator Aldrich, of Rhode Island, over the Iowa idea and the tariff and trust skeletons in the republican closet were exposed to full view in the United States senate. This family row of the republicans is a peculiar one, in that both sides claim to be ardent protectionists, but the Dolliver faction wish to smooth the rugged protection wall off a bit with a slice of reciprocity—whatever that may be.

Aldrich and the ultra protection republicans are utterly opposed to any modification of the extreme rates of duty that were dictated by the trusts, when the Dingley bill was being incubated. They deny that the rates were increased, even beyond the demands of the trusts, so that reciprocity dickers could be made with foreign countries. Aldrich declared that it was "infamous" to link Dingley's name with any such purpose. Dolliver mentioned the Iowa idea, that the tariff shelters monopoly, and loudly declaimed for reciprocity. He also said:

"I do not intend to sit quiet in this chamber while it is said to be 'infamous' that anybody should have the notion that a tariff schedule once framed could not be honorably modified by sensible trade negotiations with the world."

Uncle Sam—Good job, senator; maybe we can keep warm now. But how about those other stones? I'm thinking of tearing the whole wall down to get rid of the pesky trusts behind it—it's filled with them.

This dispute between these republican leaders on the policy of the republican party will probably lead to a further widening of the breach and in the end will defeat the protection they both declare they love so dearly. The thanks of the people are due to Senator Vest not only for his fight for free coal, which was forced through by his clear cut statements of the distress of the people and the iniquity of the tariff duty, but also for his statement of the disputed position of Mr. Dingley on the reciprocity issue and the consequent exposure of the skeletons mentioned above. There would seem to be no escape, by the reciprocity route, for the republicans that believe in the Iowa idea, that the tariff shelters monopoly, for the proof is overwhelming that the rates of duty are so high that even if the reciprocity treaties, which are now held up in the senate, were ratified, the trusts would still be sheltered and be making the people pay an enormous tax for the exclusive benefit of the trusts. The leaders who control the republican congress in both branches are determined not to allow any reduction of the tariff rates that shelter the trusts and nothing but their overthrow, at some coming election, will give the people any relief. How long this trust-sheltering tariff will remain and the consumers of this country be willing to pay more for trust products than the same goods can be bought for in foreign countries, remains for the voters to answer.

What the lesson of the coal famine be repeated in other necessities, before the people are aroused to action and will force the protectionists to give way, as they have just done by putting coal on the free list?

A Start at Least.

The passage of the free coal bill (for one year) by both branches of congress, was notable for the fact that the democrats in the senate did not offer a single amendment, but joined with the republicans in pushing the bill to an immediate vote. The democrats at least deserve credit for doing something which the republicans have said all along they would not do. It is now demonstrated that a tariff bill can be brought before the senate and quickly passed, notwithstanding that under the senate rules a tariff bill is subject to endless amendment. It must have been a distressing moment, however, to a number of old tariff reform war horses to see this free coal bill slip by without proposing free everything else. Their self-restraint was admirable, and a shivering nation chatters out its thanks.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

IT IS ON A STRING.

Free Coal from the Republicans Will Be Only a Temporary Subsidence of Graft.

"Didn't we give the people free coal last winter when they were freezing? Didn't we make coal cheap by taking the duty off when the price got too high? Isn't the republican party always ready to relieve the suffering people?"

These are some of the boasts we will hear during the next campaign.

No, the republicans have not given us free coal. Reluctantly, when mass meetings were being held, when the press was almost unanimous for free coal, when investigating committees were putting impudent questions to the trusts and were probing for bottom facts and when the winter was half gone, the trust leaders in the senate and house considered it wise to still the clamor somewhat by pretending to give the people free coal. A bill was fixed up and jammed through both houses of congress in one day, giving practically no time for debate, and absolutely no time to amend by putting other trust articles on the free list.

The duty of 67 cents per ton will continue in force on bituminous coal, which is practically the only coal that will come in. A rebate, however, will be paid by the treasury department to the importer which will reimburse him for the full amount of the duty paid. As, however, the secretary of the treasury made another anarchistic ruling which has nullified the law placing a duty on bituminous coal, when he telegraphed collectors of customs to "admit all coal imported on or after 15th instant free of duty, under the act of 15th instant," coal will virtually be free for one year and prices will most likely fall much more than the amount of the duty. It may, however, be February before enough coal can be imported to supply the demand and break the trusts' prices.

One year from now, without any discussion in congress, and without any agitation of the tariff question, the republicans hope, the rebate will cease to be paid and the trust will continue its graft temporarily suspended in deference to the overwhelming sentiment of a freezing people. The trusts are still supreme; only their political agents in congress have become a little frightened, that's all. They expect the people to forget all about $15 coal before the next campaign. Will they?

BYRON W. HOLT.

They Breed Socialism.

The chief teachers of socialism in this country are those who have ostentatiously paraded their power under present conditions to conjure enormous wealth from combinations, from trusts, from water, from railroad discrimination, from legislative favor. When people see vast corporations built up by secret contracts with common carriers in violation of law, when they see other corporations permitted by ill-adjusted tariff duties to sell their goods here for so much that it is profitable to purchase abroad those same goods manufactured here and freight them back, it is no wonder that they grow discontented. We firmly believe that a plunge into socialism would be the ruin of this country. Its salvation must be found in free initiative and enterprise as of old. Whatever seems to large bodies of the people to trench upon that freedom by granting special privileges tends to provoke demands for such regulation of equality as will kill individualism and enterprise.—N. Y. Tribune (rep.).

Washington oracles agree that the outlook for anti-trust legislation comes down to about this: A law of some kind must be passed, for the president himself has said it, but it must be a "mild" law, for the senate will permit no other. The sole problem is therefore how to harmonize the two demands; and it is not difficult to see that the "mild" opponents of trusts, like the meek, will inherit the earth. Mr. Roosevelt's position is simply that he must have something; the trusts want but little legislation here below, but want that little mild; the upshot will probably be a measure which will roar as gently as a sucking dove.—N. Y. Post.

CATARRH THIRTY YEARS.

CONGRESSMAN MEEKISON OF OHIO.

Hon. David Meekison is well known, not only in his own State, but throughout America. He began his political career by serving four consecutive terms as Mayor of the town in which he lives, during which time he became widely known as the founder of the Meekison Bank of Napoleon, Ohio. He was elected to the Fifty-fifth Congress by a very large majority, and is the acknowledged leader of his party in his section of the State.

Only one flaw marred the otherwise complete success of this rising statesman. Catarrh with its insidious approach and tenacious grasp, was his only unconquered foe. For thirty years he waged unsuccessful warfare against this personal enemy. At last Peruna came to the rescue, and he dictated the following letter to Dr. Hartman as the result:

"I have used several bottles of Peruna and I feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head. I feel encouraged to believe that if I use it a short time longer I will be fully able to eradicate the disease of thirty years' standing."—David Meekison, Member of Congress.

THE season of catching cold is upon us. The cough and the sneeze and the nasal twang are to be heard on every hand. The origin of chronic catarrh, the most common and dreadful of diseases, is a cold.

This is the way the chronic catarrh generally begins. A person catches cold, which hangs on longer than usual. The cold generally starts in the head and throat. Then follows sensitiveness of the air passages which incline one to catch cold very easily. At last the person has a cold all the while seemingly, more or less discharge from the nose, hawking, spitting, frequent clearing of the throat, nostrils stopped up, full feeling in the head, and sore, inflamed throat.

The best time to treat catarrh is at the very beginning. A bottle of Peruna properly used, never fails to cure a common cold, thus preventing chronic catarrh.

While many people have been cured of chronic catarrh by a single bottle of Peruna, yet, as a rule, when the catarrh becomes thoroughly fixed more than one bottle is necessary to complete a cure. Peruna has cured cases innumerable of catarrh of twenty years' standing. It is the best, if not the only internal remedy for chronic catarrh in existence.

But prevention is far better than cure. Every person subject to catching cold should take Peruna at once at the slightest symptom of cold or sore throat, at this season of the year and thus prevent what is almost certain to end in chronic catarrh.

$3.00 W. L. DOUGLAS SHOES $3.50

UNION MADE

W. L. Douglas makes and sells more men's Goodyear Welt (Hand-Sewed Process) shoes than any other manufacturer in the world.

$25,000 REWARD

will be paid to anyone who can disprove this statement.

Because W. L. Douglas is the largest manufacturer he can buy cheaper and produce his shoes at a lower cost than other concerns, which enables him to sell shoes for $3.00 and $3.50 equal in every way to those sold elsewhere for $4 and $5.00.

W. L. Douglas $3.50 and $3.50 shoes are worn by thousands of men who have been paying $4 and $5, not believing they could get a first-class shoe for $3.50 or $3.00.

He has convinced them that the style, fit, and wear of his $3.50 and $3.00 shoes is just as good. Give them a trial and save money.

Text: "For all the promises of God in Him are yea, and in Him Amen, unto the glory of God by us."—II Cor. 1:20.

A sure thing. That is what the world is looking for. The business man, the financier, the leader in the industrial world, are all looking for a sure thing, and put their money, their brains and their energy into that which promises permanency and success. But under the swift changes of the ever-changing human conditions, the sure thing of to-day becomes the fading memory of to-morrow. The sure thing of to-day in the scientific world, becomes the uncertainty and incomplete fact in the light of the new discoveries of to-morrow. The accepted [illegible] story of to-day in the intellectual world lose their force and meaning as the changing line of thought and doctrine of to-morrow is developed. Trace the course of human thought and events back through history's pages and behold how the thriving plant of one age and generation has become the decay and mold of the next. Man is as the grass of the field, and his energy, his achievements, his wisdom and his theories all flourish in their day and then pass away to give place to a new generation, a new age with its own line of activities and its own peculiar thoughts and theories. That which is of man is ephemeral, and the sure thing is not to be found in him.

The earth on which his feet rest and over which they move in weaving the activities and intricacies of life had its foundations laid in the young and budding days of the universe, and it has remained through the ages which have rolled around since then to the present day. It has nourished its teeming population, has fed and sheltered the children of every clime and nation, and has then opened its dark bosom and mingled its dust with the mortal clay of the human frame. The lofty mountains that rear their rocky lengths through the continents, and the oceans that roll in ceaseless flow at their feet, have seen each century as it has unfolded in the mighty panorama of time, and yet the earth, its mountains and its vast waters, are to pass away. The scientist will tell you that. He even dares sometimes to figure out the probable time. And so the earth is not a sure thing.

The silver light of the full-orbed and beautiful moon flooded with its soft glow the sleeping earth the other night. As I rejoiced in the night glory of the heavens the thought swept over me: "And even thou, oh, moon! will yet fail in thy light. Thy glowing face shall be veiled and the universe which has known thy faithful return, and thy cheering light, throughout the centuries will know thee no more. And thou, oh, stars! that have gemmed the heavens and sparkled in ceaseless splendor since God studded His universe with your flashing beauty to be a silent witness to His glory, thy days are numbered on the calendar of time. Thou to whom Abraham so long, long ago lifted his eye of faith and sought to count your innumerable host as they marched across the heavens that he might learn the number of the progeny which God was yet to give him, thou art yet to fail and fall from thy airy heights!" And while I mused the great silver ball rolled down the slopes of the western sky and was lost to view. The stars, blinked out a last good-by and faded slowly from sight, and in the east the great glowing, resplendent sun swept up the heavens and bestowed the warmth of his good-morning kiss upon the welcoming face of the glad earth. Thus had he done day after day, day after day, throughout the years and the centuries which have elapsed since he was hung as a great light in the heavens. Was here a sure thing? Nay, verily, for thou, oh, sun! thou king of the heavens, shalt feel thy life-giving heat turned to the chill of death; thy light shall be swallowed up and thou shalt cease thy faithful journey over thy well-worn path. No, the sun, moon and stars cannot claim permanency and give us a sure thing, for He whose hand laid the foundations of the earth and hung sun, moon and stars in the heavens, has said: "Heaven and earth shall pass away."

And the lips of the Son of God had not ceased to move as He spoke the doom of the heavens and the earth ere He had given man a sure thing on which to stand, for He went on to declare in the same sentence: "But My words shall not pass away." Here then is the sure thing that shall abide with God throughout the unending eternities. And our text gives us a recasting of the thought in the mold of Paul's mind as, in writing to the Corinthian church, he declares: "All the promises of God in Christ are yea, and in Christ Amen, unto the glory of God by us."

The mariner in the midst of the vast ocean studies the stars and takes his bearings. Then he is sure of his location and knows the exact direction in which to steer to bring him to the safe shelter of the home port. Man sailing the sea of life has the privilege of studying the sure gleams of God's Word, and taking his bearings. Then when his exact location has been ascertained and he knows the direction in which lies the safe harbor of his eternal home, he is able to steer his course in that direction and knows that there is no uncertainty as to his safe arrival. The sure promises of God's Word! They began to echo in the heart of man when the righteous judgment of death was pronounced against sin: "In the day that thou eatest thereof, thou shalt die." And death came crowding upon the heels of the disobedient and guilty pair, but the same day that was overcast with the cloud of punishment for sin saw the rainbow of promise set in the heavens of God's love, as He declared that "the seed of the woman shall bruise the serpent's head." And each promise of God thereafter shone with ever-increasing light until it burst in the glory of the star over Bethlehem's manger and echoed through the heavens in the songs of the angels, as they proclaimed the birth of a Saviour, which was Christ the Lord. All of the promises of God fulfilled and established in Christ! Let us fix our eyes upon Him! Let us understand Him, for in Him alone can the Divine certainties be realized and the promises of God claimed and fulfilled.

The sun glass in my hand catches the many rays of the sun, binds them together by the power of its curved, crystal sides and gives them out again on the other side with an intensity and perfectness that will scorch and blister the skin or set the [illegible] in a blaze. This may serve in some degree at least to illustrate Christ's relationship to the promises of God. The rays of each and every promise found in the Old Testament are caught up and concentrated in Christ, and then stream forth with new intensity and new meaning as they burn out and cleanse from all sin, and clothe with the righteousness which is of God. The promises of the Old Testament center in the Christ and through Him spread out into the glad Gospel message of the New Testament! "For all the promises of God in Christ are yea, and in Christ Amen, unto the glory of God by us."

The Divine Certainties. Enoch walked with God three hundred and sixty-five years, and then mounting up on the certainties of God's promises he passed, unscathed by death or the grave, on into the eternal presence of God. Abraham, knowing the promises of God and hearing His call, left the land of his fathers and went into a land which God showed him. "He sojourned in the land of promise, as in a strange country, dwelling in tabernacles with Isaac and Jacob, the heirs with him of the same promise; for he looked for a city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God." And take the long list of other worthies whose names Paul chiseled in the wonderful corridor of fame in the eleventh of Hebrews. Every one whose name is there recorded laid hold of the promises of God by faith and obtained that sure reward, which lies like the sweet meat in the nut, within the heart of every promise. Do you fear, and hesitate to stand upon them? Take your Bible and search its pages from lid to lid and find one single instance where God's promises have failed. In the lives that people the avenues of its faithful human record every promise has had its testing. Pick your promise and then search out your character that tested and proved the promise. It can be done. God's record is perfect and the Holy Spirit did not cease writing until every word and syllable of God had been tested and proved faithful.

There are some Old and New Testament promises which have not yet fallen due, notably those in the Old Testament, and repeated in some degree in the New, regarding the restoration of the Jewish nation and the glory of God which is yet to shine out through them. And in the New Testament the promise of the second coming of Christ shines out as the brightest and most glorious gem in all the magnificent collection. To it the church has directed its enrapt gaze since the words fell from the lips of the angel on Mount Olivet, and in its fulfillment is to be realized in the twinkling of an eye the changing of the mortal bodies into those of immortality, and the union of Christ to His bride, the church, which He is to meet in the air as He comes in the clouds of glory. And because every promise which has fallen due has been fully and blessedly fulfilled, we are confident that the things which God has declared shall yet come to pass are absolutely sure of realization.

The little boy stood on the busy corner of the city street. His cheery little face showed no trace of anxiety or care. And yet there he stood as the long moments dragged by and the hurrying throngs passed him on either hand. No one seemed to have any claim on the youngster. He was all alone. By and by the unusual sight of such a small boy standing on the street corner all alone attracted the attention of the big policeman stationed at the crossing. Fearing that the little fellow was lost, and yet perplexed that he did not see tearful eyes and quivering lips, he stooped down and questioned him. "Oh, no, sir," he said, "I'm not lost; I'm waiting for my papa." "But you have been waiting a long time, my little man; are you not afraid your papa has forgotten all about you, and won't come back?" The little boy's frank blue eyes grew big with wonder as he exclaimed: "Why, no, indeed, he never failed me yet." And he didn't then, for at that very moment the faithful father returned and the hand of the confident little son was lovingly clasped in his as they trudged off together.

And God has never failed His children yet. He keeps us waiting on the corner of earnest seeking and needful preparation sometimes, but if meddling Small Faith does not come along and destroy our confidence and get us to go off with him into the hurrying crowd of unbelief, and we stand fast at our post, like the little fellow whose father had never failed him, we will find that God will not fail us either, but in the fullness of time will come bringing the fulfillment of the promise with Him.

Stepping Stones.—The promises of God are the stepping stones on which man crosses from the shore of his limitations to the eternal possibilities of God. Their glistening white tops stand out above the surging tide of life and offer safe foothold for those who will plant their feet upon them. Did you ever cross a stream on stepping stones? What was it gave you confidence to trust yourself upon them? The fact that they reared their clean, dry surfaces above the swirling waters made you sure that away down out of sight they rested upon the bed-rock of the river, and as you stood upon each successive stone you could feel its unfailing solidity and see beneath the surface of the clear water where its broad base rested. Even so is it beautifully true of God's promises. If one will but look for them they can be seen like the stepping stones rearing their sure surfaces above the surging affairs of life all about, and the fact that they do is evidence that they reach below the surface and rest upon a secure foundation.

In crossing the stream upon the stepping stones you remember how it was but one stone at a time, and that you were not ready for the third stone until the second had been passed and the fourth followed, and so on until the last stone was reached in due time? Do you also remember how confused and dizzy you became when you took your eyes off the stepping stone and looked at the rushing waters as they whirled by? It was one stone at a time, and you had to keep your eyes on each stone to keep from making a misstep, and failing into the stream. The stepping stones of God's promises are to be taken in the same way, and He who lifts his gaze from the promise and looks off into the rushing waters of sin and unbelief is sure to fall.

The First Stone and the Last.—The first stone marks the beginning as the soul comes in touch with God and puts its trust in Him; the last is gained as the feet rest on the other side the river of death and find the golden roadway which leads into the City of God. The first stone is the promise of salvation in Christ Jesus. "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved!" The last stone is the promise: "When thou passeth through the waters, I will be with thee," and the assurance that "though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for Thou art with me." And between the two stretch out for every step of the journey of life the promises which if claimed and stood upon will enable the soul to pursue a safe pathway and to "rejoice in the Lord, alway."

Did you ever realize that from the moment Jesus rested in the manger at Bethlehem a babe until the day He was caught up into Heaven through the clouds His feet constantly rested upon the promises of His Father? It was all He had to depend upon, the eternal Word of God. And if at any point in His earthly life He had lifted His feet from the stepping stones of God's promises, He would have failed in His great and marvelous mission of redeeming the human race. But thanks be to God! He did not, and thus not only did the promises uphold Him but they were fulfilled and established in Him. And now it is our privilege in Christ Jesus to claim every promise He claimed, to walk safely over every step of the journey of life.

The Pathway of Joy.—At the very close of the earthly life of Jesus, He spoke of the joy which filled His heart. What was the secret of that Joy? Was it in Himself? Was it in the cruel path He had traveled? Was it that at the end of His earthly career He was rejected and crucified by the nation to which He had come as Messiah and King? No. Joy is never found in one's self, in the things we have or the pathway of life we travel. Jesus' joy was found in the sure promises of God. He knew His feet rested upon that which would abide long after the heavens and earth has ceased to be. He could see the glorious gleams from the promises of God shining over the cross, through the tomb and marking a pathway of light back to the presence of the Father. Joy, oh, what joy! It is the joy which may be ours, for Jesus, after testing every one of God's promises and establishing them in Himself, said: "These things have I spoken unto you, that My joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full."

The Glory of the Promises.—And herein is where the glory of the promises shines forth. Our text declares that the promises of God are sure "unto the glory of God by us." A promise of God linked with a human life flashes forth a glory that will only find its equal and counterpart in the matchless glory and magnificence of the Heavenly city. The corn of wheat needs to be linked with the black soil, the rain and the sunshine before the glory of its fruitage can be revealed. The diamond shut within the narrow dark prison of its plush case is not a whit different than the bit of glass which may rest at its side, but lift it from its case and link it with the flashing beams of sunshine and its glory stands revealed, while the bit of glass remains but a piece of unresponsive gluss still. So it is with man and God's promises. Shut man up to himself and the promises of God are dead and meaningless, but let him once open his life and heart to the streaming light of the promises and he flashes back their beauty in a thousand gleams of light to the glory of God. If man needs God's promises on which to step from earth to Heaven, God's promises need man to realize their fulfillment and reveal their glory. Ah, how necessary is God to man and man to God! What infinite love is God's, what glorious privilege is man's! Yea, verily, "the promises of God in Christ are yea, and in Christ Amen, unto the glory of God by us."

A New Novel Attracting Attention.

"Lionel Ardon," by Malcolm Dearborn, is a new historical novel brought out by Dillingham & Co., in November last. It has many points on which to commend it for its superiority to the reading public. There is, at present, such a deluge of new novels that when one can be picked out whose interest is so intense and whose characters are so well drawn like all productions of true merit, it is soon placed in the first rank. At the time of the publication of this volume we had the pleasure of favorably reviewing it, and we are pleased to note the general appreciation of "Lionel Ardon" by the American press. The following is from the Boston Beacon:

"In this book the reader renews acquaintance with English history by means of a story delicately conceived and very interestingly told. The historical characters are well drawn and the imaginary ones are true to life past or present. This is the first novel to utilize the beautiful face and character of Lady Jane Grey and she makes a very attractive part of the story. Lionel Ardon from boyhood to manhood plays worthily the hero's part. The book is very strikingly bound in dark blue and gilt with a decorative touch by the outlines of the rose and thistle in colors and two inverted swords in white."

I have a geography with 965 pages, published in London England, in 1794, which gives an account of oil being found in the State of Kentucky and burned in lamps as far back as 1790. Frank Cecil, under indictment for complicity in the Goebel murder conspiracy, surrendered himself in the Franklin Circuit Court Friday, and was released on bond of $3,000. Prior to being arraigned he went before the grand jury, in pursuance to an agreement with Commonwealth's Attorney Franklin. Cecil will be utilized as a witness for the State in future prosecutions. He has been a fugitive for the past year.

SEVERAL papers have been publishiug a statement, and endeavoring to leave the impression that it is the substance of Henry Youtsey's testimony before the Franklin county grand jury, in the Goebel murder investigation, but the fact is the statement is only a rehash of what it was claimed was a statement made by Youtsey several months ago. What Youtsey told the grand jury will not be known until he is put on the witness stand before the trial jury.

In his address at the late Kansas City National Wool Growers' Association, Senator Warren, of Wyoming, said:

"The country is now practically free from all old wool that has been dragging on the market for years. I may say that when the new crop comes on we will be almost absolutely free from stale wool. We are now a mutton-eating nation. When I first engaged in the business of raising sheep 30 years ago there was no market, even in Chicago, for more than two or three carloads of western sheep a day. It would take a week to peddle out a trainload of sheep there, and railroads would take no sheep for shipment unless the freight was paid in advance. Now the railroads stand beseeching, hat in hand, ready to give the sheepmen anything they want, and Chicago takes care of 30,000 to 50,000 mutton a day without disturbance."

DUDLEY ROUSE.

Dudley Rouse, who sold out his merchandise business in Burlington, last week, had been engaged in the business longer than any other merchant in Boone county. In 1867, W. M. Conner, James K., and Dudley Rouse, bought out the Longmore firm, which was doing business in the room now occupied by the postoffice. They remained there a year or so and bought the old Glenn grocery conner, raized the old one story frame building and erected the two-story frame structure into which they moved their stock of general merchandise and where Dudley Rouse continued business until he disposed of his stock last week to L. H. Crisler and M. L. Riddell.

W. M. Conner retired from the firm shortly after it entered its new quarters, leaving Dudley and James Rouse the sole owners. In 1871, James Rouse died, when his father, Ben Rouse, inherited his interest in the business, which, in a few years he sold to Dudley Rouse, who continued at the old stand until last week, having given it his entire attention since 1867.

Mr. Rouse was a very correct man in all his dealings, and carried nothing in stock which he could not recommend, and his reputation for reliability is known throughout the county. That he made a success of his business is well known, and in his retiring it looks like one of the principal fixtures of the town has been removed. To private life he carries the best wishes of all.

Two of the best story tellers in the senate will return to private life with the passing of this Congress. George Graham Vest, of Missouri, whose wit and stories have enlivened the cloak rooms for the last twenty years, will end his public career and at the same time John P. Jones, of Nevada, will retire. While Senator Vest was brilliant on the floor, he was wittiest in the smoking room. When surrounded by a group of appreciative listeners he would tell stories and make jests by the hour. Senator Jones also has not kept his fun under a bushel. He is extremely serious and profound in debate, but in a free and easy discussion in the cloak room his quaint humor is second to that of no member of the Senate.

It is argued that the action of Congress in putting coal on the free list for one year will not afford the relief to consumers that was expected; that the addition to the supply connot be in time to relieve the present distress; that the cost of transportation added to the foreign price will put it on the market in Boston and New York at not less than ten dollars a ton. This may turn out to be the fact. Possibly that is the reason Congress removed the duty. Whatever may be the effect the Republican spellbinders will boast about how their Congress came to the rescue of the poor in the dead of winter. The coal famine was freely predicted before the winter season set in. The present condition is not a sudden surprise. If Congress had tried this experiment immediately on assembling in December, there might have been practical results.—Enquirer.

As a result of the recent sale of old furniture from the White House a well known Washington beer garden has been adorned with the handicraft of the leading society belles of Cincinnati of a score of years ago. When the eagerness of the young woman to do something developed into a fad for wood carving, some of her friends, who are now matrons, exercised their skill in decorating a piece of furniture to be sent as a gift to Mrs. Hayes from her young admirers in Cincinnati.

In the next issue we will present James A. Duncan as a candidate for circuit clerk in an up-to-date manner. Jimmie is all right, you bet.

To boil cream the day before enhances the richness of the coffee into which it is poured.

Salt should always be washed from butter before it is used for puff paste, as it retards its rising.

To remove the smell of onions from a saucepan fill it with water and drop into it a red-hot cinder.

Milk is better for being kept over night in small tins than if a large quantity is kept over in one vessel.

When scouring zinc, use a little kerosene or bath brick, pulverized, and lime. Wash in hot water and polish with common writing.

A stone jar with a close cover is one of the safest things to keep matches in. Place on a high shelf out of the reach of the children.

Bake custards by setting the cups in a pan of water. This cooks them very evenly and makes them less liable to become watery.

A tablespoonful of turpentine put into the butter will whiten the clothes boiled in it and will prove an economy both of soap and labor.

Scatter salt over soot when it falls upon a carpet. The soot will adhere to the salt when brushed up lightly, and leave the carpet perfectly clean.

The acquittal of Major Glenn will leave General Jacob Smith the distinction of being the only American officer in official disgrace for successful carrying out the policy of the Government. How does this strike the American idea of fairness?—Washington Post.

Representative Tawney of Minnesota, a republican member of the ways and means committee, has introduced a joint resolution for appointment of a joint committee of the two houses, six senators and eleven representatives-elect, to the Fifty-eight congress to inquire during the coming recess of congress into the present conditions of domestic and foreign production and the necessity for "any modification of duty on any or all dutiable articles, whether any reduction thereof can be made consistent with reasonable protection to American industry and labor," etc., and futhermore "whether or not the tariff system known as the maximum and minimum tariff possesses for the productive industries, business interests and foreign trade of the people of the United States advantages superior to our present tariff system."

Judge Omer F. Roberts, an old and prominent citizen of Dearborn county, Indiana, was found dead in bed at his home in Aurora, last Thursday morning. He had been complaining some, but on Wednesday he attended to his business in the circuit court at Lawrenceburg. He had held the office of circuit Judge, representative and State senator. His second wife, who survives him, is a half sister of James M. Riddell, of Williamstown. Her first husband was the late Robert Terrill, of Petersburg.

HON. JAMES W. KENNEDY.

IN this issue will be found the announcement of Hon. J. W. Kennedy, of Union, as a Democratic candidate for nomination and reelection as a member of the next General Assembly. Mr. Kennedy was one of the best working members in the last legislature, and was very popular with the other members. He was conservative and painstaking and was exceedingly watchful of the interest of his constituents. The county will make no mistake if it returns Mr. Kennedy, one of the staunchest Democrats in her boundary.

In this issue will be found the sale advertisement of George W. Guissinger, of Petersburg. He has been farming on an extensive scale there for several years, and had his large farm well stocked, and a large quantity of provender in store. It will be a very large sale.

A Newton woman cured her husband of staying out late at night by going to the door when he came home and whispering through the keyhole, "Is that you Willie?" Her husband's name is John and he stays at home every night now, and sleeps with one eye open and a revolver under his pillow.—Lawrenceburg Press.

Leave your soft corn on the stalk until it dries out in the shock, otherwise it will become withered in drying or else be apt to rot or sour. With proper care there should be no loss in soft corn, as the green stalk furnishes sufficient substance to mature the ear or nearly so without much withering. Keep it dry and it makes the finest feed fed to stock, says a West Virginian in National Stockman.

Housewives should not make the mistake of thinking that any cereal food possesses the food value of meat and potatoes. The real value of a food must depend more upon the protein it contains than upon any other single constituent. No cereal food of all those examined contained over 13 per cent of protein. A man at moderate work needs more than twice this amount combined with fat and carbonydrates in proportion.

The Burley Tobacco Growers' Association, composed principally of farmers and small merchants, will control the crop of white burley tobacco of the present year, if its plans meet with success. At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Association held in Louisville, last week, it was decided to incorporate the association with a capital stock of $3,000,000. Articles of incorporation drawn up by a committee appointed for that purpose were approved and will be filed soon. The association will meet again at Lexington on February 26 and complete its organization under the new charter.

The Power of Fashion.

[Contributed by Students of League Institute, Verona, Ky.]

No heathen god or goddess has ever had more zealous devotees than Fashion; or a more absurd and humiliating ritual, or more mortifying and cruel penances. Fashion rules the world, and a most tyrannical mistress she is—compelling people to submit to the most inconvenient things for her sake. Her laws, like those of the Medes and Persians, must be implicitly obeyed, but unlike them change as certainly as the moon. They usually violate common sense, and uniformly common comfort. She pinches our feet with tight shoes, or chokes us with a tight neckerchief. If she orders a balloon sleeve or no sleeve at all for a dress, if she orders gauze for winter or five thicknesses of woolen for summer, the result is the same—she is obeyed.

Each of the successive World-Empires, the Athenian with her literature and arts, the Roman with her desire for conquest, the Macedonian with her mighty Phalanx, and the Persian with her love of truth, acknowledged the supremacy of Fashion. The sword of the Saracens was weak in comparison with that wielded by her. In ancient Greece, a gentleman walking the streets without his cane was subject to arrest and imprisonment. A Dude of the 14th century wore pointed shoes two feet long and a coat one half white and the other blue or black.

Fashion first infatuates the court and aristocracy and then ridicules the poor it they do not follow in the wake. This was exemplified in the Reign of Richard III, king of England, who was hunchbacked. Monkey-like, his court, at the diction of Fashion, all mounted pads upon their backs, and the whole nation became hunchbacked—emphatically a crooked generation; from the peasant to the king, all were humped.

The presumption of Fashion is wonderful. She even desires to improve upon the plans of the Creator. In many of the islands of the Pacific Ocean, the custom of tattooing the skin entails an amount of suffering painful to think of. Formerly, on the south-eastern shores of Alaska, a slot was cut in the lower lip; heavy weights were suspended, in order to draw the lip down displaying the teeth and gums in a ghastly manner. While the natural whiteness of the teeth is admired by us, the Malays take great pains to stain their teeth black, which they consider greatly adds to their beauty. In some parts of Australia the strange custom of knocking out one or more of the front teeth prevails.

The Chinook Indian mother considers it necessary to change the shape of the heads of her offspring by pressure with tight bandages. The Chinese fashionables render their children miserable cripples for life by restricting the growth of the feet.

In America, the most enlightened country in the world, Fashion finds ready followers; and here as elsewhere she delights in torturing the human race; nay even this extends to the dumb brutes. We see man's faithful companion, the dog, with his ears niched, and his tail bobbed, and in spite of all warning of common sense and humanity, we continue, solely because it is fashionable, to torture the noble animal, the horse, by reining up his head in a constrained and unnatural position, and therefore inelegant, and which produces much suffering and permanentinjury.

Fashion is the foster mother of vanity. With her, the cut of the collar, the depth of the flounce, the style of a ribbon is of more importance than the strength of a virtue, the bent of a mind, or the style of a life.

When one is under her influence, she is found consulting the fashion plate, oftener than the Bible; she visits the drygoods shop and milliner's oftener than the church; she speaks of fashion oftener than virtue and follows her closer than her Savior. It has been truly said, "Fashion wears out more apparel than the whole human race. Friendship's links must be forged on Fashion's anvil else they are good for nothing. How shocking to be friendly with an unfashionable lady! No matter if her mind should be a treasury of rare gems, and her heart a flower-garden of love, and her life a hymn of grace and praise; it will not do to walk the streets with her, or intimate to any body that you know her. Love, too, must be fashionable. It would be unpardonable to love a plain man whom fashion could not induce to puff a Havanna; to drink at a fashionable saloon; or contract a debt for a diamond ring. He would be just as likely to set down in the kitchen as in the parlor, and might get hold of the wood-saw as often as the guitar.

This great evil turns society into a grand show-room; it makes the poor, poorer, and the rich more avaricious. It causes almost everybody to over-live, over-dress overeat, over-act, in every thing that will make a show. It is a great root of selfishness, a great weight of oppression, a great sink of meanness, a great burden of woe, and a great cloud of despair. Oh Fashion! How thou art dwarfing the intellect and eating out the hearts of our people.

Those who came to town over the East Bend road, Monday, said they found only one real bad mud hole, and that was the entire distance. Lucien Clore said he heard the frogs singing in the ponds along the road.

Mont Slayback was chopping wood, a few days since. When he cut off the first log he pulled a pole cat out of it, and did the same every time he chopped a log off until he had $15 worth of pole cat pets piled up by the side of his wood. It was a big day's work for Mont.

The condition of the dirt roads was terrible by the middle of last week, and in some places travel over them was dangerous. Leonard and Gideon Kite and others of Waterloo neighborhood, who came this way with loads of tobacco had much trouble in getting over the East Bend road. The road leading from Locust Grove school house to Albert Conner's was next thing to impassable, and the hill route was taken in preference by some of the tobacco haulers. The turnpikes were breaking through in places, and in some instances wagons had to be prized out of the places into which they sank.

RR. ADM. H. C. TAYLOR.

To Be Presented With a Sword By the People of Indiana.

Washington, Jan. 31.—Rr. Adm. Henry C. Taylor, chief of the bureau of navigation, who commanded the battleship Indiana during the war with Spain, has received the following letter from Gov. Durbin, of Indiana:

"I have the honor of informing you that the 63d general assembly has passed a bill which has been approved commendatory of your distinguished services as commander of the battleship Indiana in one of the most notable naval engagements in history, off the harbor of Santiago, during the Spanish-American war.

"The act also provides for a testimonial in token of the esteem in which you are held by citizens of Indiana and I therefore cordially invite you to be present at the capitol on Monday, February 23 next, to formally accept a sword to be tendered you by the state by the chosen representatives of the people."

Adm. Taylor in his reply to the governor says:

"In accepting the cordial invitation to be present at the capitol on Monday, February 23, to receive a testimonial tendered me by the chosen representatives of the people of the state, I beg to express my sincere thanks and full appreciation of the honor conferred upon me. The token I will highly prize as a reminder of my services in command of the vessel; but far above all I value the act of recognition itself, conveying as it does assurance of the high esteem of the citizens of Indiana."

The testimonial referred to is a magnificently ornamented service sword.

ACCIDENT ON THE BOSTON.

One Man Killed and Another in a Critical Condition.

Vallejo, Cal., Jan. 31.—In an accident in the engine room of the United States ship Boston, lying in San Francisco bay, Edward Lee Baker lost his life and Sanford H. Tate lies in a critical condition at the naval hospital, Mare island.

The two men were machinists of the United States navy, attached to the Boston. While they were endeavoring to repair a valve, a plate blew out and the escaping steam enveloped them.

Baker was 23 years old, a native of Savannah, Ga., and his nearest known relative is Mrs. Jennie Baker, of Savannah, presumably his mother. Tate is a native of Melville, N. Y., 27 years old. Hopes are entertained for his recovery.

STATUE OF KING CHARLES.

Decorated With Wreaths By the "Legitimists" at Charing Cross.

London, Jan. 31.—The statue of King Charles at Charing Cross, this city, was decorated with wreaths by the "Legitimists" Friday as usual on the anniversary of his execution, January 30, 1649. The Royal Oak club, of Edinburgh, was represented by a crown of immortelles six feet high and surmounted by an orb and cross in white and crimson. It was dedicated to the sacred memory of the monarch "beheaded by his rebellious subjects."

A sky blue silk vest worn by King Charles on the scaffold and stained with his blood is being exhibited in the United Service museum.

WENT TO THE BOTTOM.

The Barkentine Ninevah Sunk in the Atlantic Ocean.

Port Arthur, Tex., Jan. 31.—Capt. Thomas Renion, of the steamer Maverick, which arrived from Philadelphia, reports that on the 21st instant he sighted the barkentine Ninevah, 420 net tons, of New York, in the Atlantic ocean, loaded with buckwheat coal. The vessel showed no signs of life and had ten feet of water in her hold. Ten hours after, the Ninevah sunk in latitude 32 degrees and 50 minutes north and longitude 78 degrees and 29 minutes west.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

The Endowment Rank Is Looking For Headquarters.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 31.—The committee representing the national endowment rank of the Knights of Pythias having in charge the location of national headquarters, announced Friday that its intention to visit Columbus, O., had been abandoned on account of the laws of Ohio taxing funds of secret societies. This leaves Indianapolis, Janesville, Wis., and Nashville, Tenn., in the list of possibilities.

Oyster Schooner Sunk.

Newport News, Va., Jan. 31.—The schooner Three Sisters, which arrived Friday night, reports the sinking of the oyster schooner W. H. Smith, off Thimble Light, near Ocean View. Capt. John Collier and John W. Young, seamen, and three Negro sailors, are believed to have perished.

Firemen's Wages Increased.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 31.—General Manager A. G. Feltz, of the Santa Fe railroad lines, west of Albuquerque, has announced that the firemen on all the west lines of that company will be granted an increase in wages equal to five or six per cent.

Buying Ammunition.

London, Jan. 31.—A correspondent at Budapest telegraphs that a contract for 10,000,000 rounds of small arm ammunition for the Servian army was signed there with the sanction of the Hungarian government.

SCALE COMMITTEE.

No Decision Reached on Any of the Points Submitted.

The Illinois Operators Claim That They Ware Not On An Equality With the Other Operators of the District.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 31.—The joint scale committee held its first session Friday afternoon. It consists of 16 miners and 16 operators. W. H. Haskins, of Pine Run, O., was selected permanent chairman, and C. S. Scroggs, of Illinois, permanent secretary. Immediately after the permanent organization was perfected a motion was made that the scale, which was submitted by the miners at the morning session of the joint conference, be adopted as presented. The argument following the motion consumed the entire afternoon, until adjournment at 5 o'clock. No decision was reached on any of the points submitted.

The report of the credentials committee seated 704 delegates in the conference. President Mitchell submitted the demands of the miners. He cited many reasons the miners had for making the demands for an increase of wages this year. He said that the country was passing through a period of unparalleled prosperity, but that the miners were not receiving their share of it. He wanted an adjustment of the differential between pick and machine mined coal and asked that it be fixed at seven cents flat.

The miners' demands, which he read, are as follows: "1. Absolute run of mine basis for the entire competitive field. 2. A flat differential of seven cents per ton between pick and machine mined coal. 3. An advance of 12½ cents a ton on pick and machine. 4. A 30 per cent. advance on all inside day labor based on the Columbus inside day scale agreement; uniform scale for all outside day labor, with proportionate advance with the mining rates. 5. That drivers and cagers shall be paid the same as track layers and timbermen."

Immediately after the demand of the miners had been read Herman Justi, the commissioner for the Illinois operators, following the lead of Paul Penna, the Indiana operators' commissioner, in the convention Thursday, submitted a lengthy statement setting forth the reasons why the Illinois operators were not on an equality with the other operators of the district and that they should not have to agree to a scale on the same basis as the other states of the competitive district.

The committee met Friday night but adjourned after a half hour's session. It will report to the conference Saturday morning that no agreement has been reached. The entire matter will be discussed at the general session.

The absolute run of mine, which is demanded by the miners, is the first stumbling block, in the way of an agreement. The operators are opposed to it and will stand firmly against it. They say that Illinois is an example of the operation of such a basis. They say that in places where that system is used, the miners are careless as to the quality of the coal and that the screen system is much preferable to both operators and miners. The operators did not make any proposition.

A MERGER SCHEME.

All Indiana Coal Interests Are to Be Combined.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 31.—Indiana coal operators are working on one of the largest merging schemes in the history of the state. The plan is to bring all of the controlling coal producing interests in the state into one company, absolute ownership is the plan to be followed. The coal mining interests of the state are worth over thirty-five million dollars. The plan is to take in these properties lying along the railroad lines.

A committee composed of A. M. Ogle, of Indianapolis; J. Smith Talley, of Terre Haute, and George Seifort, who has large mines in Sullivan county, is making the moves and taking options on properties. Some of the largest coal mining interests in the state are covered by options.

It is said that the deal, if it goes through, will be far more extensive than simply the ownership of mines. The company contemplates, it is understood, equipping itself with its own coal cars and to provide enough so there will not be the present frequent shut-down of the mines because of not having cars on which to load the coal.

A Coalboat Rise.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 31.—The rivers Friday night were booming as a result of the heavy rains and thaws at Pittsburg and at headwater points, but river men do not expect more than 22 feet at Pittsburg. It is expected that at least 4,000,000 bushels of coal will be shipped on this rise.

To Amend the Revenue Law.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 30.—A bill will be presented in the legislature next week amending the revenue law by striking out the exemption of coal mines from assessment on their capital stock by the state board of equalization.

To Be Absorbed By 'Frisco System.

Guthrie, Okla., Jan. 30.—The property of the Blackwell, Enid & Southwestern railroad from O'Kenne, Oklahoma, to Vernon, Tex., will be formally turned over to the 'Frisco system February 1.

STRIKERS RIOTING.

Militia Ordered Out at Waterbury, Ct. —Non-Union Men Hurt.

Waterbury, Ct., Feb. 2.—Union motormen and conductors and their sympathizers made several attacks on the non-union men who were running the cars of the Connecticut Railway and Lighting Co. that the strikers had left.

Violence continued Sunday though no serious damage was done. One of the injured non-union motormen who is in a serious condition was ordered to be removed to the hospital. Three non-union men were on their way to the hospital for a stretcher when a mob of several hundred men and boys assailed them with rocks. The men ran and found refuge in the hospital. The mob surrounded the building and became threatening when the superintendent telephoned to the police for protection.

Companies G and A, of this city, a part of the Second regiment of the Connecticut national guard, was called to their armory shortly before 6 o'clock Sunday evening and remained there under orders.

Gov. Chamberlain, when asked why the militia had been ordered out, said: "Because the situation demands it. I had hesitated about it, but every effort has been made by the local authorities in Waterbury to avert violence, and to-day it seemed apparent that wisdom dictated prompt and energetic action if law and order and the welfare of the city and state were to be conserved."

CITIZEN SOLDIERS.

They Will Be Supplied With the Regular Army Service Rifle.

Washington, Feb. 2.—In accordance with the terms of the new militia law, recently enacted by congress, the entire citizen soldiery of the country is to be supplied with the regular army service rifle. The state militia organizations aggregate approximately 115,000 men, nearly double the number in the regular army establishment. They will be furnished their new arms as rapidly as they can be manufactured by the national armory at Springfield, Mass. In addition to this the war department is installing a plant at the Rock Island arsenal for the manufacture of the service rifle, though it will be some time before it is ready for work. The department has on hand a large reserve supply of rifles, sufficient almost to equip the militia, but will rely mainly on the product of the armories, as the officials prefer not to draw on the reserve too heavily.

MINER MURDERED.

Twenty-One Persons Were Arrested Charged With the Deed.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Feb. 2.—Constant A. Sobiliefsko, a Russian and a well-known local miner, who had worked during the strike, was Sunday kicked and stabbed to death by 21 of his infuriated countrymen, who are all either miners or laborers working in and about the mines at Plymouth and Larksville, three miles from this city. The party had been at a dance during Saturday night, many of them not returning to their homes until noon Sunday. The deed was committed on the public highway near the Boston mine breaker at Larksville.

One of the party named Powell Ladofski, confessed to being implicated in the killing and he and 20 others were arrested Sunday evening and committed to the Luzerne county prison.

JEFFERSON MEMORIAL.

The Association Issues An Appeal to the American People For Funds.

Washington, Feb. 2.—The Thomas Jefferson Memorial association organized for the purpose of erecting at the national capital an appropriate and truly national memorial to the "author of the Declaration of Independence," through its president, Adm. George Dewey, has issued an appeal to the American people, for funds to carry out the object of the association.

The association is now complete in its list of officers, every state being represented by a vice president and in some cases by a representative on the board of governors, the controlling body. No great movement of a similar character in this country, it is claimed, had as its officers more men of national character and influence than this organization.

Largest Merchant Vessel Afloat.

Liverpool, Feb. 2.—The White Star line steamer Cedric, the largest merchant vessel in the world, which left Belfast on her trial trip, arrived here safely after a very rough voyage on her trip.

Fast Train to Be Discontinued.

Philadelphia, Feb. 2.—Discontinuance of the Pennsylvania special, the 20 hour train between New York and Chicago, over the Pennsylvania railroad and the Fort Wayne road, will be ordered within a few days.

Philippine Commerce.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Official returns of Philippine commerce for October, 1902, show the value of merchandise imported to have been considerably larger than in any single month since American occupation, aggregating $3,279,692.

Henry Phipps' Gift.

Calcutta, Feb. 2.—Henry Phipps, director of the Carnegie Steel Co., has handed to Lord Curzon $10,000 to be devoted to some practical object or in scentific research that promises to be of enduring benefit to India.

REJECTED PROPOSALS

Another Proposition Sent to the Allies by Minister Bowen.

Compromise In the Allied Powers' Contantion for Preferential Treatment In the Settlement of Claims Against Venezuela Offered.

Washington, Feb. 2.—The allies have rejected Minister Bowen's last proposal, that all nations having claims against Venezuela be given the same treatment as the blockading powers. The answers of the allies have been received here and they reject the proposal.

Propositions involving a compromise of the allied powers' contention for preferential treatment in the settlement of their claims against Venezuela have been submitted to the governments of Great Britain, Germany and Italy by their representatives at Washington and while no answers have been received as yet, there is reason for the belief that the allies will see a way to accept the latest proposition. This compromise has been suggested by one of the representatives of the allies here and while it has not formally received the endorsement of Minister Bowen, it is felt that he will not enter serious objection to its adoption, providing the United States and the other claimant nations outside the alliance can be convinced that their own interests in Venezuela will not be substantially injured by yielding to a plan which seems to offer a solution of the present serious hitch in the Washington negotiations.

The details of the proposition now under consideration by the three allied nations are not obtainable but in a general way it is understood to be a modification of the allies' contention that they he recognized as Venezuela's preferred claimants, in the payment of the indemnity. The plan suggested provides that for a short period, perhaps six months or a year, Great Britain, Germany and Italy shall receive exclusively 30 per cent. of the customs receipts of the ports of Puerto Cabello and La Guayra and that at the end of this period, the exact length of which is yet open to decision, all the claimant nations be placed on the same footing and at the expiration of that time the 30 per cent. of the receipts of these two ports be divided among all the claimant nations, in ratio based on the amount of each nation's claim.

France has it in her power to continue the present deadlock in the Washington negotiations. For while the other un-allied claimants have outstanding against Venezuela certain unadjusted claims, all of the French claims are in a very forward state.

Caracas, Feb. 2.—In reply to Minister Bowen's inquiry as to what Venezuela intends to do regarding the demand for preferential treatment made by the allies, President Castro has telegraphed:

"The Venezuelan government desires equal treatment for all the creditor nations in Europe and America, keeping in mind, in addition, its diplomatic conventions and anterior stipulations."

EX-SECRETARY LONG.

He Lies Critically Ill in a Hospital in Boston.

Boston, Jan. 30.—Former Gov. John D. Long, secretary of the navy under President McKinley, as well as for some months under President Roosevelt, lies critically ill at St. Margaret's hospital. Thursday night three physicians were at his bedside, and his wife, son and daughter were close at hand.

Boston, Feb. 2.—The reports Sunday from the bedside of ex-Gov. Long were of a character to give renewed hope of his ultimate recovery. The attending physician and the few others in a position to know positively have heretofore been reticent, but the impression reflected from the bulletins of the past 24 hours was one of encouragement, and those in attendance made no attempt Sunday night to conceal the fact that the day had been very satisfactory from a medical standpoint.

SUNDAY SESSION.

House Eulogized the Memory of the Late Senator McMillan.

Washington, Feb. 2.—The house met at noon Sunday for the purpose of pronouncing eulogies in memory of the late Senator McMillan, of Michigan. The speakers were Messrs. Corliss, W. A. Smith, Hamilton, S. W. Smith, Gardner, and Henry C. Smith, of Michigan; Babcock, of Wisconsin, and Burton, of Ohio. At 1:35 o'clock, as a further mark of respect, the house adjourned.

Few Old Men Can Say This.

Lakefield, Minn., Feb. 2nd.—Wm. E. Gentry of this place makes the following statement:

"For over forty years I suffered with misery in my back and at times I could not pass water without great pain and a burning sensation. I have had to make water as many as sixteen times during one night—just a little at a time. I tried many kinds of kidney medicines but all without any good result till at last I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills and my pains are all gone.

"I took six boxes and I am cured completely. I am 77 years of age and I feel better now than I have for over fifty years and I attribute it all to Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills have made some remarkable cures in this part of the state, and many old men and women are praising them highly as a cure for lame back, Kidney and bladder troubles.

WOMEN SUFFER.

Hard to attend to daily duties with a back that aches like the toothache. A woman's kidneys give her constant trouble. Backache is the first warning of sick kidneys and should never be neglected.

Urinary disorders annoy, embarrass and worry womankind. Dangerous diabetes, dropsy and Bright's disease are sure to follow if the kidneys are neglected. Read how to cure the kidneys and keep them well:

Mrs. James Beck, of 314 West Whitesboro Street, Rome, N. Y., says: "I was troubled with my kidneys for eight or nine years; had much pain in my back; as time went on I could hardly endure it; I could not stand except for a few moments at a time; I grew weak and exhausted; I could not even do light housework, let alone washing and ironing; I could not stoop or bend; my head ached severely; I was in pain from my head down to my heels; centering in the kidneys it was a heavy, steady, sickening ache; I could not rest nights, and got up mornings weak and tired. I thought I was about done for, when I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for kidney complaints, and got them at Broughton & Graves's drug store. Within a week after commencing their use I began to improve, and from that time on rapidly grew better. I used five boxes in all and was cured. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to many others, and my case ought to convince the most skeptical sufferer to give them a fair trial."

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY

Call Issued By the Democratic State Executive Committee.

Will Be Held On May 9 Under the State Primary Election Law—Qualifications For the Voters.

The following is the call for a democratic primary on May 9, which was issued January 24 by the democratic state executive committee:

To the democratic executive committee: Your sub-committee appointed to arrange for the details of the primary election, called for the purpose of nominating democratic candidates for all state offices to be filled at the November election, 1903, would most respectfully report as follows:

First—That a primary election be held for the purpose above designated in each and every voting precinct throughout the commonwealth on the 9th day of May, 1903, between the hours of 6 a. m. and 4 p. m., standard time, and that said election be held under the state primary election law.

Second—That in said primary all known democrats of lawful age, and all democratic youths who will be of lawful age on the 3d day of November, 1903, shall be entitled to vote.

Third—That in cities where registration is required the registration used at the last general election shall be used in this primary, and all those registered as democrats shall be entitled to vote in this primary, and in addition to those registered all democrats residing in the precinct, who for any cause failed to register at the last general registration, and all democrats who have moved into the precinct since the last registration, and all democratic youths who will be of lawful age on November 3, 1903, shall be entitled to register with the officers of election in their respective districts, and upon taking an oath that they will be legal voters in said precinct at the November election, 1903, shall be entitled to vote in this primary, and the officers of election in each precinct in cities where registration is required shall preserve the record of all voters who have registered with them as above provided.

Fourth—That the officers of election shall be appointed by the democratic county committees throughout the commonwealth, and shall in each county be apportioned among the contesting candidates as nearly equal as can be done. In case the local committee in any county fails or refuses to act and appoint the officers of election as above provided, or in the event that complaint is made to this committee that the officers of election as appointed by the said local county committee are not apportioned among the contesting candidates as above provided, or are not suitable or fair officers, then this committee has the right to hear and determine said complaint, and if it is well founded, then this committee has the right to take charge of and appoint the officers of election in all such counties where the local democratic committee fails or refuses to act, or where complaint made is found to be well founded, and appoint the officers of election as above provided for.

Fifth—That upon the application to the local county committee by any candidate or his friends, he shall be permitted to have a challenger at the polls in each precinct, and an inspector of the count of the ballots in each precinct in said county; but said committee shall not be required to appoint more than five inspectors of the count for any one precinct.

Sixth—It shall be the duty of the officers of election in each and every voting precinct throughout the state, at the close of the polls, to count the ballots cast in their respective precincts, and to certify to the democratic county committee of their county the result of the vote in detail, giving to each candidate the number of votes received by him in their precinct and to transmit with their certificate and the ballot stubs, all questioned ballots as the law directs, to the county committee.

Seventh—It shall be the duty of the democratic county committee to meet at the county seat in their respective counties on the 12th day of May, 1903, and tabulate the result of the election in their respective counties as certified by the officers of election in the various voting precincts in their county, and to pass upon all questioned ballots returned to them by the precinct officers, and to certify to the chairman of the democratic committee at Frankfort, Ky., the number of votes cast in their respective counties for each candidate for office before said primary not later than May 20, 1903.

Eighth—It shall be the duty of the democratic executive committee to meet in Frankfort, Ky., on the 30th day of May, 1903, and tabulate the result of the election in the various counties for the various offices as certified by the local democratic county committee, and to declare that candidate receiving the highest number of votes cast for the office for which he is candidate, the democratic nominee for that office and to certify the same to the secretary of state, as the law directs.

Ninth—It shall be the duty of the precinct officers of election to preserve the ballots and to transmit them to the county democratic committee of their respective counties, to be preserved by them as the law directs.

Tenth—The county committees shall appoint the officers of election herein provided for, not less than 20 days before the date of the election, and shall cause a list of same to be published in a newspaper of general circulation in their counties not later than the week following their appointment, if such newspaper is published therein, and to have them properly notified of their appointment as such, as the law directs. If the local committees fail or refuse to make the appointments by the time fixed herein, then this committee shall at once make such appointments and shall cause the same to be published, and the officers of election notified as above directed.

Eleventh—All democrats desiring to become candidates for state office before said primary shall in writing notify the chairman of this committee of such intention, and shall state in such written notice the office for which he desires to be a candidate, not later than April 1, 1903, and upon the receipt of such notice it shall be the duty of the chairman to at once notify the candidate of the assessment he is required to pay in order to entitle him to have his name placed upon the ballot as a candidate for the office to which he aspires, and in the event of the failure or refusal of any one desiring to become a candidate before said primary, to make known such intention or desire on or before the date above designated, and to pay the assessment assessed against him as above provided, on or before the 9th day of April, 1903, then the name of such candidate shall not be printed upon the ballot. The assessment for the various offices is fixed as follows:

For the office of governor	$2,500
For the office of lieutenant governor	600
For the office of attorney general	1,800
For the office of auditor	2,200
For the office of treasurer	1,800
For the office of secretary of state	1,800
For the office of superintendents of public instruction	1,800
For the office of clerk of the court of appeals	1,800
For the office of commissioner of agriculture	1,700
Total	$16,000

In the event that a candidate for any office above named should have no opposition, then he is required to pay the entire assessment fixed for that office; and in the event there is more than one candidate for any of the above named offices, the assessment for that particular office is to be equally apportioned among the candidates for such office, i. e., if there is only one candidate for any given office, say that of treasurer, then he shall be assessed the full $1,800, and in the event there are two candidates, they shall be each assessed $900, and in the event there are three candidates, they shall each be assessed $600, and so on. In the event there is a surplus remaining after defraying all the expenses of said primary, it shall be returned to those by whom it was paid, in the same proportion in which it was paid by them, and in the event that the expenses of said primary are greater than $16,000, then the cost thereof over and above said sum is to be paid by the successful candidates in the same proportion in which they were assessed, and it is the duty of the local county committee in each county to certify to the chairman of the state central and executive committees at the same time that the official vote of the county is certified, the cost of said primary in their respective counties.

Twelfth—As necessity may arise, the sub-committee is authorized to adopt such rules and regulations and do all acts and things as from time to time may become necessary, to insure the faithful and fair conduct of said primary, not inconsistent with the primary election law of this state or with the report here submitted.

Thirteenth—Before entering upon the discharge of their duties the officers of election shall be sworn as the law directs, and their duties and responsibilities shall be precisely the same as those of legally appointed and regularly qualified officers of regular state elections.

Fourteenth—As the present party organization was chosen in 1900 for four years, it is the sense of this committee that no convention need be held during this year, and that the party organization, as at present constituted, should stand till the convention is called to send delegates to the national convention in 1904.

Fifteenth—That a copy of this report shall be printed and posted at the courthouse door in each county in this commonwealth, and that at least 20 copies shall be furnished to the local county committees in each county in the commonwealth, to be posted by them in their respective counties, not less than 40 days before the date of said primary, to-wit: May 9, 1903. That all democratic and other newspapers throughout the state who will publish the same are requested to do so, in order that this primary shall be given as much publicity as possible.

All of which is respectfully reported and submitted.

ALJIE W. YOUNG,
JOHN M. LASSING,
MOTT AYRES.

Attest: PERCY HALY, secretary state executive committee.

The DeWitt Clinton engine, built in 1831, had a boiler pressure of 80 pounds to the square inch; locomotives at the time of the civil war were given 100 pounds pressure, and now the immense steamship boilers are made to stand a pressure of 225 pounds to the square inch.

THE SULTAN'S VICTORY

His Troops Routed the Forces of the Pretender.

The Victory is Attributed More to the Sultan's Bribery of Tribes Than to Military Tactics, They Deserting the Pretender.

Tangier, Feb. 2.—The sultan's troops have utterly routed the forces of the Moorish pretender and captured Bu Hamara himself.

A special courier who arrived Sunday after making a record journey from Fez brought this news. He reports that at daybreak last Thursday the army of the sultan, commanded by the war minister, El Menebhi, attacked the pretender's position and inflicted a complete defeat on his following at the same time capturing Bu Hamara.

Another runner who has arrived here from Fez confirms the news of the defeat of the rebels, but says that the report of the capture of the pretender is incorrect. He adds that it is uncertain whether Bu Hamara's body was among the great number slain. The sultan's victory was absolute, almost the entire following of the pretender being either slain or captured. His camp, provisions and ammunition were taken and the artillery which was lost by the sultan's army in the battle of December 23 was recaptured. Even if Bu Hamara escaped it is hopeless for him to seek to retrieve his defeat as his claim that he is a saint is exploded. The details regarding the battle are meager, but it is known that the pretender's camp was surprised and rushed at dawn.

There is great rejoicings here at the sultan's victory.

London, Feb. 2.—A dispatch from Tangier to the Morning Leader mentioned a circumstantial report current in that city that Bu Hamara was brought to Fez in a cage and exposed to public derision. The dispatch adds that it is impossible to ascertain the truth, and attributes the sultan's victory more to his bribery of the tribes than to military tactics. The bribed rebels suddenly abandoned the pretender's standard.

PITTSBURG COAL COMING.

Seventeen Tows Started, Representing 4,000,000 Bushels.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 2.—Every bit of force and energy that could be mustered by the transportation department of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Co. was centered in the Pittsburg harbor Sunday. During the day 17 tows were started down the Ohio, in all representing 4,000,000 bushels of Pittsburg coal. More will start Monday. The shipments Sunday were among the largest ever made by the company in a single day. The coal is all for southern markets, which have been short of fuel for some time.

FAMILY OF SIX DROWNED.

Immigration Car Broke Loose and Plunged Into the River.

Vicksburg, Miss., Feb. 2.—Two cars from a west bound freight train broke away at the incline of the Queen & Crescent railroad here Sunday night, and rushing down the grade plunged into the river. One was a combination freight and immigration car and it is stated that it contained a family of six persons bound from a point in Eastern Alahama for Arkansas, all of whom were drowned. Neither the names of the immigrants nor the place they were from could be ascertained Divers are searching for the bodies.

MAD DOG IN CHURCH.

Great Excitement Among the Teachers and Scholars.

Baltimore, Feb. 2.—A supposed mad dog dashed into Waverly Presbyterian church Sunday and caused great excitement among the teachers and scholars. Robert White, a teacher, caught the animal, and although bitten and clawed severely, succeeded in locking it in a cellar where it may be watched. For several days two dogs having symptoms of rabies have run amuck in the neighborhood. Six children and a number of other dogs have been bitten.

OUT ON STRIKE.

Three Hundred Employes of the Golden Reward Smelter Quit Work.

Deadwood, S. D., Feb. 2.—Three hundred employes of the Golden Reward smelter have gone on strike because of one man being laid off. About 700 other men will be thrown out of employment as a result, the company having decided to close down two of its large mines. It is claimed that the question of wages does not enter into the trouble. The cyanide plant and smelter have been treating about 1,000 tons of ore daily.

The Plague in Mazatlan.

Mexico City, Feb. 2.—The government has been investigating how bubonic plague came to be introduced into Mazatlan and it appears highly probable that it came there by the little steamer Curazao, proceeding from San Francisco.

Apostolic Benediction.

Rome, Feb. 2.—Monsignor Kennedy, rector of the American college, presented to the pope in private audience Sunday Charles M. Schwab's father, mother and sister. The pontiff gave them the apostolic benediction.

FIFTY-SEVENTH CONGRESS.

Second Session.

Washington, Jan. 29.—Senate—A sharp debate was precipitated in the senate Wednesday when Mr. Rawlins called up his resolution directing the secretary of war to furnish the senate the proceedings of a number of courts-martial in the Philippines. In the course of his remarks Mr. Rawlins referred to the death of Esther Augustin, and said he was murdered in cold blood. This aroused the ire of Mr. Beveridge, who demanded specifically to know who had committed the cold-blooded murder. Mr. Proctor defended Capt. Cornelius M. Bromwell, who had been mentioned in the Rawlins resolution as being responsible for Esther Augustin's death. The statehood bill was taken up at 2 o'clock and Mr. Lodge spoke in opposition to it. An attempt by Mr. Aldrich to divide the business of the senate with the statehood bill failed, and the senate at 5:15 o'clock adjourned.

House—The house Wednesday made slow progress with the indian appropriation bill, covering only about eight pages in over four hours. Mr. Burton (O.) hung on the flank of Mr. Sherman (N. Y.), who had charge of the bill, and insisted upon an explanation of every item. He succeeded in having several appropriations cut down. In the course of the debate he furnished some interesting statistics on the subject of Indian education designed to show that the more money the government spent the more helpless the Indians became. The senate amendments to the bill to amend the bankruptcy act was agreed to.

Washington, Jan. 30.—Senate—The senate proceedings Thursday were unmarked by any lively debates. Mr. St. Laurin (Miss.) urged adoption of the Rawlins resolution, calling on the secretary of war for the evidence in certain courts-martial cases in the Philippines, on the ground that the officers of the army, in a number of instances, had brutally treated Filipino men and women and he wanted them weeded out of the army. Mr. Lodge concluded the remarks in opposition to the omnibus statehood bill and Mr. Bard (Cal.) also spoke in opposition to it.

House—The house passed the indian appropriation bill and began consideration of the post office appropriation bill. Mr. Burton (rep., O.) continued his criticism of the extravagance of the items of the Indian bill to the end but his three days' attack on the bill was not productive of many reductions. Mr. Patterson (dem., Tenn.) took advantage of the latitude allowed in general debate on the post office bill to make a set speech for an hour and a half on the trust question. Mr. Reid (dem., Ark.) spoke on good roads. The conferees of the department of commerce bill were named just as the house adjourned.

Washington, Jan. 31.—Senate—No business of importance was transacted in the senate.

House—Friday was the last private claims day of this congress in the house, and members with bills on the calendar carried everything before them in committee of the whole. Forty-five bills in all were acted on favorably, despite the efforts of Mr. Payne, the republican floor leader, assisted by Mr. Cannon and other members, to defeat some of them. Many of the claims were old, dating back to the civil war, and a few originated prior to that time. The latter were for balances due for carrying mails in the south, when the war broke out. Mr. Payne was particularly insistent in his opposition to these bills. Mr. Payne blocked their final passage by making the point of no quorum. But the friends of the claims refused to be balked. A motion was made to recess until Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock in order to continue the legislative day of Friday, and the sergeant-at-arms and his deputies were sent out to arrest and bring in absentees. It was 8 o'clock at night before the requisite quorum was secured to carry the motion and let the session go over until 10:30 Saturday forenoon.

Washington, Feb. 2.—Senate—The greater part of the time of the senate Saturday was devoted to exercises in connection with the acceptance from the state of Maryland of statues of Charles Carroll and John Hanson, which will henceforth stand in statuary hall at the national capitol. A number of bills were passed, including the house bill providing for the creation of a general staff in the army. An amendment was added to the bill providing that any officer now on the active list below the grade of major general, who served with credit as an officer in the regular or volunteer service during the civil war before April 9, 1865, shall, when retired, be retired with the rank and pay of the next higher grade. The section is made to apply to officers who have been retired on or since August 11, 1898, but shall not apply to any officer whose service on the active list does not exceed 35 years, and shall not apply to any officer who has been placed on the retired list by virtue of any act of congress, nor to any officer who already has received an advance of grade at the time of retirement, or with a view to retirement.

Illinois College Celebration.

INTERESTING STATE NEWS.

THROUGH THE OIL FIELDS.

Ohio Capitalists Are Back of a New Trolley Line.

Owensboro, Ky., Jan. 30.—An interurban electric railway costing upward of $1,500,000, running from Owensboro through 60 miles of the most fertile section of the Green river country, will be under construction in a few weeks, and in six months, the promoters say, the road will be completed.

Mr. Wade Cushing, of Cincinnati, and C. A. Hopkins, of Loveland, O., are back of the project. Working in connection with the Ohio capitalists are Messrs. J. C. Delker, F. T. Gunther, James H. Parrish, Charles Brocker, James H. Hickman and B. S. Hughes, of this city, and Rowan Holbrook, of Hartford. The road will extend from this city to Curdsville, on Green river, up the river to Delaware, to Calhoun, and then to Hartford. The power house will be situated at the most convenient location as to fuel, which will probably be Delaware.

Oil has been found near Calhoun during the last six months in large quantities, one well said to be giving 4,500 barrels per day. The railway will pass directly by these wells. Messrs. Wade Cushing and C. A. Hopkins and J. A. Stewart, a civil engineer from Cincinnati, have gone over the proposed route, and Mr. Stewart spoke most favorably thereof. It is thought work will begin in the next two weeks.

ALLEGED FUGITIVE.

He Is Well Armed and Left Fulton Just in Time.

Fulton, Ky., Jan. 31.—Fulton was excited Friday night over the chase of a man said to be wanted in Little Rock, Ark.; Clinton, Ky., and Mayfield. Joe Campbell came here Friday afternoon, and Marshal Robertson heard that he was a fugitive. Deputy Sheriff Jim Miller, Night Officer Baker and Alvin Burrow started in pursuit. Sheriff Carpenter organized a posse and joined the chase. Campbell is well armed, having a Winchester and brace of pistols. It is alleged Campbell is wanted for the theft of a horse and buggy belonging to Lee Tyree, of Mayfield, and valued at $175.

THE INJUNCTION CASES.

Judge Cantrill Will Decide in Favor of the Insurance Companies.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 31.—Circuit Judge Cantrill will Saturday deliver an opinion deciding the injunction cases of 22 of the leading fire insurance companies of the country against the state board of valuation and assessment to enjoin the assessment of their franchises in Kentucky for taxation. The state board seeks to make assessment for five years past, which will aggregate $500,000 in taxes.

YOUTSEY'S CONFESSION.

Says James B. Howard Fired the Shot That Killed William Goebel.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 28.—A Frankfort, Ky., special says:

"James B. Howard, of Clay county, fired the shot that killed William Goebel," said Henry E. Youtsey, in his confession as to his part in and knowledge of the conspiracy which terminated in the assassination of William Goebel.

"The convicted man now says that he has made a clean breast of the details of the plot and has told everything he knows fully and frankly," said that the shot was fired from the front window in the private office of Secretary of State Caleb Powers and that he and Jim Howard were the only persons inside of the room.

"He named William S. Taylor, Chas. Finley, Caleb Powers, John L. Powers, William S. Culton, Wharton Golden and William J. Davidson as conspirators with him."

GAVE HIMSELF UP.

Frank Cecil, Under Indictment, Surrendered to Officers.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 31.—Frank Cecil, of Bell county, indicted in January, 1902, for being accessory before the fact to the murder of Gov. William Goebel, and who has been a fugitive since that time, surrendered himself Friday. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned in court, and by agreement of commonwealth was admitted to bail in the sum of $3,000, which was furnished. Cecil was taken before the Franklin county grand jury and spent several hours there. His surrender was by agreement with Commonwealth Attorney Franklin and he will be used as a witness for the commonwealth. The grand jury will adjourn Saturday after making a report to the court. No indictments in the Goebel murder case are expected.

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

He Will Seek a Mandamus Against Circuit Judge Tarvin.

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 29.—Attorney General of State Clifton Pratt Wednesday afternoon filed in the court of appeals a notice that he will seek a mandamus against Circuit Judge Jas. P. Tarvin, of Covington, to compel him to grant an appeal from a judgment entered by him in the case of the commonwealth against the Bavarian Brewing Co. and 25 similar companies in Kenton county.

The proceeding is an unusual one in Kentucky, the right of appeal from the ruling of a circuit judge to the state court of appeals having never heretofore been denied. The cases are against the brewing companies for alleged conspiracy to fix prices of beer. The commonwealth sought the appeal.

WHAT A LANGUAGE.

Frenchman in Utter Despair After a Year's Study of English.

It is six months ago that I begin—began, I should say—to learn your language, and I have made progress as much as I expect. But, ah! what difficulties I have vanquished!

An fond, at the commencement, I find the English has one letter of more than the French. For what do you require him, except to say Wellington and Waterloo? We do sufficient well without him. However, I struggle with him, till I twist the mouth.

Then I try to say "the" like an English. My teacher say: "Push out your tongue against your teeth." I push him, so. Sometimes I bite him, other time I push him till he is stiff. I cry: "Hold! he will have the stick—jaw—lockjaw, I mean."

Next I find you use not the genders properly; everything is neuter, even the flower, the rose, the street, all is neuter. Ah, no, I forget—the ship, it is "she," is this not?

But the pronunciation there is the enemy. I learn, difficulty, c-o-u-g-h, he is "coff;" then say I, p-l-o-u-g-h, he is "ploff." But, no, my teacher say he is "plow," and r-o-u-g-h, he is not "row," nor "roff," but he is "ruff." Heaven, what frightful language!

Then I learn the pronoun, "I, thou, he, she, it;" it is plain sail. But "that;" ah, ce sacre that! He is everywhere and he mean everything; he mean ce, he mean cela, he mean qui, he mean que. "That that that man said," my teacher say, and he try to explain, but he gives me ache in the head to think.

Then I come to verbs. You have no logic, you other English. You take one poor word and you load him with meanings till he breaks—breaks, I wish to say.

By example, my landlady she blames the boy because he have not washed. I ask what has he not washed? and she say: "He has not washed himself." Another day I ask her to mend some clothes, and she say: "I am sorry that I cannot to-day. I must wash." I say then: "Surely you wash not yourself all the day?" But she laugh and say: "No, sir; I must wash clothes."

In England, I find, one speaks two languages; I am sure of it. I learn, I read romances, novels, and the journals. I talk with my teacher, and I understand. But I go out to walk myself, and there, I understand not one word which a man says.

One time I go to visit a friend. I find not his house, and I ask a man:

"Pardon, mister, but is this such a street?"

He look at me, and say: "No, 'tain't."

I comprehend not, but say: "Thanks," and go away. When I am at home I go to my dictionary and seek the word I see her—"tache." Pas de tache, no'tain't. It is incomprehensible.

Another time I go ride in a hansom. At the end of my journey I give the cnachman some coins—they are small coins, but they are good, and they are enough. He hold them in his hand and look. Then say he, very cross: "What this? Bin robin a church?" I say: "It is enough, no more."

Then he utter many words, which I know not, until he see a gendarme—a police—coming. Then he is gone, quick. I write down in my notebook these words, and when I get home I open my dictionary quick.

I find them easy: Bin hucho; robin, rouge-gorge; church, eglise—a box, a bird, a church. Again it is incomprehensible.

My teacher tells me: "Never mind if you cannot find such words."

But I say: "Those men are Englishes—they speak English, is it not?"

He reply: "Yes; but the workmen speak badly, and they use much slang—argot; trouble not about them."

But I say: "How, then, can I find the way?"

And he laugh, and say nothing.—Stray Stories.

Strange Picture Story.

A story of strange happenings to a valuable picture—an Albert Durer worth £40,000—comes from a village in West Flanders. An inhabitant received the picture from Paris some years ago, and, being ignorant of its value, sold it to a local carriage painter, whose son disposed of it to an "amateur" for 50 francs. This gave rise to legal proceedings between the first seller and the carriage painter, in the course of which the picture was identified as one which had been stolen from the Royal Picture gallery at Munich. The work is a representation of the Crucifix, one of Durer's masterpieces, and the signature of the artist [illegible] corner of the panel.

HALF A MAN.

A New Guessing Game—How Much Does He Weigh?

They have a new game on Broadway. It is betting on the weight of half a man—that is, his trunk without the legs. What would seem to be an impossibility, but read further.

One day last week an old gambler was lounging in front of a Tenderloin cafe, probably wishing some one would invent a game that every one else was not "on to." Presently he observed a mendicant with both legs off close to the hips crawling along the sidewalk offering for sale pencils that would not make a mark. The torso of the mendicant was very large and powerful, he had a large head, and his arms were those of a giant. The gambler eyed the beggar in a speculative way for a moment or two as he hobbled down the street on his leather-clad stumps. Then he started after him.

At the corner the gambler beckoned him, and, stooping over him, talked rapidly for a few moments. A coin was passed to the cripple, and the gambler sauntered back to the cafe, in front of which was a gathering of choice spirits. In a few moments the mendicant came hobbling slowly along.

"Get on to that fellow," said the gambler. "How much do you suppose he weighs?"

The others looked at the approaching cripple and sized him up as they would a horse or anything else in which there was a possible bet.

"Oh! about 120 pounds, I guess," said one.

"Rats!" exclaimed another. "I'll bet he doesn't weigh more than 95 or 100 pounds." Nearly all made guesses, varing from ten to twenty pounds.

"Let's make a pool," said the discoverer of the mendicant. "Every fellow mark his guess and his name on a piece of paper and put it in a box and drop a five-dollar note in with it. Then we'll weigh the geezer, and whoever comes nearest to his weight takes the pot."

This looked like a good but not a sure thing for anyone, and so all agreed to go in. The man had now reached the group and offered his pencils.

"Say," said his discoverer, "do you want to make a dollar? If you do, wait a minute, and get weighed." The mendicant agreed, and all retired to the restaurant, where the papers were prepared and put in a drawer, together with the money. Other men in the cafe, hearing of the pool, expressed a desire to get in, and were accommodated.

When the pool was closed, the mendicant was taken to an automatic weighing machine, and a nickel was dropped into the slot. The hand flew around and stopped at the 185-pound mark. Then there was a roar that the machine was out of order and that it did not register properly.

"What!" exclaimed the man who had guessed 115 pounds, "that remnant weigh 185 pounds! Nit. That machine isn't on the square, and ought to be ruled off."

To appease the crowd the mendicant was taken to another cafe and weighed, and the result was not three ounces different.

When the papers were opened there were only two men who had guessed within 50 pounds of the mendicant's correct weight. One was the gambler, who had first seen the mendicant. His guess was two pounds over. The other was a quiet young man, who had said nothing all through the controversy. He guessed four pounds under. The gambler took the pot and explained to the crowd that when he was a boy he lived in the country and used to guess at the weight of hogs at fairs, and the pot was his reward for experience. The others had guessed that a man of the mendicant's bulk must have weighed, with his full complement of limbs, about 250 pounds, more or less. On this they based their guesses, simply cutting their original estimate in half, because the subject was only half a man. They had forgotten that the lower half of a man—his two legs—do not weigh as much as the torso, in which are the vital organs and the bulk of the blood in the system.

After the crowd had dispersed the gambler went to the quiet young man whom he had beaten by only two pounds, and said:

"Were you on, too? Do you know, I came near putting down the weight you did, and then I thought perhaps some foxy guy might get next, so I made up my mind to get right close without guessing his weight exactly."

The young man looked at the gambler and then said: "So that is how you won, eh? Just give me my five back or I'll put your friends next.

I'm a doctor, and I guessed pretty nearly what the man's weight would have been complete. Then I figured the proportions in which his legs stood to his torso and deducted it from the total weight, and the result was my guess. I know something about anatomy. But my guess was on the square and based on knowledge, while yours was a skin game."

The gambler offered to divide the pot with the doctor, who refused it, insisting, however, on the return of what he had put into the pot. The gambler went to another cafe with his mendicant in tow.—N. Y. Herald.

CURIOUS THEORIES.

Regarding the World's Superior and Inferior Races.

That North America is one of the great powers is pretty widely known, but it has remained for Dr. Lehr, an influential member of the Alldeutscher Verbund, to state precisely why destiny has selected her as one of its favorites in this respect. The doctor is a pan-Germanist, and his ethnographic theories, which he has been expounding to scientists and government officials at Brussels, are decidedly novel.

According to him there are three great races in the world—the German, the Anglo-Saxon and the Slavic, and they have the exclusive right to fight or dispute among themselves for the supremacy of the globe. The first of these races comprises Germany, Austria, Holland, Denmark, Sweden, Norway and the Flemish residents of Belgium; the second comprises England, the British colonies and North America, and the third embraces Russia in Europe and Asia, as well as the Czech and Slavic populations of Bohemia, Moravia, Illyria, the Balkans and the adjoining states. According to this theory anyone who is born a German, an Anglo-Saxon or a Slav inherits a certain definite chance in the lottery, the great prize in which is world supremacy. On the other hand, all those who have the misfortune to be born Spaniards, Italians, Frenchmen, Roumanians or South Americans are not only debarred forever from purchasing even the smallest ticket in this lottery, but are also destined to become eventually the subjects or bond slaves of the fortunate prize winners.

That a conflict between the three dominant races is inevitable and will soon take place Dr. Lehr is convinced. Not one of the three, he points out, has an exclusive right to rule the world, and in order that any one of them may acquire this right a conflict is necessary. For this reason, he continues, Germany and her dependencies—meaning thereby Flemish Belgium and the low countries—ought to prepare for a war first against England and then against Russia. Incidentally, too, he reminds the Belgians that the Boers are an integral part of the German race, and that the war in the Transvaal is an additional reason why the hands of Germany should be strengthened against England and why special efforts should be made to increase the German fleet.

Frenchmen are much amused at these theories, and one of them, M. Henri des Houx, says: "So we are worthless Latins, a rich booty for the world conquerors—nothing more? When will these German savans stop making fun of us with their paradoxes? If they are pan-Germanists, let them tell the Belgians and the Dutch that they want to annex them. If they are jealous of England, let them stop flirting and concluding secret treaties with her. If they desire to make war on Russia, as they talk of doing, they will soon find out whether France is a negligeable quantity and whether we are an inferior race."—N. Y. Herald.

Oddly Located Churches.

One of the best-known instances in the United Kingdom of churches with streets through them is that of St. John the Baptist's church in Bristol. Here we have the church situated right over the ancient gateway into the city on the Avon, and the towering spire standing high above the neighboring houses and streets is a remarkable sight, as one surveys it from the roadway below. The Church of St. John the Baptist in Bristol is a very old one. It occupies the whole width of the famous city wall and what was part of the old fosse or ditch. On each side of the central arch that cuts through the tower of the church is a smaller opening for pedestrian traffic, and these were made so late as the present century. Before they existed the sides of the gateway were part of the church, too. One of the most interesting, as well as most curious, cases of a roadway through a church is that of the Bell Tower at Evesham.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXVIII. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1903. NO. 17.

County Correspondence.

RABBIT HASH.

William Bodde purchased three horses at Patriot, a few days since.

C. J. Bodde sold her Piney a pair of fine mules. Did not learn the price, but it was a long one.

Jordon Owens, of the Brown Tobacco House, Louisville, is here soliciting consignments.

Wennie Richards is keeping house for C. J. Stephens. He can cook as good a meal as any person.

Mrs. Frank Scott, of Aurora, Ind., was here, last week, visiting her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stephens.

R. M. Wilson and E. L. Stephens took some very fine cattle to the city one day last week. They expected a fancy price.

"Brudder" Jay Calvert has one of his eyes dressed in mourning, the result of watching a tobacco stick descend from the top of a tobacco barn.

The ferry boat made its trial trip late Tuesday afternoon and everything worked to perfection, and now Capt. Ben is crossing teams with neatness and dispatch.

I have read in the good book of the hell to come; and in other books, of hell on earth; but if Rabbit Hash mud is not h—l, I am no judge of small things, and will pass up my commission.

From the way the lips of the boys are protruding, and their general uneasy look, it's surmised that that Hathaway merchant, as the boys say, has been "pestering around here again."

Ernest Ryle is engaged in the pefumed fur business. He passed here, Wednesday, with a couple of fine samples, on his way to G. R Williamson's, where he found a ready sale for them.

G. B. Hopkins, of Elizabethtown, Ohio, was here a few days ago, visiting his old friends and neighbors. He is well pleased with his new home, and has leased 20 acres of land, which he is clearing.

Lawis L. Stephens left here, Saturday morning on the Swan to visit his sister, Mrs. Everett Ryle, who left on Monday for California, where she and her husband expect to make their future home.

Mr. Editor, did your head ever ache in front, behind and on each side, on top and all through, feeling like a burstling, great big ache? I have that kind, so if my items do not grade well this week, please excuse me for that reason.

My old friend, Nay Smith, has decided to build a new house. The contract for the stone work has been let to T. J. Williamson; the contract for the wood work, to James McAtee. The contract for keeping the house will be let later on.

There is considerable talk here about advertising and selling land for taxes. We favor the collection of taxes, and this spring when the road money is due, we want the overseers to draw it, and the court to see that the roads are worked in proper season.

The members of the K. of P. lodge here, were highly pleased with the manner in which the Patriot lodge treated them on the day of Mr. Kent's funeral. They say their treatment was a true exemplification of Pythianism, and increased their love for the order several degrees.

In the division of their mother's land the McConnel heirs drew the following parcels: Mrs. C. P. Baker, the homestead; Will, the Hager farm; John, 75 acres adjoining C. J. Harris; A. G., hill farm on left of Lick creek; Mrs. Myra, hill farm on right of Lick creek; Willie Craig, 72 acres in bottom, adjoining John McConnell's Calvert farm.

H. O. Adams, ex-batchelor of Riddell's Run, was here a few days ago with his wife. He looked like he is being well fed, and his clothes appeared to fit him better. The latter we attribute to his being puffed up because of his good luck in securing a wife. He was inclined to ignore his old batcheior associates, and seemed to regard them as unfit to associate with a married man.

Andrew Acra, one of the blooming young batchelors on the headwaters of Middle creek, passed through here a few days since, carrying a double head of steam. He was bound for Rising Sun, and looked neither to the right nor to the left, keeping right on as though the stock of good clothing had to be replenished for a certain event. My hand to you, Andrew, if there is anything of the kind in contemplation.

UNION.—Miss Maud Cleek and Will Norman, of Walton, were married, last Wednesday.

Mrs. Dave Hicks, of Walton, spent Friday and Saturday with her sister, Mrs. L. H. Voshell.

Mrs. Dora Bannister has, as her guest this week, Misses Ella Adams and Oele Howlett, of Hamilton.

Miss Aggie Odenwald, of Richwood, spent several days with her aunt, Mrs. Mike Kraley, last week.

Misses Grace Odenwald and Bernice Johnson were Miss Virginia Conner's guests to "tea" Saturday.

Miss Alva Williams is visiting her aunts, Mrs. C. C. Bradford and Miss Beale Talbot, of Florence.

Mrs. Ben Riley, of near Florence, was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenney, several days last week.

Henry Conner and sisters entertained a few of their friends, Saturday night. Games and music were indulged until a late hour.

John L. Rouse writes the Recorder to send his paper to Spring Place, Murray county, Ga. He says: "We have bought a farm and are permanently located." His friends here wish him abundant success in the South land.

PETERSBURG, Feb. 9.—Miss Carrie Collier visited in Lawrenceburg, last week.

Miss Lou Aiden has lagrippe.

S. G. Botts does not improve any.

Rev. Edgar Jones was visiting here, yesterday.

Miss Susie Helms is visiting in Lawrenceburg.

Miss Leola McWethy will teach the spring school here.

An infant child of Dick Burris, was buried here yesterday.

Earl Buchanan, of Lawrenceburg, is seen here quite often.

All kinds of drift is going down the river, which is very high.

The remains of Sebe Jones were placed in the vault here, yesterday.

Rev. Attkinson and wife have gone to Warsaw to spend the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark are visiting at Wright's Corner, Indiana.

Miss Lizzie Bush is home from her visit with friends in Lawrenceburg.

Mrs. Geo. Guissinger entertained handsomely with a party, Friday night.

Kirtley Berkshire, of Owensboro, is visiting his brothers and other relatives here.

W. A. Gaines and wife, of Idlewild, were guests of Mrs. Agnes Grant, yesterday.

Misses Nettie Cave and Gertrude Collier visited friends in Lawrenceburg last week.

Miss Mamie Buchanan, of Osgood, Indiana is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ben R. Berkshire.

Misses Janette Hayes and Lenora Gardner, of Aurora, are guests of Miss Lola Mathews.

Miss Lou McWethy is home from a visit in Lawrenceburg, where she was the guest of her uncle, Richard Nelson.

W. T. Aylor and wife, of Hebron, visited their daughter, Mrs. B. J. Crisler, of the Riverview House, one day last week.

Skinner & Douglas, monologue artists, will give an entertainment to night at the Methodist church under the auspices of the Epworth League.

Ben Beiden is at home from Wisconsin, where he purchased the machinery in a large flouring mill, which he will put in his mill at Lawrenceburg.

Walter Gordon and Harry Bahn will go to Montgomery, Ala., in April, where they will play ball in the Southern League, with the Montgomery club.

CLORE'S RIDGE, Feb. 5.—Lucian Clore has a cow and calf for sale.

Kirby Clore will work for Will Clore this season.

It is time for farmers to begin to make plant beds

Peter Clore has had good luck trapping this winter.

George Smith took 94 pelts to the city, last Thursday night.

Lucian Clore gave the young folks a pound party, last Friday night.

Henry Clore will haul his tobacco to his warehouse as soon as the roads will permit.

John Portwood killed 2 hogs, last Thursday. He says he will make sausage of them.

T. J. Clore entertained the Beech Grove people with his graphophone, last Saturday night.

GUNPOWDER, Feb. 9.—John Swim will occupy the toll gate house on the Burlington pike, near Florence, this year.

Wood sawings are the order of the day.

E. H. Blankenbecker is having considerable work done on the Union pike.

Mrs. Alice Daughters, of Cincinnati, was visiting relatives in this neighborhood a few days last week.

H. F Utz and wife and mother, and Mrs. Alice Daughters, were guests at aunt Minnie Tanner's, last Sunday.

On account of the bad conditions of the roads, rather a small congregation attended communion services at Hopeful last Sunday.

Cal Tanner has rented and will move to Lon Whitson's house on Fowler's creek, which was lately vacated by Roland Rouse.

Uncle Noah Barlow is always ready for a horse trade. He traded with some one the middle of last week and went to Walton, last Saturday, to see if he could work up some enthusiasm in the business at that place; but we have had no report as to his success.

Mrs. Almira Utz celebrated the 24th anniversary of her birth, last Thursday with a turkey dinner. It was a most enjoyable affair. After enjoying a bountiful dinner the afternoon was spent playing crokonole and listening to vocal music rendered by the Gunpowder quartette. There were also some very beautiful instrumental selections rendered on the organ by the hostess and Miss Leila Floyd. The presents were numerous and valuable. Leonard Rouse was champion of the crokonole board, and Jno. Surface proved to be champion at the table. Mrs. Utz, as is her custom, did every thing in her power to make the occasion a pleasant one and every one on taking leave extended thanks for the kind, hospitality shown them by the host and hostess, and wished that they may enjoy many more such occasions.

Hon. John S. Gaunt, who has been district attorney for the L. & N. Railroad for several years has been promoted to the position of advisory and consulting counsel for the Louisville, Cincinnati and Lexington division of that road. His territory is much larger and so is his salary. This shows that Mr. Gaunt's ability is appreciated by the L. & N., people, who know a good man when they try him. Mr. Gaunt's promotion will, in nowise, interfer with his practice in the courts in this district which he could not be induced to give up. We congratulate you on your good luck, brother Gaunt.

BUFFALO, Feb. 7.—H. C Presser, of Latonia, returned home last Tesday, after several days' visit with relatives here.

Wood Stephens, of Waterloo, was in this vicinity last Tuesday.

Miss Alma Ryle spent last Monday night with her brother at this place.

Mrs. Carrie Stephens, who has been sick for several weeks, is improving.

Ransom Ryle, of the Commissary, was here last Friday, trying to rent a place.

Clara, daughter of James Riley, who has been quite sick for several days, is better.

T. J. Stephens dined with Charles Stephens and wife, of Locust Grove, last Friday.

Claud Ryle and family spent several days, last week, with relatives in Beech Grove vicinity.

Tommy Stephens and wife and Wilton Adams, spent last Wednesday evening, with Ras Stephens and family.

VERONA, Feb. 9.—The dirt roads are lu a bad condition.

Dale Hudson will build a large barn at his farm.

Miss Kate Kennedy is quite sick of typhoid fever.

Mrs. Charles Waller, who has had pneumonia, is some better.

James Fry is still confined to his bed, and does not improve much.

J. R. Johnson is letting contracts to grow tomatoes for the Snyder Canning Factory at Walton.

J. M. Rouse and wife spent a couple of days, last week, with their daughter Mrs. Maud Johnson, of Covington.

Elmer Showers is having a neat picket fence built in frout of his residence, which adds much to the appearance

The Public school closed, last Friday. An entertainment was given Saturday night, but owing to the unfavorable weather, but few attended.

A meeting of those who have subscribed to the capital stock for a bank at this place, will be held here on the 17th inst., to perfect the organization.

J. E. Franks, of Covington, and J. Blackburn, of Dry Ridge. will be present.

Dear Editor:—Please allow us space to express our kindest appreciation to our neighbors and friends, who so sympathetically assisted us in the illness and death of our dear mother, Annie Powers, who died on the 24th, and to her physician Dr. R. L. Finnell, for his kind attention to her aud sympathy for us, and to the undertaker, Mr. J. B. Sanders, who omitted nothing and cared so tenderly for us, and who, in parting with us asked God to bless the three orphans. May God's richest blessings be on those neighbors, friends, the doctor and the undertaker. Her children,

ELLA, KATIE AND J. D. POWERS.

WALTON, Feb. 9.—C, H. Bramlage, of Verona, has bought J. G. Tomlin's 165 acre farm on Bank Lick for $10,000. This is considered one of the most desirable farms in Kenton county.

Roy, the fifteen year old son of John Stamler, is laid up with a mild case of typhoid fever.

Miss Effie Lermoud is suffering with la grippe and did not make her usual trip to the city on Monday.

Miss Alice Laws is about after a lingering and painful attack of rheumatism which lasted five dreary months.

Georgie, the very bright younger son of Jacob and Mrs. Kipp, is out again and poring over his books when in the house.

Miss Yetcha King shipped her household goods, last week, to Worthville, where she will make her home with her brother John.

Last Friday Mr. Napper, who lives on Britt Senior's place, greeted the rising sun as it was tip toeing the misty hill tops in the east. His little two-and a-half year old son broke out with "yes fire—see fire!" "No," said the father, "it is only the sun shining on glass." But the little fellow kept up with "his see fire," and the father looking again saw the flames rising by the chimney. Rushing over to the house, he found the family sitting around the breakfast table and chatting away totally unconscious of the conflagration with which they were threatened.

There was great excitement at the Short Line depot the other day when the whistle was sounded of an approaching train. Everyone rushed to the platform except the agent, S. W. Beverly, who looked at his watch then the two clocks and muttered to himself, "what does this mean? There is no train due for seven minutes" strode to the door. Just then a gentlemanly young man stepped from behind it and introduced himself as Thos. R. Corwine, ventriloquist, and that he was negotiating for a place to give an exhibition, in which he would not be a sharer in any profit. He wished to know if he could use the freight room which was empty and open. Permission had been scarcely given when an unmitigated dog fight in the freight room drew the crowd to it and not a dog was seen except about a dozen dogs on the outside eager for the fray, all clamoring to get in. Corwine and Beverly standing calmly and innocently in the doorway. He stepped forward and announced his business and stated that he had a contract with the C. & N. Railroad that they would put down $2 every time he would put down $1, to be given to the Y. M. C. A. building at Latonia. Beverly says the scene was indescribable, and every time he tells about it he rolls over in a fit of exuberant laughter. Mr. Corwine has secured permission to give a ten minutes performance to the school children only, one day this week.

Another great excitement broke on the town when it was reported that Fletcher Johnson, of Bank Lick, had committed suicide by taking morphine. His numerous acquaintances were shocked, yes—astounded and refused to believe that the big hearted, genial and whole-souled gentleman had done anything of the kind or even made such an attempt. Occasionally to relieve rheumatic pain, he has been treated with small doses and knew how to treat himself.

LUDLOW.—Rev. Jacob Hauser has been visiting relatives here, and in West Covington, for the last few days.

Mrs. Albert Crigler, who has been on the sick list for some days. is very much better at this writing

W. C. Renaker, of Cynthiana, passed through here while making a flying trip to the city, one day last week.

Messrs Hicks, Dover, and Carmel, of Main Street, Covington, called on friends here one evening last week.

Robert McGlasson, of Hebron, has been the guest of his uncle for a week or more.

Mr. and Mrs. Clore, for a week or more.

We were out a little surprised to hear of the wedding of Mrs. Weber's young est sister, that occurred a short time ago.

Several of our theatre goers went to see "In the Palace of the King," at the Pike, last week, and came back well pleased with it.

Miss Jessie Gordon, who has been spending two weeks with her grandmother of this place, returned home last Thursday.

During the past week, the river was almost to the car tracks, but fortunately, the cold spell checked any damage that might have been doue.

During the hard rain one night last week, the mud collected in such a mass under the Southern Bridge that the cars were unable to pass there.

A number of people from this place attended the banquet given at Romanwitt's hall, West Covington, last Thursday evening. All reported a splendid time, but most of them did not get home until the wee sma' hours.

The Aid Society of the Presbyterian church that met with Mrs. Buchanan last Thursday afternoon, had the regular annual report of the work done within the year 1902 read, which was done in a very interesting manner by Mrs. Tavlin.

MOUNDFIELD, Feb. 9.—Miss Rose Garnett was visiting Mrs. Mattie Rouse several days last week.

Elijah Tanner killed a spreading adder on the 2d inst, 2½ feet long.

Frank Hoseman is getting out the frame for a barn for Henry Getzer.

Wilford Bullock, our undertaker, had the burial of Sebern Jones, Sunday.

Thos. Hafer, our veterinary, reports quite a number of sick horses in this community.

Doc Mannin has 14 shepherd pups for sale, prices reasonable and to suit purchasers.

William Clayton, our hustling fruit agent is getting a large order for the spring delivery.

Cleve Hankins had a force of men and carts repairing broken up turnpike, several days last week.

Jim Beall has taken up tiu work in connection with carpenters work and has more work than he can do.

Henry Quick will begin building a large stock barn for Mr. John Rucker, this week. Henry is never idle.

John Mannin, his wife and Mrs. Nannie Mannin were visiting friends at Bright, Ind., several days last week.

Henry Beall has developed into a first-class amateur photographer. He is making some fine pictures—give him a call.

Mrs. Alice Stevens and her daughter, Ida, spent a delightful afternoon with Willie Graves and wife, one day last week.

Elijah's creek was on a rampage, last Tuesday night, hundreds of perches of stone were washed out and piled up ready to be hauled out for building purposes.

We regret to say that this week winds up the services of our accommodating and efficient mail carrier, Jas. Grant. The goverment loses a good officer in his retirement.

The remains of Andrew Ernests, who died at his home on the 2d inst., near Mt. Zion, were brought here Wednesday enroute to Highlaud cemetery for final interment.

The tragic death of Sebe Jones, about 4 o'clock last Friday afternoon, cast a gloom over the entire community. He was living on James A. Duncan's farm near Bullittsburg church, and chopping a tree, which, in falling, caught and crushed him. Mr. Jones had always feared being hurt under just such circumstances. He was a member of Bullittsville Christian church, where the funeral was preached, Sunday, by Rev. Edgar D. Jones, after which the remains were taken to Petersburg for interment. Mr. Jones was 26 years old, and very popular with his acquaintances. He left a young, heartbroken widow, a father and mother, and brothers and sisters, who have the sympathy of a large circle of friends.

Grandpa Rouse celebrated his 76th birth day on January 27th. He and his wife are true Kentuckians. They came from Boone county, Kentucky, to Indiana in 1870, but still their hearts always turn fondly to old Kentucky, and they look forward every week to the coming of the Boone County Recorder, which seems to them an old friend. On the 24 of this month they expect to celebrate the 50 anniversary of their wedding if Mrs. Rouse's health will permit. Great preparations have already been made, and they extend invitations to all their friends and relatives in Boone county.

DAISEY B. ROUSE.

Robert Sale, of near Glencoe, and Alva Rice, of the Warsaw district, were here Wednesday holding a meeting relative to the tobacco growers' association. They have secured 412 signers to the growers' agreement and $1,400 worth of stock in the association. Mr. Sale, who is the chairman of the county, says eight per cent of the growers in Gallatin county have signed the agreement, fifteen per cent have never been seen to sign, and five have refused to sign. At the meeting at Louisville last Friday of the State organization it was decided to incorporate with a capital of three million dollars with headquarters at Lexington, where the next meeting is to be held feb. 26th to complete the organization. It is estimated that the membership will now control over one-half of the tobacco in the white burley district.—Warsaw Independent.

Escaped an Awful Fate.

Mr. H. Haggins, of Melbourne, Fla., writes, "My doctor told me I had Consumption and nothing could be done for me. I was given up to die. RUSH ORDERS SENT.

Work in the Mare Island Navy Yard is Being Pushed.

Large Quantities of Stores Were Shipped to San Francisco and Wednesday Were Transferred to the Squadron.

Mare Island Navy Yard, Cal., Feb. 6.—Rush orders have been received from Washington ordering that all work on vessels now in the navy yard be completed with the greatest possible dispatch. In view of this order an extra force of men will be employed at once and a night force was inaugurated Tuesday night to complete the repairs on the U. S. S. Benuington, which is practically ready for service. Several other vessels can be made ready for sea within a short time. Large quantities of stores were shipped to San Francisco Wednesday to be transferred to the Boston, New York and Ranger, now lying at anchor in the harbor.

It is understood that the trouble brewing in Honduras is the only reason for the animation now being shown at the navy yard.

Washington, Feb. 5.—According to naval officials there is no political significance in the dispatch of the four vessels of Adm. Casey's fleet to Amalapa island. The state department suggested that one vessel be sent to the island to afford protection to American interests which might be imperiled as a result of the civil troubles which are threatened in Honduras, but the navy department thought that it would be a good plan to dispatch the entire fleet with directions to cruise together as far as possible so far as to give an opportunity for sea drills and tactical practice. It is declared that it is for this reason only that Adm. Casey's fleet is going to Central America.

Some months ago Adm. Glass was selected to succeed Adm. Casey in command of the Pacific coast fleet. The original date of change was February 10, but this has been advanced so that he will relieve Adm. Casey immediately.

The statement is made that no rush orders have been given for work under construction at Mare Island navy yard and that such unusual activity as may be apparent is due to the effort to prepare the vessels of Adm. Casey's fleet for their cruise in Central America.

San Francisco, Feb. 5.—The warships in commission in this harbor will be on their way to Amapala, a port on the Pacific coast of Honduras, early next week. The New York, the Boston and the Ranger are now in the bay ready to start on short notice. In view of the orders Adm. Glass Wednesday relieved Adm. Casey in the command of the Pacific fleet. It had been arranged that the flags of the admirals should be changed on February 10, but the hurry orders to the fleet to get into southern waters prompted the change being made in the commanding officer in advance of the arranged time.

THE WRECKED BARK.

Thirty Persons Who Were on Board Are Thought to Have Perished.

London, Feb. 5.—The report received here Tuesday from Bay Head that the large vessel wrecked off Duraborg reef was believed to be the French bark Van Stable, Capt. Quimper, which sailed from Glasgow January 17 for San Francisco is confirmed. It is added that the 30 persons who were on board the bark are thought to have been drowned.

THE STRIKE COMMISSION.

After a Session of 51 Days the Hearing of Testimony Ended.

Philadelphia, Feb. 6.—After a sitting of exactly 51 days, the anthracite strike commission concluded the hearing of witnesses at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon and adjourned until next Monday when it will begin to hear the arguments of counsel representing the several sides. The arguments will take up five and a half days, the operators having been assigned three days and the miners the remainder of the time. Thursday's sessions were taken up in hearing the last witnesses presented by the miners in rebuttal. Much of it related to the alleged unequal distribution of mine cars, nearly a dozen witnesses testifying that they could load more cars than the companies furnished them.

In all the commission heard 566 witnesses, 244 union miners, 155 non-union miners and 150 by the operators, the stenographers taking down approximately 9,200 typewritten pages of testimony or 2,300,000 words.

HAWAIIAN ISSUE OF COIN.

Dollars and Half Dollars Will Be Redeemed in United States Silver.

Honolulu, Feb. 6.—(By Pacific Cable).—The First national bank has received by the steamer Ventura $50,000 in United States silver coin, shipped by the San Francisco mint. The bank will begin at once to redeem the Hawaiian issue of one million dollars coined in 1883 during the reign of King Kalakaua. Dollars, half dollars and quarters will be redeemed but the dimes will be allowed to circulate.

Eight hundred thousand dollars of the issue will be redeemed. Other installments of silver will be sent here by the United States government.

THE BANKRUPTCY LAW

President Roosevelt Signs the Bill Amending It.

The Measure Modifies the Existing Law in Several Important Particulars—Debts to Wife and Children Included in List.

Washington, Feb. 6.—The president late Thursday afternoon signed the bill which amends the bankruptcy law of 1898. The bill modifies the existing law in several important particulars, the principal one of which is a provision in regard to preferred creditors. Under the existing law those who had received payments from a person who had soon afterward been declared bankrupt could not have other claims passed upon without surrendering the amount received. This provision was modified so as to allow the creditor to retain the money received unless the previous payment was fraudulent. The change is in conformity with a decision of the supreme court.

Another amendment provides four new objections to a discharge intended to prevent persons from going through bankruptcy, the most important of which are the giving of a false mercantile statement and the making of a fraudulent transfer of property. The bill also provides that it shall be an objection to a discharge if a voluntary bankrupt seeks to go through bankruptcy more than once in the six years.

Another amendment provides that the appointment of a receiver for a corporation which is insolvent is an act of bankruptcy, entitling the creditors to choose their own trustees. Another important change which gives the federal courts concurrent jurisdiction of suits to recover property which has been fraudulently transferred. Other amendments allow the wives of bankrupts to testify in the proceedings, provides for an increase of fees for referees and trustees to an average of about 50 per cent, over the fees allowed by the present law and prohibits the courts from allowing greater fees than the law permits in any case, and add to the latest of debts from which a bankrupt can not be relieved by a discharge from bankruptcy, the new law includes debts to wife and children and alimony. The list of corporations which may go into bankruptcy is increased by adding mining corporations.

POSTAL AFFAIRS.

Important Provision in the Post Office Appropriation Bill.

Washington, Feb. 6.—The post office appropriation bill passed Thursday by the house contains an important provision that has not attracted much attention. It provides that hereafter post offices shall accept for transmission in the mails quantities of not less than 2,000 identical pieces of third or fourth class matter without postage stamps affixed, provided that the postage is fully prepaid. This action was recommended strongly by Third Assistant Postmaster General Madden in the interest of economy to the government and to the business public. Under its provisions as urged by the department, this proposed legislation will save the expense of manufacturing stamps, the sale of them to the public and the subsequent labor of cancelling the stamps on the individual pieces in the post offices, after they are mailed. It will also save the public the work of attaching postage stamps to the individual pieces of mail.

ADDICKS WITHDRAWS.

Declines to Be a Candidate For United States Senator.

Dover, Del., Feb. 6.—J. Edward Addicks, in a note to the republican caucus of the Delaware general assembly, Thursday withdrew as a candidate for United States senator. This ends the most remarkable political fight in the history of this country, a fight which deadlocked three sessions of the legislature since 1895, and split the republican party in this state into two factions.

Life Pension For a Woman.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 6.—Mrs. Walter Reed, wife of deceased Army Surgeon Reed, who discovered that mosquitoes conveyed yellow fever germs and rid Havana and Ponce of the dreaded disease, was Thursday informed in a telegram from Senator Martin of the passage by the senate of a bill allowing her $125 a month pension for the rest of her life.

New York, Feb. 6.—At the meeting of the Actors' Fund of America, held Thursday, it was decided that the proposed benefit to A. M. Palmer shall take place early in May at the Metropolitan opera house.

THE NEW DEPARTMENT.

Conferees on the Commerce Bill Approaching Agreement.

Washington, Feb. 7.—The conferences of the senate and house on the department of commerce bill approached an agreement on the bill Friday, but adjourned, to meet Saturday, without entirely finishing their work. They were in session about three hours, the greater part of the time being spent in an effort to adjust the differences on the question as to whether the president should be given power to transfer the inter-state commerce commission to the proposed department, as provided by the house bill. Considerable feeling was manifested over the matter, and the controversy became so animated at times that the voices of the conferees could be plainly heard in the adjoining corridors. When the meeting began the trust provision of the bill was taken up immediately. No time was lost in reaching an agrement on that point. The differences were adjusted by the acceptance of the Nelson amendment with a portion of the house provision added. The conferees then sought to come to an understanding on the question of transferring the inter-state commerce commission to the new department. At first there appeared a strong probability of coming to an immediate understanding on this point as the house conferees consented without making many objections to the elimination of the specific mention of the commission. The bill as passed by the house authorizes the president to transfer to the proposed department "the whole or any part of any office, bureau, division or other branch of the public service engaged in statistical or scientific work, or the inter-state commerce commission."

The senate conferees moved to strike out the words referring to the commission, and after some objections, the representatives of the house assented.

It was then suggested that the transfer of the commission might be accomplished under the general authority given to transfer bureaus engaged in statistical work, as the business of the inter-state commission is largely of that character, and an effort was made to amend the language of the provision as to prevent and even prohibit that result. It was at this point that the meeting came to a close.

PRINCESS LOUISE.

M. Giron Has Broken Off All Relations With Her.

Geneva, Feb. 7.—The legal advisor of the former crown princess of Saxony has made the following announcement:

"M. Giron will leave Geneva this evening for Brussels, where he will join his family. M. Giron has broken off all relations with the princess in order not to impede the reunion of the princess with her children."

The sudden end of the royal romance is said to be due to the refusal of the Saxon court, influenced by the emperor, Francis Joseph, to consent to a divorce. It is reported that the princess sought her father's pardon in order to get permission to see her children, but was refused everything unless she left M. Giron. The parting of the princess with M. Giron is said to have been affecting.

A SHOOTING AFFRAY.

City Marshal and His Son Were Severely Wounded.

Carbondale, Ill., Feb. 7.—Silas Farmer, city marshal of DeSoto, Ill., and his son, Lawrence, 23 years old, are severely wounded as the result of a shooting affray on the streets. Lawrence's father placed him in jail a week ago and Thursday paid the fine and released his son.

After being out a short time the youth secured a revolver and announced that he intended to kill his father. The two met in the evening and the son at once opened fire, inflicting three wounds. The marshal then drew his revolver and shot his son twice, inflicting wounds which may prove fatal. Both men are married.

IN THE TERRES MOUNTAINS.

Tremendous Gold Strike at the Terminus of the Nacozari Railway.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 7.—Edward B Sturgess, a prospector from Mexico near Douglass, Ariz., reports a tremendous gold strike in the Terres mountains, about 40 miles from Cos terminus of the Nacozari railroad Sturgess says he mined $150,000 in gold in six weeks with a crude outfit. Samples of ore are said to run as high as 3,600 ounces of gold to the ton, with a value of about $72,000.

Evading Duties.

Berlin, Feb. 7.—Herr Roesicke, agrarian, complained in the reichstag Friday that Canadian wheat continued to come to Germany as American wheat, thus paying a duty of 27½ cents on 200 pounds, instead of $1.25.

An Important Discovery.

Granton, Okla., Feb. 9th.—After ten years E. H. Gosney and Granton has at last found a cure for Kidney Trouble. Mr. Gosney suffered very severely with Kidney Complaint and some ten years ago made up his mind to find a cure if one was to be had.

He has tried and tried and experimented with every kidney medicine he could hear of. Although he was always disappointed he kept on trying till at last hisperseverence was rewarded and he found a complete cure.

He is a well man to-day and explains it as follows:

"Everything failed to cure me and I was growing worse and worse till I tried a new remedy called Dodd's Kidney Pills and I had not taken many of them before I knew that I had at last found the right thing. I am entirely cured and I cannot say too much for Dodd's Kidney Pills."

ARE BUSILY ENGAGED.

Allies' Representatives Preparing Their Protocols.

British Protocol Provides For the Reference of the Contention For Preferential Treatmsnt to The Hague For Settlement.

Washington, Feb. 7.—President Roosevelt has declined the invitation of the allied powers to arbitrate the question as to whether they shall receive preferential treatment in the settlement of their claims against Venezuela over the other creditor nations. He reached this decision shortly before 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, and instructed Secretary Hay to dispatch a note to the British embassy at once advising the British ambassador to that effect. The matter, therefore, now will be referred to the Hague tribunal. This will result in the immediate raising of the blockade.

Washington, Feb. 9.—The representatives of the allies here are busily engaged in the preparation of the protocol which they are to sign with Mr. Bowen, Venezuela's representative, for the reference to The Hague of the question whether the blockading powers shall be entitled to preferential treatment in the settlement of their claims. The blockade will be raised when the protocols are signed. They are in constant communication with their governments on this subject and are anxious as far as possible to cover every detail which should be comprised in an instrument of this charcter. Mr. Bowen also is anxious that the protocol shall be identical so far as this may be practicable and he is directing his efforts to that end and also that they shall be signed on the same day.

The British protocol provides for the reference of the contention of the allies for preferential treatment to The Hague for settlement for the payment by Venezuela to Great Britain five hundred thousand pounds cash and for the immediate raising of the blockade. The matter of the adjudication of the claims and the collection of the 30 per cent. out of which they are to be paid, has been left for the second protocol.

Italy, it has been learned, wishes to have inserted in her protocol an article providing for a change in her treaty or amity with Venezuela so as to include the "favored nation" clause, such as the other powers possess. Mr. Bowen has explained that while he is willing to use his influence to secure this, he can do nothing more in the protocol than recommend it, as the matter is entirely irrelevant to the present controversy. There are also other provisions in the italian protocol, which do not meet the approval of Mr. Bowen, and the italian ambassador has cabled to Rome for permission to withdraw them.

Regarding the German protocol little is known except that it is along the general lines of the other two.

GEN. URIBE-URIBE.

The Former Colombian Revolutionist Committed Suicide.

Kingston, Jamaica, Feb. 9.—The British steamer Para, which arrived here Sunday from Colon, brings the news of the suicide on January 30 of the former Colombian revolutionist general, Uribe Uribe. Gen. Uribe-Uribe published a letter December 12 advising Colombia to await the lapsing of the Panama canal concession in 1904, which would leave the Colombian government a free hand in the matter of the canal.

The reports brought by the Para indicate the possibility of another revolution in opposition to the Panama canal treaty.

THE COAL CONDITIONS.

A Congressional Committee May Make An Investigation.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Representative Small, of North Carolina, introduced a concurrent resolution providing for the appointment by the speaker of a committee of 11 members of the house to inquire generally into the coal conditions in the United States. The resolution further directs the committee to "inquire whether any combinations exist between mine owners and operators and the transportation companies in violation of the laws of the United States. A report is to be made to the next congress.

Six Murders Within Ten Days.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 7.—Clairton, the new town on the Monongahela just above Pittsburg, Friday increased its record of murders to six within ten days. Friday afternoon when many people were in the main street, a white man shot and killed Charles Mack, a Negro, of Harrisville, Ky. The murderer fled to the hills and was not captured.

Mont Pelee Volcano Active.

Paris, Feb. 9.—The governor of the Island of Martinique, in a dispatch to the colonial office, announces that the Mont Pelee volcano continues active; that its summit is constantly changing shape and that masses of incandescent matter are thrown out.

Acre Territory Dispute.

Rio Janeiro, Feb. 9.—The Bolivian government has replied to the Brazilian government agreeing to Brazilian occupation and administration of the Acre territory pending settlement of the dispute.

IN FAVOR OF MINERS.

The Joint Committee Agreed Upon a Scale of Wages.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 9:—The miners and operators of the competitive district agreed upon a scale of wages for the ensuing year. The price for mining is to be increased 10 cents per ton on one and one-quarter inch screened lump coal, pick mining, in Western Pennsylvania. The Hocking, the basing district of Ohio, and both the block and bituminous districts of Indiana; six cents per ton on mine-run coal, pick mining, in the bituminous district of Indiana and at Danville, the basing point of Illinois.

The price of machine mining is to be increased eight cents per ton on screened lump coal in Western Pennsylvania, thin vein, and the Hocking, the basing district of Ohio; ten cents per ton on screened lump coal in the block and bituminous districts of Indiana, and six cents per ton on mine-run coal in the bituminous district of Indiana, and at Danville, the basing point of Illinois. The inside day wage scale shall be as follows, with the conditions of the Columbus day wage scale agreement of 1898.

[illegible] layers, $2.[illegible] track layers' helpers, $2.36; trappers, $1.13; bottom cagers, $2.56; drivers, $2.56; trip riders, $2.56; water haulers and machino haulers, $2.56; timbermen (where such are employed), $2.56; pipe men for compressed air plants, $2.50; company men in long-wall mines of Third district of Illinois, $2.56; all other inside labor, $2.36. Yardage and dead work are to be advanced 12½ per cent. In addition to the above, the operators verbally agreed that outside day labor be increased 12½ per cent. in Ohio, Illinois and Indiana, and that in the Pittsburg district there shall be an increase of 12½ per cent. except where prices have been advanced during the present year.

In those cases sufficient increase shall be granted to bring the amount up to 12½ per cent increase and where more than 12½ per cent. was secured the wages shall not be reduced. In the mines of the Monongahela company the advance shall be a straight one of 25 cents a day.

At the meeting of the scale committee the Indiana miners agreed to withdraw the shot-firing bill from the senate.

TWO EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS.

Dishes Were Rattled and Doors Swung To and Fro.

St. Louis, Feb 9.—Two distinct earthquake shocks were felt in St. Louis and vicinity between 6:20 and 6:25 o'clock Sunday night. The first shock was of almost 20 seconds' duration and while it was not so distinctly felt immediately in St. Louis, in the western suburban towns and in Alton, Belleville, Edwardsville and other nearby towns in Illinois, it was sufficiently forceful to rattle dishes and swing doors. The second shock followed within two minutes and was slight and of short duration. Both shocks were from northeast to southwest.

Marion, Ill., Feb. 9.—An earthquake shock was felt Sunday evening. Preceding the shock a roaring noise was heard. Many persons ran into the streets. At the West Side hotel flues were shaken down.

Paducah, Ky., Feb. 9.—A slight earthquake shock occurred here about 6:45 o'clock Sunday night. No damage was done and the duration of the vibrations was very brief.

Cloverport, Ky., Feb. 9.—An earthquake shock startled a number of Cloverport's citizens about 6:30 o'clock Sunday night. No damage was done and many people of the town did not know the shock had occurred.

Owensboro, Ky., Feb. 9.—A distinct earthquake shock was felt here at 6:45 Sunday night. Pictures were shaken from the walls and tables in the second story of many houses.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 9.—A slight earthquake shock was felt here at about 6:45 o'clock Sunday night. The vibrations caused windows to rattle, but no damage was done.

Paris, Feb. 9.—Slight earthquakes were felt on Saturday at midnight at Brest, St. Brieux and on the island of Molene.

DEATH OF MRS. CRANSTON.

The Wife of Bishop Cranston Passed Away in Mexico.

Denver, Col., Feb. 9.—News was received by Earl M. Cranston of the death at Silas, Mex., Sunday of Mrs. Laura M. Cranston, the wife of Bishop Earl Cranston, of the Methodist church. Mrs. Cranston accompanied the bishop to Mexico several weeks ago to attend a church conference. Bishop Cranston, his wife and daughter, were in Peking during the Boxers trouble and United States Minister Conger was a guest at the Cranston residence when the outbreak began. Mrs. Cranston's death is directly attributed to nervous shock occasioned by her being a witness to scenes following the outbreak. The body will be taken to Cincinnati for burial.

The Freight Embargo Lifted.

Baltimore, Feb. 9.—Officials of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad stated Sunday night that the freight embargo which had existed for several weeks has been lifted, and that there is no congestion of freight at any point on the line.

The Pretender Is a Prisoner.

Madrid, Feb. 9.—A dispatch from Tangier to the Imparcial confirms the news that the pretender, Bu Hamara, is a prisoner of the Riata branch of the Kabyle tribe, which is ready to deliver him up for a ransom.

A HUGH TIDAL WAVE.

Over 1,000 Lives Were Lost in the Society Islands.

The Islanders Who Survive Are Destitute of Food, Shelter and Clothing—All Their Crops, Etc., Were Destroyed.

San Francisco, Feb. 9.—More than 1,000 persons were killed and 80 islands of the Society group in the Southern sea were devastated on January 15 by a huge tidal wave that swept across the island dotted sea. News of the disaster was brought Sunday on the steamer Mariposa, direct from Tahiti.

The storm raged for several days, being most severe from January 14 to 16. On January 15 a tidal wave, accompanied by a terrific hurricane, attacked the Society islands and the Tuamotu group with fearful force, carrying death and devastation for miles before its towering front.

As the news received at Tahiti up to the time of the sailing of the Mariposa was meager, it is thought that full returns may swell the death list. It is possible that hundreds of bodies were washed out to sea so that they may never be accounted for. The islanders who survive are destitute of food, shelter and clothing. Crops have been destroyed and death threatens the survivors.

The first news of the disaster arrived at Papete, Tahiti, on January 26, by the schooner Elmeo. The captain of the schooner placed the fatalities at 500 persons. The steamer Excelsior arrived at Papete the following day with 400 destitute survivors. The captain of the Excelsior estimated the total loss of life at 800 persons. These figures comprised only the deaths on the three islands of Hao, Hikuera and Makokau, whose total population is only 1,800. On Hikuera island, where 1,000 inhabitants were engaged in pearl diving, nearly one-half were drowned. On an adjacent island 100 more were washed out to sea.

Makeno and Hao are depopulated. Conservative estimates at Tahiti place the number of islands visited by the tidal wave and burricane at 80. All of them are under control of the French government at Tahiti.

The French governor upon receipt of news of the disaster took prompt measures to relieve the starving survivors. The governor dispatched two warships, the Duranee and Zelee, with fresh water and provisions. The Italian man-of-war, Calabria, accompanied the two French vessels on their errand of mercy. As the supply of fresh water and provisions was exhausted by the storm is it feared that many lives will be lost before the relief ships arrive. As far as is known eight white people were among the drowned. Included in these were Alexander Brander, N. P. Plunkett, of Oakland, Cal.; T. D. Donnelly, formerly a fireman on the steamship Australia, and the local agent of C. Coppenrath, a merchant of Papete. Added to this number was a woman, who committed suicide from fright.

MURDERED IN HIS OFFICE.

A Dealer in Old Iron Found With His Skull Crushed.

New York, Feb. 9.—Louis Mandel, a dealer in old iron, was murdered Sunday in his office in East Twenty-third street, his skull being crushed by blows struck with a heavy iron bar. He was found in an unconscious condition and died in the hospital. Robbery evidently was the motive for the crime, as the desk at which Mandel was sitting when he was attacked was rifled and his gold watch and chain and diamond pin were taken. The murderer overlooked a large sum of money which Mandel had in an inner pocket.

Policemen's Fatal Quarrel.

Bristol, Tenn., Feb. 9.—Policeman Gratt Walk shot and instantly killed Policeman Houston Childress Sunday morning at the corner of State and Fourth streets. The shooting resulted from a quarrel. Walk escaped. He was traced to his room, where he had exchanged his uniform for citizens' clothes.

Rr. Adm. Wildes Dead.

San Francisco, Feb. 9.—Rr. Adm. Frank Wildes, of the United States navy, died suddenly on board the steamer China. He was on his way home from China on sick leave when death overtook him. Adm. Wildes had recently been in charge of the fleet in the Philippines.

Rr. Adm. Crowninshield at Naples.

Naples, Feb. 9.—Rr. Adm. Crowninshield, aboard his flagship, the cruiser Chicago, arrived here Sunday from Algiers. He will proceed to Alexandria and return here later. It is reported that he will be back here for the gathering of the Italian and Russian fleets on the occasion of the czar's coming visit.

Cleveland's Fishing Trip.

St. Augustine, Fla., Feb. 9.—Former President Grover Cleveland, accompanied by Dr. Joseph D. Bryant, of New York, arrived here Sunday evening. They are on the way to Stewart, where they will spend two weeks fishing.

Displacing Colored Brakemen.

Guthrie, Okla., Feb. 9.—A change has been made on the Choctaw lines through Oklahoma and Indian territory. White men are taking the places of the colored brakemen, who have been employed on all passenger trains.

FIFTY-SEVENTH CONGRESS.

Second Session.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Senate—Discussion of the statehood bill Thursday turned on the question of polygamy. Mr. Gallinger (N. H.) replying to some statements made by Mr. McComas (Md.), said that he was in favor of an amendment to the statehood bill covering the question of the polygamy as strongly and firmly as possible. The influences of the Mormon church on politics occupied a large share of the debate. Mr. Hale characterized the debate as interesting, valuable and startling, because it had disclosed a powerful religious organization "exerting itself as a dominant, potential force" over the mind and action of its followers, which should be taken into account in future legislation.

House—The anti-trust bill debate in the house did not develop much animation, although there was a fairly large attendance in the galleries. The rule under which the house was to operate, however, precipitated a lively discussion. The bill to expedite anti-trust prosecutions occasioned no debate. It passed the house, as it did the senate Wednesday, without a word of debate. Mr. Powers (rep., Mass.) made the opening argument for his side of the house on the judiciary committee bill and Mr. Clayton (dem., Ala.), open... for his side.

Washington, Feb. 7.—Senate—For a time Friday in the senate it looked as though the question of the construction of an isthmian canal would be discussed openly. Mr. Morgan spoke on his resolution, introduced Thursday, calling on the secretary of the navy for correspondence regarding the military occupation of the hays of Panama and Colon. He had not proceeded far when Mr. Cullom, who had been following him closely, interrupted with a motion for an executive session, which Mr. Morgan resisted. The chair overruled Mr. Morgan's objections and the doors were closed. Mr. Morgan, continuing his remarks in executive session, alleged that $10,000,000, which the United States paid to Colombia, would go to the insurgents who made peace last year. When open session was resumed, Mr. Morgan predicted that if the United States continued its policy with reference to the construction of an isthmian canal, war with Colombia was inevitable.

House—General debate on the anti-trust bill closed in the house shortly before 6 o'clock Friday evening. The debate had proceeded since 10 o'clock in the morning. More interest was aroused as it proceeded, and the closing speeches by Mr. DeArmond (dem., Mo.), and Mr. Littleford (rep., Me.), were delivered to crowded galleries, and to a full attendance of the floor. Saturday for three hours the bill will be considered under the five minute rule, after which the final vote will be taken.

Washington, Feb. 9.—Senate—The senate Saturday passed the following bills: Authorizing the promotion of Maj. William Crawford Gorgas, surgeon in the United States army; for the relief of Capt. Joseph M. Simms, of the United States revenue cutter service; authorizing the construction of monuments on the Gettysburg battle field, and granting a pension of $75 each to the widows of Gens. Siegel and Negley.

House—By a unanimous vote—republicans, democrats and all others voting for it to a man—the Littlefield publicity bill to regulate corporations and interstate commerce, passed the house. The poll stood 245 for and none against the measure, a most unusual circumstance. The democrats offered amendment after amendment, but their efforts to modify the bill and strengthen it, according to their own ideas, failed signally, the republicans being determined to put it through in the frame it came from the committee on judiciary. The bill in brief is as follows: Corporations "hereafter organized" must file returns with the interstate commerce commission for publication. Corporations failing to file public reports will be restrained from engaging in interstate commerce. Penalties are prescribed for false returns. The interstate commerce commission may demand an accounting from corporations now in existence. Corporations that offer rebates will be denied the instrumentalities of interstate commerce. Refusal to testify before the commission is punishable with a $5,000 fine. Testimony shall not be used against witnesses. Carriers are prohibited from transporting articles made in violation of the Sherman act. Corporations must disclose the names of constituent companies. United States circuit courts are invested with jurisdiction to prevent violations of the act. Individuals damaged by violations of the bill are authorized to file suits.

A FLOOD FEARED.

The Chattahoochee River Is Rising Very Rapidly.

Columbus, Ga., Feb. 9.—The Chattahoochee river is on a rise and a flood is feared. The water is 36 feet above normal and still rising. A bridge which was in process of construction has been seriously damaged, and all the mills on the river front will be idle several days. Within six hours Sunday the river rose five and one-half feet. The damage to property all along the river is considerable.

Ex-Secretary Long's Condition.

Boston, Feb. 9.—Former Secretary of the Navy John D. Long had a comfortable day Sunday and, according to the physicians' bulletin Sunday night, his condition continues to be favorable.

Sunday Session.

Washington, Feb. 9.—The house of representatives Sunday held a memorial session to pay tribute to the memory of the late Senator William J. Sewall and the late Representative Joshua H. Salmon, of New Jersey. Mr. Parker, of New Jersey, presided.

Hanna's Bill Indorsed.

Fort Worth, Tex., Feb. 9.—At the regular meeting Sunday of R. E. Lee camp, United Confederate Veterans, a resolution indorsing the Senator Hanna bill to pension ex-slaves was passed by an almost unanimous vote.

STATE ITEMS OF INTEREST.

FRANCHISE TAX.

Hunting Up Old Claims Against Kentucky Railroads.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 7.—Attorneys H. L. Stone, of Louisville, and W. O. Davis, of Versailles, have been here this week looking up the records and assessments, with a view to asking the state board of valuation and assessment to assess a state and county franchise tax against all the railroads in the state for the year 1893, 1894 and 1895.

No franchise assessment was made by the board for these years because the franchise law had not been tested then and because it was thought the railroad commission had included the franchise value in its assessment. If the board makes the proposed assessment the railroads will have to pay between $10,000 and $50,000 for each year and a large amount to the counties because their tax rate is higher than the state rate.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 7.—The state board of valuation Friday fixed February 24 to hear the arguments on the question of assessing a franchise tax against the city of Cincinnati as the actual owner of the Cincinnati Southern railway. The board contends that both the owner and the company operating the road are liable for a franchise tax.

FIRE AT LEXINGTON.

An Entire Block of Tenement Houses Were Destroyed.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 5.—Splendid work by the local fire department prevented a fire of huge proportions here Wednesday night, but not until an entire block of tenement houses was completely destroyed.

The strong winds caused the flames to spread with great rapidity, and these had assumed a considerable headway before the department could reach the scene. Nine families are rendered homeless, but they were afforded a temporary shelter by sympathetic neighbors.

The loss to the buildings is estimated at $4,000, partly covered by insurance. The loss to the tenants could not be estimated Wednesday night.

A FAMOUS FARM.

It Will Be Cut Up By the Heirs of the Millionaire Turfman.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 6.—Executors have decided to divide the historic Woodburn farm, the home of Lexington, King Alfonso, Maud S. and scores of other turf stars. Woodburn is the estate of the late A. J. Alexander, and is situated in Woodford county. When the will of the millionaire breeder was probated it was the choice of the heirs to keep the 3,200 acres as an entirety and conduct the farm as a company. Later some of the heirs demurred and the executors have finally determined to divide the farm into tracts. The horse cemetery on the farm, where are the graves of many noted horses, will not be molested.

FLOOD WARNINGS ISSUED.

The Ohio River Is Still Rising at Louisville, Ky.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 6.—The river is still rising at this point and flood warnings have been issued by the local weather bureau. It is expected the danger line, 28 feet, will be reached by Saturday. It is not thought the water will go much over that stage.

The Kentucky river is also rising very rapidly, and this fact is in part responsible for the rise here.

Boy Met a Horrible Death.

Madisonville, Ky., Feb. 6.—Willie Taylor, the 2-year old son of Ray Taylor, met a horrible death Thursday morning by falling in an open well at the rear of the Taylor home, a few miles east of town. The little fellow was dead when rescued from the well. It is not known how long he had been there, but perhaps two hours.

Won the Contest.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 7.—Allen H. Rhodes, of Lexington, representing the State college, won the Kentucky intercollegiate declamatory contest here Friday night. Other colleges represented were: Kentucky university, Wesleyan college, Georgetown college and Central university.

Smallpox in Magoffin.

Salyersville, Ky., Feb. 7.—There are 200 well-developed cases of smallpox in this county. It seems to be of a very mild type, with few exceptions. The local board of health has declared a quarantine against each family infected, and has ordered yellow flags put up. There is no vaccination going on.

A Strange Coincidence.

Ashland Ky., Feb. 7.—Cowen Jessie, who was struck by a Camden Interstate car, is at the point of death. A coincidence is that he lives in the house formerly occupied by George Hite, who was killed by the same car near the same spot four weeks ago.

Famous Brood Mare Dead.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 7.—The 11-year-old thoroughbred brood mare House Girl, by Himyar—The Sweeper, by Imp. H. Mortremen, is dead at the farm of her owner, Edward Frasier, in this county.

SHOT HIS FATHER.

Emptied the Contents of a Shotgun Into His Neck and Breast.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Feb. 7.—Thomas H. Hill, aged 30, emptied the contents of a double-barrel shotgun into the neck and breast of his father, Burton Hill aged 60, near here, late Friday afternoon. The elder man had accused the son's wife with unchastity several days ago. In an ante mortem statement he charges Mrs. Hill with instigating the shooting. He was brought to the court house Friday night and physicians say he will die. The sheriff and posse are searching for Thomas Hill.

UNDER GUARD.

Campbell Was Escorted Out of Jail to Be Married.

Paducah, Ky., Feb. 7.—In Mayfield Joe Campbell, under arrest for alleged horse stealing, and Miss Emma Guill, of Watervalley, Ky., were married.

The groom was escorted from the jail under guard. The couple were married by County Judge J. T. Webb. They then embraced and kissed. Campbell was marched back to jail. His bride left immediately for Watervalley.

When Campbell was arrested in Watervalley the couple were preparing to get married.

BECAUSE OF SMALLPOX.

The Mails Stopped By the State Board of Health.

Paintsville, Ky., Feb. 6.—Dr. J. N. McCormick, of the state board of health, arrived here from Bowling Green Thursday to confer with the local board in regard to the smallpox situation. There are now about 80 cases in town, with a like number in the county. In addition to closing the schools and churches the board of health has stopped the mails in part of this county. Business is practically suspended.

UP TO THE COURT.

It Is To Decide Whether Whayne Committed Suicide.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 6.—The Fidelity Trust and Safety Vault Co., administrator with the will annexed of R. C. Whayne, filed suit against the Equitable Life Assurance Co. of the United States to collect two policies for $65,000 each. Whayne was found dead in a lane near his home several weeks ago.

The court will now have to decide whether Whayne was killed accidentally or whether he committed suicide.

FUGITIVE CAPTURED.

Louis Buford Mortally Wounded By Marshal McCullom.

Paducah, Ky., Feb. 5.—Louis Buford, colored, wanted here for robbery, shooting at a policeman and jail breaking, was shot and mortally wounded at Kuttawa Wednesday night by Marshal McCullom, of that place, who arrested him. Buford tried to cut the marshal's throat, and had a companion with him who tried to shoot McCullom, but the marshal was too quick, and shot both. The second Negro made his escape.

Rumors of a Mob.

Russellville, Ky., Feb. 7.—Baxter Robertson, who is accused of killing Ras Estes on New Year's day, was arrested near Richlieu Friday morning by Perry Landan and Leander Chick, and was brought to this city. For a while Friday morning it was whispered that a mob might make its appearance Friday night, but none appeared. Landan and Chick have been given the reward of $400.

Charged With Counterfeiting.

Newport, Ky., Feb. 5.—United States Marshal Emmet Orr Wednesday night brought to the jail here Edward Gorley, who was arrested at Augusta, Ky., on a charge of counterfeiting. Gorley, it is alleged, made silver coin of fractional denominations. He is only 18 years old.

Reappointed a Dying Man.

Versailles, Ky., Feb. 7.—Charles F. Gray, aged 26, manager of the Western Union Telegraph office at Versailles, died Friday. He had resigned his position to go to Denver for his health. Friday as he lay dying notice came to him of reappointment to his old job.

Tunneled Out of Jail.

Paducah, Ky., Feb. 5.—Six Negro prisoners tunneled out of the city jail. They are Tom Fitzgerald, Joseph Taylor, George Card, Robert Bright, Nat O'Hara and Will Saggs, all held for misdemeanors.

Fined $500 By the Jury.

Williamstown, Ky., Feb. 7.—The jury in the case of James Vaughn imposed a fine of $500. Vaughn last summer shot James Perkins during a quarrel, in which the latter heaped abuse on the former's mother. As a result Perkins lost the sight of both his eyes.

Strike Declared Off.

Sturgis, Ky., Feb. 7.—The strike at the new shaft of the Hielman Iron & Coal Co. has been declared off by the union, which failed to sustain the leader in his action, and the men have returned to work.

IF the news from Washington is reliable, President Roosevelt has determined to have some anti-trust legislation put through Congress at this session, or he will call a special session to meet on March 5th. If the President has decided to force a fight for anti-trust legislation, lively times will be at hand in the near future.

CAN a qualified voter at the State primary election to be held May 9, next, cast his ballot for candidates other than those whose names are printed on the ballots?
A READER.

He certainly can. A blank will be left on the ballot for each office, in which a voter can write the name of any person for whom he desires to vote, and whose name is not printed on the ballot. It is not impossible to elect a candidate whose name is not printed on the ballots.

THE editor of the Atlanta, Georgia, News, who was an earnest advocate of President Roosevelt from the beginning of his administration until a few days since has addressed an open letter to him in which he criticises some of his recent acts severely but in a genteel manner. Below are a few extracts from the letter:

"Mr. President, it is the object of this letter to say to you that you have either forgotten or forfeited the promise which you made to the American people above the open grave of William McKinley.

"You have destroyed the sectional peace and the fraternal harmony which McKinley builded.

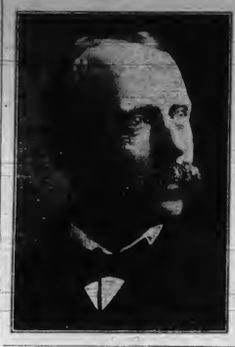
"You have reopened in savage and dangerous menace the threatening and tremendous problems which McKinley's wisdom had partially solved.

"You have disturbed the peace and the patience and hopeful industrial progress of the race whom you think you seek to serve.

"You have the great precedent of McKinley's successful life and policy to justify you in subordinating your individual prejudices and opinions to the profound philosophy of race, and to be nearly infallible tides of public opinion.

"You have in time past receded from other public positions assumed, and recanted opinions too hastily formed. It is not yet too late to review and retrace your steps along this honest but mistaken way.

"I appeal to the wisdom of the man and to the conservatism of the Chief Magistrate that you withdraw your negro policy for some later successor to handle at some later and more appropriate time.



"That you cease to insult the South with the injection of social equality into your official functions, and with the forcible projection of negro officials into the most responsible stations of this section.

"That you restore the negro to his peaceful and hopeful and beneficient line of industrial progress.

"That you bring back to this so lately united country the fraternity and peace which McKinley builded, and which you have for a time destroyed.

"And the South, which admires your courage, and respects your integrity, will pay tribute to your statesmanship, and forget past errors in the faith of your future usefulness and fame."

JAMES A. DUNCAN.

The above is a picture of James A. Duncan, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Clerk of the Boone Circuit Court. He is a son of Mr. James W. Duncan, present Clerk of the Circuit Court. He is 50 years of age and never before asked the party to honor him with any position, although he has been an industrious party worker at every election since he was a voter. He does not know how to be other than a Democrat, and is one of the most popular men in this part of the county. To know "Jimmie" Duncan is to like him. He is one who never finds a night so dark or the road so long that he cannot do his fellowman a kindness when he is called upon. His Democracy is of the all wool and yard wide variety.

A CARD.

To the Democrats of Kentucky:—I beg to announce to you my candidacy for the office of Commissioner of Agriculture, subject to the will of the Democratic voters at the primary to be held May 9. The short time intervening before the election renders it impossible for me to cover all of the State. I desire to state that I have been for years and am now a practical and active farmer, and that all of my interests are dependent upon the success of the farmers. I am in thorough sympathy with all matters pertaining to the advancement of the interests of the agricultural classes of the State, and of course, in our Commonwealth it is well known that the success of all other lines of business are dependent upon the welfare of the farmers. If nominated I pledge my best efforts to use the Department of Agriculture in the interests of the farmers and the general welfare of the Commonwealth.

I have at all times been an active and consistent Democrat. I am profoundly grateful to the Democrats of Scott county, who have twice honored me with the Sheriff's office without opposition in the ranks of our own party. I have always been found in the thickest of the fight for Democratic principles, both State and National. I have served four years as a member of the State Central Democratic Committee, representing the Seventh Congressional District, and feel that I can point with pride to the success of the Democratic party in my district under my direction. In these times of great combinations of capital and trusts, no one feels more keenly the direct results of their unjust oppression than the farmers of the country, and I pledge you if nominated to use the office to resist the oppression of all trusts and to stand fighting for the interests of the agriculturists. If you nominate me I pledge all of my energy and strength to the success of the party in November, when we must meet the enemy, the Republican party. Having had many years experience in business and farming, you will not be placing the office in the hands of an inexperienced man, and I pledge the same care to the interests of State affairs that I have devoted to my personal affairs. The Department of Agriculture was founded for the interests of the farmers, and in my humble opinion ought to be managed by a practical and real farmer. My county, Scott, has not had a candidate for a State office for twenty-five years, and being a strong and reliable Democratic county, I feel that I can appeal with confidence to my fellow Democrats all over the State.

I ask for your hearty support and encouragement, and whether successful or not in my ambition to be your Commissioner of Agriculture, I pledge at all times my hearty support to our common cause, Democracy, the only refuge for an honest and patriotic people.

Very sincerely,
T. T. HEDGER.

The mule market is more active now than it has been at any time in the past ten years. Buyers are scouring the country in search of the long-eared beauties, and instead of sellers hunting buyers and begging them to purchase, the case is just the reverse, and buyers are begging owners to sell. Advices from the Southern markets say the traders are selling mules as fast as they can put halters on them, and the planters are taking them at almost any price asked. What is true of the mule market also applies to horses. Smooth, sound, high-stepping Eastern horses are scarce, and bring any where from $150 to $500, according to color, style and finish, while blocky Southern horses are in equally as strong demand at $100 to $175.

The State Fair this year will be held at Owensboro. Lexington and Louisville both wanted it, but Owensboro offered better terms than either.

TO BORROWERS!
The Walton Perpetual Building and Loan Association on Nov. 15th 1893,
Loaned a Man $500.
His number in the Association's records was 389½ Each week thereafter he paid
$1 for Credit on his Debt
and 60c interest. January 16, 1901, this book was filled and paid out having been in existence
7 Years and 2 Months.
The records show that during this time he paid $231 20 as interest and received
$139.79 in Dividends.
He therefore paid $91.41 net interest or $12.74 per year. It is claimed that
He Had the Use of $500
for only one-half of the time, or $250 for the full time. An easy calculation shows he paid only 5 1-10 per cent interest.
Attention is Called to the fact that payments made by members of this Association earn dividends from date of their weekly payments,
Keeping the Borrower's
money and dividends always at work and not lying idle as is the case when hoarded to make payments on obligations given to a bank or individual.
It is Vastly Easier to pay debts in such small installments than to meet the full amount when one is unprepared.

THE RUBICON.

[Contributed by Pupils of League Institute, Verona, Kentucky.]

In the study of history, events naturally group themselves around some center—an important war—a powertul city, or an illustrious man. Caius Julius Caesar was such a man. He was orator, general,—Rome's greatest statesman.

From the study of his character, we find his power lays in one word, "Decision." After subdueing eight hundred towns and three hundred tribes, fighting against more than three million soldiers, he was recalled by the Senate to Rome. The Rubicon was a small river, a boundary of the Roman Republic. Since to cross this with an armed force was an open declaration of war against the Roman Senate, he halted upon the bank, until all efforts toward a reconcilation were rejected. He then exclaimed "the die is cast," and crossed the Rubicon. These words have since become synonymous with—'ready resolve'—and 'prompt decision.'

Decision of mind, like vigor of body, is a gift from God; and as such it is our duty to cultivate it. All nations seem to realize the truth of this: "Take time while time is, for time will away," say the English.

"When the fool has made up his mind the market has gone by,"—Spanish.

"A little too late—much too late,"—Dutch.

"Some refu-e roast meat, and afterwards long for the smell of it,"—Italian.

Shakespear says, "There is a tide in the affairs of men, which taken at its flood leads on to fortune—omitted all the voyage of life is bound in shallows and miseries.

Obstacles and perplexities every one must meet and he must conquer them, else they will conquer him. Crises will come to all, Rubicons must be crossed or defeat is certain.

The shores of Fortune are covered with the stranded wrecks of men of brilliant abilities, who have been pushed aside in therace of life, while they stood halting between two opinions.

Emerson says, "A prevailing illusion is that the present hour is not the critical, decisive hour. Write it on your heart that every day is the best day in the year."

We learn from the records of the past that if we would succeed, we must not stand hesitating upon the banks of the dividing streams, but cast the die and move forward. Heaven gives us enough when it gives us opportunities.

The rapid advance of Hannibal on Rome, after the battle of Cannae—that of Henry, of Navarre, on Paris, after the battle of Ivre, would have changed human history.

To improve the golden momenta of opportunity and catch the good that is within our reach, is the great art of life. If any one should write a history of the "Decisive Loves" that have influenced the history of the world in all of its subsequent scenes, the daughter of the tanner of Falaise would occupy a conspicuous place.

Arletta's pretty feet twinkling in the brook made her the mother of William, the Conqueror. Had not Duke Robert, of Normandy surrendered to Cupid, and her fascinations, Harold would not have fallen at the Battle of Hastings. No Anglo Saxon race could have arisen; no British Empire. Creasy in his decisive battles declares this to be emphatically true.

How different is the picture given us by Whittier, of the Judge in Maud Muller, who refused his decision in behalf of his affections, whose worldly pride and ambition would not permit him to bravely stem the tide, and cross the Rubicon. We are, to a great extent, at least, the architects of our own fortunes. "Every man stamps his value upon himself, the price we challenge for ourselves is given us; man is made great or little by his own will." One decides upon his companions, upon his profession, upon his politics, nay, even upon his future destiny.

"Choose ye this day whom ye will serve, If the Lord be God serve Him. If Baal, then serve him," appeals to us with as much power to-day, as when uttered by the prophet of old.

"Once to every man and nation comes the moment to decide. In the strife of Truth with Falsehood for the good or evil side." Let us decide to make hay while the sun shines, gather roses while they bloom. We must take the current when it serves or lose our venture.

A correspondent of the Liverpool Mercury writes: "I am willing to risk my reputation as a public man if the worst case of smallpox cannot be effectually cured in three days, simply by cream of tartar. This is the sure and never failing remedy. One ounce of cream tartar dissolved in a pint of boiling water, to be drank when cold, at short intervals. It can be taken at any time, and is a preventive as well as a curative. It is known to have cured in thousands of cases without a failure. It never leaves a mark; never causes blindness; always prevents tedious lingering.

"If women would pay more attention to their health we would have more happy wives, mothers and daughters, and if they would observe results they would find that the doctors' prescriptions do not perform the many cures they are given credit for.

"In consulting with my druggist he advised McElree's Wine of Cardui and Thedford's Black-Draught, and so I took it and have every reason to thank him for a new life opened up to me with restored health, and it only took three months to cure me."

Wine of Cardui is a regulator of the menstrual functions and is a most astonishing tonic for women. It cures scanty, suppressed, too frequent, irregular and painful menstruation, falling of the womb, whites and flooding. It is helpful when approaching womanhood, during pregnancy, after childbirth and in change of life. It frequently brings a dear baby to homes that have been barren for years. All druggists have $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

WHY HE FORGOT THE COFFEE MILL

A VALENTINE STORY.

"I hate to trouble you," said his wife to the Grown-up Boy, "but they are only advertised for to-day, and I can't possibly get down-town."

She handed him an advertisement cut from a morning paper.

"I've needed a coffee mill for six months, and you can get one today for 27 cents. Do you think you could stop and send one up to the house?"

The Grown-up Boy 20 Years Ago.

The Grown-up Boy got off his car at State street and went into the big shop which was making a run on kitchen utensils.

The place was already crowded. At every counter dozens of women were pulling over the bargains, while behind them saleswomen, in their black uniforms, pounded on the glass tops with their pencils and cried: "Cash girl, cash girl," in shrill, nasal voices.

Men carrying big bundles and women without any ran into him and hurried away when he stopped to apologize.

Finally the Grown-up Boy took courage of his necessities and caught by the sleeve a young man who was dashing by with the air of a general bringing his brigade into action.

"Coffee mills?"

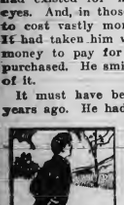
"Sixth floor, right hand section State street front, elevator three aisles to the south, two to the west." The impatient young man hurried away. The Grown-up Boy found the elevator. Twenty-five people fought for a place in it. Then it crept, trembling with its heavy load, up the high shaft.

His Heart's Desire.

"Sixt'. Sportin' goods, coffee mills, bicycles, groceries, lawn mowers, valentines, an' perfumeries," droned the elevator man as the car passed the fifth floor.

The Grown-up Boy got out at the sixth floor as he had been directed and turned to the right. A big paper sign, projecting into the aisle, caught his eye, and, for some reason, held his attention:

VALENTINES.



He stepped to the counter and picked up one of the paper lace creations displayed upon it, says the Chicago Tribune. At the top stood a paper angel, blowing a silver trumpet. The feet of the angel rested upon a bank of pink clouds, spotted with green and yellow. Below were two huge white turtle doves. The doves were tied together with a crimson ribbon. Between the angel and the doves was a blushing Cupid.

"I love you," was the tender legend.

It was a poor, tawdry affair, further cheapened by a wanton sign above the counter: "Paper Lace Valentines Reduced to 19c."

The Grown-up Boy remembered when nothing more beautiful than a Cupid and flower bedecked valentine had existed for his inexperienced eyes. And, in those days, they used to cost vastly more than 19 cents. It had taken him weeks to save the money to pay for the first one he purchased. He smiled as he thought of it.

It must have been more than 20 years ago. He had just entered the fourth grade over at the old Union school. When he took his seat on the boys' side of the room the first day he noticed across the center aisle, where the girls of the sixth grade sat, a young divinity in a blue checked gingham dress and a white apron with shoulder straps. Her eyes were big and blue, and her hair hung down her back in two long braids, each tied with a blue ribbon. She was giggling and looking around the room at all the new boys and girls.

The Perkins Boy.

It was a case of love at first sight on the part of the Grown-up Boy, and it was his first attack.

That morning at recess he waited until she came out, looking more beautiful than ever in her little pink sunbonnet. Then, in full sight of his goddess, he fell upon and "licked" his best friend and henchman by way of displaying his prowess. He had "licked" the friend frequently before, and therefore felt sure that he should make an impressive exhibition. When the snow fell and the boys set out "to wash the girls' faces" he pursued his heart's desire around the schoolhouse yard, as an Indian chief pursues the squaw he wants for a wife. He then threw her down in a deep drift and rubbed snow into her eyes and mouth until she cried and went in and told the teacher. Then, when another boy called her "tattle tale," he promptly "licked" him for so doing.

When Christmas came he got a shock. The Perkins boy, whose folks were rich and who never played "one-and-over" for fear of getting dirt on his shirt waist, gave Laura a little ring, with a blue stone in it, and a whole pack of chewing gum. The Grown-up Boy witnessed the presentation and writhed. At the first opportunity he "licked" the Perkins boy, taking care to select time and place so that Laura should be there to see. Nor did she seem an unwilling spectator.

Not yet had the Grown-up Boy dared to breathe a word of the passion that was gnawing at his vitals. But one afternoon, on the way home from school with the "gang," he passed Myer's drug store and saw the window full of valentines. Heretofore he had no use for anything but "comics." He had seen the Perkins boy buying a lace and turtle dove confection, and had led the "gang" in calling the Perkins boy "Softy" in a most offensive and insulting manner. But now the world had changed for him. He was a "softy" himself, and he felt that nothing but the biggest valentine of all, marked at the enormous figure of 75 cents, would fitly express the depth and fervor of his affections.

"Licking" the Perkins Boy.

He carried in the kindling for four weeks at ten cents a week; he gathered and sold 11 cents' worth of old iron and nine cents' worth of bottles; he sacrificed his "slingshot" for a nickel to the Perkins boy; and, finally, at the last minute, his fond grandmother gave him the dime needed to make up the necessary amount.

Never, before or since, has the Grown-up Boy had so proud a moment as when the coveted masterpiece of valentines became his property. He was puzzled for a time as to how it should be sent. But he was too much ashamed to ask advice. At first it seemed almost necessary that it should be accompanied by some original poetry. This was tried, but given up in despair. Finally it was decided to send it without any marks to identify the sender. It was certain, as he looked at it, that Laura would know at once that it came from him. Besides, if the "gang" ever found it out they would make life miserable for him. So he went so far as to carefully disguise his hand in writing the address, and he slipped out in the dusk after supper to drop it into the small box.

He went to school next morning in an excited and unhappy frame of mind. He feared lest the "gang" might discover that he had become a "softy." Consequently he was unusually rough, and fought several successful battles on the way to the schoolhouse. He hoped that Laura, who had surely gotten the valentine by that time, would not thank him publicly for sending it. If she did he would be tempted to deny it.

When She Made a Face at Him.

When school "took up" Laura was in her seat, but she did not even look in his direction. He wondered whether the valentine had not yet been delivered or whether she was entirely overcome by the magnificence of the offering.

Next morning, when again she neglected even to glance at him, he decided to bring matters to a crisis. He skillfully threw a "paper wad," which landed on her desk. When she turned quickly he was prepared for an eloquent acknowledgment in her eyes. But she only "made a face" at him.

That was the only acknowledgment that he ever got. The Perkins boy and Laura grew up together, and finally he heard, after he was a Grown-up Boy himself, that they were married. Twenty years after the valentine episode he had gone back home and had been introduced to Mrs. Perkins and her four children and had wondered how he had ever fallen in love with such a huge, commonplace, uninteresting woman.

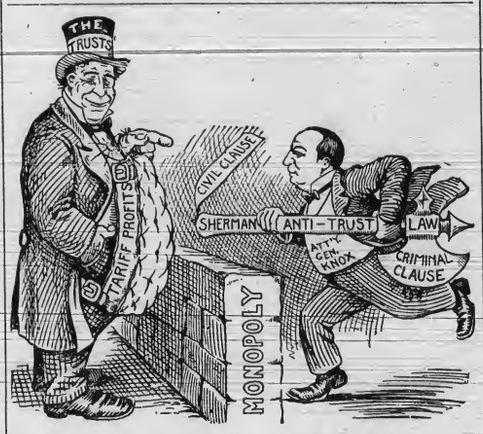
That evening, when the Grown-up Boy got home from the city his wife spoke about the coffee mill.

"It wasn't delivered this afternoon," she said. "I suppose you ordered it all right."

"I'm sorry," said the Grown-up Boy, weakly, "but I really forgot all about it."

"You're the most absent-minded man I ever saw," said his wife, somewhat petulantly. "And now it's too late to get one for 27 cents."

"My business is so engrossing," answered the Grown-up Boy, firmly, "that you oughtn't to expect me to remember things."



His Heart's Desire 20 Years After.

TO FOOL THE PEOPLE.

The Anti-Trust Programme of the Republicans is a Transparent Subterfuge.

Anti-trust legislation is still in a chaotic state. The judiciary committee of the house of representatives has reported a bill which will probably pass the lower house. It was collaborated by the Littlefield subcommittee and Attorney General Knox, and the latter is said to be fairly satisfied with it, which is an indication that the trusts do not fear it. It is mainly intended for spectacular purposes, for it is well known that the judiciary committee of the senate will not report it, as Chairman Hoar favors his own bill and the other republican leaders are nearly all favorable to the corporations. The senate leaders have their own trust programme to overcome the obstacle of the statehood bill which has the right of way and cannot be displaced, having a majority in its favor. The oligarchy that rules the senate found themselves helpless to prevent Senator Quay from passing the statehood bill, unless they resorted to a long filibuster, which is now in progress. But the adroit politicians who always control legislation in the senate, have evolved a plan of strategy that they hope will show that they are still omnipotent. President Roosevelt has informed Senators Aldrich and Spooner that some sort of anti-trust legislation is undoubtedly necessary to save the republican party from ruin, and they have agreed to put some kind of a bill through the senate, if Speaker Henderson will force it through the house.

Why, Oh Why, Don't He Attack With the Other End?—The Commoner.

The fact that the president sent for Henderson and converted him to the mild form of anti-trust legislation that was considered necessary, is now a matter of history. Henderson's reward is to come later. The plan of the senators is to do by indirection what is impossible in a direct way. The way being blocked for the passage of an anti-trust bill through the senate, it is intended to have the conference on the department of commerce bill, which has passed both houses, insert in the measure, through an amplification of its provisions regarding the bureau of corporations, all that part of the anti-trust programme relating to publicity. The rest of the programme relates to rebates and discriminations and is covered by a bill introduced by Senator Elkins, and by him reported favorably from the committee on interstate commerce. As Senator Elkins is an out-and-out friend of the railroads and is known to be interested in corporations, the measure is hardly likely to be inimitel to trust interests.

The importance of this programme, says the Boston Transcript, lies in its relation to senate strategy. "It eliminates the judiciary committees in both house and senate, making the committees on commerce and on interstate commerce the real vehicles of decreed republican policy. This has long been desired by the leaders. Its next advantage comes in getting the anti-trust programme before both houses as a privileged matter, through the medium of a conference report. This gives it precedence over even statehood."

All this is not of much consequence to the people. It is intended to again fool them by making them believe that their servants in congress, and especially their president, are trust-busters. The result of the legislation will show that the bills are entirely inoffensive to the trusts, and this is foreshadowed by the senators and representatives, who are trust's agents, being favorable to the bills.

The democrats will probably vote for the measures, for not to do so would lay them open to the charge that they are opposed to anti-trust legislation.

If free coal is a good thing for one year, why isn't it a good thing for two years? And if for two, why not for all time? A year, republicans contend, is sufficient time to allow production to catch up with consumption. When that event occurs and the trust can supply the trade the rebate must cease so that divine grantees can rob the consumer as they please. In the meantime, let us be thankful for small favors. And perhaps free coal for a year will be a convincing argument. Republican voters burn coal just as democrats do.—St. Louis Republic.

LEGISLATION ON THE TARIFF.

No Measures in Sight for the Alteration of the Dingley Schedules.

In a recent discussion of the outlook for tariff legislation in the closing days of the Fifty-seventh congress the conclusion is reached by Harper's Weekly that a very meager result may be expected and that even the president's slight recommendations appear to be unheeded, says the St. Louis Republic.

Save for the reciprocal tariff treaties now in the hands of the senate committee on foreign relations there are no tariff measures in sight, and, according to Harper's Weekly, the fate of these reciprocity treaties may safely be predicted. That with Newfoundland will not be approved. The treaty with France, "and the whole tribe of 'Kasson treaties,' have no chance of confirmation." The Cuban treaty may be confirmed by the senate if "[illegible] be brought to a vote. The Philippine bill, originating in the house and providing for a reduction of the Philippine tariff, has some prospect of passage, although the beet-sugar interests may prevent in the senate as great a reduction as was voted by the house.

The record thus likely to be made by the republican majority in congress will place the republican party before the people in next year's presidential campaign under a handicap of serious proportions. The growing sentiment in favor of tariff revision, which has already greatly weakened the popular support of republicanism, must inevitably be strengthened by that party's stubborn maintenance of the Dingley schedules and by its dodging of the reciprocity issue in every way known to crafty tactics. Voters can cherish no hope of relief from the tariff burden at the hands of the republican party.

On the other hand the democratic party, distinctly recognized as the party of tariff reform, appeals to the people with exceptional potency. In the senate this party has just won a signal victory by compelling the removal of the tariff on anthracite coal. The republican party was afraid to do otherwise than yield, for the simple reason that public sentiment demanded relief from intolerable conditions created by the tariff protection of coal monopolists who used their power to the people's injury. The placing of anthracite coal on the free list has taught the people of this country a valuable lesson that could not have been taught otherwise in so emphatic and convincing a manner. The road to relief from the exactions of the trusts lies through a reform of the tariff. This task must be intrusted to the democratic party for faithful performance.

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS.

—Senator Dolliver, of Iowa, just "sloshes about" on the tariff, and Senator Allison "ain't saying a word."—Cincinati Enquirer.

—"Even Mr. Hanna makes mistakes at times," says the Washington Post When American journalism gets as defiantly reckless as this, it's time to establish a press censorship.—Detroit Free Press.

—Presidential prophets are already calculating how old Senator Hanna will be in 1908. The point of particular interest just now is how old Mr. Hanna will be in 1904.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

—Senator Aldrich talks about "the greed, if you please, of the agricultural interests of the west." The leading champion of tariff monopoly rebuking greed is a spectacle for gods and men.—Portland Argus.

—We do not see that the reelection of Senator Platt calls for any further comment. The legislature had the power to raise the standard of New York's representation in the senate, but the inclination or the courage was lacking.—Syracuse Herald (Ind.).

—Senator Platt, of New York, is to succeed himself, as it all along has been evident that he would; but no enthusiasm was manifested by republican members of the legislature over their choice. There was no cheering, but rather the demeanor of men who were acting by the will of another and not by their own. And such seems to be the case.—Springfield Republican (Ind.).

SISTERS OF CHARITY

RELY ON PE-RU-NA TO FIGHT

Catarrh, Coughs, Colds and Grip.

SISTER BEATRIX.

A letter recently received by Dr. Hartman from Sister Beatrix, 410 W. 30th street, New York, reads as follows:

Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio:
Dear Sir:—"I cannot say too much in praise of Peruna. Eight bottles of it cured me of catarrh of the lungs of four years standing, and I would not have been without it for anything. It helped several Sisters of coughs, and colds and I have yet to find one case of catarrh that it does not cure."
SISTER BEATRIX.

Interesting Letters from Catholic Institutions.

In every country of the civilized world the Sisters of Charity are known. Not only do they minister to the spiritual and intellectual needs of the charges committed to their care, but they also minister to their bodily needs. With so many children to take care of and to protect from climate and disease, these wise and prudent sisters have found Peruna a never-failing safeguard.

THE SISTERS GOOD WORK.

Dr. Hartman receives many letters from Catholic Sisters from all over the United States. A recommend recently received from a Catholic Institution in Detroit, Mich., reads as follows:

Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio:
Dear Sir:—"The young girl who used the Peruna was suffering from laryngitis, and loss of voice. The result of the treatment was most satisfactory. She found great relief, and after farther use of the medicine we hope to be able to say she is entirely cured."—Sisters of Charity.

This young girl was under the care of the Sisters of Charity and used Peruna for catarrh of the throat, with good results as the above letter testifies.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Constipation Cured

Those who have used salts, castor oil, and the many home and manufactured purgatives, know that in such treatment there is no possibility of a cure from constipation. These remedies are at most physics and do absolutely no good. In fact they frequently provoke piles fistula, female disorders and many cases of appendicitis are traceable to their use. Soon the ordinary doses of these physics fail to have any effect upon the bowels.

There never was a case of temporary or obstinate constipation that would not cure. First, Mull's Grape Tonic is unlike any other treatment for constipation. It is the greatest and most positive laxative known. But that isn't what cures. It is the tonic properties of the grape and other fruits that strengthens the worn-out muscles of the intestinal tract. Mull's Grape Tonic builds flesh makes strength and creates rich, red blood. Mull's Grape Tonic is the finest thing ever known for constipation. It is guaranteed to cure you. ALONE WITH JESUS.

The Privilege of Gaining the Divine Presence Is Open to All.

Sometimes the Devil Is Instrumental in Getting a Soul There—Sermon by the "Highway and Byway" Preacher.

[Copyright, 1903, by A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Co.]

Chicago, Feb. 8, 1903.

Text:—"And Jesus was left alone, and the woman standing in the midst."—John 8:9.

The Unexpected.—The unexpected is always happening in the presence of Jesus. The human mind or heart cannot compass or anticipate the methods or purposes of the Son of God, and because it is true, as God declares, that, "as the heaveus are higher than the earth, so are My ways high — than your ways, and My thoughts than your thoughts," it is not strange that the soul of man as it comes in touch with God should experience the unexpected. The incidents surrounding our text are a striking illustration of this fact. The accusing Scribes and Pharisees and their surprise which shook the whited sepulchers of their hypocrisy and set the dry bones of hidden sins within to rattling an ignominious defeat as they sneaked silently away. The sinful woman had her surprise, for instead of the crushing stones of just condemnation of which she was worthy she felt the uplifting hand of Jesus and heard Him say: "Go, and sin no more." The company of disciples and others standing around and witnessing the strange and remarkable scene had their surprise, for never before had they seen such dignified, uncompromising condemnation of sin and such compassionate tenderness toward the sinner as was revealed here. Surely, "it was never so seen in Israel" before. The Scribes and Pharisees had it all outlined in their minds how their wicked, disgusting plotting would succeed; the unfortunate woman undoubtedly had her mind made up that condemnation and punishment would be meted out to her, and the assembled company of people surrounding Jesus hastily concluded that at last a trap had been sprung from which Jesus would not be able to extricate Himself; but as the Divine and surpassing wisdom and grace, the dignified silence and the tender word, were so skillfully manifested, all were silenced and subdued in the face of the unexpected.

It is always so. The soul comes into the presence of Jesus with its mind made up just how He is going to deal with it, just what is to take place, and always finds that human reckoning falls short of the infinite resources and methods of God. God always deals with the soul according to its needs and not in accordance with its expectations, and thus does for it "exceeding abundantly above all that it could ask or think." The unsaved soul that makes up its mind just what kind of an experience it is going to have when it accepts Christ as Saviour is always disappointed. In the presence of Jesus and alone with Him the human programme is discarded and God's programme is marvelously carried out. And if the soul will not yield the programme it has arranged and accept that which God has prepared for it in His infinite wisdom and love, it needs must abide in the darkness of its own mind and withdraw from the presence of Jesus, even as the self-righteous Pharisees did in the incident before us.

The matter of experience is one which troubles more souls than perhaps any other. Almost invariably the mind is made up to this or that condition or feeling or circumstance, in connection with conversion, and because it is not realized doubt and unhappiness prevail, and sometimes a complete rejection of Christ and His promises follows. Again one is impressed with the striking and beautiful experience of a friend and makes up his mind that he must have a similar experience if he is to come to Christ, and because such is not vouchsafed to him, he fails to find any comfort in the promises of salvation, and fails to receive from God an unexpected and blessed experience of his very own.

That rich young ruler who came to Jesus asking the way of salvation undoubtedly had a beautiful programme all made out as to just what Jesus was going to tell him to do, and because the unexpected happened and Jesus told him to sell all that he had and give to the poor he went away disappointed. Whether the young man ever did find salvation or not Scripture does not tell us. I have always hoped that, on sober second thought, as he weighed the things of time with the weightier things of eternity, he did, but be that as it may, one thing is certain, if he did it was along the line of God's programme for him and not in accordance with his own.

How many, many Christians fail to find light or blessing in their Christian experience, because their human plans and ideas and purposes are carried into the presence of Jesus and clung to, and then carried away again to distress and harass them as the days drag unhappily by, and to bring sad disappointment in the end. The reason so many Christians fail to get real light and sure leading when they go to God and talk over with Him the matter they have in their minds and upon their hearts is because they tell God all about it and then try to argue Him around to their preconceived notion and purpose in regard to it. They do not realize it, probably, because they have not patiently and submissively learned at Jesus' feet that it is almost always the unexpected which happens when Jesus is dealing with and speaking to the human heart.

The disciples were constantly failing into the error of pinning for themselves and their Lord, and it was a slow hard lesson to learn that it was not the expected plans of the human heart which were wrought out, but the unexpected purposes of God. Peter, James and John, who were permitted to behold the transfigured glory of Christ on the mountain top, instantly suggested what seemed to them a splendid plan of action; the building of tabernacles for Moses and Elijah and Christ, but the unexpected voice of God spoke from the Heavens and rebuked them. And instead of dwelling upon the mountain top, Jesus went down with His face steadfastly fixed towards the cross, and instead of prolonged intercourse with Moses and Elijah, He descended to the level of human need and the lips which had just left speaking with glorified beings were soon uttering the words which set the demoniac son free from the evil spirit which possessed him.

When Jesus talked of His crucifixion to His disciples, impulsive Peter presumed to interpose his thought and plans for the Christ, and the unexpected rebuke of the Divine will came crushing back upon him, as Jesus exclaimed: "Get thee behind Me, Satan; thou art an offense unto Me: for thou savorest not the things that be of God, but those that be of men." And if Peter could fall into such error, is it likely that we shall escape? How often the heart of the Christian, if it would take time to listen, might hear the voice of Jesus sounding out the same rebuke to-day as it purposes and plans its Christian work apart from God's will. It was not what Peter expected to hear, but it was what he did hear.

Again the unexpected happens in the presence of Jesus in a two-fold way. He unexpectedly asks us to yield to Him some cherished possession or plan, and then at the point of complete surrender and when we have did good-by to it forever, He unexpectedly commits it to our hands again for His use and His honor and glory. Do you know, I do not believe Jesus would have permitted that rich young ruler to sell everything and scatter it among the poor. He startled the young ruler by unexpectedly demanding that condition, but at the point of yielding on his part I believe Jesus would have recommitted the riches to his hands to administer to the honor and glory of God.

While Abraham was dwelling at Beersheba in joy and contentment, and when life was running along delightfully smooth, and the young man Isaac, the son of promise and the joy of his old age, was growing into vigorous manhood, suddenly and unexpectedly, as Abraham sought the presence of God for his daily communion with Him, God asked of Abraham a strange and hard thing. He must give back his well-beloved son to God. He knew he was the son of God's promise. He knew that in him were to be fulfilled the purposes of God in blessing all nations. I have no doubt but that Abraham as he sought God on that terrible day of testing was filled with his thoughts and plans for that boy Isaac. Perhaps he had come to exalt his own plans for the boy above those of God, and felt that the responsibility of mapping out his future career rested upon him. And while he was full of his own thoughts and plans and goes to talk them over with God, unexpectedly the voice of God speaks to his soul telling him that he must give up his plans and offer Isaac as a sacrifice to Him. But his faith failed not in God's promises, even though those promises were not to be carried out as he had thought and planned, "accounting that God was able to raise him up, even from the dead." And so Abraham was led to the point of giving up Isaac and then God unexpectedly gave Isaac back to him. Thus do we see the strange dealings of God with the human soul. It is the unexpected that happens when God's will is wrought out in the human life. In His presence the wicked devices of man are unexpectedly defeated, the guilty sinner is unexpectedly and tenderly dealt with, and those beholding the wonderful methods and matchless grace of the Divine presence are brought unexpectedly to realize that they are able to compass every human need and satisfy the perfect justice of God.

Alone With Jesus.—Those were cruel and unmerciful hands which dragged that trembling woman into the midst of the crowd in the temple and cast her at Jesus' feet, but did you ever stop to think that it was the best thing that ever happened to her. Surely here we have an illustration of how the wrath of man is made to praise God, and it continues to be so to this day, blessed be the name of the Lord. The devil brings many a soul to Jesus. It is not his intention to do so, but he does. He has not ceased to try to entangle the Lord and those who minister for Him, and he ruthlessly drags before Jesus desperate cases of sin and expects to entrap Him. But Jesus knows how to deal with every soul, and no case has ever been too hard for Him when He got it alone with Himself. Why, the "chiefest" of sinners whom the devil was driving from Jerusalem to Damascus on his errand of persecution was not too great a problem for Jesus. When He met Saul alone on the road, the devil sneaked off and the unexpected happened, for the proud Pharisee was cast into the dust a humble supplicant, asking the Lord, whose existence he had been denying, what He would have him do. Yea, the devil overreached himself that time, and he often does, and Jesus puts him to rout every time and saves the poor sinner. And perhaps the unfortunate woman of our text would never have gained the presence of Jesus had not wicked hands brought her there. But there she was, and after her accusers have slunk off in guilty confusion that dared not look the Lord in the face, we are told that "Jesus was left alone and the woman standing in the midst."

Alone with Jesus always means, first of all, revealed sin. Look at yourself in the mirror of human comparisons and you are not conscious of the sinfulness of the human heart and life. Look at yourself in the mirror of the perfect righteousness of Christ Jesus and you immediately become conscious of sin. Alone with Jesus always brings one face to face with his real self. The publican who went up into the temple to pray had been alone with God and had caught a vision of his real self, and came crying: "God, be merciful to me a sinner." Until the soul gets alone with Jesus, sin always looks black and hideous on other people, but it seems very slight and quite excusable when it is a personal matter. The human heart knows how to use the whitewash brush, and is not at all sparing of the whitewash as it tries to cover over the black, unsightly marks of sin marring its purity.

When I came home the other night I noticed tear stains on the face of my little five-year-old. Taking her in my arms I sought to find the cause of them. "What has my little girl been crying about?" "Mamma sent me upstairs." "Why did mamma send you upstairs?" "Baby brother had my pencil." "And was that what mamma sent you upstairs for; because brother had your pencil?" "Well, you know, papa, you don't want him to have pencils because he bites the lead off." "But what did mamma send you upstairs for?" I asked again. The little head dropped, and the little tongue stammered out what it had been trying to cover up: "I grabbed the pencil away from brother." The little heart had been trying to cover up and excuse its fault, and the human heart is always trying to do that. God declares that the "heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked," and it is as natural for it to use the whitewash brush of excuse and human comparison, as it is for the human heart to err.

There is a natural aversion to being alone with Jesus. It makes one feel uncomfortable if he is clinging to sin. It results in one of two things. Either the soul runs away from Jesus as it rejects His claim upon it, or the cry is the same as escaped from the lips of Peter on the shore of Lake Galilee: "Depart from me; for I am a sinful man, O Lord." And when this cry is wrung from the heart conscious of sin because it is in the presence of Jesus, He never departs, but draws so close as to cover up the sin spots with His nail-pierced hands, and prepares the heart for His service.

Alone with Jesus means preparation for service. Preparation for Christian service can be obtained nowhere else but in the presence of Jesus. The reason there is so little manifest power and real results in preaching, in Sabbath school teaching, in hand to hand work, is that preparation has not been made while alone with Jesus. The servant of Jesus Christ must be long in his prayer and his testimony when alone with Jesus if he would be ready with the short, quick, telling prayer and testimony when the opportunity for service comes. The disciples who had been unable to administer to the needs of the father's only son who was possessed with a devil were troubled by their failure and asked Jesus the reason. He replied: "This kind can come forth by nothing but by prayer and fasting." And the lack of prayer and fasting in the presence of Jesus is the reason for every failure in Christian work. Ten days' fasting and prayer preceded the day of Pentecost. After the long preparation the power was received which enabled the disciples to so testify for Jesus on that wonderful day as to win thousands of converts.

At Antioch while the disciples were ministering before the Lord and fasting they were preparing Paul and Barnabas for their wonderful missionary tour. And after long preparation the Spirit thrust them forth to the successful work. Every great revival, every great missionary effort, has had as its foundation the prayer and fasting of those whose hearts were burdened and who got alone with Jesus.

Alone with Jesus means increased responsibility. Jesus made no mention to the woman as she left His presence as to past sins, but said: "Go, and sin no more." The past was written. She had to leave it with Jesus. He alone could blot it out. And we have to leave our past with Jesus. We can do nothing with it ourselves. He alone can provide for it. But the woman had the future before her, and so have we. Because she had been alone with Jesus there was new light in her life as to what sin really was, and a new responsibility upon her to live a pure life. The devil brings many a soul to Jesus. It is not his intention to do so, but he does. He has not ceased to try to entangle the Lord and those who minister for Him, and he ruthlessly drags before Jesus desperate cases of sin and expects to entrap Him. But Jesus knows how to deal with every soul, and no case has ever been too hard for Him when He got it alone with Himself. Why, the "chiefest" of sinners whom the devil was driving from Jerusalem to Damascus on his errand of persecution was not too great a problem for Jesus. When He met Saul alone on the road, the devil sneaked off and the unexpected happened, for the proud Pharisee was cast into the dust a humble supplicant, asking the Lord, whose existence he had been denying, what He would have him do. Yea, the devil overreached himself that time, and he often does, and Jesus puts him to rout every time and saves the poor sinner. And perhaps the unfortunate woman of our text would never have gained the presence of Jesus had not wicked hands brought her there. But there she was, and after her accusers have slunk off in guilty confusion that dared not look the Lord in the face, we are told that "Jesus was left alone and the woman standing in the midst."

Editor Recorder:—Several weeks ago I landed in Covington about 7:30 p. m. I stepped from a street car, corner 8th and Greenup, and as it was my first landing upon Kentucky soil for several years, I just stuck tight and fast. I've always been "stuck on" Ky. in general, but not on Covington in particular, so investigation was in order, and disclosed the fact that Covington mud measured 5 inches deep on an average at low tide. The average was alright, but the mud was bad. However, it was Kentucky mud, and I had no kick coming. Robert Riley and family entertained me kindly, Saturday night, and Sunday morning early, I left for Erlanger, to be pleasantly greeted by Hal Blanton, and Ryle & son, who are good-naturedly competing for the livery business coming their way. I took the Ryle "Blue Flyer" for Florence, where I came violently in contact with friend John Oelsner, who continues to smile, and sell goods just the same as always. Later, I ran across "Houns," the genial and affable politician, postmaster, &c. Going down Main street, I was pleased to read a sign that spelled out, "E. Corbin, dealer in genuine old Kentucky bluegrass fed tenderloin steak and Humberger half-soles for over worked stomachs." I had decided to get my stomach worked over and rehod, when Ed hove into view, "happy, fat and sassy." Of course he should handle as a preliminary to the other things he expected to do to me, but he din't. Ed accused me of having at some time accused him of selling tender meat to people with tender feet and of accepting money for it that was not legal tender. Of course it was a "real tender" subject to discuss, but with the assistance of several bystanders, I proved that tender beef was a legal tender for the friendship of every man, woman and child in Boone county, and Ed had the beef and it did the rest. Of course I never had to walk. Oh! no. I have not traveled a mile for walking all the same, upon the same grounds that a man cultivates a taste for eating, i. e., to live. I walked to the toll gate below Florence on the Union and Florence pike, and would have walked further if Mr. and Mrs. Robert Turner in dust insisted that I accept a ride to Union, where Mrs. Turner was just starting in a buggy. I shall remember their kindness. Mrs Turner drove rapidly along, and all I could do was raise my hat and say good morning to J. H. Corbin, Lou Taylor, John Surface, Bud Surface, Bud Floyd, Lee Busby, Willie Surface in a hurry, and pass on. Soon the home of Spencer Smith was in sight, and, although Union, with its many attractions, was to be seen later on, it was not that day, for there was no passing Spencer's house for anybody's house, with me, and I didn't, and went down. Spencer and wife have a faculty of making people feel at ease in their home, which is now, and has been for years, noted for good, old fashioned Kentucky hospitality. The three days following my arrival were spent only as people who are congenial can spend days, that is in perfect confidence and comfort. I now began to realize the difference between sitting on a bridge across "Tiger," at midnight, dreaming about the beauties of nature and the glories of life, and sitting by a big comfortable fire, whose rays of light and heat warmed up the surroundings and made living a reality. In Union there is strength, it is said, and I hope, soon, to tell you, Mr. Ed., some of its strong points from my point of view.

A RIVAL OF THE BANANA.

Mango's Rapid Progress as a Candidate for Popular Favor.

A fruit that is expected to rival the banana in popular favor is now being introduced into this country by the department of agriculture, says the Boston Herald. It is the mango, so highly esteemed in the tropics, where it outranks in public esteem both the mango and the orange. European residents in the hot belt almost always acquire a fondness for it. As yet, however, it is little known in the United States, being represented only by inferior varieties in our markets, which give no suggestion of the qualities of the better sorts, and tend rather to discourage than increase demand.

If an effort similar to that which brought the banana into favor in this country could place an adequate supply of mangoes before the public there is no apparent reason why this new tropical fruit should not repeat the history of its now popular predecessor.

Already the tree which bears it has been planted to a considerable extent in Florida, seeds of fine varieties having been brought from India, and soon planters in that state will be sending mangoes in boxes to northern markets. Some of the Florida trees are yielding as many as 10,000 fruits per tree in a season.

The mango tree grows under all sorts of conditions, and requires little cultivation. It is so prolific that, with 25 to 100 trees to an acre, enormous quantities of the fruit may be produced on a small tract. The mango varies, according to variety, from little more than a bush to a tree 50 to 75 feet high. Its flowers are small and reddish white or yellowish.

The fruits of some kinds are only two or three inches in diameter, but others are three or four times that size, weighing as much as four pounds. In shape they vary from nearly spherical to long and narrow like a cucumber. In the best varieties fiber is almost entirely absent, and the entire fruit consists of a mass of juicy orange colored pulp. In some kinds the pulp is so firm that it may be sliced with a knife, in others it is soft enough to be eaten with a spoon.

The mango is said to have originated in southern Asia and the Malay archipelago. It is now found wild in the forests of Ceylon and in regions at the base of the Himalayas. It was introduced first in Brazil, on this continent, and thence was taken to the Barbadoes in 1742. At the present time it is common throughout the tropics all around the world, but is finest in India.

There are over 500 varieties. It is the most highly prized fruit of the island of Guam, receives more attention in Hawaii than any other fruit and flourishes with special luxurience on the south side of Porto Rico.

The mango is used principally as a fresh fruit, but it also employed green for jelly and sweet pickles. It makes an excellent marmalade. In Porto Rico one may buy 100 mangoes for five cents, at which price their cost for jellies and marmalade is nominal. They are one of the chief ingredients of the famous chutney sauce of India.

The unripe fruit, peeled, cut from the stone and dried, is reckoned superior to lime juice as a preventive or cure for scurvy. In India the bark and leaves are utilized for dyes, and Indian yellow, so familiar as a water color paint, is a product of the mango, as has recently been ascertained, though previously its origin was unknown. The gum of the tree is a good substitute for gum arabic. In fact, the mango may almost be said to rival the olive in respect to the multitudinous ways in which it is serviceable to man.

An Ancient Custom.

Persons aspiring to become bailifs at Ainwick, in Northumberland, England, have to go through a curious and somewhat unpleasant ordeal. Before the election the various candidates ride up in a body to a horse pond, and there, dismounting from their steeds, plunge into the water and struggle as best they may to the other side. The music of a brass band cheers them during their struggles in the dirty water. This ancient custom dates from the time of King John, who once paid a visit to the town in 1210 and found no fitting welcome prepared for him. The blame of this state of unpreparedness was fastened on the luckless bailiffs, who were promptly thrown into the horse pond by royal command.

Where Prisoners Live Well.

Prisoners in Paris seem to fare well in some respects. The estimates of wine wanted for four jails next year amount to the modest total of 125,000 gallons.

DARING JAPANESE EXPLORERS.

They Claim to Have Entered the Sacred Capital of Thibet.

The sacred city of Lhassa, the capital city of Thibet, hitherto a forbidden city to all foreigners, has been entered recently by three daring young Japanese explorers. They are, says Japan and America, Capt. Yoshiteru Narita, Hiroshi Nomi and Keikai Kawaguchi, a Buddhist priest of Hoganji, Kyoto.

Capt. Y. Nanita is a promising young soldier and a son of Samurai of the Satsuma clan. He went to China several years ago, staying in that country for several months while he was preparing for his arduous expedition. After many dangers and hardships he succeeded in reaching Lhassa, having taken several years to accomplish his self-appointed task. He stayed in the city for 18 days, and then returned to Japan, about two months ago. About the same time that Capt. Narita visited Lhassa Mr. Hiroshi Nomi reached the interior of Thibet. There has been no news from him for some time, and he is supposed to be on his way home. He is a very young man, but brave and cool and quiet in his ways. Mr. Keikai Kawaguchi, the third of the Japanese explorers, had the hardest experience. He went by way of the Himalaya mountains and suffered a severe attack of snow blindness. He was totally blind for some time, but has entirely recovered from this mountain disease. Once he was mistaken for a robber by the Thibetans, who came near making him pay the penalty, which is in Thibet to put the robber on a horse and then shoot him. Mr. Kawaguchi, who is a Buddhist priest, at last succeeded in reaching Lhassa and is still residing in that city.

These achievements, remarkable in themselves, are significant in another way. In the first place, they show the tremendous energy and indomitable bearing of the Japanese. It will be found in the case of others who have tried to reach Lhassa that they were men who had fitted themselves by long study and experience for the attempt, and who made the final effort under the most favorable conditions possible. All of them, with one or two rare exceptions, failed lamentably.

Missionaries who have won the confidence of the Thibetans, and who have learned their language, failed to penetrate even to the vicinity of the sacred city. Some succeeded in getting within a day's march, and were tortured or turned back or killed. Even the most accomplished explorer of modern times, Sven Hedin, the incomparable Swede, who had fitted himself for his work by years of study and travel, could not pass the Thibetan guards that protected the sacred precincts of Lhassa. Yet the Japanese, young and untried adventurers, with the exception of Capt. Narita, who prepared for this expedition by living in China for several months, succeeded in attaining a goal that has been denied to the most daring and experienced travelers in the world.

But the chief significance of these remarkable achievements is the relation of a new force and energy in the world of action. It reveals an awakening in Japan such as occurred in Spain when there dawned upon her early greatness, and when she was preparing to send forth into the world her explorers and conquerors—Columbus, Cortez, Pizarro, De Soto, or in England when Drake and Howard and Hawke led the way to the glories of England on sea and land and transformed her into a world explorer and world conqueror. It reveals the birth of tremendous national energy and an indomitable national spirit. Japan is no longer a group of islands, a collection of people, but a nation possessed by a fiery national spirit. These things reveal it just as it was revealed by the greater things of the war with China, and by the splendid heroism of her soldiers in the advance on Peking, and by their more than splendid chivalry toward the conquered Chinese.

Remarkable Record.

Mr. William Gibson, a retired master tailor and draper, of Malton, and his wife celebrated their golden wedding anniversary recently. They were married at St. Nicholas' church, Norton, Malton (now demolished), on December 4, 1852. Mr. Gibson is a native of Malton, and has resided there all his life. His wife was Miss Wallace, of Rillington, and they are both 75 years of age. They have five sons and daughters, 14 grandchildren and one great-grandchild. In the whole course of their long married life they have not had a single death in the family.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXVIII. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1903. NO. 18.

County Correspondence.

COMMISSARY.

Feb. 14.—Ransom Ryle will move to Hathaway in the near future.

Wilber Scott attended the dance at William Pope's last Wednesday night.

Geo. B. Gibson's Sons, of Rising Sun will sell you an Old Hickory wagon at a reasonable price.

Miss Emma Hunt came down from Walton, Wednesday, to wait on her sick father and mother.

Sebe Scott and family, and James Botts and family were guests of Mrs. Lorena Scott, near here, last Saturday.

Sebe Scott and family, Mrs. Scott, Xen, Wilber and Miss Maud Scott, were guests of J. J. Lillard, and wife, last Sunday.

Jacob and Artlass Fleek spent last Sunday at the Commissary with their sister, Mrs. Ed Burres, and other friends.

Archie Acra living near Rising Sun, has a son very low with typhoid pneumonia, and his recovery is considered doubtful.

Two additions by confession at the Christian church in Bellevue, last Sunday. They will be immersed at the next regular meeting.

Born, Feb. 11th, to Elbert Kelly and wife, another daughter. Of course Elbert was proud and happy, but it was only a shadow of what it would have been had it been a boy.

Ed Burris and Wm. Slayback will crop together on the farm of T. J. Walton this year. This answers the inquiries as to where Ed is going and what he will do the coming season.

Claud Popham, a former Kentucky boy now living on South Hogan, Ind., moved and wedded, last Sunday, a Hoosier girl—a Miss Cotten, of South Hogan. May peace, happiness and prosperity attend them as they drift down the river of life.

Andrew Acra had a horse to fall over a perpendicular bluff last Monday. It fell 35 feet falling on solid rock in the bed of Middle creek, and strange to say did not instantly kill it, but it died the next day. The horse was blind in one eye, and by his tracks it could be seen that his blind side was next to the bluff, and, perhaps, it walked too near and slipped over, or the bank may have given away under him.

Jack Koons accidently cut one of his wrists with a knife, one day last week, and came near bleeding to death. The cut bled so freely that he and his mother started across the fields to Bellevue, on foot, knowing they could get to a doctor quicker in this way than any other. Jack held up bravely, but just as he got to Dr. Williamson's door, he was so weak from the loss of blood that he fainted and fell, and was carried into the house more dead than alive. The doctor soon stopped the flow of blood and it is hoped there will be no futher trouble.

Today is Valentine day. The first trace we have of valentines as we know them today dates from the year 1711. At first they were sweet and tender, breathing sentiment and affection, but so many wished to hide their revenge and malice behind an anonymous cover that the custom fell somewhat into disrepute. The fancy sentimental ones are as sweet and tender as in olden times, but the comic ones are less virulent than they use to be. About 100,000,000 pass through the mails every year. A few have passed through this office already, about equally divided between comic and fancy sentimental.

PT. PLEASANT.

Feb. 14.—Miss Eva Dolwick was visiting relativer, near Taylorsport, Wednesday and Thursday.

Howard Tanner and Monte Walton spent Friday in Cincinnati.

Several of our farmers are busy making maple syrup this week.

You want an Old Hickory Wagon, go to Gibsons' Sons, Rising Sun.

Miss Elsie Shaffer, of Cincinnati, was the guest of relatives at this place, last Sunday.

The school at this place, conducted by H. W. Northcutt, will close, Thursday Feb. 26.

Several from here attended the ball at Florence, Wednesday night, and report an enjoyable time.

Speaking of roads being impassable, Allie Walton says that the road leading from this place to Hebron, is in excellent condition. Why thusly, Allie?

The Point Pleasant Sunday School contest will close, about the 1st of March. The "Reds" have the larger following at the present writing. The defeated side will give an oyster supper at Point Pleasant church when the contest closes.

FLORENCE.

Al Thomas and family will move to Crescent Springs this week.

Mrs. Joshua Tanner, who has been very ill for several days, is better.

Mr. and Mrs Dan Points, of Sherman, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hinton.

Mrs. Ingram, of Cincinnati, visited her father, Mr. Noah Clore, several days last week.

The ball Wednesday evening for the benefit of the Catholic church, was quite a success.

B. F. Sawyer, of College Hill, was in our village Thursday, shaking hands with old friends.

Miss Minnie Faulkner has returned from Independence, where she has been the guest of friends.

Mrs. Mary Hickey has returned to her home after spending several days with relatives in Maysville.

Mrs. J. D. Stephens and daughter, Miss Allie Belle, spent several days last week with Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Slater, of Erlanger.

Misses Minnie and Irene Cahill and James Hickey were pleasantly entertained by Miss Minnie Drinkenburg, Sunday evening.

WALTON.

Mr. and Mrs. Omer Johnson are the parents of a 10-lb. boy. So, Will Lee now has two grand-sons.

A very nice party was given Monday night by Mr. and Mrs. Collins to Miss Lillie Franks and Mr. Ralph Hume.

Fritz Waits is rejoicing—Mrs. Ethel Pagel, his daughter, presented him with another grand-son and Fritz's countenance is indicative of his supreme delight.

Misses Mary Edna and Clara Johnson had the pleasure of entertaining Miss Sallie Jones, Charles Salen Johnson and Thos. K. Watson, Saturday night and Sunday. Miss Mary Edna Johnson having just returned from a three weeks' visit to her brother in Covington.

There are several items left out in this number on account of the writers not signing their names. Items to be known to the correspondent who are the persons sending in or giving in any item of news. He is responsible to the editor for the verscity of his statements in this column.

Two negroes who burglarized a store down at Campbellsburg, on the L. & N., Sunday night, were captured here Monday morning. They stole 12 pairs of pants and other thluge. It was learned that the thieves were on a north bound freight, and the officers here were wired, and were ready to make the arrest when the train arrived. They were locked in jail to await the Campbellsburg officers.

Dr. Tangerman, of Cincinnati, last week, removed a small tumor from the eyelid of Mrs. Fred Shaffer and three from those of her niece, Miss Trudie Snyder, both prominent ladies of the town. The ladies were greatly amused by the remarks of a juvenile to his mother, and, "Mamma" said the irrepressible, "the ladies in the far end of the car have been fighting and I guess they have been drinking." The largest tumor removed was about the size of a navy bean. Both are doing well

A day or two after our friend, Fletcher Johnson had got in his bluff about shuffling off on the morphine route we met him in Walton and accused him of being—as it were, somewhat careless in the use of dangerous articles in playing a risky game. He laughed heartily and told all about it. He had taken a tablet before leaving home and came up and bought more, taking two of them at the time: he remembered pouring them out in his hand counting them without having any intention of taking them. Assuring him of having created for once, and having recommended him to Dr. Miles' nerve tonic as possible, he stated that would happen on Wednesday the 18th inst. We did not have the heart to tell him that more men were apt to incline to the route he he was on after marriage than before.

Which shall it be, Tomatoes or Tobacco?

Many consultations with the farmers around here indicate very forcibly that there will be a large increase in the average of tobacco planting in all parts of Kenton, Grant, and Boone counties, near this market. The feeling is almost universal against the tomato. Many causes have led to this state of affairs, not the least of which is the stubborn fact that there has been but one good crop of tomatoes in the last half a score of years. The planters having raised both crops side by side are unanimous in their preference for planting of the tobacco. The company it is said, will contract to pay 25 cents for all tomatoes delivered before the 15th of September, and 20 cents for all delivered after that time As good a farmer as there is in this vicinity and as reliable a man as there is in Kentucky, states that last year he planted two and one half acres in tobacco, and along side he planted the same number of acres in tomatoes. The tobacco crop was sold here in Walton at 7 cents all around. 3,600 pounds at 7 cents is $252, with a rebate of $5 on the crop, making the gross amount received for it $257. The tomato crop brought a fraction over seventy-three dollars all of which was paid on the 15th of September; about a fair average from what can be learned of the portion that can be delivered up to that time, more especially when as many farmers allege the seed furnished them by the Snyder Preserve Co., was of the late kind, and make the greater bulk of the crop come in after that time. The Snyder Co., endeavors to make what the little tads call "a big thing on ice" of their offer of 25 cents per bushel on delivering before September 15, but any one only slightly "versed in Ar-ith-met-ic lore," can see at a glance how the Company would have the farmers at a disadvantage. Of course, the usual threats of letting the plant lay idle or moving it elsewhere are being made, but they fall on unbleeding ears. The people know the plant will not lay idle when they remember that only last year the Company went on the markets in the city and paid 55 cents per bushel for tomatoes, which come from this and neighboring precincts. There is about the same amount of work to be done in both crops until the crops are laid by. And then "Great Jewhillikins!" the Equinoctial and other storms of the season come down with a never let-up intensity, the tomatoes are ripening and must be picked and no tobacco patch ever boasted one with fearful sick to you mush like a tomato allure. All in all is there not something of a myth in the saying of tobacco being harder on land than any other crop? Some men contend that by sowing rye and plowing it under every spring the ground will be conserved and better fitted for another crop of tobacco.

Otto Crisler, linesman for the Boone County Telephone Company, put in several new instruments on the line from Burlington to Union, one day last week. The instruments are the latest out, and have materially improved the service.

HATHAWAY.

Feb. 16 —Spring lambs are putting in their appearance.

G. A. Smith, son of C. S. Smith and Miss Sallie Ryle, daughter of J. W. Ryle, of the Beech Grove neighborhood, went to Burlington last Wednesday and were united in holy matrimony by Rev. S. M. Adams at the hospitable home of B. W. Adams. After the wedding ceremony they returned to the home of the bride, where an elegant supper was in waiting, of all the delicacies the season afforded. The bride wore an elegant costume of blue cloth trimmed in white silk and braid, while the groom wore the conventional black. They were many useful and valuable presents. On Thursday the bride and groom spent the day at the groom's parents. Those present were James G. Smith and wife, Raymond Smith and wife, J. W. Ryle and wife and J. C. White and family. All spent the day very pleasantly. We extend our congratulations to George and his handsome bride. May happiness and joy attend them along their journey of life.

HEBRON.

One of C. E. Clore's horses was badly kicked, one night last week.

Regular services will be held at the Lutheran church, Sunday morning.

Miss Clara Hoseman entertained several of her friends, Saturday night.

The dirt roads both north and south of this place are almost impassable.

W. L. Aylor has his tenant house near Bullittsville almost completed.

Quite a number from here went to Guisinger's sale at Petersburg, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs C. T. Davis, of Ludlow, were guests of J. C. Hankins and wife, Sunday.

Mrs. Kate Tupman will be our next gate-keeper. She will move on or about the 1st of March.

Young lambs have made their appearance and every one is having good luck with them.

The remains of the little 2 year-old child of George Popham were brought here for interment, last Monday.

The usual number of valeuthes passed through the office here, this year. The majority of them were comic.

Rob Rouse and wife, of Limaburg, will soon be residents of our community. We welcome them most heartily.

Word comes from Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Clore that they are on their way home; and will arrive here Saturday. The first part of last week they spent in Texas.

RABBIT HASH.

Feb. 16.—Go to Gibson's, Rising Sun, for Old Hickory wagons.

Frank Hodges has bought C. G. Riddell's Lick creek farm.

The rain last week did not improve the condition of our roads, which were nearly impassable before the rains of Saturday and Sunday.

George Ward and Joe Walton shipped a bunch of fine hogs to the city, last week. Joe received $6 90 per 100, but we did not learn what George got.

Hubert Brady and Sam Wilson are the champion seven-up players as well as carmmas, as has been by the way they did two of Riverview's best players recently; but we'll come again, boys.

Robt. Piatt shipped his tobacco to Louisville, last week, and sold at an average of $6 90 Hubert Brady shipped 12 hogsheads to that market Monday night, for which he received satisfactory prices.

C. G Riddell visited Bennie Kirtley at McVille, one day last week. Bennie is a K. P., and is quite low of a complication of diseases. He was taken to Louisville to be operated on, but the surgeon said that in his weak condition the operation could not be successful.

A visitor to this place from Hathaway, told his people upon his return that as he was going down Main street when he came upon a hat, which he kicked, and behold there was a man beneath it, stuck right in the mud, and whom his foot struck on the ear. The mud here is not quite that bad, Brother Hathaway.

A big trade in real estate was closed here, last week, when Charles Dolph, the local blacksmith, traded his house, lot and shop to S. N. Riggs, of McVille, for his house, lot and shop, at the latter place. Mr. Riggs sold the Dolph house to Dr. Hopkins, and purchased a lot from B. W. Nelson, just below town, on which he will build a handsome residence. Charlie will take charge of the McVille shop this week.

Woodsawing is have become a fad in this neighborhood. On last Monday Mike Bailey had a sawing; one at Colon Kelley's on Tuesday; on Wednesday Will Stephens sawed, and Joe Walton, on Friday. A large crowd attended each sawing, and a great deal of wood was made. The bill of fare on each occasion was a credit to the women who prepared it. The champion sawyers were Sam and Bob Wilson, and Joe Waltou and Will Ryle.

FLICKERTOWN.

Feb. 16.—Several from here attended Scott Chambers' sale, last Tuesday.

Everybody about here is at Guisinger's sale today.

Born, on the 11th inst. to Moses Rouse and wife, a bouncing boy.

Chas. Crigler hurt his hand fighting a fire in the woods, a few days ago, and it is very sore.

Personal Mentions.

Judge Roberts visited Walton and vicinity, last Thursday.

Miss Mary Roberts has returned from a visit to her grandparents at Walton

Mrs. W. T. Smith's condition has not improved any within the last week or more.

Mr. E. M. Gaines, was in town Monday, looking in first class physical condition.

Robert Wilson and family have moved to the Wilks house out on the Bellevue pike.

Dr. W. H. Blanton, of Erlanger, called on the Recorder, while in town, last Thursday.

Dr. Sam Adams, of Walton, was the guest of his brother, county clerk B. W. Adams, one day last week.

Mrs. B. C. Whitlock, of Seckitan, O., was the guest of her sister, Mrs. L. H. Crisler, several days last week

Ben H. Berkshire, Democratic Committeeman in the Petersburg precinct, was in Burlington, Thursday.

N. E. Siddell and R. W. Adams were canvassing the Bellevue country for telephone poles, one day last week.

John Gilligan delivered his crop of tobacco to Thomas Stevenson, of Erlanger, last week. Price, $7 around.

Miss Julia Stevenson, of Norwood, Ohio, has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Revill, of this place, for several days.

Sam C. Johnson, one of the prosperous farmers of the Walton precinct, called on the Recorder force, last Thursday.

Farmer Sandford, living a mile out on the East Bend road, says if that road gets much worse, travel will be suspended.

Clayton Walton, of Constance, dropped in, one day last week, and enrolled his name as one of the Recorder's army of supporters.

Robert Rice, of Florence, was in town one day last week. Robert is one of the best salesmen of harvest machinery in Kentucky.

Thomas Garrison, who lives near Big Bone Grange Hall, was in town yesterday. He was not in his shirt sleeves, neither did he carry a fan.

Miss Effie Clore celebrated her eighteenth birth day with a big dance, last Monday night, which was largely attended by her young friends. All had a delightful time.

Mrs. S. P. Tilley, of Columbus, Ohio, has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. F. Blyth, of this place, for several days. Her husband is in Florida, spending the winter and selecting a home.

Edward Anderson, of Limaburg, came in last press day, and after watching proceedings for a while, he remarked that he believed the force understood its business, and that he could give it no pointers, and he bowed himself out.

T. T. Hedger, of Scott county, was in Burlington, a few hours, last Thursday. Mr. Hedger is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Commissioner of Agriculture. He made a good impression on those whom he met while here.

Joseph Scott, of Florence, the noted Jersey cattle breeder, was in town, this Thursday. There is not a better dairy herd in Northen Kentucky than that owned by Mr. Scott, who spares neither money nor labor to keep his cattle in the best grade.

Richard Head, of Union, called one day last week to see what kind of a start the Recorder had made for the new year. He reported peace and plenty in his neighborhood, and said the only thing to mar the pleasures of life was the terrible mud roads.

W. C. Goodridge has two sprightly sons, who have the oldest grand mothers in the county. Their paternal grandmother, Sallie Goodridge, is 93 years old, and their maternal grandmother, Mrs. Minerva White, is 90 years old. Both are enjoying good health.

R. S. Crisler and wife went out to W. C. Weaver's, one night last week. They took their violins with them, and soon after their arrival several of the near neighbors came in, and a most delightful evening was spent, listening to music, and in other social features.

Orin Phipps, of Middle creek, was among our callers last week. Orin was one of the local dealers who made a nice sum handling turkeys for the last holliday trade. He says it beat raising the long green, and he hopes to be on the right side of the turkey trade again next season.

One of the pleasantest callers the Recorder had last week was Miss Mary Gaines, the handsome and accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Gaines. Miss Mary has entered the contest for the Recorder, watch being the representative in the Bullittsville precinct.

Mr. Guisinger, of Petersburg, called on the Recorder last Thursday. He was well pleased with the way it advertised his sale. Mr. Guisinger has not bought another farm, although he has looked at several that are very desirable. The people of Petersburg and vicinity are sorry to lose Mr. Guisinger and family as citizens.

Clifford Nadand, the flour merchant, called on us one day last week. He is a hustler from away back, and neither weather nor tide delays his rural tour when the time comes to make it. He is strictly a business man, and a more pleasant gentleman with whom to have dealings cannot be found. A young man of his pluck is bound to succeed.

W. C. Hill, of Covington, agent for the Interstate Life Insurance Co., of Cincinnati, spent a day or two last week, in Burlington. Mr. Hill is a young man of fine business tact, and a very companionable gentleman. He came to this county a stranger, a few months since, but has worked up considerable business for his company and is pleased with the future. He makes friends wherever he goes.

LUDLOW.

Mrs. Hughes has been quite sick for several days.

Miss Mayme Gordon called on Meadames Clore and Snyder, one evening last week.

It was reported here that the coal elevators had been sold, but the story was not true.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Davis attended the wedding of Miss Pearl Rogers, in Cincinnati, Valentine evening.

Miss Carrie Clore, who has been home several days on account of sickness, is again able to resume her duties.

Miss Virginia Gottlieb is making an extended visit to her sister, Miss Edna Gottlieb, who is now in Washington.

The committee on the program for the next Missionary meeting, met at the home of Mrs. Buchanan, Monday evening.

Lawson Brown is now employed by the P. O. Department for carrying the mail from here to Idlewild, having begun on Monday last.

Mrs. Richardson, of Kenner street, came very near having her residence burned one morning last week. In some way the gasoline had leaked from the pipes, and it caught when the stove was lighted.

Miss Grace Buchanan, who has been quite sick with piano paralysis for some time, is much better. Miss Grace is a lovely young lady and not only do we hope for her speedy recover, but wish her success in her chosen profession.

Mrs. J. D. Snyder entertained a number of her friends very handsomely, last Thursday evening. Among those present was the popular violinist of our town Eugene Marks, who gave several well rendered selections on his violin. A delicious luncheon was served.

The remains of Miss Sallie Ramsey, 60, who died here on last Wednesday, were taken to Hebron, Saturday, for final interment. She was born in London, and came to this country when an infant. Her mother died leaving quite an estate to her, and until recently she was an inmate of the Lakeland Asylum

Mr. and Mrs. John Allison entertained a host of their relatives, last Friday, in a most charming manner, that being the twentieth anniversary of their wedding. Mrs. Allison is one of those ladies who knows just how to entertain so as to make one feel at home, and she was assisted most ably by her two lovly danghters, Misses Elizabeth and Mary while little Miss Jessie, the junior member of the family, made herself very interesting.

CONSTANCE.

The sick are all improving.

Miss Ella England called on friends here Saturday.

Mrs. Wm. Zimmer spent Thursday with her mother at Anderson Ferry.

C. W. Hood and wife were visiting relatives here several days the past week.

Eliza Zimmer entertained a number of his young men friends Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Wm. McGlasson and her little daughter, spent Saturday with Mrs. Ben Hood.

Our Public school is drawing to a close. Miss Sadie Zimmer will teach the spring school.

Mrs. R. F. Zimmer was visiting her daughter, Mrs. C. C. Richmond, of Newport, last week.

Judging from appearance our young folks received more than their share of valentines, on the fourteenth.

The remains of the infant child of James Jones, of Cincinnati, were interred in the cemetery here Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryson have moved from their residence on the river front, and now occupy a cottage on Hillside Ave.

Mrs. Howard Tanner, of the Point Pleasant neighborhood, was visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Wm. Souther, Thursday.

Messrs. R. S. Hood and A. Herbstreit attended the oyster supper and dance at Wiehmler's Hall, Sedamsville, Saturday night. They report a swell time.

Rainy weather and the bad condition of the pike, have brought some of our citizens to the point where they wonder, Whether Life is worth the living or not?

A series of meetings are now in progress at the German Baptist church, in the West End. Rev. Garver, of Dayton, O., has charge of them. He is an able speaker, and the meetings are well attended.

Al England, our log merchant, is busy hauling logs. He has been hauling every day, not stopping for bad weather. The old folks say Al's a hustler. We are not at liberty to say what the girls think.

PETERSBURG.

Notwithstanding the awfully bad weather Monday, a large crowd attended the Guisinger sale, and fairly good prices prevailed.

The fleet at the distillery broke loose, Monday night, and considerable trouble was experienced before it was landed. A large load of corn went nearly to Aurora.

Escaped an Awful Fate.

Mr. H. Haggins, of Melbourne, Fla., writes, "My doctor told me I had Consumption and nothing could be done for me. I was given up to die. The offer of a free trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, induced me to try it. Results were startling. I am now on the road to recovery and owe all to Dr. King's New Discovery. It surely saved my life." This great cure is guaranteed for all throat and lung diseases by W. F. McKim, Burlington; J. G. Oelsner, of Florence; Union Drug Store, of Union; A. W. Smith, of Walton; O N. Grant, Grant. Druggists. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

A few days since Jeff Eddins was fooling with a cartridge which he unloaded a year or more ago, when the cap exploded, and, besides giving him a considerable scare, hurt one of his fingers considerably.

God Too Good a Business Manager to Give Something for Nothing.

Even Salvation Costs the Sinner Something — Popular Idea Refuted by the "Highway and Byway" Preacher.

Text:—"I counsel thee to buy of Me gold tried in the fire, that thou mayest be rich; and white raiment, that thou mayest be clothed, and that the shame of thy nakedness do not appear; and anoint thine eyes with eyesalve, that thou mayest see."—Rev. 3:18.

Text Setting.—This text, from which the Lord may be pleased to teach us His truth and the certainty with which He operates, is taken from the wonderful revelation of Jesus Christ given to His beloved disciple John, as he communed in the Spirit on the Isle of Patmos on the Lord's Day. It is part of the message to the church at Laodicea, one of the seven churches to whom a last solemn warning and admonition was sent. It is the commonly accepted view of Bible scholars and commentators that, while the churches addressed had an actual existence and the several messages had their direct application to the special needs of the churches at that time, still it was the intention and purpose of God that these letters should have a wider and general application to the church of Jesus Christ during the Gospel dispensation, until its taking up as the bride of Christ. John's prophetic vision is separated by the Spirit, Who dictated its writing, into two divisions: "The things which are," and "The things which shall be hereafter."

There is much difference of opinion among Bible students as to interpretation, some holding that "The things which are" imply the present state of things in the churches when John was writing, as represented in chapters 2 and 3; and that "The things which shall be hereafter" are the things symbolically represented concerning the future history of the churches, as set forth in chapters 4 to 22; while others believe that "The things which are" marks the present period of the church in the world to the time of the coming of Christ in the glory and clouds of Heaven to receive His bride, the church, as it is taken out of the world to meet Him in the air, and "The things which shall be hereafter" are the things set forth from the fourth chapter to the end of the Revelation, and describe what will take place in the world after the church has ascended to be with its Lord.

This latter opinion is gaining ground among the most devout and spiritual Bible scholars, and certainly gives increased interest and force to the message to the seven churches, and brings our text into living touch with present conditions and needs, for while we may always learn helpful spiritual lessons from texts which plainly have their application to another time and place and people, still when we feel that a text is directly addressed to us, its authority, and meaning, and force are deepened and intensified.

A Fallacy.—It costs the sinner something to obtain salvation. It costs the Christian something to win as a personal possession the spiritual riches which are in Christ Jesus. The language of God's Word is so misunderstood when it speaks of salvation and spiritual attainments as gifts, that what God offers is undervalued and the way of obtaining the gifts is almost entirely, if not wholly, lost. It weakens the force of the Gospel message to the heart of the sinner to wholly emphasize the gift of God, and make no reference to what the sinner must give up in order to obtain the gift. The Christians who think of spiritual gifts as something which God is to pour into them, without their giving up something in return, live a shallow Christian life, and instead of the substantial manifestation of the fruits of the Spirit, there is the sentimental and emotional talk about the possession of the deep spiritual gifts of God and an entire absence of their evidence in the life. The sinner often deludes himself into the thought that he is willing to receive the gift of salvation, while he refuses to pay the price of a surrendered will, and the Christian, in prayer meeting generally, and sometimes elsewhere, talks about longing to receive the gifts of the richness in Christ Jesus, and even goes so far sometimes as to claim possession of them, while he is filling his heart and life so full of other things that there is room for nothing else.

God is too good a business manager to commit His treasures to thoughtless or ruthless hands. He understands the human heart too well to offer something for nothing. The story is told of a British lord, who as the result of a wager with a friend who was a keen observer of human nature, stood on London bridge all day long with a tray full of glittering gold sovereigns which he offered for sale at a shilling apiece. All day long he stood there appealing to the crowds as they passed to buy genuine gold sovereigns at a shilling each, but the people looked askance at the unheard-of bargain and passed on. He could not sell his coins because the price at which he offered them convinced the public that they were not only not genuine but were not even worth the shilling asked.

The reason the Gospel to-day is often not "the power of God unto salvation" is because the servants of the Lord are standing and offering something for nothing, when it is only true that the sinner can have salvation if he is willing to pay the price. The Christian can have any gem which sparkles in the spiritual treasure house of his God, if he is willing to pay the price. I am sick and tired of hearing the unsaved say: "I would like to be a Christian," while they are holding on to the price of that salvation with a self-will and stubbornness born of hell. I am weary and heart-sick from hearing Christians with doleful and mournful voices and made-to-order sad countenances crying: "I would like to be a better Christian; I would like to possess this virtue or that spiritual gift," while they cling to every cherished plan and desire which fill their lives and are unwilling to pay the price of self-sacrifice and devout seeking of God which would make the coveted gift their blessed possession. The people who cry: "Lord, Lord," with a false humility and mistaken religious fervor, may work up a deal of sentiment and awaken a false hope, but if the price for salvation is not paid by a surrendered will they will be among those to whom the Lord will say in the last great day: "Depart from Me, for I never knew you, ye workers of iniquity."

The Laodicean Christians, poor, miserably poor, although rolling in wealth with their pockets filled with the money of the world which flowed through their city. Naked, disgustingly naked, so as to compel God to say that He would spue them out of His mouth, although they were clothed in the magnificent white woolens for which the city was famous. Blind, helplessly blind, although the natural eye was keen and feasted itself upon the riches and beauty and culture of the world. And God cries to them, as He does to the Christians of to-day: "Buy My gold, buy My white raiment, let Me anoint thine eyes with My eyesalve." The price of God's pure gold of unalloyed faith was the giving up of their riches, their indulgences, their selfish ease. The price of God's white raiment, which would clothe them indeed and give them the right to sit at the marriage supper of the Lamb, was the self-righteousness of outward appearances which had permeated the church and had almost choked and killed out the spark of Divine life which at one time had been felt. And they were blind and must go to the great Physician to be healed. They must use His eyesalve if they would have their spiritual vision quickened and come to see themselves as God saw them. If the poetic vision of man can penetrate the fair face and form before him, the air of grace and the winning smile, and see nothing but "a rag and a bone and a hank of hair," what awful things the penetrating eye of God beholds as it pierces the veneer of man's culture and refinement and religious superficialities and lays bare the hidden heart. When man looks with God he sees indeed that "the heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked," and is eager to be clothed upon with the righteousness which is by faith in Christ Jesus. He is willing to pay the price. He is willing, as was Paul, to "crucify the flesh with the affections and lusts," that the "fruit of the Spirit" might be unhindered in its growth in his life.

A Message for To Day.—The message to the Laodicean church is a clear and solemn message for the church of to-day. When has the church of Jesus Christ been so wealthy and boasted of that wealth as is the case to-day? When has she wielded such power as she does to-day in social and educational fields, and in reform movements? When has the church turned so eagerly to the wisdom of man for the solution of life's problems and the strengthening and building up of the church as to-day? Emotion is being derided and frowned down, and cold intellectual acceptance of the doctrine of salvation is taking its place. The deep spiritual truths of God's Word are being leveled to man's ideas and reason, and he is becoming stricken with the fatal blindness which afflicted the Laodicean church. And how patient God is through it all. Read in your Bibles the verses which close the chapter from which our text is taken. God is love to the end—love in His punishment of sin; love in His dealings with His wayward and disobedient children. He follows the counsel of our text with the reassuring words: "As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten: be zealous therefore, and repent." And He waits. He waits! He waits! And if He cannot gain the ear of the church He turns to the individual hearts and stands and knocks. If he opens He will come in and sup with him, and the wonderful promise of sitting with Him upon His throne is given to the individuals who pay the price by overcoming and letting the Spirit of God operate in their lives.

What God Offers Us.—In one hand God holds out to us gold, tried in the fire; white raiment, and free treatment for spiritual blindness, which is the most awful condition into which the human heart can come. The strongest denunciations of Christ were directed against this form of sin. The Scribes and Pharisees, who claimed to be the spiritual teachers of their day and nation, were called whited sepulchers full of death and corruption; they were declared to be the Devil's own children; they were described as blind leaders of the blind, doomed to fall into the ditch of utter destruction. Christ went so far in painting the awful blackness of spiritual blindness as to say that it would be more tolerable in the day of judgment for lustful, iniquitous, vile Sodom and Gomorrah than for fair Capernaum, with her blind faithfulness to Jewish traditions and her heartless rejection of the Son of God after witnessing His many mighty works. And it is for this spiritual blindness that God would anoint the eyes with His eyesalve.

A blind man is hardly a safe person to carry on financial transactions. He cannot tell the difference between gold and brass. He is not able to distinguish the dark garment from the one of snow-white wool. This being true, it is necessary to cure him of his blindness before sending him to buy gold and white raiment. Spiritual blindness must be cured before the soul is able to distinguish God's gold and pick out His white raiment. There is a very great deal of base metal in circulation today that is passing for God's gold, and there are multitudes of people who seem to have their nakedness covered who are not wearing the white garments which God provides. The human eye is deceived, but the penetrating gaze of God will detect the sham every time. Therefore, buy God's gold and obtain from Him white raiment. As we have already said, God holds out in one hand His gold and white raiment, and with the other He reaches to receive the price which He exacts before the goods are delivered. God does a strictly cash business, and if you wish to obtain His golden gifts or His white raiment you must pay the price at the time you take the goods.

And what is it that God offers us, and what is the price He exacts in return? The white raiment is the righteousness of God with which the repentant sinner is clothed when he accepts Christ as Saviour and is washed in the cleansing blood. The gold includes all the fruits of the Spirit, and which are so fully set forth in Ephesians, 5:9, and Galatians, 5:22 and 23. The price which God demands ere the white raiment is given to cover the nakedness of man is a repentant and believing heart, and a surrendered will. Many a man would have the white garment of salvation if he could buy the same with this world's goods. But he is not willing to pay the price which God asks. Like the proud Pharisee in the temple, he justifies himself by the long and really splendid list of his benevolences, his gifts to the church, his devotions and his clean life; he has no sense of the need of a Saviour, and his will is unyielding and self assertive. Is it not strange that man is not willing to pay the price which God asks for His white raiment? He wants to price-mark God's goods. Who would dare be so presumptuous as to go into the store of the merchant and attempt to dictate to him the prices at which the goods should be sold? If we want his goods we must pay the price which he asks, and we do not feel that it is unfair or unreasonable for him to fix the terms on which he will let his goods be sold. And why should man think that God has less right to fix the price of His gold and His white raiment? Man boldly walks, sometimes, where angels fear to tread, and he sets aside God's plain declarations as to the way of salvation, and plans and speculates on the way he thinks the white robe of salvation is obtained.

Simon, the sorcerer of Samaria, attempted to buy God's gift of the Holy Ghost, and Peter said unto him: "Thy money perish with thee, because thou hast thought that the gift of God may be purchased with money. Thou hast neither part nor lot in this matter." But what Simon could not buy with his money, he could buy with a surrendered and obedient and believing heart, for Peter goes on to tell him: "For thy heart is not right in the sight of God. Repent, therefore, of this thy wickedness; and pray God, if perhaps the thought of thine heart may be forgiven thee." Every gift of God costs something. God does not give to the soul which is not willing to pay the price, for if He did it would be the same as casting pearls before swine, and His gifts would be trampled under unappreciative and desecrating feet. But, as there is nothing displayed in the store windows but what may be obtained if one is willing to pay the price, so there is nothing in the rich treasure house of God but what may be had if the soul is willing to pay the price. Man may not have the price to buy the costly articles he sees displayed in the merchant's window, but the soul always has the price within itself to secure God's white raiment and His precious gold tried in the fire of His righteous love.

Show Windows.—The merchant depends very largely upon the tasty display of his choice goods in his show windows to secure trade for his store and to sell his goods. The highest priced help in his store is the skilled window dresser, who knows just how to place everything to the very best advantage. The Christian is God's show window. In the Christian God expects to have his white raiment worn so gracefully and faithfully that those about him will readily see the Heavenly livery, and desire the same kind of apparel. God wants and expects His children to so deck themselves with the gold of His graces as to dazzle the eyes of the world's children with their enduring and satisfying beauty and thus draw them to long for the same adorning. What kind of a show window are you? Are you wearing the white raiment of salvation so that its glimmer can be seen by those about you? Are you adorning yourself with the pure gold of God's grace and love so that others will take knowledge of you that you have been with Jesus? Hear God speak in these last days to you and me: "I counsel thee to buy of Me gold tried in the fire, that thou mayest be rich; and white raiment, that thou mayest be clothed, and that the shame of thy nakedness do not appear; and anoint thine eyes with eyesalve, that thou mayest see."

A VENERABLE PASTOR CURED BY PE-RU-NA.

Pe-ru-na is a Catarrhal Tonic Especially Adapted to the Declining Powers of Old Age.

The Oldest Man in America Attributes His Long Life and Good Health to Pe-ru-na.

Mr. Isaac Brock, of McLennan county, Texas, has attained the great age of 114 years. He is an ardent friend of Peruna and speaks of it in the following terms. Mr. Brock says:

"After a man has lived in the world as long as I have he ought to have found out a great many things by experience. I think I have done so.

"One of the things I have found out to my entire satisfaction is the proper remedy for ailments due directly to the effects of the climate.

"I RELY UPON PE-RU-NA FOR ALL CATARRHAL DISEASES."

"For 114 years I have withstood the changeable climate of the United States. During my long life I have known a great many remedies for coughs, colds, catarrh and diarrhoea, I had always supposed these affections to be different diseases. For the last ten or fifteen years I have been reading Dr. Hartman's books and have learned from them one thing in particular: That these affections are the same and that they are properly called catarrh.

"As for Dr. Hartman's remedy, Peruna, I have found it to be the best, if not the only reliable remedy for these affections. It has been my standby for many years and I attribute my good health and my extreme old age to this remedy.

"It exactly meets all my requirements. I have come to rely upon it almost entirely for the many little things for which I need medicine. I believe it to be especially valuable to old people, although I have no doubt it is just as good for the young."—Isaac Brock.

Rev. J. N. Parker.

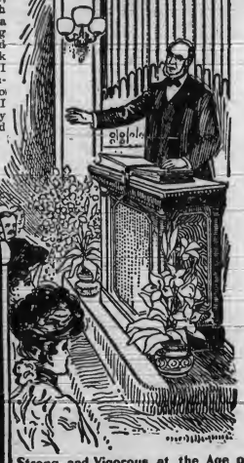
A New Man at 79.

Major Frank O'Mahoney, West Side, Hannibal, Mo., writes:

"I am professionally a newspaper correspondent, now 79 years old. I have watched the growing power of the Peruna plant from its incipiency in the little log cabin, through its gradations of success up to its present establishment in Columbus, Ohio, and I conclude that merit brings its full reward.

"Up to a few years ago I felt no need to test its medicinal potency, but lately when my system needed it, your Peruna relieved me of many catarrhal troubles. Some two years ago I weighed 210 pounds, but fell away down to 168 pounds, and besides loss of flesh I was subject to stomach troubles, indigestion, loss of appetite, insomnia, night sweats, and a fore boding of getting my entire system out of order. During some months I gave Peruna a fair trial, and it rejuvenated my whole system. I feel thankful therefore, for although 79 years old I feel like a young man."—Major Frank O'Mahoney.

In old age the mucous membranes become thickened and partly lose their function.



This leads to partial loss of hearing, smell and taste, as well as digestive disturbances.

Peruna corrects all this by its specific operation on all the mucous membranes of the body.

One bottle will convince anyone. Once used and Peruna becomes a lifelong stand-by with old and young.

Mr. Samuel Saunders of Blythedale, Mo., writes: "My disease was catarrh of the urethra and bladder. I got a bottle of Pe-ru-na and began taking it, and in a few days I was relieved and could sleep and rest all night. I think that Pe-ru-na is a valuable remedy. I had tried other very highly recommended medicines, but they did me no good. My physician told me that I could not expect to be cured of my trouble, as I was getting to be an old man (57 years). I feel very thankful for what Pe-ru-na has done for me."

In a later letter Mr. Saunders says: "I am still of the same mind with regard to your Pe-ru-na medicine."

Strong and Vigorous at the Age of Eighty-eight.

Rev. J. N. Parker, Utica, N. Y., writes:

"In June, 1901, I lost my sense of hearing entirely. My hearing had been somewhat impaired for several years, but not so much affected but that I could hold converse with my friends; but in June, 1901, my sense of hearing left me so that I could hear no sound whatever. I was also troubled with severe rheumatic pains in my limbs. I commenced taking Peruna and now my hearing is restored as good as it was prior to June, 1901. My rheumatic pains are all gone. I cannot speak too highly of Peruna, and now when 88 years old can say it has invigorated my whole system. I cannot but think, dear Doctor, that you must feel very thankful to the all loving Father that you have been permitted to live, and by your skill be such a blessing as you have been to suffering humanity."—Rev. J. N. Parker.

A TRAVELER AT SEVENTY-ONE YEARS OF AGE.

Mrs. F. E. Little, Tolona, Ill., writes: "I can recommend Peruna as a good medicine for chronic catarrh of the stomach and bowels. I have been troubled severely with it for over a year, and also a cough. Now my cough is all gone, and all the distressing symptoms of catarrh of the stomach and bowels have disappeared. I will recommend it to all as a rare remedy. I am so well I am contemplating a trip to Yellow Stone Park this coming season. How is that for one 71 years old?"

In a later letter she says: "I am only too thankful to you for your kind advice and for the good health that I am enjoying wholly from the use of your Peruna. Have been out to the Yellow Stone National Park and many other places of the west, and shall always thank you for your generosity."—Mrs. F. E. Little.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

WASHINGTON

By W. T. TALBOTT.

Facing the cloud wrack as the tempest brewed,
Prophetic impulse overmastered him
And sealed his heart with strength. Beyond the dim
Wild dawn of Freedom's day he had heart he viewed
The sacrificial torrent, crimson-hued;
But saw the land her torch of empire turn,
And bent his mind, that would not brook their whim
To weigh the people's cause, and found it good.
And when, full-orbed from battle rose his state,
They scarce could feel he found their praises sweet,
And could but think that he'd dare question fate,
So firm he stood, so coldly gracious—great
To that sure way, dispelling base conceit,
Which simply seeks renown by pathways straight.

SAID BY WASHINGTON.

Be courteous to all, but intimate with few, and let those few be well tried before you give them your confidence.

The company on which you improve most will be least expensive to you.

It is easy to make acquaintances, but difficult to shake off, however irksome and unprofitable they are found, after we have once committed ourselves to them.

It is a maxim with me not to ask what, under similar circumstances, I would not grant.

I expressly forbid the sale or transportation out of the said commonwealth, of any slave I may die possessed of, under any pretense whatsoever.

In my estimation, more permanent and genuine happiness is to be found in the sequestered walks of connubial life than in the giddy rounds of promiscuous pleasure or the more tumultuous and imposing scenes of successful ambition.

Without virtue and without integrity, the finest talents and the most brilliant accomplishments can never gain the respect and conciliate the esteem of the truly valuable part of mankind.

I shall never attempt to palliate my own foibles by exposing the error of another.

Nothing would give me more real satisfaction than to know the sentiments which are entertained of men by the public, whether they be favorable or otherwise.

SAID OF WASHINGTON.

Just honor to Washington can only be rendered by observing his precepts and imitating his example.—Robert C. Winthrop.

However his military fame may excite the wonder of mankind, it is chiefly by his civil magistracy that Washington's example will instruct them.—Fisher Ames.

A great and venerated character like that of Washington . . . is not an isolated fact in history to be regarded with barren admiration—it is a dispensation of Providence to good.—E. Everett.

He illustrated and adorned the civilization of Christianity and furnished an example of the wisdom and perfection of its teachings which the subtlest arguments of its enemies cannot impeach.—Zebulon B. Vance.

George Washington, the brave, the wise, the good. Supreme in war, in council and in peace. Washington valiant, without ambition; discreet, without fear; confident, without presumption.—Dr. Andrew Lee.

To add brightness to the sun or glory to the name of Washington is alike impossible. Let none attempt it. In solemn awe pronounce the name, and in its naked, deathless splendor leave it shining on.—Abraham Lincoln.

Let him who looks for a monument to Washington look around the United Sttes. Your freedom, your independence, your national power, your prosperity and your prodigious growth are a monument to him.—Kossuth.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHPLACE.

But a Small Monument Marks the Spot at Wakefield Farm on the Potomac.

Mount Vernon has become a great mecca for the American tourist; at Yorktown and Valley Forge stand stately reminders of the First Gentleman of America, while in every part of the land the smallest mementoes of his life and actions are religiously preserved; but in magnificent decay on the lower Potomac lies Wakefield Farm, which was associated with his early life. A simple granite shaft marks the spot where George Washington was born, and a few bricks and stones are all that remain of his early home.

The old country mansion was burned early in the last century, but the brick chimney, within whose arch four people could sit, and the corner stones, with a portion of the foundation, were saved. Shortly before the civil war the historic farm passed into the hands of a family which at first showed some appreciation for its associations. A succeeding generation, however, tore down the chimney and the remnant of the walls in order to secure the bricks. A marble slab bearing an inscription giving the date of Washington's birth and other information, which had been set into the great arch, was removed to the old family graveyard; but in placing it beneath two ancient fig trees planted by the mother of Washington, it was broken, and its fragments lie there to-day, moss-grown and vine-covered.

It was in 1895 that the national government erected at Wakefield a miniature copy of the Washington monument, with the inscription "Washington's Birthplace," and in small letters at the base the words: "Erected by the United States, A. D. 1895."—Waldon Fawcett, in Woman's Home Companion.

February Twenty-Second.

As when a traveler down the widening vale
Looks back, and notes some noble mountain pile
That seems to tower nearer, grander still,
As on he hastens o'er each fleeting mile;

So, looking backward o'er her rugged years,
America, her freedom bravely won,
With broadening vision pauses to admire
The looming greatness of her Washington.

—Albert B. Carner, in S. S. Times.

AS A YOUTH.

Washington Did Many Things When a Boy That Were Worthy of a Grown Man.

The early age at which Washington developed the tender passion has been noticed. In fact, it was despair at the uncompromising attitude of a certain "Lowland Beauty" that he fled to the domain of Lord Fairfax, afterwards his patron. The noble gentleman had left England and buried himself in the wilderness on account of a disappointed passion; perhaps George, who was then coming 15, felt there might be a bond between two such "wounded hearts;" at any rate, before he had been many months under Fairfax's eye, just as he was completing his sixteenth year, he set out on a surveying expedition. The Englishman's ground included thousands of acres of the most fertile country in the world, extending in a wide strip from the sea to the Alleghanies. It was no small sign of confidence to allow a youth to lay out such a country.

This position is merely a sample of the many important places he held. At 19 he was major of the Virginia militia; at 21 he commanded an important expedition to Du Quesne. Small wonder is it that his first love came so young.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

PRESIDENT A TREE CHOPPER.

The Mystery of the Executive's Visits to the Forest is at Last Explained.

The mystery of President Roosevelt's visits to a forest near Tennallytown was cleared up the other day. He goes out there during the early morning and spends an hour wielding an ax against the trees of the forest. He is accompanied in this latest effort to rid himself of his surplus energy by Gifford Pinchot, forester of the department of agriculture.

The forest near Tennallytown belongs to the Dutch Reformed church which President Roosevelt attends. The trees on the land are so close together that they do not have a chance to grow and the trustees of the church determined to thin them out. They asked President Roosevelt to request Forester Pinchot to visit the land and mark the trees which should be removed. The president replied that he would attend to the matter, so he notified Mr. Pinchot to be on hand early in the morning with a couple of axes. The president and the forester after deciding that a tree should be removed proceeded to remove it. Fully 50 large trees have been felled by the presidential ax.

HELEN GOULD PRAISES MEN.

Says That Their Chivalry and Self-Sacrifice Should Be Appreciated by Women.

In connection with the golden jubilee of the local branch of the Y. M. C. A. at Washington, the National Auxiliary of that organization held a meeting at the home of ex-Secretary of State John W. Foster. Miss Helen Gould spoke of the work in New York and Brooklyn and urged that the auxiliary establish a branch at every army post and naval station.

She said that the privileges, opportunity and protection accorded to women in the United States, such as are accorded nowhere else in the world, came through the chivalry and ardent self-sacrificing labor of the men of the United States and that it is peculiarly appropriate that the women of the country should show their appreciation by devoting some of their time and thought to movements that benefit men.

Ex-Secretary Foster spoke of the fruitless efforts of some scientists to disprove Christian doctrines. A number of other addresses were made.

WILL TRY FOR NORTH POLE.

William H. Ziegler at Last Finds a Suitable Leader for His New Expedition.

Until a few days ago Anthony Fiala was comparatively unknown. Now he is the protege of William H. Ziegler and is chosen as commander of the next Ziegler north pole expedition, for Mr. Ziegler has not lost heart because of the miserable failure of the Baldwin expedition.

Mr. Fiala was sent north as the photographer of the Baldwin-Ziegler expedition. When Baldwin and his crew made such an inglorious return home there was but one of them all who gave a satisfactory account of his stewardship. That man was the young and unknown photographer.

"What did you do?" demanded Mr. Ziegler, of Fiala.

"I did what I was sent to do," replied the young man. "I took about 1,000 photographs, which you said you wanted, and here they are."

Fiala is not yet 30 years old, but is willing to command the expedition He will sail in May.

Non-Marrying Young Man of Twenty-Four Gives His Doting Mother Much Concern.

In a Vermont village there lives a young man who has reached the age of 24 with no apparent thought of taking to himself a wife, although all his companions have either "settled" or left the place. He is regarded by the entire community as a confirmed bachelor. His mother looks upon his state with a sadness which has afforded more or less amusement to her summer boarders, says Youth's Companion.

"There's one of his last pictures," said the mother, displaying a photograph on a small card. "It's a good likeness, ain't it? Getting kind o' drawed round the mouth, same as his pa, he is. I said to him that I'd been wanting he should have a dozen taken so I could give 'em round to his friends—young ladies—for sometimes a picture standing on a bureau, facing right to you every morning, will start a kind of affectionate feeling. I've been waiting in the hopes he'd think of it himself, but when I saw this spring that he was beginning to fade and show his age, I took matters right into my own hands, and marched him to the photographer's quick as I could. I only hope some good may come of it."

THOUSANDS OF AMERICANS FOR WESTERN CANADA.

"There will be thousands of Americans coming up here in the Spring," was the remark made by a farmer from the vicinity of Langdon, North Dakota, when he arrived in Winnipeg, Manitoba, the capital of Western Canada, a few days since. He was the advance guard of a large body who are following him, and he has already invested in several farming sections for himself and others and purposes to take up his permanent abode in this country. He went on to say: "Hundreds are coming from my district alone. I know this to be a fact, for many of them are neighbors of mine. The chief topic of conversation with the farmers is the coming immigration in the spring."

"The impression general in the part of Dakota where I live that farmers can get from 10 to 15 cents more a bushel for wheat on the American side of the line than on the Canadian, has not prevented people from turning their eyes to Canada as a place to live in. They know they can get land in this country which is every bit as fertile as that in Dakota at about one-quarter the price. It is safe to say that the exodus from Dakota into Canada this year will exceed the expectations of all Canadians."

The Government has established Agencies at St. Paul, Minn.; Omaha, Neb.; Kansas City, Mo.; Chicago, Ill.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Milwaukee, Wis.; Wausau, Wis.; Detroit, Sault Ste. Marie, and Marquette, Mich.; Toledo, Ohio; Watertown, S. Dakota; Grand Forks, N. Dakota; and Great Falls, Montana, and the suggestion is made that by addressing any of these, who are the authorized agents of the Government, it will be to the advantage of the reader, who will be given the fullest and most authentic information regarding the results of mixed farming, dairying, ranching and grain-raising, and also supply information as to freight and passenger rates, etc., etc.

One of the essentials of the happy homes of to-day is a fund of information as to right living and the best methods of promoting health and happiness. With proper knowledge, each hour of recreation, of enjoyment and of effort may be made to contribute to that end and are of not less value than the using of the most wholesome foods and the selecting of the best medicinal agents when needed. With the well-informed, medicinal agents are used only when nature needs assistance and while the importance of cleansing the system effectually, when bilious or constipated, has long been known, yet until within recent years it was necessary to resort to oils, salts, extracts of roots, barks and other cathartics which were found to be objectionable and to call for constantly increased quantities.

Then physicians having learned that the most excellent laxative and carminative principles were to be found in certain plants, principally in the leaves, the California Fig Syrup Co. discovered a method of obtaining such principles in their purest condition and of presenting them with pleasant and refreshing liquids in the form most acceptable to the system and the remedy became known as—Syrup of Figs—as figs were used, with the plants, in making it, because of their agreeable taste.

This excellent remedy is now rapidly coming into universal use as the best of family laxatives, because it is simple and wholesome and cleanses and sweetens the system effectually without disturbing the natural functions and without unpleasant after effects and its use may be discontinued when it is no longer required.

All who would enjoy good health and its blessings should remember that it is the one remedy which physicians and parents well-informed approve and recommend and use and which they and their little ones alike enjoy, because of its pleasant flavor, its gentle action and its beneficial effects.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all reliable druggists, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, in original packages only, having the name of the remedy—Syrup of Figs—and the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package.

BOONE CO.. RECORDER

We are authorised to announce J. W. Kennedy, of Union, as a candidate for the legislature, subject to the action of the Democratic Party.

We are authorized to announce James A. Duncan as a candidate for clerk of the Boone circuit court, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce T. T. HEDGER, of Georgetown, Scott county, as a candidate for Commissioner of Agriculture Subject to the will of the Democratic party Primary election, May 9th, 1903.

CONGRESS will ajourn in a few days, and the trusts are as happy as at any time in their existence.

THE candidates for the Democratic nomination for State offices are abroad in the land, and their number is multiplying. No grass will be given an opportunity to grow under their brogans until after May 9th.

IN his annual report to the Board of Overseers of Harvard University, President Elliot made public some interesting and vital statistics showing that the more highly educated portion of the country is falling in its birth rate.

GEN. B. W. DUKE journeyed all the way to Virginia to endorse President Roosevelt's action in inviting colored people to White House receptions. Now keep an eye on Gen. Duke and see how closely he will follow the President's example in social functions at his home.

THE President and Senator Hanna are playing for the votes of the colored delegates in the next National Republican convention, and the Senator's bill to pension all ex-slaves is likely to prove a much stronger card than the President's mixed receptions at the White House.

ELECTRICITY has put the witch-hazel wand and other methods of determining the presence of water under ground out of the business. Experts have patented a little electrical device which tells surely of the proximity of water. When its needle begins to show vibrations it can be stated positively there is water beneath.

THE Walton correspondent's article on tobacco and tomato culture was carried over from last week on account of its being received at a time when the neighborhood correspondents demanded the attention of the entire force of types. The RECORDER welcomes articles of that class, but neighborhood notes have right of way when their time comes.

WITH the quantity of coal that is in evidence in the Cincinnati harbor, taken in connection with the immense fleets of coal that almost block the Ohio river to its source, it is difficult to understand why the price should remain so high. The mine owners are not alone in the combine. It looks like there is a combine closer to the homes of the people in this part of the country.

As a result of the very bad condition of the dirt roads, several sporadic cases of turnpike fever will develop in the next few weeks, to disappear with clearing, settled weather and the beginning of spring farm work. Boone county spends about $6,000 a year on her public roads. This money does not improve their condition as a whole system. It merely keeps them in repair for use during the summer and fall months.

"THE proof of the pudding is the eating." Last week a pouch of flower seeds was received at this office from Congressman Gooch, and a six or seven line local announcing that they were for free distribution sent them off like hot cakes. Had the pouch been thrown to one side and no mention made of the seeds, they would have remained here indefinitely. It pays to tell the public through the columns of a paper what you have to dispose of, otherwise it may never be known.

COL. BERRY is having considerable trouble trying to secure a right of way through Covington and Newport for the traction road from Carrollton. The powers that be in these two cities are not anxious to have the travel and traffic from the lower "deestricts" turned their way. If the Colonel will change the route of the propose road so as to strike Burlington, he can pass over any of her streets without let or hindrance, and then go on to Ludlow, where the road will be received with enthusiasm. Come this way, Colonel, with your road, and you will not only enter a good and paying territory, but the present and all future generations out this way will sing your praises.

THE State Executive Committee is desirous of reducing the expenses of the State primary election to the lowest point possible, and with that in view the Committee desires that Democrats in each county donate their services as officers to hold the election on May 9th. Only a few years ago primary elections were held in this county without cost to candidates for officers of election, and it is believed that there are just as loyal Democrats in Boone county as there ever were, and that they are willing to, and will, act as officers of the approaching primary election without compensation. The loss of time necessary to the holding of a primary election will be very little greater to the officers than that of attending a county or district convention. The primary election is certainly the fairest plan for nominating candidates, as every voter is presented with an opportunity to express his choice as between candidates, and to encourage such an unobjectionable plan there is no doubt but what Boone county Democrats will tender their services in accordance with the desire of the State Committee.

HINTS TO FARMERS.

A Few Suggestions That May Be of Use in Running the Farm.

If there are a dozen mud holes in the road in front of your farm, don't stop them up. Wait till summer comes and they will dry up. If they are in front of someone else's farm it is a different matter and he ought to fill them at once.

When a rainy day comes, you could grease the harness, clean up the barn, mend your farm implements and broken doors and gates and put your tools in order. But what is the use; it is better to go off to the country store, sit around all day and tell what you would do if you were in Congress.

Pounding a kicking cow with a fence stake will not break her of the habit. She does not kick because she is naturally vicious, but because things have not been fully explained to her. She feels she is defending herself from a personal attack. A cow should be taught to know what a farmer means. When he sits down along side of her to milk, he should yell out: "Ho, now; stand over there and keep mighty still or I'll knock your old horns off with a crowbar."

A farmer is boss of his barn and everything in it. When he goes out in the morning to feed his stock, he should bang the door after him and yell out at the top of his voice, and if the horses and cows don't stand around and show their fear of him a few whacks with a pitch-fork handle will bring them to time. The more you pound a horse, the more work he will do and the more you kick a cow, the more milk she will give.

If a farmer only half plows, half drags and half plants his corn and then goes fishing or runs after politics, instead of hoeing and cultivating, he will have more weeds than corn. This will give him a chance to complain of his bad luck and declare that everything is working against him. A corn crop ought to take care of itself, even to husking, but it is just mean enough not to do it.

Once in 10 years the well ought to be cleaned out. There is no special rush about it until the water begins to taste of old boots, old hats, missing chickens, turnips, beef bones, etc. Bad well water will breed typhoid fever, and it may carry out three or four of the family, but there is nothing to be scared about. It is cheaper to pay doctor bills and funeral expenses than to clean out the well.—W. A. Deever, in Big Sandy News.

The Walton Perpetual Building and Loan Association on Nov. 15th 1893,

Loaned a Man $500.

His number in the Association's records was 389. Each week thereafter he paid

$1 for Credit on his Debt

and 60c interest. January 16, 1901, this book was filled and paid out having been in existence

7 Years and 2 Months.

The records show that during this time he paid $231 20 as interest and received

$139.79 in Dividends.

He therefore paid $91.41 net interest or $12.74 per year. It is clear that

He Had the Use of $500

for only one-half of the time, or $250 for the full time. An easy calculation shows he paid only 5 1-10 per cent interest.

Attention is Called to the fact that payments made by members of this Association earn dividends from date of their weekly payments,

Keeping the Borrower's

FORTUNE.

[Contributed by Pupils of League Institute, Verona, Kentucky.]

The world is a stage, and all men are the actors; and strange as it may seem, there is not one perfect actor among the motley crowd of human beings, who are enrolled as performers on this stage. Use every man according to his desert and who should escape a whipping? Nay there is not one! And who is honest? To be honest is to be one man picked from ten-thousand. Although honest men are a scarcity, and perfect men a genus not to be found, yet still is there hope; for though on Fortune's cap, we are not the top button, neither are we the soles of her feet; and if we could but remember that to be more nearly perfect we should be true to ourselves, and then it must follow, as night the day, we canst not then be false to any man.

Rightly to be great, is not to stir without great argument, but to find quarrel in a straw when honor is at stake. "A friend is another him self," has been wisely said; and without friends one may as well quit the stage; so the friends we have and their adoption tried let us grapple them to our souls with hoops of steel and not dull our palms with entertainment of each new hatched, unfledged comrade, whose love would fly with fortune. The great man down, you mark his favorites fly; the poor advanced makes friends of enemies; hence, this is a question left for us to prove in the selection of friends, whether love lead fortune or fortune, love.

To give every man thy ear and few thy voice, is a difficult undertaking, for oh! how much easier it is to give than to receive advice. We all like some ungracious pastors, are wont to show to others, the steep and thorny path to heaven, while we the primrose path of dalliance tread.

All at times, are apt to stray from the plain path of duty to the blooming meadows of pleasure; nay, some times we go so far as to fall into the deep gully of crime just beyond the borderland of pleasure.

Then, when we tremblingly and fearfully endeavor to grope our way from the abyss of guilt back to the path of duty through the Christian's gateway of prayer, we, some times, find that our words fly up while our thoughts remain below, and sadly realize that "words without thoughts ne'er to heaven go." We even vainly hope that our crimes are hidden from mortal gaze and zealously strive to keep them so; but "murder, though it has no tongue, speaks with miraculous organ," so full of artless jealousy is guilt, that it spills itself in fearing to be spilt. We find many so confident of their own ability as performers in this Drama that they deem it unnecessary to ask aid from its great and Divine Author, never seeming to realize that there is a Divinity that shapes the destinies of all rough hew them as they may.

A large class of performers go muttering and grumbling along through the play like dumb driven cattle. It is the minority, who are pleasant, peaceful, ready and reliable actors, considering this stage a vineyard wherein they are toiling for their master.

The grumblers look upon it as a prison, this illustrating the thought that "there's nothing good or bad but thinking makes it so."

All, in the progress of the play, meet with failures, with sorrows, which come of not as single spies but in battalions.

By reason of this, to many, and we suspect at times to all, comes the perplexing question, "To be, or not to be," shall we be acting the nobler part to allow our minds to suffer the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune, or shall we take arms against a sea of troubles and end them; end the heart-aches and the thousand natural shocks that flesh is heir to? But no, our guilty conscience doth make cowards of us all; and makes us bear the ills we know rather than fly to others we know not of. All, unless sustained and assured by the Christian's hope, have an indefinable dread of taking position upon the great stage beyond where there is no shifting of scenes.

A Mother's Recommendation.

I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a number of years and have no hesitancy in saying that it is the best remedy for coughs, colds and croup I have ever used in my family. I have not words to express my confidence in this remedy.—Mrs. J. A. Moore, North Star Mich. For sale by all druggists.

Considerable new stone has been spread on the several turnpikes in the county in the last few weeks, and the roads that were in excellent condition up to the first of this year are very rough, but the new metal will soon settle and the present rough surface will become as smooth as a floor.

The remains of Col. Milton Hamilton, of Scott county, were interred by the side of his wife in the cemetery here, last Thursday, that being the 53d anniversary of his marriage to Miss Nancy Piatt, who was a daughter of the late Daniel Piatt. Those who accompanied the remains to this place, besides the children, were Rev. T. J. Stevenson, T. T. Hedger and Asel Piatt, of Scott county; Mrs. Barnett, of Paris, Bourbon county, and Mrs. Taylor, of Covington. Rev. Stevenson read several passages of scripture and prayed at the grave, and friends sang a few selections, after which the remains were deposited in their last resting place.

Col. Hamilton was born, January 14, 1829 in this county, near Lawrenceburg ferry. With his father, I. G. Hamilton, he was clerk of the county and circuit courts of Boone for 50 years, and was, at one time, Assessor of the county. He was a power in politics for many years. About 30 years ago he moved to Kenton co., which her represented in the legislature in 1876. He moved to Fayette county in 1887, and from there to Scott county, where he spent the remainder of his life. He leaves three children, Daniel, and Isham Hamilton, and Mrs. Chas. Allen, and one sister, Mrs. Clarissa Ashley, of Florence. Mr. Hamilton was a very successful business man, and amassed a large fortune.

THE TURF EXCHANGES.

Three Investment Company Offices in Chicago Raided.

It is Said That the Total Amount Lost By Investors Will Run into the Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—Three turf investment company offices were searched Friday afternoon by detectives and a number of attaches were arrested. The head of a fourth concern, warned of the proposed movement, made his escape before the detectives arrived. When the detectives reached the Demorest place, the president of the company, A. J. Demorest, could not be found and there was a number of patrons in front of the locked doors clamoring for payment.

The raids followed a general police order to close all turf exchanges in Chicago. Three squads of detectives started out simultaneously to round up the alleged offenders. The first place visited was the offices of Brolaski & Co., where Brolaski and five other persons were taken in charge. Brolaski declared that he had been doing nothing wrong and he was carrying a business for the benefit of his investors. In the office at the time were two women, who said they had made investments but had been unable to get their money back, when they called for it. George H. Vincent, of Davenport, Ia., also appeared at Brolaski's office while the raid was in progress and declared that he had lost $1,100. He said that he had invested his money on a promise of big gains, but that he had not received a cent in dividends.

During the raid at Benedict & Co.'s office, a number of men called to ask that the money they had intrusted with the company be returned to them. One man said that he had $1,000 invested with the company, but was unable to get it. A collector for the collection department of the Continental national bank also called. Each had claims aggregating several thousands of dollars, most of which had been made by out-of town patrons. All persons at work in the office said they had never seen Benedict but that he was probably at the main offices at South Bend, Ind.

At the Mid Continent Investment Co. the stenographer, a woman, was taken into custody, but the manager could not be found. The desks in the place were broken open and certificates of stock proprietorship and lists of investors were taken in charge.

Just how much money Demorest took away with him when he left his office Friday is not known, but the place was besieged by dozens of patrons all afternoon who said they were heavy investors.

The heads of the Benedict and Brolaski concerns were booked at the police station on state charges of conducting a bookmaking business and on city charges of running gambling enterprises.

There are numerous other "turf investment" establishments in Chicago and further raids by the police probably will be made.

The circulars secured in the offices raided Friday reveal, it is said, several ingenious new schemes. Letters from men, women and boys in nearly every town throughout the middle west were found with hundreds of communications from Chicagoans. Although no definite estimate of the amount lost by investors can be made at present, it is said the total will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

St. Louis, Feb. 14.—All books and records in the office of E. J. Arnold & Co. were seized by deputy sheriffs under orders from the grand jury Friday and carried to the circuit attorney's office. They will be examined by the grand jury.

John J. Ryan's books were produced on a subpoenae. The grand jury has dropped regular work in order to push this particular inquiry. The investigation is being conducted under the state, which provides jail sentences and heavy fines for frauds perpetrated through the medium of promises of profits on investments which are impossible of fulfillment.

The members of the committee appointed by the Missouri senate to investigate turf investment and similar companies arrived in St. Louis Friday evening. Subpoenaes have been issued by the committee to the representatives of all the turf investment companies operating here and the following firms as well:

Price Commission Co., Clearage Commission Co., Brooks Grain and Commission Co., Rialto Grain Co., North American Investment Co., Cella Investment Co., Donovan Commission Co.

THE STRIKE COMMISSION.

It Has Closed its Open Hearings and Will Meet In Secret.

Philadelphia, Feb. 14.—The anthracite coal strike commission, after being in continuous session for more than three months, closed its open hearings Friday with an all day argument by Clarence S. Darrow in behalf of the miners. The commission will meet in secret in Washington next Thursday and begin the consideration of its award. It is expected that by the end of this month the arbitrators will be ready to make their announcement. If an increase in wages is determined upon, the increase is to date from the first of last November, the commission having decided on that date on October 31. After the session Friday the commission held a short conference with the lawyers for the several interests, and asked them to hold themselves in readiness in case they are called upon by the commission.

ITALIANS FOUGHT.

One Man Was Killed and Three Others Seriously Injured.

Newcastle, Pa., Feb. 14.—Frank Rodonto was killed and three others seriously hurt in a stabbing affray in the Center street Italian settlement Friday. Mariani Nitz, who is said to have done the stabbing, is in jail. While a crowd of Italians were engaged in a carousal, Nitz became involved with one of his companions in a quarrel and they went into the street to settle their dispute, both men being armed with knives. Rodonto attempted to separate the fighters and received a fatal thrust in the abdomen from the knife in Nitz's hand.

SECRETARY CHAMBERLAIN.

A Cold Reception Accorded Him at Graaff-Reinet.

Cape Town, Feb. 14.—Secretary Chamberlain Friday reached the town of Graaff-Reinet, situated in a Dutch district, which was the center of operations during the war. A hostile reception had been planned, but at the last moment the intention was abandoned. Nevertheless, the welcome extended to the colonial secretary was anything but cordial. The Dutchmen held sullenly aloof from the receptions and functions. Many of them openly paraded rebel badges.

ENGINEER ROASTED TO DEATH.

A Landslide Caused a Wreck on a Branch of the B. & O.

Wheeling, W. Va., Feb. 14.—One was killed and two fatally injured in a terrible wreck which occurred on the Pittsburg division of the B. & O. late Friday morning. Engineer Geo. Cowan, of Hazlewood, Pa., was caught in his engine and roasted to death by the steam and fire from the boiler and fire box. Fireman Bell, of Hazlewood, and Brakeman Wright, of Hazlewood, were also terribly scalded and injured. The cause of the wreck was an immense landslide in Rafferty's cut.

MASSACHUSETTS EXPLOSION.

The Bodies of Nine of the Victims Arrive at New York.

New York, Feb. 14.—The bodies of ten soldiers, nine of whom were killed by the explosion in the battleship Massachusetts off Porto Rico several weeks ago, reached the Brooklyn navy yard Friday night. They were brought from San Juan on the United States collier Ajax. The yard tug Traffic was sent down the bay with a guard of honor to bring the bodies to the navy yard.

STRUCK A HUGE BOULDER.

Fast Freight Wrecked and Engineer, Fireman and Brakeman Killed.

Washington, Pa., Feb. 14.—An eastbound fast freight train on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad struck a huge boulder in a deep cut near Vienna station Friday and piled up in a confused mass, killing Engineer George Cowan, of Ashtahula, O.; Fireman M. A. Boll, of Millwood, W. Va., and Brakeman James Wright, of Chicago. The track was torn up and traffic was blocked for hours.

Alleged Train Robber Arrested.

Anaconda, Mon., Feb. 16.—The police have arrested Napoleon Savoy, who has been identified by Express Messenger Otis as the man who, last October, held up the Northern Pacific north coast limited at Bear Mouth, this state, and shot and killed Engineer O'Neil, who made a fight against the robber.

WRECK OF THE MAINE.

Hundreds of Americans Observed the Fifth Anniversary.

The Cuban Veterans Took Part, But the United States Legation and the Cuban Officials Were Not Represented.

Havana, Feb. 16.—Four hundred Americans Sunday afternoon observed the fifth anniversary of the destruction of the Maine, proceeding to where the Maine now lies with a flag draped with crepe and a wreath which was hung on the wreck as a tribute to those who lost their lives in the disaster. Representatives of the Cuban Veterans' association took part in the ceremony and brought the finest of all the floral offerings.

The exercises were purely memorial references calculated to revive animosities being avoided. The United States legation was not represented, Minister Squiers holding that any possibility of stirring up the feelings of the Spanish residents by public exercises commemorative of a bitter incident in the war ought to be avoided.

The Cuban government officials finally decided not to attend, but a government launch accompanied the procession to the wreck. United States Consul Rublee, Vice Consul Springer and some representatives of the United States army were present.

A United States quartermaster's launch led the way to the wreck, followed by two small steamers loaded with Americans and numerous little craft. All about the harbor American and Cuban flags were flying at half-mast. The strains of the dead march played by the band of the United States artillery corps floated across the water as the procession made its way to the Maine. After completing the decoration of the forlorn wreck, the boats clustered around the quartermaster's launch, the awning deck of which was utilized as a platform. After a prayer by Rev. Dr. McPherson, Gen. Nunez, the governor of Havana province, who is also the president of the Cuban Veterans' association, spoke in Spanish to the effect that the Cuban veterans would never permit such an occasion to pass without testifying their regard for those whom the Cubans were proud to regard as comrades.

Ernest Conant delivered the memorial address. He paid a tribute to the victims, but commended the mutual respect now existing between those who for a brief period fought each other, and in his references to the late Adm. Sampson, the speaker especially eulogized the Spanish Adm. Cervera.

Other speakers urged the co-operation of Cubans, Spaniards and Americans in working out Cuba's destiny. The ceremony concluded with the sounding of "taps."

Philadelphia, Feb. 16.—The new battleship Maine, built to replace the warship of the same name, which five years ago Sunday sank in the harbor of Havana as the result of a submarine explosion, Sunday left her dock at the League Island navy yard and anchored in midstream. Monday she will proceed down the Delaware river on her first official assignment, that of joining the North Atlantic squadron.

The Maine is commanded by Capt. Loutze, and is manned by her full complement of 640 seamen and marines. Her armament consists of 20 guns.

COLE YOUNGER.

He Is on the Way to Visit His Old Home in Missouri.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 16.—Cole Younger, the pardoned bandit, left St. Paul and Minnesota Saturday night for his old home in Missouri, which he has not seen for 27 years, when he left it to participate in the memorable Northfield bank raid, which resulted in his arrest and imprisonment. He can not under the conditions of his pardon return to Minnesota. He said that he intended to locate in Dallas, Tex., and would probably go into the stock raising business.

FIFTY-SEVENTH CONGRESS.

Second Session.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Senate—Mr. Hanna called up the conference report on the department of commerce bill and it was agreed to without debate. The bill now goes to the president. Mr. Morgan almost immediately after the opening of the session resumed his remarks on the statehood bill, but branched off on the subject on the proposed treaty with Colombia. He referred to the concorda of Pope Pius IX., which constituted a part of the organic law of Colombia. He predicted a return of the hostilities between the old church party in Colombia and the liberal party. Mr. Depew spoke in opposition to the statehood bill. He did not conclude his speech.

House—The house made fair progress with the sundry civil appropriation bill, covering 86 of the 150 pages of the bill. The amendments of which Mr. Cannon gave notice Tuesday for the completion of the east front of the capitol and the erection of an office building for members were adopted, points of order raised against them being overcome by the adoption of a special rule making them in order. By the terms of the amendments $500,000 is appropriated for work on the main building of the capitol and a limit of $2,500,000 is fixed. For a site for a new office building $750,000 is appropriated, the cost of the building is to be $3,100,000.

Washington, Feb. 13.—Senate—With the exception of a few minutes during which some routine business was transacted, the session of the senate Thursday was behind closed doors. After being in executive session for five hours the senate adjourned.

House—The house made slow progress with the sundry civil bill, covering only 27 pages and leaving 40 pages still to be disposed of. The delays were occasioned by a rather protracted discussion of the item in the bill for the maintenance of the white house, and a considerable debate upon the item appropriating $3,000,000 for the relief of distressed Filipinos. Mr. Gaines (dem., Tenn.) and Mr. Fitzgerald (dem., N. Y.) criticised the greatly increased cost of maintaining the white house. An amendment to cut in half the appropriation for the relief of distressed Filipinos was defeated but the language of the paragraph was modified to require annual reports of the expenditure of the money.

Washington, Feb. 14.—Senate—An immense crowd was attracted to the senate to hear the invocation of Gen. William Booth, founder and commander-in-chief of the Salvation army. When the statehood bill came up Mr. Depew resumed his remarks. He attacked the Mormon church, because, he said, he believed its members still clung to the practice of polygamy. Mr. Rawlins replied by saying that if the Mormons were not interfered with they would work out their own destiny. At 5:30 the senate went into executive session and soon afterwards adjourned.

House—Under the operation of a special order which cut off opportunity to offer amendments the house Friday by a vote of 241 to 6 passed the Elkins bill to prohibit rebates to shippers. The six members who voted against the bill were democrats. Mr. Littlefield (Me.) was present but did not vote on either the rule or the bill. The democrats protested against the rigorous terms of the rule. It has been their purpose, they said, to offer the provisions of the Littlefield bill as an amendment to the bill. Mr. Dalzell (Pa.), Mr. Overstreet (Ind.) and Mr. Hepburn (Ia.) practically announced that with the passage of the Elkins bill the anti-trust legislation for this session of congress would be complete.

Washington, Feb. 16.—Senate—The feature of Saturday's session of the senate was Senator Quay's open declaration of war. He has not given up the statehood cause and will fight to the finish. During the two weeks yet remaining of the session he will block all legislation in which he thinks his opponents are interested. He made this known by a resolution to take up the statehood bill every day at the conclusion of the morning business and by his refusal to allow the Aldrich bill or the Philippine legislation to be brought up. The senate agreed to the amendment made to the Elkins anti-rebate bill by the house. This completes congressional action upon the bill, and it now goes to the president.

House—The house passed the sundry civil bill, and then broke all previous records in the matter of private pension legislation. It was the last opportunity of passing pension bills at this session, and the calendar was cleared, not only of house, but of senate bills, 325 in all being passed. Three hundred and twelve is the highest previous record made. Among them was a bill to grant a pension of $30 a month to the widow of the late Representative Rumple, of Iowa, who died about two weeks ago. The administration of the war department was accused openly on the floor of the house of non-payments for Indiana lands in connection with the purchase of a post site for Fort Benjamin Harrison to be established near Indianapolis. The appropriation of $30,000 for the difference between the price at which the old arsenal had been appraised and the cost of the new site as appraised was an item in the sundry civil bill, and was passed over the objections of Miers and Zenor, democratic members from Indiana.

Hailed It Down.

An amusing story is told of the editor of a prominent London evening newspaper, who, in the eternal rushing to press to get ahead of the opposition, was constantly impressing upon his reporters the necessity for condensing all news.

A terrific boiler explosion had taken place on board a big ship lying at Portsmouth.

"Get down there as hard as you can," he said to one of his men. "If you catch the 11:40 from London bridge you'll be there soon after two and can just wire us something for the fifth edition, but boil it down."

And the reporter went. Soon after two o'clock that afternoon they got a wire from him.

How an abscess in the Fallopian Tubes of Mrs. Hollinger was removed without a surgical operation.

"I had an abscess in my side in the fallopian tube (the fallopian tube is a connection of the ovaries). I suffered untold misery and was so weak I could scarcely get around. The sharp burning pains low down in my side were terrible. My physician said there was no help for me unless I would go to the hospital and be operated on. I thought before that I would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which, fortunately, I did, and it has made me a stout, healthy woman. My advice to all women who suffer with any kind of female trouble is to commence taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once."—Mrs. IRA S. HOLLINGER, Stilvideo, Ohio.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

It would seem by this statement that women would save time and much sickness if they would get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and also write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for special advice. It is free and always helps.

No other person can give such helpful advice as Mrs. Pinkham to women who are sick.

THE BLOCKADE RAISED

The Venezuelans Are Wild With Joy in Consequence.

Minister Bowen Expects to Immediately Begin the Preparation of the Protocols With Representatives of Other Claimant Powers.

Washington, Feb. 14.—Herbert W. Bowen, Venezuela's representative in the peace negotiations at Washington, Friday night signed with each of the allies' representatives here a protocol providing for the immediate raising of the Venezuelan blockade and for the reference of the question of preferential treatment of the claims of the allies against Venezuela to The Hague arbitration tribunal. The final formalities occurred at the British embassy. At 11:30 o'clock Friday night, Mr. Herbert Dering, first secretary of the British embassy, announced that the British protocol had just been signed and that signature of the Italian and German protocols would follow in the order named.

The Italian protocol was signed at 11:50 and the German protocol at 12:10 o'clock, the presence of Baron von Sternburg at the white house musicale delaying a final close to the negotiations until after midnight.

La Guayra, Venezuela, Feb. 16.—The blockade has been officially raised. The commander of the British cruiser Tribune, the only warship here, sent an officer ashore Sunday morning with the announcement that the Tribune would leave Sunday afternoon for Trinidad. The populace is wild with joy.

Willemstad, Curacao, Feb. 16.—There was great rejoicing among all classes here at the end of the Venezuelan blockade. Many sailing vessels that are lying in this port with cargoes for Venezuelan ports will leave Monday. A number of steamers are loading for the same destination. A great amount of coffee is awaiting transportation from Venezuela to the United States.

No one apparently is more glad at the raising of the blockade than those on board the blockading squadron.

Washington, Feb. 16. — Minister Bowen expects to begin immediately the preparation of the protocols with the representatives of the unallied powers for the settlement of the claims of the citizens of those nations, who have suffered as a result of the troubles in Venezuela. There are eight of these claimant nations, including the United States. The drawing up of the protocol with this government will be the first undertaken. Solicitor Penfield, of the state department, will represent the United States in these negotiations with Mr. Bowen. Work on this protocol, it is expected will begin Monday and Mr. Bowen's belief is that matters will move forward with greater rapidity than they did with the representatives of the allied governments who were enforcing the blockade against Venezuela. The negotiations with France will follow those with the United States, and so on until the protocols with all the unallied creditor nations are completed. The suggestion has been made that as the unallied nations naturally are opposed to any preferential treatment to Germany, Great Britain and Italy that in all probability Venezuela, the United States and France will be lined up as representing the eight unallied nations at The Hague as opposed to the three allies.

Mr. Bowen continues to receive congratulatory dispatches from Venezuela on the satisfactory outcome of his work here.

Caracas, Feb. 16.—The news received from all the Venezuelan ports except Coro and Niguerote is that the foreign warships sailed away Sunday. The government immediately on receiving the news that the blockade had been raised took military measures and sent troops in all directions to crush the revolution without giving the rebels a moment's respite.

AUSTRIA IS MOBILIZING.

An Extra 40,000 Men Has Been Placed on the Balkan Boundary.

London, Feb. 16.—The correspondent of the Daily Mail at Vienna says in spite of denials he learns that Austria has mobilized two army corps and has concentrated an extra 40,000 men on the Balkan border. Military men, adds the correspondent, believe that an armed intervention is inevitable. Field Marshal Rheinlander will command the force.

Mt. Pelee in Eruption.

New York, Feb. 16.—Capt. Ebert, of the German steamer Catania, which arrived Sunday from Brazil, reports that on February 4, when passing the island of Martinique, he made an observation of Mont Pelee. Much smoke was issuing from the crater and great quantities of lava were flowing down the mountain and into the sea, causing big clouds of steam to rise from the surface of the water.

THE JURY DISAGREED.

Case of Dr. J. C. Alexander Came to An End.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 16.—After being out 48 hours the jury in the case of Dr. J. C. Alexander failed to reach an agreement and was discharged at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. On the final ballots the votes stood eight for acquittal and four for conviction. On the first ballot taken Saturday morning the vote was seven for acquittal and five for conviction. On the next ballot the vote stood 8 to 4. That was the ballot from that time until the jury was discharged, with the exception of one or two instances. The attorneys for the state have not decided what they will do.

There were several serious altercations during the consideration of the evidence in the jury room, which came very nearly resulting in blows. The principal disagreement was between Juror James E. White and Robert F. Lingenfelter, and the cause of the personal feelings in the matter was a result of the wives of the jurors being permitted to visit them on Sunday, February 7. On that day Bailiff Mendenhall permitted Mesdames White, Brown, Davis, Theising and Lingenfelter to visit their husbands and talk to them in the presence of the bailiff. During the course of the trial Mr. White acted as spokesman for the jury, when it was necessary to communicate with the court. Mrs. White and Mrs. Lingenfelter had conversed concerning the trial before they saw their husbands, and when they went to visit the jurors Mrs. Lingenfelter, it is claimed, told her husband that Mrs. White had told her that Mr. White would be foreman of the jury and that he had been a warm personal friend of Prosecutor Ruckelshaus. After the jury resumed deliberation of the case Mr. Lingenfelter accused Mr. White of having come into the case with his mind prejudiced against the defendant and told of the conversation with his wife. Hot words ensued and the matter almost resulted in blows before the interference of others stopped it. This had a disquieting effect on Mr. White and later in the day, when he engaged in a heated argument with Jurors Brown and Theising, who were in favor of acquittal, he was attacked with heart failure. The perplexing question in the minds of the jurors, they say, was whether Dr. Alexander had guilty knowledge of the fact that the body of Rose Neidlinger had been unlawfully taken from the grave. The majority of the jurors state that the instructions of the court on this question settled the matter in their minds. The jurors say that the matter of the insanity of Cantrell and the instructions of the court on that subject received very little consideration at their hands. The evidence of Cantrell was mentioned but few times during the deliberations of the jury.

LIEUT. GEN. MILES.

He and Party Arrive at New York on the Steamship Lucania.

New York, Feb. 16.—Lieut. Gen. Nelson A. Miles, commanding the United States army, his wife and party, arrived here Sunday on the steamship Lucania. The general, who has been abroad five months, has, in that time, been around the world.

One feature of the trip across the Atlantic for the general was the sending of a Marconigram to King Edward VII., February 9, when the Lucania was 80 miles from the Marconi station at Crookhaven. Gen. Miles sent the following message:

"Midocean greeting with best wishes for happiness and health to his majesty and the royal family."

To which the following reply was received by cable on the arrival of the Lucania in port Sunday:

"I have submitted your message to the king. I am commanded by his majesty to thank you for your good wishes and to say for him that it afforded him much gratification to receive it at Windsor. (Signed) Knollys."

With the general were Col. and Mrs. M. P. Maus, Henry Clark Rouse, New York; F. R. Waldorg, of Cincinnati; Mrs. Miles and Sherman Hoyt. Col. Whitney was with the party when they left this country, but returned some weeks ago.

Collision on Cincinnati Southern.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Feb. 16.—The Florida limited on the Cincinnati Southern railway, north-bound, collided head-on Sunday morning about 5 o'clock with a south-bound freight train drawn by two engines near Roddy, Tenn., about 30 miles from this city. Both trains were running about 25 miles an hour, but the engine crews jumped in time to save themselves. Engineer Parker, of the Florida limited, and his fireman were slightly hurt. The collision, it is alleged, was due to the crew of the freight train overlooking their orders and pulling out on the main line, thinking the Florida train had passed. The three engines and baggage cars were badly damaged. Aside from being severely shaken up, none of the passengers were hurt.

Death of Phineas Howe Young.

Salt Lake, Feb. 16.—Phineas Howe Young, the youngest son of the late Brigham Young, and a prominent business man of this city, died suddenly of heart disease, aged 41 years. He was a son of Brigham and Harriet Barney Young.

Gen. Uribe-Uribe is Alive.

Panama, Feb. 16.—The announcement from Kingston, Jamaica, on February 8, that Gen. Uribe-Uribe had committed suicide, is untrue. It was Col. Roberto Uribe, of Herrera's army, who took his own life.

REDUCTION AS A REMEDY.

Lopping Off the Tariff a Certain Means of Relief from Trust Oppression.

In President Roosevelt's message there was a remark to the effect that the tariff is no remedy for the oppression of the trusts. And yet when public protest against the extortion of the coal trust becomes too forcible to be ignored longer, what is the first thing congress does? Suspends both the anthracite and soft coal duties for one year—that is the effect of the rebate plan.

When, in the early part of last summer, the beef trust began forcing its prices upward, placing a fictitious value on its product and robbing consumers right and left for the benefit of the few, what was the first remedy suggested? The removal of the tariff on meat. And the threat of such action being forced by popular protest did more than anything else to bring the packers to their senses says the Utica Observer.

If tariff reduction is not a remedy—at least in part—for trust oppression, tariff reduction would not be the means of curbing the extortions now practiced by so many of these big combinations, why is it that every suggestion of tariff reduction raises a howl of protest from the protected industries and sends their representatives in congress into a panic of fear? Regulation, restriction, a curb on high-handed extortion are what the trusts particularly dread. If removal or reduction of the tariff on trust-produced articles does not have this effect, why are the trusts so agitated every time such a proceeding is suggested?

Congress started in on the present session with the evident intention of following Senator Hanna's suggestion to "stand pat" on the tariff question. The declaration that tariff reduction would bring no relief from oppression was a "bluff" which the suffering of the people in the coal famine has "called." The hollowness of the whole attitude of congress has been exposed.

The permanent character of the bargain between the protectionists in congress and the capitalists who have so effectively organized for the retention of the present scale of tariffs, could not have been more perfectly revealed than it has been in the discussion of the coal situation. Throughout the whole controversy there has not been heard from the protectionist side of the house a single expression of genuine sympathy with the victims of tariff oppression or of honest intention to reconstruct the tariff on a more equitable basis. The only purpose discoverable in the reluctant consent of the majority to make this slight concession to the millions of American consumers was to give them something to keep them quiet for the time, and to make that something as little as possible. All of the protectionist talk in open session, in committee and in the lobby was to the effect that these trifling remissions of duties would, for the present, relieve the tariff system from attack, and would permit the other outrages of the system to remain without modification. In fact, this anxiety to protect the rest of the system against successful assault appears to have been more potent in hastening action upon the coal tariff than desire to do justice to the sufferers from the famine of fuel.

It was a case of losing a little to save much. But it was enough to demonstrate the principle that tariff reduction is a means of relief from trust oppression.

THE SUGAR TRUST MYSTERY.

One Direction in Which the Miracle-Working Tariff Seems to Be at Fault.

What is the matter with the sugar trust? The other day when the 5,000 employes in the Havemeyer sugar refinery in Williamsburg—the largest of the trust's plants—called at the cashier's window for their pay they were bluntly told that the works were closed indefinitely.

There was no warning—not a hint had been dropped that any such thing was in contemplation, says the Chicago Chronicle. What does it mean? Is the market overstocked? Is it necessary to curtail production in order to maintain trust prices? If so the facts must have been known to the trust officials for a considerable time, and there was opportunity enough to give warning to the employes.

The attorneys for the protectees do not forget to remind us every day that the protective system is all for the benefit of those who work for wages. That it makes wages high, keeps them high and gives workers plenty to do is their continually reiterated assertion. It makes the industries prosperous. It makes prices high and it makes everybody able to pay the high prices and buy more than he wants.

But somehow it generally happens that whenever trouble comes it comes in some protected industry. Now it is the sugar industry, which is protected to the extent of 75 per cent. or more of the value of untaxed sugar. It is mysterious.

No government action is threatened which can hurt the refining interest. The only pending measure is a treaty reducing the duty on raw sugar from Cuba 20 per cent. It is by no means certain that this treaty will be ratified. But if it should be the only possible effect upon the Havemeyer trust would be to enable it to get its raw material that much cheaper without in the least diminishing its protection on the refined article which it sells.

It is instructive to note that those who attribute all our prosperity to the miracle working tariff never have any explanation to offer of these strange freaks of their prosperous tariff-sheltered trusts.

AMERICAN MILLIONAIRES.

A Pertinent Query as to the Manner in Which They Got Their Immense Wealth.

It is reported from New York that for the past year the income of Mr. Pierpont Morgan has amounted to $40,000,000 and that it is considerably less than he expected. If he hoped to stand first in the list he certainly has some reason for disappointment, for it is reported that Mr. Rockefeller has during the year added from $100,000,000 to $110,000,000 to his fortune. He is obliging enough to say that he cannot be certain of any figure within $10,000,000. At any rate, whatever be the exact truth, the—we will not say the profits, but the—gains, or perhaps "swag," got by these millionaires must have been immense, says the London News of recent date.

By what means have these monsters come by their countless millions? Have these men added much, or added at all, to the wealth of the world? Is their personal contribution to the welfare of industry in proportion to their personal monetary gains? Wealth is made only and exclusively by labor, either of the hand or of the mind, so employed as to increase the power of muscular labor, or what are called labor-saving appliances. During the past year what has Mr. Rockefeller done in this way to augment man's power of creating wealth out of the new materials of nature? That by merely investing capital a capitalist finds work and wages for others we know; that he is rightfully entitled to profits is freely admitted. But has Mr. Rockefeller's increase of income to the extent of $100,000,000 been made in this way? Certainly not.

Then, again, the man who invented double and triple expansion contributed infinitely more to the wealth and welfare of mankind than Mr. Pierpont Morgan has done by all his shipping combines. Mr. Pierpont Morgan has contributed nothing. Yet he secures a lot of money. Nor has he contributed by the ordinary method of investment. Then how is it all done? Simply by contrivances, very clever, very far-seeing, on the part of these men to draw to themselves a huge proportion of the wealth which other men produce either by their labor or by their capital directly employed.

All political economy, even that which is in other respects unsound, is founded on the principle that capital is only useful to the world when employed fairly and squarely in producing wealth. But now we have schemes for the amazing accumulation of riches by a few favorably circumstanced individuals by methods quite different—methods which are not, so far, legally dishonest, and which do not go through the meshes of the law, but go dodging round the ends of the net. Cannot the net be made longer? It will be by and by, but probably not until there has come an industrial disaster greater than the world has ever known.

THE TARIFF THEORY.

Danger of the Great Protective Idea Becoming Too Well Ventilated.

The drawback clause of the tariff law allows a refund of duties to anybody who reexports an imported article either in the original or in a different shape. Thus, if tin plate is imported and then exported in the forms of cans containing oil, or salmon, or condensed milk, or what not, the duties on the tin plate will be refunded, provided the exporter identifies the material as the same on which duty was paid. It is not easy, however, to identify the material. So much trouble and delay are involved in the process that in many cases it costs more than it comes to. So Mr. Lovering, of Massachusetts, has introduced a bill in congress to dispense with identification altogether. Under this bill American-made tin plate, when exported, would be entitled to the rebate, the same as though it had been imported and duties had been paid. The theory of the blessed tariff, says the New York Post, is that it merely covers the difference in wages between the cost of the imported and the domestic article. If that is the truth, the domestic producer and the foreign producer stand on the same footing in the American market. Why should the user of the foreign article have an advantage in the export trade? That is what Mr. Lovering would like to know. But we should like to know how the case stands when the duty on the foreign article is 4.000 per cent., as in the case of mica. Is the government to refund to the user of domestic mica its value 40 times over when it is exported as a part of some other manufacture? Will not Mr. Lovering's bill put our blessed tariff into too glaring a light and expose it to dangers not now dreamed of?

POINTS AND OPINIONS.

——President Roosevelt will not have to worry much about the John Hay vote in 1904.—Detroit Free Press.

——Ex-Senator Wolcott, of Colorado, said that Teller was elected. That was sensible. Then he began to "chew the rag." That was silly.—Albany Argus.

——There will be a merry time in the republican national convention when the hand plays "Dixie." There will be a contest between the Roosevelt and Hanna forces as to which can sing the loudest in the chorus.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

——President Roosevelt is not using his influence as McKinley would have used his if he had lived. The American people wish that he would follow more closely in the footsteps of the great man he so strongly and so ably eulogized.—Rochester Union.

STATE ODDS AND ENDS.

A MYSTERIOUS NOTICE.

The Strange Disappearance of Twelve Men Hinted At.

Henderson, Ky., Feb. 12.—A queer notice was received Wednesday by County Clerk L. W. Powell. The notice hints at a wholesale murder mystery. The letter and the notice contained therein follows:

"Gresham, Ky., Feb. 4, 1903.

"Mr. County Clerk—Will you post the within notice in a conspicuous place and oblige?

"To Whom it may Concern:

"There was a man missed in Green County, Ky., about 1894 or 1895. He was between the age of 35 and 55. He was considered an old bachelor. Can not give a more definite description of him. He rode one of the finest horses ever seen in Green county, the horse being a dark or red sorrel, about 6 or 8 years old. A nephew of this man came to Green county on the hunt for him; name of either not known to the writer. If the friends of this man will correspond with Box 2, Gresham, Ky., they can find out what became of him; also of 12 other men, mostly of the peddling class, who were missed in Green County.

A NOVEL CASE.

A Decision That Attracts Much Legal Attention.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 14.—The court of appeals Friday, in the case of Moayon vs. Moayon, from Christian county, decided that the wife who had separated from the husband and was preparing to sue for divorce, but who consented to live with him again when he contracted to turn over one-third of all his estate to a trustee, for her and two children, had the right to bring suit to compel him to specifically carry out the contract. It is a novel case, and attracted wide attention in legal circles. Judge Orear delivered the opinion.

CLAUDE O'BRIEN.

The Condemned Man Received a Letter Containing Saws and Files.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 13.—It developed here Thursday that Claude O'Brien, who is in jail here awaiting execution for the murder of A. B. Chinn, received a letter supposed to be from Memphis, containing saws and files with which the writer urged him to secure his freedom. The tools were discovered by the jailer, however, before they got into O'Brien's hands. O'Brien was to have been executed Friday but a stay of execution for 30 days has been granted.

THE POISONING CASE.

Birch Cooper Indicted By the Grand Jury at Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 14.—Birch Cooper was indicted by the grand jury Friday on the charge of poisoning his grandmother, Mrs. Nancy Birch, who with five other members of her household was made seriously ill several weeks ago by drinking coffee containing arsenic. The members of the family with the exception of Birch Cooper drank the coffee at breakfast and for several days the lives of Mrs. Birch and her daughter, Mrs. Feaman, were despaired of.

Sustained the Motion.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 13.—The court of appeals Thursday sustained a motion by the Aetna and 20 other life insurance companies for an injunction to restrain the state board of valuation and assessment from assessing them for franchise taxes, pending final disposition of their appeal from the Franklin circuit court holding them liable.

Two Years In the Penitentiary.

Madisonville, Ky., Feb. 13.—Wonderful Moss and John Bailey, two Negro union miners, were tried Thursday and found guilty of being connected with the hold up of non-union miners employed by the Seinecke Coal Co., in September, 1901. Moss received a sentence of two years in the penitentiary, and Bailey was sentenced to one year.

Gabhard Gets Two Years.

Harrodsburg, Ky., Feb. 12.—In the circuit court Tuesday morning Thomas Gabhard, white, aged 22, was tried upon an indictment charging him with horsestealing, and was given two years in the penitentiary.

Telephone Company Indicted.

Lebanon, Ky., Feb. 12.—The grand jury in the Marion circuit court here found ten indictments against the Lebanon, Louisville & Lexington Telephone Co. for refusing to connect with competitive lines.

Mason-Chinn Wedding.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 13.—Samuel A. Mason, second son of Col. H. P. Mason, the millionaire manufacturer and railroad contractor of this county, was married at 5:30 Thursday afternoon to Miss Prudence B. Chinn, daughter of Attorney Frank Chinn, of Frankfort.

Will Celebrate St. Patrick's Day.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 14.—Prominent Irishmen here will celebrate St. Patrick's day with a brilliant banquet. Mr. Henry Watterson, Hon. Bourke Cockran and Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge have been invited to speak.

FOUND DEAD IN THE WOODS.

Frank Underwood Shot Down While Cutting Crossties.

Olive Hill, Ky., Feb. 13.—Frank Underwood, 19, was found dead in the woods near here with the back part of his head blown off and a load of shot in his shoulder. He went out in the woods early in the morning to make crossties and on failing to return at night search was made for him. He had evidently been in the act of chopping when the shots were fired from behind, as he was found lying on his face with the ax some distance in front of him. Fragments of paper wadding from a muzzle-loading shotgun were traced from the murdered man to a brush pile some distance in the rear, and tracks were found. Geo. Henderson, aged 17, having been seen to emerge from the woods where Underwood was working was arrested by Sheriff Manning and charged with the crime. No grudge is known to have existed between Henderson and Underwood. Henderson is in jail at Grayson.

"CARNIVAL OF CRIME."

Distillers and Whisky Dealers Blame It On Disreputable Saloons.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 12.—At a meeting of wholesale liquor dealers and distillers held at the Galt house here a resolution was adopted stating that "the carnival of crime," which recently has held sway in Louisville, is due largely to a few disreputable saloons and expressing hostility towards every saloon conducted in violation of the law.

The president of the National Wholesale Liquor Dealers is instructed to prepare a model license law for submission to the legislatures of the various states to the end that improper persons may not be licensed to retail liquors.

IN HOLLOW OF A TREE.

Skeleton of a Man Found in the Wilds of Gunpowder Creek.

Petersburg, Ky., Feb. 14.—W. D. Black and party, who felled a tree in the wilds of Gunpowder creek to get at coons, found the skull and crumbled skeleton of a man in a hollow of the tree and a $10 gold piece. The remains are supposed to be those of a man named Holt, who went from Bellevlews, this county, en route to Glencoe years ago and was never heard from. One theory is he climbed the tree, while hunting, and fell headforemost into the hollow, either being killed by the fall or starving.

Whisky in the Fifth District.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 14.—Collector of Internal Revenue Joseph A. Craft has completed a report of the whisky bonded during January. It shows that 2,515,580 gallons of whisky was placed in barrels in the distilleries in this (the Fifth) revenue district. This is a greater amount of whisky made in one month than has been made in years.

Why Duke Refused.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 14.—Gen. Basil W. Duke has returned home from Washington. He says the tender of the seat on the federal bench to him by the president was not a joke, but was a bona fide offer. Gen. Duke says he appreciated the honor and would have accepted had he not promised his support to others.

Bought Lexington Horses.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 14.—George Chipchase, of New York, representing Judge W. H. Moore, accompanied by Jack Lyons, of the Quaker City, arrived here Friday and bought three high-priced horses of the coach variety for the New York jurist. Two of the equines were bought from John S. Stewart and one from Mode Nicolt.

Railroad Commission.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 12.—The court of appeals held that a prosecution against a railroad company for violation of the long and short haul law of Kentucky can not be instituted except by authority of the state railroad commission.—The decision is a reversal of the Marion circuit court.

Found a Gusher.

Williamsburg, Ky., Feb. 14.—A gusher was struck Friday on the farm of George Curd in the edge of the city by the Triumph Oil Co. It is by far the strongest well yet brought in in the Whitley oil fields.

Suicide On Street.

Morganfield, Ky., Feb. 14.—Deputy Sheriff Virg Givens shot and killed himself on May street Thursday night. Financial worry is given as the cause. The deceased leaves a widow and three children.

Mrs. Frances Chism Dead.

Winchester, Ky., Feb. 14.—Mrs. Frances Chism, the mother of 20 children and widow of Commodore Chism, a veteran of the war of 1812, died here Friday, aged 90 years. She was the last, save two, of the surviving pensioners of the war of 1812 in the state.

Judge Hargis Ill.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 14.—Judge Thos. F. Hargis, one of the most prominent lawyers in Kentucky until a few years ago, is seriously ill at his home in this city. He was formerly a judge of the Kentucky court of appeals.

The large feeders generally prefer lamb feeding, rather than the older sheep, as the Field and Farm says they get quicker returns and generally secure higher prices in proportion to the investment. Good feeders can make light weight feeding lambs often double in weight in four months' liberal feed. It would not do for the average feeder to figure on such returns however. Older muttons, on the other hand, do not gain flesh so rapidly as lambs, nor do they bring so much on the market, the margin between the two ranging from $1.50 to $2. From this must be deducted the difference in the cost of feeders, as lambs sell higher than do thin muttons, the difference sometimes amounting to $1 per cwt. All other things being equal, it is a generally accepted statement that there is more money in lamb feeding than mutton feeding. The big exception to this, and one that ought to be taken advantage of by all feeders, is that feeding muttons can often be bought at bargains. A bunch or two of well bought thin sheep from one to two years old, whether ewes or wethers, will often make a feeder far more money than his remunerative bunch of lambs. In this country it is a good rule that if one should see a cheap bunch of thin sheep not to miss the opportunity to buy it, as it will surely net a profit.

The biggest tree on the face of the earth has just been found in a wild and unfrequented nook in California. It measures 190 feet in circumference, or having a diameter of thirty two feet. This tree, fortunately, stands just within the limits of the United States forest reserve. It is supposed to be four thousand years old, and when our Saviour walked the earth in the Holy Land it already had a diameter of about twenty feet.

In an experiment whose purpose was to trace the stages of development of a baby's mind, the infant was placed before a mirror daily. During the earliest stage of the test he simply looked at his reflection, as birds do. He next showed fear of it, as do many of the higher animals. He then grasped at it with his hands, as cats strike at reflections with their paws. Later he looked behind the glass to find the object, as cats and monkeys have been known to do. But on the 420th day of his life he deliberately turned the glass at different angles to obtain the required reflections, an intelligence not possessed by any animal other than man.

Printed stationery is something that every farmer and stock dealer ought to have. Every business man uses printed stationary even though he has paper stock on his shelves at about half the cost because he knows the advantage of the prompt return of letters that are not delivered in a reasonable time after reaching their destination. It is also more business like and many times saves the trouble of writing a second letter. Call on the RECORDER.

Edward Naylor, an aged farmer of Garrard county, died. He was never supposed to have accumulated a large amount of this world's goods. Clayton Arnold qualified as his administrator and proceeded to order a sale of his assets. While searching around the house he raised a plank of the floor in the old man's room and noticed a tin can underneath it, and on attempting to lift it he found it was very heavy, and upon closer examination it was found to be filled with gold coin. A closer search revealed money hidden in different places amounting to nearly $5,000.

After trying various methods, having lived on a farm for years, and always had a supply of home cured hams, shoulders and bacon, I have found the following the best, said a farmer's wife to me a few days ago, who has the most delicious hams and breakfast bacon I ever ate: I thought it would be well to tell the farmer's wives who read the Farmers Home Journal her methods. The hogs were killed and cleaned, then hung up to cool over night. Next morning they were taken down and cut up, laying the pieces on a slanting board to drain the water off. Sprinkle salt thickly over each piece; leave it two days, then pack the hams in a barrel, skin side down. Prepare the brine the evening before it is wanted, allowing two pounds of salt to every gallon of water used. The water should be heated to boiling almost so the salt will dissolve. In the morning skim the skum off that rises to the top. Pour the brine over the meat and let it stay from 6 to 8 weeks. Don't keep it in brine long enough to make it too salty. Take down and hang in the smoke house after drying thoroughly. Green chips make the best smoke. When a light brown rub each piece with a wet cloth, put powdered borax in a pepper box and while it is damp dust the flesh side freely with the borax, allowing a tablespoonful to a ham. The borax will prevent bugs and worms. Cure the sides and shoulders the same way.—Farmers Home Journal.

Tendency of the Times.

The tendency of medical science is toward preventive measures. The best thought of the world is being given to the subject. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. It has been fully demonstrated that pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, can be prevented by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of influenza (grip,) and it has been observed that this remedy counteracts any tendency of these diseases toward pneumonia. This has been fully proven in many thousands of cases in which this remedy has been used during the great prevalence of colds and grip in recent years, and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. Pneumonia often results from a slight cold when no danger is apprehended until it is suddenly discovered that there is fever and difficulty in breathing and pains in the chest, then it is announced that the patient has pneumonia. Be on the safe side and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the cold is contracted. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

When you feel blue and that everything goes wrong, take a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They will cleanse and invigorate your stomach, regulate your bowels, give you a relish for your food and make you feel that in this old world is a good place to live. For sale by all druggists.

RABBIT HASH.

Feb. 18.—River rising, mud deepening, wind blowing, snow drifting.

Chas. Riggs has a very sick baby. It is threatened with pneumonia.

At Gibson's, Rising Sun, is the place to buy a Old Hickory farm wagon.

Albert Wilson and Owen Hodges were enjoying the store a few here Tuesday.

Edward Ryle and family, of Covington, came down to attend the funeral of Jessie Clements.

Everett Clore, of Waterloo, was here Sunday, and gave our champion carrom players a few pointers.

If you have carpenter's work you want done, give Marion Scott a hearing before letting the contract.

B. B. Stephens has received something under 300 valentines up to date, and each mail increases the number.

Miss Lutie Stephens returned, Saturday, from a week's visit with her sister, Mrs. W. K. Aylor, near Aurora.

In order to make his daily trips to McVille and Bellevue, Dr. Hopkins chartered the Ryle boys and their skiff last week.

Will McConnell has 48 lambs with 32 ewes. Some of them will weigh 30 pounds. He expects a fancy price for them.

Mrs. Essie Ryle writes from Petaluma, California, that she is well pleased with the country, and her husband has plenty of work.

W. O. Ryle is busy cutting logs and clearing land. He intends cultivating in tobacco all the land his wife inherited from the Carlton estate.

The mercury was down in the lower ward of the thermometer again Monday and Tuesday nights, and the wind was playing havoc on a high key.

Frank Hodges has bought of F. Riddell the John Ryle farm on Lick creek. He bought of J. A. Wilson and C. G. Riddell 6 acres adjoining the Ryle tract.

Mrs. Lewis and Miss Grace Clore, of Clore's Ridge, came to town, last Saturday, to visit Mrs. Lewis Stephens, and the bad weather prolonged their stay over Tuesday.

John N. Hodges' health has not improved sufficiently for him to do any work, and he will move in with his son-in-law, D. T. Riggs, who lives on the O. J. Harris farm.

While we welcome S. N. Riggs and family back to our town, we regret the loss of Charlie Dolph and his estimable wife. The McVilleites will find Charlie accommodating, industrious and a good workman.

Mrs. Inez Conley and Emly Conley passed through here, Wednesday, on their way to Lewis Stephens', at Aurora, in answer to a telephone message announcing the burning of Mr. Stephens' oldest child, which died the next day from the effects of the burn.

Died, Sunday, the 15th inst., of typhoid fever, Jessie L. Clements, aged 16 years, 8 months and 15 days. He was the oldest son of E. L. Clements and wife, and was raised at this place, where everyone was his friend. Mr. Clements and wife have the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

COMMISSARY.

Feb. 21.—Ransom Ryle and wife were guests of James Smith and wife, of Bellevue, last Saturday night and Sunday. Mr. Ryle and Smith were close friends before marriage; also their wives, and now they visit eachother they have a pleasant time.

You can get one of those Old Hickory wagons at G. B. Gibson's Sons, Rising Sun, Ind. They have just received a car load. Go and see them.

Of the Commissary sick, Mrs. Hunt and Hubert Rouse are improving, William Suelling is worse, Louis Merrick is no better. J. J. Lillard was taken sick last night and is quite poorly.

Miss Flo Arnold, from near Bellevue, was a guest of Miss Artie and Stella Ryle, last Saturday night and Sunday. These three ladies were the old maids at the chickensoup at the Commissary last Sept.

Mr. and Mrs. Mauer, your invitation to dine with you some day came to hand on schedule time. I gladly accept and thank you for the invitation and am liable to call any day when in Bellevlew. I feel that I am good enough to dine with any one, even a "Bonton," and do not feel above any, even the "Middleman." Of course I do not claim to possess such a high degree of intelligence as he, but claim to possess common horse sense. The thought that I am remembered does me more good than a good dinner would, which I know I would get in Bellevue, no difference with whom I dined. Invitations from others will be in order any time. When invitations are extended without a fixed date I will announce my arrival in time to kill the old cat, and churn. Please don't all speak at the same time.

Joseph Hunt died at uoon Sunday, Feb. 15th, of pneumonia, at the home of his son-in-law, T. J. Walton, near the Commissary. Mr. Hunt was born in Baden Germany, Feb. 29th, 1816, aged 86 years, 11 months and 14 days. His remains were interred in Bellevue cemetery the following Tuesday. He landed in New York from Germany, July 4th, 1849, and came to Lawrenceburg within a few days, and lived in Lawrenceburg and Aurora abont 38 years. In, or about the year 1873, he moved on the farm of Miss Julia Dinsmore, and in 1880, on to the farm of John E. Walton, now belonging to T. J. Walton. Nov. 23rd, 1865, he married Mary A. Johnson in Lawrenceburg, Ind. To this union was born four children, Emma, Henry, Carl and Eliza, the latter the wife of T. J. Walton. He leaves a wife, three sons and two daughters. He has one son living in Cincinnati by a former wife. He was an industrious man, a kind and loving husband and father.

I have repeatedly requested my neighbors to report to me items of interest, but they don't seem disposed to do so. I would be glad of their help, but the ball will be kept rolling all the same. My neighbors are not much on the visit, excepting two or three families, and the inclemency of the weather has prevented much being done worth mention. When a correspondent writes up the neighborhood news he is shooting other people's gun and ammunition, so to speak; but when he writes something beside the neighborhood news he shoots his own gun as it were, and at a mark of his own choosing. Mr. Editor, please indulge me in shooting my own gun and ammunition occasionally when items are scarce. As soon as the weather will permit I shall make a house to house canvas of the Bellevue precinct in the interest of the Recorder, and if I don't win the watch it shall not be because of lack of effort on my part. If I am so fortunate as to be the lucky man, I shall ask the Editor to let me choose the gift which will be one of less than half the price of the watch; the difference in the price to be left in the hands of the Editor; then if the present regular correspondents of the Recorder will place in his hands an equal amount we will have another contest. The present contest only benefits the Recorder and the lucky agent. The contest I have in mind will benefit correspondents, readers and Editor alike. I will explain this contest in the near future.

WALTON.

Feb. 22—Messrs. Bassett Collins and George Johnson, of Georgetown, recently made a pleasant visit to their cousin, Mrs. Lewis Rice, at this place.

The Graded School building handsomely decorated with flags and flowers was the scene of the presentation by the Rev. Lafayette Johnson, the distinguished pulpit orator, of a very handsome portrait of Gen. Washington. It was one of the happiest efforts of his life. The subject was suited to the ardent, earnest nature of the gifted speaker, and his discourse enthralled the listeners with his own enthusiasm. In the course of his remarks, he stated, that he had for 30 years been a strong advocate of the Graded School though he had almost despaired of ever seeing it built. It was a stormy day and a winter built turnpike flashed on his mind.)

Prof. Dickey in a few appropriate remarks accepted the present in behalf of the institution, closing with the observation that this was the first occasion that the room had been used for other than school work, but he hoped it would not be the last. The schoolrooms were handsomely decorated and the children were proud of it, and are already calculating what could be done on the 4th of July.

Little Georgie W. Kipp considers himself right in the procession, as the anniversary of his birth was the 22d, and his name is George Washington Kipp.

The sympathy of the community goes out to John King, who was married on the 18th inst., passed through here on the 19th on a wedding trip to Memphis, and the next day was stricken with partial paralysis. Accounts received from him at Worthville this morniug, are not encouraging. John was a great favorite and is really one of the good boys that has been raised in Walton.

IDLEWILD.

Feb. 22.—Mrs. Legrand Gaines visited her son, R. C. Gaines and family, at this place, several days last week.

Henry Barlow is very ill of pneumonia.

Mrs. Edgar Cropper was visiting in Idlewild, Friday afternoon.

We are sorry to hear that Miss Beulah Gaines has again been quite ill.

If you want an Old Hickory wagon, buy it of Geo. B. Gibson's Sons, Rising Sun.

Kirk Berkshire, of Owensboro, talks of becoming a citizen of this county again.

Mrs. M. T. Graves and daughter were guests of Mrs. Geo. Kreyleich, one day last week.

W. D. Cropper laid aside all business cares long enough to attend the ball at Burlington, Friday night.

Rev. Sproles was entertained very pleasantly, several days last week, by Mr. and Mrs. Legand Gaines.

Snow-bound and the mercury 10 degrees below zero this week—not a propitious period for turkey dinners.

The sale of the personal estate of Sebe Jones was well attended, and everything brought a good price.

Ben Berkshire and his relative from Washington, D. C., passed here the other day, in style, on their way to Hebron.

The Lawrenceburg Marble and Granite Works will erect a handsome monument on John Cropper's lot in Bullittsburg church cemetery.

Miss Lena Uzinger and and Walter Ogden were married last Thursday at the home of the bride, Rev. Sproles officiating.

The sleigh in which Courtney Walton, wife and baby were riding a few days ago, struck a snow drift and turned over. Fortunately no one was hurt.

Mrs. John G. Gaines has returned to Denver, Colorado, after a visit of three months at her old home She took the best wishes of many friends with her.

On account of Dry creek bridge being under the back water, the mail from this office has to be taken across the river at Anderson's Ferry, thence around by Cincinnati and Covington to Ludlow.

The Gnisinger sale was the largest sale that has been had in this part of the county in many years. The attendance was very large and good prices prevailed. Many who have been attending sales for a great many years, say they never saw a crowd as well fed on a like occasion.

MOUND FIELD.

Feby. 23.—Snowden Humphries is plastering Harve Aylor's house.

A message reached this office late Saturday evening that Mrs. Ann Graham was thrown from a sled and her arm broken.

Walter Pouston, who was taken down with pneumonia while on a business trip at Addyston, O., we are glad to report, is improving.

We are pleased to say that our friend, Jeff Gaud is able to be out again. He still uses crutches, but expects to be able to discard them in a short time.

Two sled loads of the Hebron Glee Club spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Will Graves in Bullittsville neighborhood. They reported a delightful time.

Frank Markland, who has been eating cress greens and turnips with the proprietor of Monndfield for the last two weeks, returned to his home in the city last Friday.

Owing to the hustle our mail carrier got on Monday morning instead of Monday morning, being one hour ahead of schedule time, we failed to get our communication in last week.

Mrs. Samuel Aylor presented her husband with a pair of bouncing boys on the 10th inst. Mother and children doing fine—Sam is slowly recovering from the shock, sets up part part of the time, and is regaining his appetite.

Dick Tanner and his son, Claud, have secured positions as cooks for R. H. Fleming, contractor. Mr. Fleming has the contract to build a railroad between Atlanta, Ga., and Huntsville, Alabama. Dick and Sam will receive $60 per month for their services.

Walter Gordon sprang quite a surprise on the boys in Hebron, last Saturday night, by informing them that he was a married man and had been since the 24th of December. He married Miss Maggie Youell. May happiness and prosperity attend him and her through life is the wish of all.

The members of Greenwood Grange held a very interesting and instructive meeting on the 21st inst. At our next meeting, on the 7th of March, it was decided to have a box meeting, and it is desired that all who can, whether members of the order or not, will attend. We promise that you will be amply paid for your time, and, that you will return to your homes wiser and better men and women.

CONSTANCE.

Miss Nellie Hempfling has returned from a delightful trip to Bellevue.

Al England is on the sick list.

We are glad to see Capt. Lou Kottmyer out again.

Miss Deana Goins, of Anderson Ferry, was calling on friends here Sunday.

What has become of our Maple Grove correspondent? We are anxiousto hear.

Eiza Zimmer has returned to Newport after a week's visit with parents here.

Adam Reeves, who had his eye hurt while at work in the city, is able to resume work.

Wm. Zimmer, jr., was in town, Friday. He reports plenty of work and is well pleased with his new position.

Misses Minnie and Lena Otten and Marie Haely, of Covington, were visiting relatives here Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. H. Klaserner, who fell and was badly hurt during the recent cold spell, has gone home with her daughter, at Hebron.

While out sleighing, Saturday, the horse driven by Chester Hood and Alfred Dolwick, became frightened near the cemetery and the boys had a narrow escape from being killed.

We were surprised to hear of the marriage of Mr. Walter Gordon and Miss Maggie Youell. We exteud our congratulations. May happiness and joy attend them along their journey of life.

One of the pleasant affairs of the week was the Ribbon Party at Margaret Otten's. A large crowd was present among which were quite a number from other towns. Games and cards were indulged in till a late hour, and then the boys were iqvited to draw for a pie, after which the fun of watching ribbons began. The boys say for fun this can't be beat.

HATHAWAY.

Feb. 23 —Some ideal winter again last week.

The roads in this hallwiek are about impassable.

W. E. Vest was in this neighborhood recently closing a land deal between Joe Huey and Ben Huey.

Houston & Weaver's huckster wagon was conducted under the double header style last week, on account of the bad roads.

Several of the young gallants around here returned home Monday morning instead of Sunday night on account of the high creek Sunday night.

We were sorry to hear of the death of Lula Stephens' child, who was burned severely last week and died from the effects the next day. Mr. Stephens resides near French, Indiana.

Mr. Edward Braidy, of Landing, and Miss Pearl White, of this place, were married in Rising Sun, February the 11th. They will go to housekeeping in the near future. May joy and happiness attend them along their journey of life.

VERONA.

We have just experienced the coldest weather of the winter. The thermometer registered six degrees below zero last Tuesday.

James Fry, who has been confined to his bed for several weeks, is no better.

Chas. Harrell has opened a new store in our burg, and will sell to suit the times.

We are sorry to lose our friend, H. C. Bramlage, who will move to Bank Lick. May our loss be his gain.

Any one having an item of interest for this column can drop it in box 2, Verona with their name signed and it will have proper attention.

NOTICE—Mrs. C. Harrell has opened a general store here and would like all of her old patrons and as many new ones as possible to give her a call; also, cutting and fitting dresses a specialty.

Hear that Dr. B K. Menifee has purchased about all of the property sold at the court house for taxes, and is coming back from Illinois to make his future home in Kentucky.

Our tobacco merchant J. G. Kennedy bought Henry Wilford's tobacco at $10 per cwt. for leaf and lugs and $5 for tips and trash; also Marshall Whitson crop at $10, 8, and 5 per cwt.

Our people are agitating the pike question. It is no question but what we need better roads in this community but how shall we porceed to build pikes? Answer—simply get the money and work, that is all that is needed.

Howe Cleek, one of Beaver's promising young men, and Miss Laura Roberts, of this place, were quietly married in the city last Wednesday. The Recorder wishes Mr. and Mrs. Cleek a happy, useful and prosperous journey as they float down the stream of life.

W. R. Tanner delivered to Morgan Mitchell, at Erlanger, 3 hogs, last week, at 8 cents per pouud, dressed.

John Swine will occupy the house known as the Bailey house, near Florence, and not the present tollgate house on the Burlington pike.

The snow is drifted so badly in some places the roads are blocked and the snow had to be removed before travel was possible. C. E. Tanner did good service along that line. He opened quite a loug distance and made travel possible.

Those who predicted that the latter part of the winter would be the severest, made no mistake in their prediction. We seldom have more severe weather thau we had last week. The thermometer registered 8 below on Wednesday morniug, and we had zero weather for several days.

Lute Aylor, who is always ready to bestow a kind deed, surprised his mother, last Sunday. He prepared a nice dinner and drove to his mother's home and took her home with him, where she found the table laden with all the delicacies of the season, and the result was a happy mother in the celebration of her 82 birthday.

RIVERVIEW.

Feb 23—The many friends and relatives of Jesse Clements were very sorry to hear of his death, and extend to the bereaved parents their sympathy.

We expect to report the organization of a Masonic Lodge at Rabbit Hash in our next.

You should not fail to see those "Old Hickory" wagons at Geo. B. Gibson's Sons, Rising Sun, Ind.

Geo Hillis caught a shanty-boat in the river a few days since, in which he found a tool-chest with tools, also some household goods.

W. C. Ryle and wife are talking of going to California to live. Several others here are thinking of going to the "land of sunshine."

William Hahn and wife, of Connersville, Ind., are visiting his wife's parents here. Will had two of his fingers mashed off recently.

Ben Wilson will move S. N. Riggs' and Chas. Dolphs' household goods on the ferry boat this week, to their respective homes, McVille and Rabbit Hash.

BUFFALO.

Feb. 21.—Joe Huey moved to his farm near Landing springs, last week.

Mr. Arnold moved to the Will Adams place, last Thursday.

Those on the sick list are S. H. Stephens and J. M. Stephens and wife.

Mrs. Jane Clements spent last Friday with L. J. Riley and family.

Mrs. F. J. Rne and Mrs. C. Ryle spent Tuesday with Mrs. Ras Stephens and daughter.

P. P. Neal and wife spent a day or two at Erlanger, last week, with relatives and friends.

Mrs. Robert Clements and children and Mrs. P. P. Neal dined with Mrs. Homer Clore, last Friday.

There is two applicants for the school at this place, Mrs. Cora Ryle and Miss Effie Beemon. It is nudecided which will get it.

The roads were in such a condition last week that all the hucksters that visit this vicinity failed to put in their appearance, but Houston & Weaver and they hardly made the round.

This community was shocked to hear of the terrible death of Lewis Stephens' little daughter. We extend our sympathy to the breaved family. May they in this sad bereavement remember that the Lord gives and the Lord taketh away, blessed be His holy name, and may they learn to say Thy will be done.

Mr. Editor, I will bid you a farewell now, as I will not write for your paper any more, as we move to our home on Gunpowder in a few days. I will close by thanklug you for your kindness, which will long be remembered.

[We are sorry to lose the services of our correspondent, but wish her health and happiness in her new home.—ED.]

RICHWOOD

Mr. Grubbs filled his large ice house last Friday.

Robert Snow bought of W. B. Stephens his farm near here.

Mrs. Johanna Harvey and Thomas Marshall are seriously ill.

James Dobbins has rented the Mike Rouse farm of O. P. Isaacs.

The late Geo. Lipp's place will be sold, Monday, March 2nd, at your town.

Creek roads are frozen from bank to bank with a decline toward the center, making travel very difficult.

C. Robinson had two horses severely kicking. They got loose in their stable and attacked each other.

Tomato contractors should hold out for a 25 cent rate. Last year there were not 100 bushels marketed here before Sept. 15th, and factories in neighboring states have paid that price for years.

Hubert Carpenter, who was at Lexington before the high moguls for some alleged neglect, was fully exonerated and is back at the office. Virgil Holder, of Walton, occupied his place for a few days.

GASBURG.

REVIVAL BLESSINGS.

Human Hands May Reach Up and Unlock the Windows of Heaven.

For the Key of Full Preparation, and the Blessing Will Pour Forth—Sermon by the "Highway and Byway" Preacher.

Text:—Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, that there may be meat in Mine house, and prove Me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts if I will not open you the windows of Heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it."—Mal. 3:10.

Not many days ago my front doorbell failed to respond to the touch of the button. Something was wrong, and I set myself to the task of discovering what that something was and of setting it right. I wanted the doorbell to ring. It had been ringing all right, and I knew it would ring again as soon as the difficulty which was interfering with its successful operation was removed. I examined the batteries. No trouble there. I examined all the connections and made sure that they were closely and securely adjusted. I examined the bell itself. It seemed to be all right. I went down and pressed the button. It still refused to ring. I went all over the wires, the connections, the batteries and the bell again, and tried again to see if it would respond to my touch at the button. Still no ring. It requires patience to fix an electric bell, as you may have discovered, perhaps. I knew that bell ought to ring. I so much wanted to ring that I continued my search until I had discovered where the trouble lay. My faith in electric bells was not shattered. I did not condemn them wholesale, and declare that I didn't believe they would ring anyway. I knew there was a break in the electrical current somewhere, and that as soon as I restored that connection my bell would send forth its musical peal once more. At last I found that the delicate brass spring which set the tongue of the bell to vibrating with the electrical shocks from the battery had become coated with dust and tarnish and prevented the electrical spark from passing from one coil to the other. As soon as I had rubbed off the dirt and tarnish, my bell responded to the pressure at the button and rang out as clearly and strongly as before.

We touch the button of prayer, and ask, yea, beseech God for the revival blessing, and we apparently do not obtain any response to our prayers. Is it because there is no revival blessing? Is it because God does not want to give it? Nay, verily, we know that such is not the case. The pressure on the button of prayer has been right, and in accordance with God's will. The blessing waits at the other end ready to pour forth, but something is wrong between the prayer and the windows of Heaven. Something prevents the unlocking of those windows behind which the fullness of blessing rests, as the yellow grain fills the crowded bin ready to pour forth as soon as the slide to the chute is opened. Prayer alone will not unlock the windows of Heaven. It is folly to keep pressing the button with anguish of spirit and blind persistency. When my bell failed to ring upon pressure of the button I did not hang onto that button and just wait for that bell to ring. I did not call my neighbors and friends to help me push on that button. I did not go down into the basement and get the hammer that I might put more force and energy into my efforts on that button. No! I knew the trouble was not with my pressure on the button. But I will tell you what I did do. I stuffed something around that button that kept it pressed in and the circuit closed and then I set about finding out the reason why that bell did not ring. I said: "Now I have that button fixed, and as soon as I discover the reason the bell does not ring and get it fixed I shall know it by the warning notes of the bell." And I did, and everybody else in the house knew when I got the bell fixed. It nearly deafened us before I could get back to the front door and remove the pressure from around the button.

This illustrates forcibly a secret of the most vital importance in obtaining from God the blessing we seek. We need to keep the button of prayer pressed in all the time. "Pray without ceasing." But we need to do something more than just hang onto the button. Prayer that does not follow us from our closets and make us keen and watchful to discover how we can help God give us the blessing we seek is not prayer at all. Prayer that begins and ends in the private devotions or in the public assembly of the saints is prayer that never moves God. Set your button pressed in, and then set yourself to seeking the reason why you do not hear the responsive ring of God's blessing. And when you have discovered the reason the blessing is withheld and have removed the hindering dust and tarnish, the windows of Heaven will respond to the restored electrical current of necessary preparation and will fly open and the blessing pour forth.

I believe we are pretty nearly correct when we say that Christians today fall into two divisions, those who are expecting a great revival blessing, and those who have come to believe because of the withheld blessing that the day of great revivals is over. This is the expression which is found afloat in the church and town where the special evangelical services have been held, and have resulted in the conversion of but a few souls. It is spoken perhaps by the majority of the Christians who have labored faithfully, and is a sort of lame, uncertain excuse to explain the lack of expected results. And having thus bolstered up their slim faith in God and His promises, they settle down to another eight or ten months of hibernation, content with the thought that they have done all that could be done, and that God has done the best He could—and the Lord knows He has considering the conditions He has had to deal with—but God pity the Christians who are content to hear the patter of the drops of blessing, and who do not set about to discover why the showers and the downpour have not come. The few brave-hearted, full-faithed Christians continue to hold onto GoGid. They keep the button of prayer pressed in and again take up the search for the arresting cause that has prevented the opening of the windows of Heaven and the outpouring of the full blessing of God. Their yearning hearts keep singing:

"There shall be showers of blessing.
Precious, reviving again;
There shall be seasons refreshing,
Sent from the Saviour above.
Showers, showers of blessing.
Showers of blessing, we need;
Mercy drops 'round us are falling,
But for the showers we plead."

What is a revival? Somehow the idea has unconsciously taken root in the Christian heart that a revival means a strange and unknown manifestation of the Divine Life. This is not true. A revival is not a different manifestation of the life or Spirit of God, but is only that same life and Spirit in fuller and deeper measure. There lies the unfortunate victim of the deadly potion. It has almost brought the sleep of death and quenched the last remaining spark of life. The doctor and the nurse work heroically and persistently over the almost unconscious patient, who would, if left to himself, sleep the long sleep of death. But the patient is kept on the move. He is given not an instant's rest. What are the doctor and the nurse so desperately seeking to bring about? A revival. They are not trying to put something different into that almost lifeless body than the life which has throbbed there before. They are only trying to overcome the effect of the deadly poison and to get more of the same life back again. But now suppose the word revival had taken on some mysterious and strange meaning to the friends standing around, and as the doctor and the nurse at last succeeded in bringing the full life throb back to the patient, they should ask to see the revival, expecting the while to witness some unusual and unknown manifestation. This supposable case, of course, appears ridiculous, and yet has it not its very important point of emphasis for the Christian who talks about revival, and expects revival, and longs for a revival, and yet who forgets that revival only means more of the same Divine life which he now feels in his heart if he is a real child of God.

The First Point of Difficulty.—And right here we believe is perhaps the first and great point of difficulty. A revival means more of God in the heart and the life. The sweeping revival which shakes church and community and country is only the letting of the life and Spirit of God flow into the place left empty by putting away the things which have been crowding Him out. As Mr. Moody used to say: "You can't crowd more into a full pitcher, but you can pour a great deal into an empty pitcher." And while the Christian heart and the Christian church remain so full of their own activities and their own plans there is no chance for the fuller manifestation of the life of God. A great many bonfires have got to be lighted to get rid of the rubbish before God can have room in which to carry on His revival work. It has been said that the churches and Christian work of the day are organized to death. So much system and so many novel and up-to-date features that God is crowded out. I really believe that if God would grant to the churches a great ingathering of souls they would immediately begin to congratulate themselves upon their splendid organization and system, and claim the credit for the harvest. Gideon, when called of God to lead the Israelites against the Midianites and break their yoke of bondage, gathered together an army of 32,000 men. Not a large army, to be sure, especially in comparison with the hosts of the enemy, but the ranks of the Israelites were full enough to make them confident in themselves, and God declared that if He gave them victory they would claim all the credit of defeating the powerful enemy. So He told Gideon to reduce his army, and 22,000 faint-hearted and fearful returned to their homes. But still the army of 10,000 was too many. And another test came which cut out 9,700 men. Then God was ready to act. By the 300 men He would give Israel deliverance from the mighty enemy which encompassed them on every hand. And God must needs reduce the confidence of the church in its own resources and abilities and powers before it is safe for Him to give the abundance of blessing which is sought for. This must be brought about by the individual Christian making self, and self plans, take a back seat and exalting Christ to the supreme place in the life and heart.

Another Point of Difficulty.—Another thing which may prevent the coming of the revival blessing is the high-mindedness which has its gaze steadfastly fixed on the mirage of great things, great speakers and great preparations, while near at hand, at the very feet of the supplicant for the revival blessing, lies the little thing in which is the germ of great spiritual possibilities. It is the acorn which becomes the great spreading oak. It is the mustard seed, the tiniest of seeds, which pushes down its tender thread-like rootlet and forces up its tiny green stalk. And that thread-like rootlet becomes the great, strong far-reaching root, and the tiny green stalk grows and grows until the green blade has become the great rearing trunk sending out its mighty sheltering branches in every direction. The gentle breathing of the little babe would be sufficient to send the tiny mustard seed rolling out of the hand, but when the possibilities lying hid within are realized "all the king's horses and all the king's men" couldn't uproot that mighty tree. Man naturally has his eyes focused for the great things. God's eye searches out the little things. What man overlooks, yea, even disdainfully ignores, God shapes and molds to wonderful success. The block of marble which had been cast aside as worthless by the mediocre artist was picked up by Michael Angelo when he came into possession of the studio and his skilful hands wrought upon it, and from that despised piece of marble the beautiful Madonna stepped forth to bring him fame and delight the heart of the art lover.

It is the little, insignificant, unknown thing, or circumstance, or condition in the church or the life of the Christian which contains the germ of the revival blessing. Don't think for a moment it is some outside condition or some outside circumstance which must be realized in your life before the quickening fires of God's revival blessing can stir your heart. Look around within the sphere of your own existence, into your own heart, and you will find the mustard seed which if planted in the soil of a surrendered and obedient heart and watered with the tears of repentance and intense longing after God, will take root and grow into the great tree of revival blessing spreading its joy and gladness to all about.

It has been said that a revival is not worked up but it is sent down. I contend that it is both. The germ for the revival is to be found in every church. It must be diligently and humbly sought out and developed. That's working up the revival. God looking on sees the possibilities in that little germ. He rejoices in the humility, the consecration and the diligence manifested in the church in tending that little germ, and then He blesses it with mighty development and growth. That's sending down the revival. Mr. Moody used repeatedly to say, after his wonderful successes in different cities and churches, that it was not so much what he brought as what had been sowed and grown and tended before he came that explained the great revival blessing which was realized. God sent Mr. Moody where the germ of revival blessing had been given a chance to take root and grow. If churches to-day are to again know and rejoice in great revival blessing, they must quit looking outside of themselves for its realization. Great speakers, great singing, great blowing of trumpets, great and forced efforts alone never yet made a great revival. The germ for the revival must be found in the church itself, and carefully and humbly and prayerfully tended and nourished. The little match with its faint and flickering flame may start a blaze that will sweep the town before it. And the germ of revival blessing has within it the mighty fire that will set church and community all ablaze with holy zeal and purpose.

It is the tithes of little things which we must bring into the storehouse of God if we would fulfill God's conditions and prove His faithfulness in pouring out upon us such a blessing as there shall not be room enough to receive it. I have seen union revival efforts in which there was a great stir and effort, and some little reaping, and then an eager and undignified hurry on the part of the different churches to capture as many of the new converts as possible. That is always the way when man gets up a revival. But when God has a full share in it we will see such an outpouring of blessing that there shall not be room enough to receive it. Think of it! When all the tithes of the little things are brought into the storehouse, then look out! God never fails in His promises, and the outpouring of blessing is sure to come.

It was the little thing which prevented my bell from ringing. The dust and tarnish which was hardly visible to the naked eye had to be rubbed off the small brass spring before the strong electric current generated in the battery could make itself felt. The power was there to ring the bell all the time, but so little a thing as dust and the thinnest veiling of tarnish was sufficient to prevent the bell from operating. If Christians and churches would only realize the importance of little things and begin looking within for the dust and tarnish they would discover the reason for the delayed blessing. The dust and tarnish of indifference and neglect is allowed to collect eight or nine months in the year, and then there is perplexity and disappointment when the revival fails to come on the spur of the moment and when we think it ought to come. God wants us to long for it enough to search out the withheld tithes, and to bring them in. He wants us to yearn so intensely for it that we will keep the button of prayer pushed in 12 months in the year while we persistently and diligently continue the search for the point of difficulty. When connections are all perfectly made, when the dust and tarnish are all carefully removed, then the windows of Heaven will quickly lift and the promised blessing pour forth. It may come during summer's heat or winter's cold, or in the bursting springtime or the rose-hued days of autumn. It will not wait for the times and seasons appointed by man, but will come when all the tithes have been brought into God's presence and laid at His feet. Then it will come. It will come!

DICTATES OF FASHION.

A Variety of Attractive Accessories That Are in Vogue with Smart Dressers.

Gray crepe de chine still holds its own as a smart afternoon toilet, but a peculiar shade is used now, almost darker than smoke, relieved with dull oriental embroideries, which, however, subdued, take some rich tone, reports the Chicago Daily News.

Heavy, effective embroidery has a prominent place as a trimming. A handsome gown of a thin, pale yellow crepe has the skirt half-made of filet embroidered with gold chrysanthemums in a raised pattern. The corsage is trimmed with the artificial flowers.

It is a pretty idea to put quaint old waistcoat buttons down the front of our blouses, finishing the cuffs with links to correspond. But all the jewelry belonging to our grandmothers and great-grandmothers may be utilized in the present-day fashions, provided we do it with care and discretion.

The fichu effect is much in vogue and a plain cream oriental satin ball gown seemed as if it were cut en princesse, fastening at the side, the one forms of trimming being an old lace fichu with elbow sleeves of the same lace, the former being held in place by one enormous pink rose. This was quite a picture gown and most distinctive in its simplicity.

There is a fancy for long muff chains of massive gold. These are occasionally set with a few rough-cut stones—carbuncles and sapphires being most effective. For evening wear the prettiest chains are those of slender make in the old French patterns, studded with diamonda and emeralds. There is, by the way, a perfect rage for emeralds, partly, no doubt, because everything green has been so long de rigueur. But rubies and pearls are holding their own and the blood-red stone will be the rage of the coming season.

How fashions in trifles change! Just as we have dispensed with the lace handkerchief, so we cannot exist without a bag or satchel of some description. The rich, of course, affect a gold bag studded with precious stones. The newest are in shape something like the large old-fashioned silk purse, drawn up with a gold chain. Always charming are those in gun metal and chainwork, studded with large rough pearls. Those who possess old gilt or silver tops should certainly have them fitted to a velvet bag. The bead bags in steel and black continue fashionable and they are an extremely good purchase when hand made, for they last a long time and do not tarnish.

Notwithstanding the array of coats, jackets, cloaks, pelerines and long wraps of every description, blouses and blouse effects innumerable continue to appear, but the droop grows less and less excessive on the fronts, which even for winter wear often open all the way down to the belt, with smart standing collar and large revers of squirrel, chinchilla, mink or other fur and vest and stock of Persian brocade, moire, plaided satin or other rich effective material. Eton, Figaro and Russian jackets all reappear and a number of modified Louis styles, with fancy waistcoat effects and skirts more or less long. There seems, strange to say, no diminution whatever in the popularity of these winter styles.

WHAT THE LITTLE GIRL SAW.

Uncle John Killed a Pig and Took Some Strange Things from Its Interior.

"In Washington city," said a government official, according to the New York Herald, "lives a bright little girl who has somewhat odd ideas upon a great many subjects, but until this year no opportunity had ever come her way to show what she knew about the anatomy of a pig. The occasion occurred in February last, when she went with her mother to visit a farmer uncle living across the Potomac in Virginia. It was her first visit, and everything rural pleased her immensely. One day a pig was to be killed, and it was not intended that she should see it, but she managed to be around when the butchering took place, and it interested her more than anything she had seen. When the work was completed she ran off into the house to tell her mother.

"'Oh, mamma,' she exclaimed, with big eyes, 'you ought to saw what I did.'

"'What was it, dear?' inquired the mother.

"'Uncle John killed a pig.'

"'Goodness, child, you didn't see that, did you?'

"'Yes, I did, and you ought to saw, too. Why, mamma, Uncle John just shooted it clear dead, and hung it up by the heels, and he cut it open and took a whole lot of sausages and a squash out of its insides.'

"I guess," concluded the talker, "that a diagram is not necessary for those who are acquainted with the internal arrangements of a porker."

Panned Onions, Creole Style.

Split oyster crackers in half. Butter a deep dish and line it with a layer of the crackers. Sprinkle chopped Spanish or Bermuda onions over the crackers; then pepper and salt; then spread with a very thin layer of tomatoes, as the flavor of the onion must predominate in this dish. Continue to alternate the materials until the pan is full, having tomatoes on top. Add sufficient quantity of milk to come nearly to the top of the pan and cover with buttered bread crumbs. Bake one hour. This is a delicious dish to serve with turkey or chicken.—Albany Argus.

LADY ON EDITORIAL STAFF OF LEADING RELIGIOUS WEEKLY

Sends the Following Grand Testimonial to the Merits of Cuticura Remedies in the Treatment of Humours of the Blood, Skin and Scalp.

"I wish to give my testimony to the efficiency of the Cuticura Remedies in that seems to me two somewhat remarkable cases. I had a number of skin tumours—small ones—on my arms which had never given me serious trouble; but about two years ago one came on my throat. At first it was only about as large as a pinhead, but, as it was in a position where my collar, if not just right, would irritate it, it soon became very sensitive and began to grow rapidly. Last spring it was as large, if not larger, than a bean. A little unusual irritation of my collar started it to swelling, and in a day or two it was as large as half an orange. I was very much alarmed, and was at a loss to determine whether it was a carbuncle or a malignant tumor.

"My friends tried to persuade me to consult my physician; but dreading that he would insist on using the knife, I would not consent to go. Instead I got a small bottle of Cuticura Resolvent and a box of Cuticura Ointment. I took the former according to directions, and spread a thick layer of the Ointment on a linen cloth and placed it on the swelling. On renewing it I would bathe my neck in very warm water and Cuticura Soap. In a few days the Cuticura Ointment had drawn the swelling to a head, when it broke. Every morning it was opened with a large sterilized needle, squeezed and bathed, and fresh Ointment put on. Pus and blood, and a yellow, cheesy, tumorous matter came out. In about three or four weeks' time this treatment completely eliminated boil and tumor. The soreness that had extended down into my chest was all gone, and my neck now seems to be perfectly well.

"About five or six years ago my sister had a similar experience. She had two large lumps come under her right arm, the result of a sprain. They grew rapidly, and our physician wanted to cut them out. I would not listen to it, and she tried the Cuticura Remedies (as I did a few months ago) with magical effect. In six weeks' time the lumps had entirely disappeared, and have never returned.

"I have great faith in the Cuticura Remedies, and I believe they might be as efficacious in similar cases with other people, and thus save much suffering, and perhaps life. I have derived so much benefit from the use of them myself that I am constantly advising others to use them. Recently I recommended them to an office boy for his father, who was disabled with salt rheum. The man's feet were swollen to an enormous size, and he had not worked for six weeks. Two bottles of Cuticura Resolvent and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment worked a perfect cure. You never saw a more grateful man in your life.

"I am very much interested in another case where I have recommended Cuticura just now. My housemaid's mother has a goitre which had reached a very dangerous point. The doctors told her that nothing could be done; that she could live only two or three weeks, and that she would die of strangulation. She was confined to her bed, and was unable to speak, when her daughter, at my suggestion, tried the effect of the Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Resolvent. Strange to say, she was, very shortly relieved of the most distressing symptoms. The swelling seemed to be exteriorized, and she is now able to be around her house, and can talk as well as ever.

"It seems to me that I have pretty good grounds for believing that Cuticura Remedies will prove successful in the most distressing forms of blood and skin humours, and if you wish to use my testimonial as herein indicated, I am willing that you should do so, with the further privilege of revealing my name and address to such persons as may wish to substantiate the above statements by personal letter to me."

Chicago, Nov. 12, 1902.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are sold throughout the civilized world. AN IDEA FROM OHIO.

Neighbors There Got Together and Installed a Co-operative Cornstalk Shredder.

There are perhaps many farmers who realize the value and convenience of shredded fodder but do not feel that the results justify the expense of personally owning a shredder. Two years ago we hired a husker and shredder, the first one ever in our community, at $10 per day. But with cold weather, short days, moving the machine, etc., we found it a very expensive method. Besides, the owner was some distance from home and did not like to stop work when the fodder was not in the best condition for storing. Last year eight of us, neighbors, bought a husker and shredder, including a knife grinder, etc., for $225, or $25 per share, as one stockholder was allowed two shares, he having about twice as much corn as the others. He also had to furnish two men when husking, as it took nine to work it up to full capacity; two in the field to load, three to haul corn from field, one to haul husked corn and three around the machine, to haul water and keep the thing moving in general. They also took turns in feeding, as that was perhaps the hardest work in connection with it.

Each shareholder was charged three cents per shock, 144 hills, for what he had husked, and was allowed ten cents per hour for helping the others, no charge being made for teams or wagons, as they would have been idle anyway. We found this better than husking at so much per bushel, as it was less bother. If one's corn was good and large, it cost him less proportionately than his neighbor, but as it took longer to husk it he had to pay for more labor, and vice versa, so that at the settlement things were pretty well evened up. We hired a man with his traction engine and necessary outfit, at 50 cents per hour actual running time. As most of us had considerable stock to feed we began at eight a. m. and quit at four p. m., so that we were not "rushed to death." If the fodder or fields were not in good condition we quit until they were. One of the number kept account of the shocks and time we were at work. In 110 hours we husked 1,700 shocks, which made at least 3,500 bushels shelled corn. Much of the crop had been husked by hand before getting the machine.

This plan gave very good satisfaction. This year, however, we have not accomplished much, as the weather has been so unfavorable. We found no difficulty in keeping the fodder, if practically dry when shredded. The blower is much better than the old style carrier, as that requires a man in the mow, which causes the fodder to heat where tramped over. We tried stacking the fodder and it kept very well, except where the blower deposited on the stack. But it was quite a job to stack it, and much of the lightest and best parts of the fodder were blown entirely off the stack. It was also quite a task to haul the shredded fodder to the barn, as it is difficult to handle by ordinary means. A neighbor had some baled, but did not find it profitable selling it in competition with hay at $10. He said the bales were nearly all moldy when opened for feeding. Shredded fodder is all right if one has mow room to store it, and plenty of stock to consume it, otherwise we doubt its value when compared with its cost.—Ohio Letter, in Rural New Yorker.

HELPFUL FARM NOTES.

The best method of making the farm profitable is to make it productive.

Manure adds to the productiveness of the land as soon as it is applied, but all the substance is not used up in one season.

During the winter is a good time to clean up the old fence rows and corners that have been allowed to grow up in weeds.

The time to shape the heads of trees is while they are young. Then the tops can be easily trained in almost any shape desired.

In profitable farming the farm products must be put in the form in which they will command the most money and yet leave the farm in the most productive condition.

President Roosevelt says: "While I am a son of Harvard, I believe that the state land grant institutions are doing a greater work and are closer to the hearts of the people than many of the older and better equipped colleges."

THE DISEASE OF BEES.

Foul, Black and Pickled Are Most to Feared and Should Be Stamped Out Promptly.

It has been said that bees are less liable to disease than any other living things. It is probably because the older members of a colony are constantly giving away to younger ones. Nothing but a contagious disease can do much harm where youthful and vigorous members are being added to the family almost daily for a great part of the year, says the Farm, Stock and Home. Therefore, if bees lack thrift start brood-rearing briskly, and if the queen is at fault, substitute another. Therefore, we have little to fear from any disease that does not attack the brood or young hatching bees. Luckily, we have but one such disease, "foul brood." The novice in bee-keeping need not be at loss to know foul brood at sight. It has two features which make it easily distinguishable from "black brood" and "pickled brood," which somewhat resemble it. Foul brood always has an odor somewhat resembling that of a glue pot, and the matter contained in the cells is always ropy, will stretch like rubber and snap in the middle.

Of late years a good deal has been written about what, for a better name, has been termed "pickled brood;" and another disease of like nature has gained considerable headway in many apiaries in New York, which is at present termed "black brood." The diseases are not so well understood as yet as is foul brood. We are not prepared to state positively whether these diseases are contagious or not. For several years we had what appeared to be pickled brood in both of our yards, some colonies had only a few cells of dead brood scattered here and there with the cappings sunken down slightly, and a little pin hole in most of the diseased cells, and in some cases it seemed as if the young bees matured to the point of hatching and then died. They would cut their way partly out of the cell, but seemed to lack the strength to come clear out. All the diseased matter was usually left in the cells, as the bees seemed very unwilling to clean them out. We were alarmed when the disease first made its appearance, but soon decided that it was not serious, for with one exception the colonies affected showed up about as well as their healthy neighbors. The excepted colony was seriously affected for two seasons, and in the fall of 1895 had but few bees to go into winter quarters. They gave no surplus that season, but had over 20 pounds of honey for winter stores. They were put in the cellar along with the others, and died soon afterwards, leaving the honey almost intact. We would impress upon the mind of every bee-keeper who reads this the necessity of extreme care in handling all colonies that have any disease in the least resembling foul brood. The germs of that dread disease are contained in the honey, and are conveyed from one hive to another by robber bees getting a load of the diseased honey and feeding it to the larva in a healthy colony

NEAT SHIPPING COOP.

If Built of Good, Sound and Light Material It Will Last for a Long Time.

Here is a very neat and attractive coop, and about the best coop for shipping to near-by customers and the show-room. When you ship your birds to the poultry show, line the inside of the coop with unbleached muslin, to prevent your birds from soiling their feathers. Whenever you use the coop to ship birds to a customer, request him to return the coop, and it will last for several shipments. In building the coop use good, sound and light material. For the ends and partition use three-quarter-inch dressed pine, and for the bottom, sides, slats and top use half-inch pine. Put the slats on with screws, and then it does not make any difference which slat is taken off to remove the birds. For single birds build the coop 12 to 14 inches wide and 20 inches long and 20 to 24 inches high; for a pair, 16 inches wide, 20 inches long; trios, 20 by 20. Double coops with partitions should have two separate slats to remove so that the birds can be taken out of the coop without any trouble. The top of coops should be from four to six inches narrower than the bottom, says the American Poultry Journal.

The Hatching of Ducklings.

When the eggs begin to hatch let them strictly alone. Do not try to turn the pipped sides up, and above do not open the machine every few hours to see how they are getting along, or show inquisitive friends how cunning the little dears look coming out of the shells. After the hatch is fairly over and the ducklings nearly or quite dried off, open the machine and quickly take out a tray and cover with a thin woolen cloth. Look the eggs over carefully, and if any are discovered cast in the shell or with head slightly caught break away enough of the shell to allow the little bird some freedom of movement and return the tray. Frequently these birds will break through and prove as lively as those earlier hatched.—Farm, Garden and Poultry.

FASHION'S FANCIES.

Shot silks are again in vogue for strapping and trimmings.

Plaids as trimming are much seen and are to be had in velvet and panne as well as silk and wool.

For evening wear it is considered very modish to have shoes and stockings to match the gown worn.

Fur yokes show in a few of the handsomer street gowns, with which fur-trimmed hats and large muffs are smart details.

Black and white is very smart for evening gowns, a touch of color being supplied by very large roses of chiffon or velvet.

Mohair serges are deservedly popular. Their bright, wiry texture refuses to take the dust and even in muddy weather they look like new after a good brushing.

White fur coatlets are fashion's latest extravagance in peltry, white astrakhan and caracul being used, but such luxuries are reserved for women with endless purses. The flat scarf fur victorines are an indication that in spring we may expect to don the graceful empire scarfs of silk or Chinese crepe.

ROYAL WOMEN'S HOBBIES.

The favorite recreation of the queen of Greece is yachting.

Caricature collecting is a favorite fad of the empress of Russia, who is said to be an expert caricaturist.

The queen of Roumania, Carmen Silva, is a poet and story writer. She is a very skillful operator on the typewriter.

The queen of Saxony's hobby is "sweet charity." She has founded numerous orphanages, sanitariums, schools and homes.

Queen Charlotte of Wurtemberg is an enthusiast in all kinds of outdoor sports. She is largely interested in the woman's movement.

The queen of Sweden and Norway is a staunch supporter of the Salvation Army, and religious work is one of her special interests.

Skating and riding are favorite forms of recreation and amusement for Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands. She is very fond of animals and will not sanction any sport connected with the royal preserves which calls for the slaughter of animals.

IN REMOTE CORNERS.

Hundreds of Indian laborers are being recruited for service in the Kaffyfontein diamond mines, near Kimberley.

The ignorant peasants of central Russia believe that rain is the perspiration of the sky caused by its being so near the hot sun.

The penalty among the Hottentots for widows who marry again is somewhat a severe one. It is the rule among these people that, before so marrying, a widow must cut off the joint of a finger and present it to her husband on the wedding day.

Summing up his observations in Africa Sir H. M. Stanley says that the tallest men he found lived in high altitudes, from 5,000 feet above sea level and upward; the sturdiest from 3,000 to 5,000; the shortest, excepting the pigmies, from sea level to 3,000 feet.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Tombstone epitaphs should be classed as grave literature.

A man seldom realizes how much he can't do until he tries.

Too many second-class politicians are drawing first-class salaries.

Everything a millionaire says goes—if he doesn't say "automobile."

Chicago has been chosen as the center of operations of the experts.

LESLIES' WEEKLY, a strong Republican periodical, speaks thusly of one of President Roosevelt's recently inaugurated policies:

"It would seem only necessary to consider this whole matter of the appointment of colored men and women to public office, North or South, from a calm, dispassionate, and, so far as possible, unprejudiced point of view, to avoid all the controversy and ill feeling which have been lately stirred up over this subject. Every intelligent person in this country must understand by this time exactly how the Southern people feel about such appointments and what the general sentiment is in that section of the Union in regard to the appearance of members of the colored race in any prominent political way. Even those who regard this sentiment as wrong must admit that its existence is in no way remarkable or surprising. That it does exist we all know, and we know also that this feeling is deep, fixed and apparently ineradicable. We also know and will admit, if we are frank about it, that much the same feeling obtains in the North. In theory, we of the North regard the negroes as entitled to equal rights, privileges, and recognition in politics and business with ourselves. But as a matter of fact we believe nothing of the kind. Our practices here, at least are almost an antipodal distance from our theories. There are, in truth, few neighborhoods in the North where a colored man in any conspicuous official position would be much more welcome than he is in the South. Especially would this be true in a small postoffice, the worst of all possible places to put a person who, for any reason, is socially obnoxious. Numberless opportunities are free and open before negroes in this country today, as before whites, to make the most and the best of themselves, and this is as true in the South as it is in the North. Only harm can come to both whites and blacks from stirring up racial prejudices and antagonisms when no just occasion exists for such action. This is sagacious and practical counsel, and it applies directly to the present case of public appointments in the South. It is worse than folly for us to butt our heads against the solid wall of Southern sentiment on this question. To persist in such action can only result in the further embitterment of Southern feeling and still further widen the separation between the two races in that section It is not as if some great and vital principle were involved on which the future well-being of the colored race depended, and on which no compromise could be safely or properly made. It is only a situation calling for the exercise of tact, patience, forbearance, and, above all, of plain common sense. This certainly puts the case in its true light, and we endorse every word of it."

Hubert Vreeland for Commissioner of Agriculture.

[Farmers' Home Journal.]

As its thousands of readers know, the Farmers Home Journal does not often express its preferences or advise its friends and patronsin contests for political offices, but there are times when we deem it to be in our special province to speak a plain word where the interests of the farming classes of Kentucky are specially concerned, and in this connection we desire to express our heartiest indorsement of the candidacy of Mr. Herbert Vreeland, of Jefferson county for the Democratic nomination for Commissioner of Agriculture, Labor and Statistics. The State Primary will be held on May 9th in every county in Kentucky, and every Democrat will doubtless feel it his duty to go to the polls and there express his preferences in the various contests for State offices. As for the other State offices, the Farmers Home Journal has no preferences to express, believing that it should have an eye only to that which is of direct concern to the farming classes. Mr. Vreeland was formerly a representative of the Farmers Home Journal, and for the past three years has been the assistant Commissioner of Agriculture, receiving the appointment fromCommissioner I. B. Nall on account of his special fitness for the duties. His service as assistant has familiarized him with all the duties of the office, and in fact has given him a knowledge of the conduct of its affairs that a new man could not acquire until after a year or two of his term had expired. Mr. Vreeland has all his life been a steadfast Democrat, always supporting actively the regular nominees of his party. He has already received the indorsement of thousands of the most representative farmers in Kentucky, and it affords us a real pleasure to be able to recommend to our readers and friends such an eminently qualified and estimable candidate as Mr. Vreeland. We speak for him because we know him. We speak for him because we know the requirements of the office which he seeks.

THE Georgetown News says that Mr. Hendrick, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor is suffering from lint on the lungs, caused by chewing the rag over the call for the State primary election. The News also asks Mr. Hendrick a pertinent question in the following: "Mr. Hendrick says that the Republicans can by injunction suits prevent the names of the Democratic nominees selected in the primary from being placed on the ballots in the election next November. If this is true the Democratic nomination for Governor is worthless, and what is Col. Hendrick seeking it for? He certainly is not seeking employment as an attorney for the Republicans in the case."

IN many sections of the country potatoes always bring a good price, but the soil is too light to grow heavy crops, A successful method of bringing up such soil to the point where it will bring good results is the following: Select a soil that is in fairly good condition, and if in sod dress with acid phosphate and muriate of potash, turn under and prepare thoroughly for corn. Follow the corn with rye, which should be plowed under in the spring. Sow cow peas after dressing soil again with acid phosphate and muriate of potash and harvest for forage. In the fall go over the ground with a disk harrow and break up thoroughly, sow rye and turn under the following spring; then prepare thoroughly for the potatoes, and the crop, under proper conditions of culture, will be all that is desired. Other methods quite as good will bring the same results without doubt, but this one has been repeatedly tested and found to be all that is claimed for it.

IN commenting on the increase by "water" of some industrial stocks, the American Agriculturist calls attention to the real appreciation of farm products and the substantial improvements in American agriculture. The values last year were the highest on record, but this year's statistics show an increase of about 25 per cent in the value of the principal staple crops—wheat, corn, oats, potatoes and hay. An idea of the tremendous improvement may be gained by the figures which show that for the last five years these staple crops have yielded to the farmer $2,000,000,000 more than for the preceding five years.

Buy Nadaud's flour, it is good.

The blustery weather of March will soon be with us again.

Wood Maxwell moved to Judge Lassing's farm on Woolper, last week.

February has got in the habit of furnishing the coldest weather of the winter.

Dr. Crisler's baby that has been quite sick for several days, is very much better.

The weather this month has converted a whole lot of people to a belief in the ground hog as a reliable weather prognosticator.

The Geofgetown papers say that Col. Milton Hamilton died without a will, and that his estate is worth about $75,000. He had three children.

While some of the weather, last week, was quite severe, it is seldom that as nice an article of winter weather prevails for as many days at a time.

Travel was interfered with considerably by the snow drifts in the roads, last week. In several instances horses got swamped and had to be dug out.

W. M. Rogers, agent for the Boone County Insurance Company, was around, the latter part of last week, renewing policies that were about to expire. He seldom loses a policy holder.

Farmers have been having pretty good luck with their young lambs, but such weather as some of that last week necessitated very close attention. There are a great many twin lambs this season.

Belle Sullivan, aged 32 years, died at her home, near Burlington, one day last week, after being in an enfeebled condition for some time. Belle, if you desire to know, was W. P. Sullivan's old, yellow family mare.

The old log building west of town and in which a smallpox patient was quarantined a few months ago, was burned early last Friday night by order of the county authorities. The light was seen at quite a distance, and many supposed somebody's residence was being destroyed.

Judge Cason came into the office, a few days since, with a bundle nicely enclosed in paper, and placed it on our desk, and remarked "try them." When the contents of the package was prepared and placed on the table, there was never a finer dish of "parsnips" put before anyone.

Cards have been received by friends here announcing the marriage on the 24th inst., of Virgil Piper and Miss Della Mae Scoville in Dayton. The groom is the oldest son of W. E. Piper and wife, who were citizens of Burlington several years since.

John Gilligan raised, last year, for himself and Mr. Thornton, on what is known as the Noah Utz farm out on the East Bend road 13,054 pounds of tobacco, which they sold to Thomas Stevenson at Erlanger at 7 cents around, amounting to the nice sum of $913 78. It took considerable work to produce that amount of the weed.

Buy it Now.

Do not wait until you or some of your family are sick nigh unto death and then send for Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, but buy it now and be prepared for an emergency. It is the one remedy that can always be depended upon in the most severe and dangerous cases. For sale by all druggists.

When J. J. Lillard called at this office, one day last week, carrying evidence of having been in some kind of a mixup, upon being asked what had happened he told how the sleigh in which he and our Commissary scribe and a colored man were riding, had turned over and his left ear caught on a wire fence, causing a slight wound, which bled freely. No other damage.

A Mother's Recommendation.

I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a number of years and have no hesitancy in saying that it is the best remedy for coughs, colds and croup I have ever used in my family. I have not words to express my confidence in this remedy.—Mrs. J. A. Moore, North Star Mich. For sale by all druggists.

On Monday of last week the five year old daughter of Lewis Stephens, who lives in Indiana a few miles below Aurora, was standing in front of the grate, when her clothing caught fire, and she was so badly burnt that she died after several hours intense suffering. The unfortunate child was a granddaughter of S. H. Stephens and wife, of Union precinct, this county, and also of Mrs. Inez Conley, formerly of Bathaway.

Pessimism verus Optimism.

[Contributed by Pupils of League Institute, - Verona, Kentucky.]

Ancient History viewed as only we can view it, at the far distant end of a long avenue of years, and with our sight still further obscured by the haze of skepticism and traditions of doubtful origin, presents to us naught but a mass of contradictious; a tangled and twisted fabric, with right and wrong, good and evil so interwoven that it is difficult indeed to discern which, in the passage of centuries, has had the greater influence over our destines; which in the long train of by-gone ages has exerted the greater influence in molding the characters and directing the actions of our ancestors.

Occasionally we can observe for a century or so, a decided forward or retrograde movement; but these periods are among the rarest.

We do not wish to prove that either the good or the bad has held the power oftneer or longer. We do not wish to explore the Egyptian Pyramids, or lava covered ruins of Herculaneum and Pompeii simply to learn the moral statistics of people long since passed away. It is not to the history of the forgotten kingdoms, or cities whose names reach us only through the medium of some tablet of stone covered with cuneiform characters that we would direct our attention, in order to determine whether the tendencies of the past were for good or evil; but rather would we look at the present age, and study mankind in the time in which we now live, think and act.

There is a class of persons known as pessimists, who are always looking on the dark side of things and prophesing evil. They say that man has become weaker physically, mentally, and morally during the past century.

Hon. W. C. McGee, chief of the United States Bureau of Ethnology, disagrees with them. He says that man is to day at the high-water mark of development, as compared with the past. One of the best indications of the strength of a race is the length of life of its people. It has been found that the expectation of life of the American citizen exceeds by eleven years the expectation of the ancient Italian.

Yes, man has improved physically. The average American of to-day is taller than the average colonizer of America of two or three centuries ago. The average Englishman of the present is unable to incase himself in the armor of his fore-fathers worn at the battle of Hastings.

Throughout the world the average length of life, the average intelligence and the average population is increasing from period to period; and ever is the human race becoming better. It is true there is much evil in the world. But is it all intentional, or merely because we wish to do right but are ignorant of the proper mode of action under certain circumstances?

Protestants were roasted in the early days of Protestantism; Jesuits were hung and quartered at Smithfield, and witches burned at Salem, and all by worthy people, who believed they had the best authority for their actions. And now, many there are, upon the slightest appearance of evil, to inveigh against the general wickedness, the total depravity of man. This man abuses a trust, that one gives a bribe, another proves a defaulter, and at once the cry arises, "Dishonesty is becoming universal." "We are a nation of rascals." "The world is growing worse."

There certainly is some foundation for the position they assume; but is it sufficient to justify such sweeping denunciations? Because they meet with a young man occasionally who has endeavored to make of his diploma a Jolly-Boat to float on laughing waters to a position of eminence, should they fail to recoguize the great army of young men, who are laboring under difficulties, and acquiring a rich and noble culture, and who are destined to lead the world in all useful arts?

These pessimists take great pleasure also in airing misnomers, such as, Westminster Abbey was never an Abbey; Tell and Winklereid are myths; Pompey's Pillar had no connection with Pompey; the Apostles' creed was not the creed of the Apostlees, etc.

In Science, Literature and Art, we have advanced. One well-to-do farmer of to-day has more machinery than did a whole Roman Province.

We have passed from Pyramid to Telescope; ox cart to palace car; flail to steam thresher; Roman lamp to calcium light; the quill to the printing press. These are positive proofs of our advancement.

In religion and morals then is the only ground for the change. No believer in the authenticity of Sacred History can deny that the progress of the world for some centuries after the downfall of Adam was decidedly for the worse. In fact men became so corrupt that nothing short of the Great Deluge was required to sweep from the face of the earth so much iniquity, and make room for a more righteous people. But even such a fearful warning as this, could not drive sin from the hearts of the people.

Cities grew in wickedness. Babylon became the abode of evey thing hateful in the sight of the Lord; even the chosen people, guided, favored, and protected with the most wonderful and zealous care, brought by His power out of every trial and danger; even these could not keep the path of righteousness for His names sake. Sodom and Gomorrah were destroyed by fire, kindled by Divine wrath.

At last, however, a new era dawns. With the birth of Christ, the central character of all history, came a new rule of forgiveness and mercy. Instead of "An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth," we have, "Forgive until seventy times seven."

What an immessurable change for the better. Stern justice for boundless mercy. "Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friends." But Chist gave his life for his enemies. A glorious example and gloriously have his disciples followed it, through fire and flood, heat and cold, hunger and thirst, with loss of property, friends and even life.

"For Romans in Rome's quarrels spared neither land nor gold, nor son nor wife, nor limb nor life, In the cruel days of old."

Romans themselves, finally became Christians When they deviated from God's plan, there arose such men, as Luther, Zwingle, Calvin, and others.

Liberty of thought and conscience, freedom in the worship of God, finally triumphed and spread from country to country, To Siberia, to China, to Ethiopia, to Peru, Mexico, the North American Indian, and Australia—every where the gospel has been carried. It has encircled the globe till like a sea of glory

"It spreads from pole to pole,
Till there is no speech no language
Where the glad tidings has not been told."

Civilization instead of barbarism. Liberty instead of oppression. Peace instead of war. Love instead of hate. Christ instead of Moloch.

Yes, the world is growing better. "Better fifty years in Europe, than a cycle in Cathay." Better fifty years of to-day than live in darkness always. Not the good old times, but the good times that now are, and the good times that are yet to be.

"When o'er ransomed nature,
The Lamb for sinners slain
Redeemer, King, Creator,
In bliss returned to reign."

The roads being so bad that I will not be able to make any more trips over my route so I can see my several customers and thank them in person, I take this means of thanking them for their loyal patronage during the past eight years, and assure them my dealings with such good people have been a real pleasure, and I wish for them, in the future, all the good luck imaginable. From now on I will give all my energies and time to blacksmithing.

Last week was the severest weather of the winter on stock, and especially was it hard on animals that were not sheltered.

The ball given by the Odd-Fellows at the Boone House, last Friday night, was a success in every particular except financially, the receipts not being equal to the expenses by several dollars. The music, a violin and harp, was furnished by Louis Dondero, of Cincinnati, and the young people lost no time in tripping the light fantastic until 3:30 Saturday morning, when weary and sleepy they wended their way homeward. Those giving the ball take this means of thanking all who favored them with their presence, and especially do they feel grateful to Mrs. J. F. A FATAL HOTEL FIRE.

Nine Guests Lost Their Lives and Forty-Two Others Injured.

The Hotel Register Was Destroyed, Thus Making It Difficult to Ascertain the Number of Missing—Searching For Bodies.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Feb. 21.—Fire early Friday morning destroyed the Clifton hotel, cremated nine of the guests and caused injuries to 42 persons who were scorched or forced to jump to the frozen street from the second and third story windows. After an all day search in the debris four bodies have been recovered. It is now believed that five or more bodies remain in the ruins of the hotel, which is said to have been a flimsy structure, filled with delegates to the state Young Men's Christian association convention and the district convention of the Knights of Pythias. The hotel register was destroyed, thus making it difficult to ascertain the number of missing persons. Forty men worked in the rubbish all day and continued to dig for the bodies of the burned persons all night. The loss is $60,000.

The dead: W. A. Mowery, Whatcher, Ia.; E. G. Young, Minneapolis; two unidentified men, bodies recovered; five bodies still in debris.

The fire originated in the basement, presumably from an electric wire. Night Clerk Wilson was on the third floor at the time. The flames were discovered by a bell boy and had already gained considerable headway. By the time the night clerk had been notified and the work of sounding the alarm had begun, escape was cut off from the ground floor. Instantly there were several faces at every window of guests clad only in their night robes, wildly calling for help.

The facilities of the fire department were meager, and each moment's delay increased the panic that had already prevailed.

One after the other the human forms were seen to hurl themselves from the windows and dash against the pavement below. Limbs were broken and the writhing mass of humanity that rapidly accumulated constituted a sickening sight. Those who jumped from the third-story windows had little hope of surviving the frightful leap, but few hesitated as the flames came nearer and nearer.

SILVER JUBILEE.

The 25th Anniversary of the Election of Pope Leo XIII.

Rome, Feb. 21.—The twenty-fifth anniversary of the election of Pope Leo XIII. to the head of the Roman Catholic Church, was celebrated Friday in the Vatican hall of the Beatification. Admission was only by ticket, and about 4,000 persons were present. The majority of these stood in the regia and ducale halls, through which his holiness passed on the way to the vatican hall.

The ceremony consisted in the pope receiving delegations of pilgrims from all parts of the world. This was followed by the presentation of gifts to his holiness, chief of which was a magnificent triple crown, the offering of Roman Catholics throughout the world.

The presentation address was delivered by Cardinal Rospeghi, the pope's vicar and president of the committee which was appointed to make arrangements for the celebration of Friday's anniversary. Cardinal Rospeghi also presented to his holiness golden keys, which are symbolic of the pontifical authority.

FOR TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP.

English Lawn Tennis Association Challenges America.

London, Feb. 21.—G. R. Newburn, secretary of the English Lawn Tennis association, Thursday dispatched a challenge to America for the international tennis championships. Both the Dohertys have promised to participate if they are wanted, but the representatives of the English association will not be selected until after the championship games in London. Newburn anticipates that the matches will be played on the Boston courts.

Wireless Telegraph Stations.

Rome, Feb. 21.—The chamber of deputies Friday passed a bill providing for the construction of a wireless telegraph station to communicate with the stations now existing and the others contemplated.

WINDOW GLASS ASSOCIATION.

Suit May Be Brought Against It Under Anti-Trust Law.

Columbus, O., Feb. 21.—Attorney General Sheets Friday addressed a communication to Leopold Mambourg, of Columbus, in which he advised Mambourg that if he had properly read the resolution promulgated on Thursday after the conference of the window glass manufacturers, it was the intention of the glass men to form a combination to control prices and the output. Judge Sheets politely asked Mambourg, who is the secretary of the American Window Glass association, with headquarters in Columbus, to enlighten him further as to the plans of the combination and to furnish him the names of the concerns it embraces.

"If the answer is not satisfactory," said Judge Sheets Friday night, "I shall bring suit under the anti trust law to oust the combination from the state. I purpose to begin an immediate investigation."

The resolution to which Judge Sheets objects is the one in which it is agreed that the price of window glass shall be advanced on March 3, when another meeting is to be held to ratify the agreement. The same resolution declares it to be the purpose to raise prices further as occasion shall require, dependent upon the output and the demand. The question as to whether an advance is necessary or advisable is left to a committee composed of members of the several concerns interested.

IS THE SUN INHABITED?

Astronomer Young, From Observations, Is Confident That It Is.

Laporte, Ind., Feb. 21.—Alexander Young, of Laporte, an astronomer, Friday announced that from observations made by him, he is confident that the sun is inhabited; that with his instruments he has seen on the sun's surface mountain sides with great and precipitous rocks which glow with prismatic colors, mingled with the greenness of a perennial vegetation and with a floral radiance more beautiful than that on earth. Beyond these mountains he says he saw valleys and plains where people live.

He says the solar spectrum is a division of the component parts of the electric current proceeding from the sun after it enters the confines of the earth's atmosphere, upon which is electrographed the image of the solar fields of color and which spread over the vast surface of the sun.

AGAINST LYNCHING.

The Kansas House Recommended a Stringent Law.

Topeka, Kan., Feb. 21.—The house has recommended a stringent law against lynching. It provides that any sheriff who shall permit a prisoner to be taken from him shall immediately forfeit his office. Any person participating in a lynching may be punished by death or imprisonment for life, and any member of a mob at a lynching, whether he participates in the deed or not, may be imprisoned in the penitentiary for 25 years.

WANTS THE MONEY.

Germany Requests the Immediate Payment of £5,500.

The Matter Has Significance in View of the Fact That the Venezuelan Ships Taken By Germany Are Still Held.

Washington, Feb. 23.—The German government, through its representative here, Baron Speck von Sternburg, has made a request of Mr. Bowen for the immediate payment of the £5,500 which it was stipulated in the protocols signed on February 13 should be paid within 30 days from that date, as a preliminary to the raising of the blockade against Venezuelan ports and the agreement to send the question of preferential treatment of the blockading nations to The Hague for determination. Mr. Bowen promptly declined to accede to the request, but informed Baron Sternburg that as provided in the protocol, the money would be paid to the German representative at Caracas 30 days from February 13, which would be on the 15th of March.

The reason that animated the German government in making the request is not disclosed here nor is Mr. Bowen aware of it. The matter, however, has some significance, perhaps, in view of the fact that the ships taken by the Germans during the blockade have not been returned to Venezuela.

During the day Mr. Bowen had calls from the French ambassador, M. Jusserand, the Spanish minister, Senor Ojeda, and the Belgian minister, Baron de Moncheur in regard to the claims of the citizens of their country against Venezuela. Rough drafts of these instruments are already on their way by mail to the European governments interested, but there are certain provisions regarding them about which the envoys desired to consult Mr. Bowen. The protocols are expected to reach their destinations the latter part of this week pending which no final steps for their joint signature can be taken.

London, Feb. 23.—The correspondent of the Standard at Brussels telegraphs that the protocol between Belgium and Venezuela will be signed this week. Belgium, says the correspondent, has obtained full satisfaction. The Belgian claimants will receive $2,500,000 after the Anglo-German claims have been paid.

MACEDONIANS ORGANIZED.

FIFTY-SEVENTH CONGRESS.

Second Session.

Washington, Feb. 17.—Senate—The Indian appropriation bill and the Philippine currency bill both were passed. Mr. Vest, while the Indian bill was up, called attention to a point of order, which had been made against one of its provisions on the ground that it was new legislation. The senate, he said, had passed the Philippine government bill as a rider to the army appropriation bill and yet ruled other provisions out. Mr. Morgan spoke on a question of privilege regarding the dispatch which recently appeared in the public prints purporting to be signed by the Colombian minister to Mexico, Senor Rafael Reyes, in which Senor Reyes took exception to an alleged statement by Mr. Morgan in the senate that the Colombian president had sold out and abdicated for $1,000,000. Mr. Morgan declared that there was a betrayal of the senate in the matter of what transpires at executive sessions and that Senor Reyes had violated a principle of diplomacy when he obtained information surreptitiously from persons false to their trust.

House—The house disposed of a number of bills under suspension of the rules, defeating two. The most important measure passed was the senate bill to amend the railroad safety appliance law. A special order was adopted which practically will make the Fowler currency bill a continuing order for the remainder of the session, not, however, to interfere with conference reports, appropriation bills and other privileged matters.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Senate—The senate Tuesday agreed to the conference report on the army appropriation bill. Discussion of the statehood bill was resumed and Mr. Depew continued his remarks in opposition to it. Toward the end of the session Mr. Teller declared that himself and the country had been insulted by some of Mr. Depew's references to the unequal representation in the senate.

House—The house began consideration of the naval appropriation bill under the operation of a rule which made the new legislation relative to the increase of the personnel of the navy and for the increase of naval academy in order. The paragraph of the bill providing $250,000 for a naval station on the great lakes went out on a point of order. Mr. Littlefield and Mr. Sulzer had an interesting clash before the naval bill was taken up, the former charging the latter with having perverted the record.

Washington, Feb. 19. — Senate—There was a lively debate in the senate Wednesday over Senator Quay's resolution declaring it to be the sense of the senate that there should be a vote on the statehood bill before the adjournment of congress. To this proposition Senator McComas re-offered Senator Platt's cloture resolution, introduced two years ago, and a motion was made to refer the whole proposition to the committee on rules. This was pending when the senate went into executive session. The discussion of the subject brought out the fact that the senate was strongly opposed to cloture in any form.

House—The house by a majority of 2 to 1 rejected the conference report on the army appropriation because of its provisions for the retirement of civil war officers at an advanced grade and permitting officers to deposit money with the government at 3 per cent. interest.

Washington, Feb. 20.—Senate—The senate met at 11 o'clock Thursday but spent only an hour and twenty minutes in open session. This time was devoted to routine business and passing bills of no great general importance. Senator Bailey, by a vote of the senate, secured consideration of the Sabine passport bill, which has been the subject of considerable controversy, but a vote on the measure was not reached. An extra session was held Thursday night to consider the Panama canal treaty.

House—At the end of a protracted session the house passed the naval appropriation bill. A great many amendments were offered to the provisions relating to the increase of the personnel and the authorization of new ships to be built. The most important amendment adopted was one to authorize the secretary of the navy in his discretion to purchase or contract for submarine torpedo boats after investigation of their merits, and appropriate $500,000 for that purpose. As passed, the bill provides for three new battleships and an armed cruiser, two steel training ships and one wooden brig for training purposes in addition to the submarine boats discretionally authorized.

Washington, Feb. 21.—Senate—The senate spent the entire day in executive session, considering the Panama canal treaty, and at 5:25 p. m. took a recess until Saturday at 1 o'clock. No vote was taken on any of the amendments which have been prepared by Senator Morgan.

House—The house passed the fortifications appropriations bill, adopted the conference report on the bill for the protection of the president and on the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill and then spent three hours with wrangling over the Fowler currency bill. The latter bill had been given privilege by the terms of a special rule adopted Monday, but when the decks had been cleared for it the democrats began a filibuster, Mr. Bartlett (Ga.) declaring that it was useless to waste time on a measure which it was not intended should become a law. After a half dozen roll calls the house finally got into committee of the whole to consider the bill, but it then being 5 o'clock, on motion of Mr. Fowler, the house adjourned.

May Be An Extra Session.

New York, Feb. 21.—Senator Thos. C. Platt, who came from Washington to attend to express business, said Friday night to a Tribune reporter that from appearances it would be reasonable to predict an extra session of congress.

New Swiss Minister.

Washington, Feb. 21.—The Swiss legation, which for several months has been in charge of Mr. Lardy, is again headed by a minister, Mr. M. M. Marcherey, the new minister, who arrived here Friday.

Just in Time.

Broadland, So. Dak., Feb. 23rd.—Beadle county has never been so worked up as during the last few weeks. Every one is talking of the wonderful case of G. W. Gray, of Broadland, the particulars of which are best told in the following statement which Mr. Gray has just published:

"I was dying. I had given up all hope. I was prostrate and as helpless as a little babe. I had been ailing with Kidney Trouble for many years and it finally turned to Bright's disease. All medicine had failed and I was in despair.

"I ordered one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and this first box helped me out of bed. I continued the treatment till now I am a strong, well man. I praise God for the day when I decided to use Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Everybody expected that Mr. Gray would die, and his remarkable recovery is regarded as little short of a miracle by all who know how very low he was. Dodd's Kidney Pills are certainly a wonderful remedy.

An Ideal Woman's Medicine.

So says Mrs. Josie Irwin, of 325 So. College St., Nashville, Tenn., of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Never in the history of medicine has the demand for one particular remedy for female diseases equalled that attained by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and never during the lifetime of this wonderful medicine has the demand for it been so great as it is to-day.

From the Atlantic to the Pacific, and throughout the length and breadth of this great continent come the glad tidings of woman's sufferings relieved by it, and thousands upon thousands of letters are pouring in from grateful women saying that it will and positively does cure the worst forms of female complaints.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all women who are puzzled about their health to write her at Lynn, Mass., for advice. Such correspondence is seen by women only, and no charge is made.

SCOUTS CAPTURED.

The Ladrones Are Again Active Near Manila.

Gen. Davis Ordered Another Battalion of Scouts to the Scene—It Is Expected That Additional Troops Will Be Sent.

Manila, Feb. 23.—A force of Ladrones, under Gen. San Miguel, reappeared in Rizal province Saturday. They avoided an engagement with the main force in the south, but captured three small detachments of constabulary. The enemy surrounded the towns of Gainta and Tavtay, 11 miles east of Manila, Saturday and captured 30 scouts and ten men of the constabulary, whom they disarmed and set free.

Sunday Inspector McIlwaine, at the head of ten constabulary, was surprised and captured near Montalban, 16 miles northeast of Manila. The Ladrones promised to release them if the constabulary would surrender their arms. While they were conferring on this point, McIlwaine made a dash for liberty and he and all the constabulary effected their escape.

When the news of the reappearance of Gen. San Miguel's force reached Manila, reinforcements of scouts and constabulary were hurried into the Rizal province. Gen. Allen and Col. Scott went to Antipolo and assumed command of the forces there. They met with small detachments of the enemy and a few skirmishes took place. They were, however, unable to locate the main body of Ladrones. Gen. Allen and Col. Scott are continuing the pursuit and hope to overtake the released prisoners.

It is said that Gen. San Miguel's force consists of 300 men, armed and uniformed. The zone of Ladrone activity extends from Caloocan, four miles north of Manila, eastward to the mountains of Rizal and skirting the northern limits of Manila. The Manila police co-operated in Saturday's effort to corner the enemy. Secretary Winthrop, in the absence of Gov. Taft, requested Gen. Davis to furnish additional scouts, and Gen. Davis has ordered another battalion of scouts to report to Gen. Allen. It is expected that additional troops will be ordered out.

Gen. San Miguel's force is small, and the government is determined to speedily suppress it. San Miguel claims the insurgent leadership and fights under the Katipunan flag.

According to news from Albay, Luzon, a force of Ladrones attacked a small detachment of constabulary Friday. The constabulary retreated, but killed 11 of the enemy. Two of the constabulary were killed.

SUBMARINE TORPEDO BOAT.

The Protector, a New Type of Vessel, Will Be Given a Trial.

New York, Feb. 23.—The submarine torpedo boat Protector, a new type of vessel, which will shortly be put through a series of trials for the purpose of demonstrating her capabilities to officers of the United States navy, is being overhauled at City island and put in first-class condition for the coming tests. The Protector was built in Bridgeport, Ct., by her inventor and owner, Capt. Simon Lake. The vessel is designed for harbor defense. She is 60 feet long, of 11 feet beam, draws 12 feet of water and weighs about 200 tons. She is built of steel and equipped with two wheels to enable her to travel along the bottom of the sea. Her motive power is electricity when submerged and gasoline when cruising awash. There were two torpedo tubes, one fore and one aft, and an opening in her bow will admit or a diver leaving the boat to cut cables or mine connection. Her builder believes she can destroy submarine defenses in any harbor. During recent trials she carried a crew of eight men and nine passengers. A speed of 12 knots was easily made on her surface run.

THE LAWTON MONUMENT.

The One Marking the Spot Where He Was Killed Unveiled.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY.

Was Observed in New York By Special Services.

New York, Feb. 23.—Washington's birthday was observed here by special services of patriotic societies and many clergymen made the anniversary the subject of their sermons.

The society of the Sons of the Revolution of the state of New York had its 13th annual service in the brick Presbyterian church.

At Carnegie hall a patriotic mass meeting was conducted under the auspices of the West Side branch of the Y. M. C. A. Patriotic airs were rendered by the Seventh regiment band and the New York festival chorus of 300 voices, the audience joining in the singing of the national anthem and the battle hymn of the republic.

Booker T. Washington was the orator at a memorial meeting held Sunday night in the academy of arts and sciences. The speaker devoted his address to the consideration of the race problem.

Mexico City, Feb. 23.—Washington's birthday was not formally observed by the American residents but the occasion was noted in pulpit utterances.

Rome, Feb. 23.—Beautiful spring like weather prevailed here Sunday and all the homes of Americans were bedecked with the stars and stripes. Because of Washington's birthday falling on a Sunday some objections were made to holding receptions Sunday. These objections, however, were smoothed away by making the reception at the United States embassy a purely informal affair, at which tea was served. It was a most enjoyable affair and the 600 Americans present included Dr. Nevin, rector of the Episcopal church; Dr. William Burt, head of the American Methodist missions in Europe; Bishop Budke, of St. Joseph, Mo.; Mgr. Farrelly, difector of the American college; Mgr. Robert Seton, the prothonotary apostolic; Col. Tillman, of West Point, and Mr. and Miss Choate, Mr. and Mrs. Prescott Lawrence, of New York; Mrs. Frank Morris Avery, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Hickman, of Boston; Allison Armour, of New York, and Sir Seymour and Lady Blane, the latter formerly Mrs. Henry Blake, of Boston. The Chinese minister with the staff of the legation also attended as a compliment to the United States.

The American college gave a dinner in honor of the day at which toasts were drunk to the pope and President Roosevelt.

Dr. Nevin also gave a dinner Sunday night to several members of the Loyal Legion, including Gen. Sawtelle, Gen. Clous, Gen. Ripley, Col. Poole and Maj. Abbott. The American and French ambassadors and Baron Blane, formerly Italian minister at Washington, were also among the guests.

CALCIUM SALTS.

Nervous Diseases Can Be Cured By It Says Dr. Jacques Loeb.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—Dr. Jacques Loeb has discovered that muscular and nervous diseases, such as St. Vitus dance, paralysis agitans, locomotor ataxia and sleeplessness can be cured by administering calcium salts, that is, such salts as are found in well water and many foods. Announcement of this discovery in scientific research by the former head of the department of physiology at the University of Chicago has just been made. In one of the decennial publications, just issued by the University of Chicago, Dr. Loeb tells of his experiment on lower forms of life and the conclusions suggested in regard to human beings.

Simply stated, the conclusion is that the presence of calcium salts in the muscles is what prevents their twitching; that practically all nervous diseases are caused by the absence of the calcium, and that, therefore, to restore normal conditions and effect a cure, the remedy is calcium salts.

DR. DUNCAN IS FREED.

Was Tried For Felonious Shooting of Bruce Head Last October.

Pittsburg, Feb. 23.—"We find the defendant not guilty," was the verdict rendered in the criminal court in the case of the Commonwealth against Dr. Ellis S. Duncan, charged with the felonious shooting of Bruce Head last October at the Wabash camp, near Greentree.

That the verdict is a popular one was shown by the fact that when the clerk read it the announcement that the defendant had been acquitted was greeted with cheers and a loud clapping of hands. This was quickly suppressed by the court officials. The doctor is happy, but refuses to talk of plans regarding his wife. Should she be divorced, Head will not marry her. Rumor has it that he will soon marry a young woman of Pittsburg.

CONTROLLED BY TRUSTS.

Congress Owned by Monopolists and Will Do Just as They Direct.

Trust legislation is possible, but hardly probable, at this session of congress. A compromise bill will pass the house of representatives, shorn of all that will really curb the trusts. The bills prepared by Attorney General Knox and introduced in the house of representatives by the chairman of the judiciary committee, were found, after consultation with the republican managers of the senate, to be too drastic to command a majority of the votes and a compromise bill is the result which is as harmless as a sucking dove.

President Roosevelt, his attorney general, the judiciary committees of congress and the leaders of the republican party have all had a hand in incubating this innocent bill. A prodigious amount of work has been expended on it; for it is quite difficult to compose a bill that will read like a trust-buster and yet be a trust shelter. That the bill is to be harmless to the trusts was acknowledged by the personal organ of the administration, the Washington Star of January 16, when it said:

"Two important facts appear to-day in the situation concerning possible anti-trust legislation; first, the legislation proposed by the house will not be drastic. Second, that there is disposition on the part of the trust interests to accept the legislation and permit it to go through the senate, if it is not of a drastic character.

"Private information comes to the capitol to-day from trust sources that it may be possible to reach an agreement which will permit the enactment of mild legislation regulating the trusts, and that if assurances can be given that the perfected bill will be of a character so conservative as to merely satisfy the president's demand for 'some kind of action,' no obstacles will be placed in the way of the bill in the senate."

These are extraordinary admissions for the Star to make: First, that the trusts will permit mild legislation; second, that President Roosevelt will be satisfied with some kind of action.

What do you think of that? The trusts will kindly permit congress to pass a law nominally against themselves. So here we have the flat-footed assertion by the newspaper organ of the republican administration that the trusts own congress and dictate any and all laws they think desirable or expedient. Democratic newspapers and orators have claimed this for some years, but it has always been indignantly denied until at last the disgraceful truth is admitted.

But what is the matter with President Roosevelt that he should also come to be satisfied with any legislation the trusts may dictate? Is the trust-buster so anxious to be again nominated for president that "some kind of action" against the trusts will now satisfy him? Democratic newspapers and speakers have always given the president credit for honesty of purpose, whatever his shortcomings; but here we have his personal organ, which is inspired from the white house, acknowledging that the president has joined the other leaders of his party in trying to fool the people with fake legislation against the trusts.

Another eminent republican, at a crisis in the history of the country, said: "You can fool all the people some of the time and some of the people all the time, but you cannot fool all of the people all of the time." It is to be hoped that the people will not be fooled more easily to-day than they were in Lincoln's time.

POLITICAL DRIFT.

—Mark Hanna has given $50 to a library. How heavily the town is to bond itself is not stated.—Albany Argus.

—Did John D. Rockefeller not realize that he is already thoroughly detested by the American people, or did he have a strange desire to make himself more so?—Indianapolis Journal (Rep.).

—Hanna's bill to pension ex-slaves is about as ridiculous a piece of legislation as has been proposed in a blue moon. And it doesn't help Hanna any to plead that he introduced the bill "by request" without examining it.—Utica Observer.

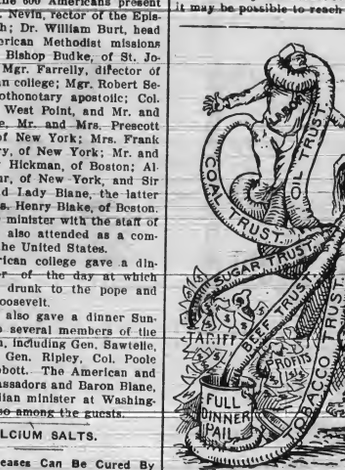
ANTI-TRUST BILLS ENDORSED.

Trust Managers Already In Safe Encourage Legislation of a Certain Kind.

The following letter, found on a street in Washington after the recent high wind storm, is of interest to the public:

PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIAL.

My Dear Littlefield:



"We have examined carefully your last anti-trust bill and have no fault to find with it. Not only do we think it harmless to the great trusts in which we are interested, but it safeguards and strengthens them. As only corporations hereafter organized are required to publish facts in regard to their financial conditions, our present corporations will enjoy a great advantage over these organizations, by being able to obtain these published facts. Your bill, if it accomplishes anything besides heading off other legislation, will fortify the present trusts. As I told you, however, we are not afraid of publicity so long as we are not deprived of the monopoly privileges, which enable us to control production and fix prices of articles of necessity. Please do all you can to prevent discussion of the tariff and railroad questions. Our rights and privileges in these directions must not be disturbed.

"We strongly approve of the Elkin's bill, which has passed the senate, and trust you will speed its passage through the house. We think it will prevent rate cutting in certain quarters and thus greatly increase railroad earnings. It also abolishes the criminal clause of the Sherman law, which has made some of us feel very uncomfortable when we thought what might happen to us should some future administration enforce it.

"The more you can pass of such anti-trust bills as these the better will it be for us and for our party.

Very sincerely,
MORGAN,
ROCKYFELLER.

"P. S.: Should telegrams to senators or congressmen be made public, during the next few days, in which we are represented as being opposed to any anti-trust legislation you will understand the situation. It would be a great mistake to let the public believe that Wall street favors these bills. We hope it will not observe the fact that stocks have been on the rise since discussion of these bills began."

TEDDY AND THE OCTOPUS ELEPHANT.

The Scandalous Ship Trust.

The bribery scandal in the national house of representatives has been hushed up by the committee of investigation reporting a whitewash for all the reputed participants except Doblin, the perjurer. Hon. L. E. Quigg, ex-member of the house, and Lessler, the member who was said to have been bribed, seem anxious to drop any further investigations, which the report of the democratic minority of the committee demanded. The two reports have not been acted upon, and it is hardly likely they will be, for a further investigation might develop some uncomfortable matters about other statesmen. There is always a strong scent of scandal around when the trusts are interested, and the shipbuilding trust has an especially unsavory record.

The Rockefeller Enormity.

John D. Rockefeller's attempt to intimidate or coerce senators regarding anti-trust legislation is the boldest thing of the kind ever attempted in this country. By his gift to religious, educational and charitable purposes Mr. Rockefeller has shown that he can be liberal in some good directions, but in money and business matters he seems to be devoid of moral sense. By sending such a dispatch as he did to several senators he showed himself several kinds of a fool. He was a fool to imagine the dispatch would accomplish its purpose, a fool to think it would not become public, and a fool not to know that it would react strongly in favor of the legislation he wanted to defeat. — Indianapolis Journal (rep.).

—Senator Hanna's ex-slave bounty bill is a very simple little affair whose first year's requirements would be $216,000,000. It would make the ex-slave population the recipients of as heavy a bonus as the United States government now gets from tariff customs. It certainly should capture the colored vote for the senator for the 1904 convention.—St. Paul Globe.

STATE NEWS HAPPENINGS.

CHARGED WITH GRAND LARCENY.

Both Men Told the Same Story When Placed Under Arrest.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 21.—Will Castleman, a restaurant clerk, and Harold Smith, a night carriage driver, were arrested Friday night on the charge of grand larceny. Both made the same confession to the police. A week ago Smith robbed T. J. Jeffries, of Russellville, of $1,585. The money consisted of three $500 Confederate States government warrants, a $50 gold certificate and $35 in greenbacks. Smith kept part of the money to Castleman. Neither recognized the value of the government warrants, and destroyed them.

Jeffers has a claim of $12,000 against the government for property destroyed at Russellville during the civil war. Recently he was given payment of his claim. The money came in $500 chunks, and Smith and Castleman got three of five warrants. Jeffers is nearly 70 years old, and has been a college principal.

A YOUNG BOY'S PERIL.

He Climbed a Pole From the Cavern Into Which He Fell.

Harrodsburg, Ky., Feb. 19.—Fifteen-year-old Denny Tomlinson, of the Hound Hollow section, while returning from church, fell 50 feet into one of the limestone caverns so numerous in that region. A 36-foot pole had been previously let into the hole for the purpose of rescuing a dog that had met with a similar mishap some years ago. This the boy climbed to within 12 feet of the mouth of the aperture, and by heroic efforts succeeded in cutting one by one footholds into the rock and making his torturous way out to the surface. He had fired many shots and called until he was voiceless in hopes of bringing a rescuer before taking the desperate chances of climbing unaided. He was in what was practically a living grave for over 12 hours.

OUTSIDE CORPORATIONS.

The Court of Appeals Renders An Important Decision.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 19.—The court of appeals Wednesday held that in the absence of some express legislation it is not at liberty to shut the door from the court against a corporation organized in another state for the purpose of doing business in Kentucky when it is suing for the protection of valuable rights granted by a municipality, pursuant to the laws of the state. This opinion was delivered in affirming the judgment of the Jefferson chancery court in the case of the Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph Co. against the Louisville Home Telephone Co.

INTERESTING FIGURES.

Some Statistics as to the Business Done By Life Insurance Companies.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 21.—State Auditor Coulter has just completed some statistics to be used in the argument in the court of appeals in the life insurance franchise tax cases, which show that outside life insurance companies have in the past ten years collected in premiums in Kentucky over $20,000,000 more than they paid back into Kentucky in death losses, agents' commissions and other expenses. The figures are taken from the annual reports of the insurance companies.

A New Mail Route.

Versailles, Ky., Feb. 21.—A star mail route has been established in the southern part of this county, extending from Keene, on the L. & A. railroad, via Troy and Nonesuch, to Warwick, a post office on the Kentucky river. The carrier supplies the post offices at Troy, Nonesuch and Warwick, as well as all residents along the route.

Bought Lexington Stock.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 21.—John Spratley, the well-known New York horse-dealer, arrived here Friday, and before the sun went down had bought 11 head of horses from various dealers for the Gotham spring races. He will be here three or four days more.

To Erect a Masonic Temple.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 21.—Royal Arch Chapter No. 1, of Lexington, Free Masons, held a long and important session, extending until almost daylight Friday morning, at which it was decided to erect a $30,000 masonic temple in this city.

Her Comb Exploded.

Owensboro, Ky., Feb. 21.—As the result of the explosion of a celluloid comb in the hair of Mrs. Allie McCormick Friday half of her hair burned off. Her scalp and hands were severely blistered.

New Bank at Cloverport.

Cloverport, Ky., Feb. 20.—A new bank has been organized in this city with a capital stock of $20,000. It is backed by Messrs. Bear, Brodie and Thixton, of Owensboro, Ky., and a number of local men, and will be ready for business March 1.

Girl's Terrible Death.

Harrodsburg, Ky., Feb. 20.—Lessie Poulter, aged 10, died of hydrophobia Thursday after terrible suffering. Six months ago she was eating a piece of bread and a dog grabbed it and bit her on the lip.

REFUSED TO MARRY.

The Bride Heard That Her Father Had Sold Her For $25.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 20.—The village of Hustierville is in an uproar over the actions of Miss Bessie Logan. It has been announced that she and George Million would be married at the Mt. Carmel church. The girl, dressed in pink organdie and carrying pink roses, entered on the arm of her father, Herrod Logan. Million and his groomsmen met them at the altar and Rev. Mr. Chinn started to pronounce the ceremony. He had almost finished when he asked the girl if she took the man to be her husband and she answered "No," and releasing his arm she walked out of the house, leaving the wedding party, minister and audience in wonder at her actions. She declared that she had heard that her father had sold her to Million for $25 and that she took this means to rebuke the transaction.

FOUND A COAL VEIN.

Two Women Went Out Prospecting in Kentucky and Made a Discovery.

Cloverport, Ky., Feb. 20.—A good vein of coal has been discovered at Frymire, Ky., a small town about six miles from this place, by Mrs. B. F. Gilliland and Miss Gertie Allen, who went out prospecting last week for coal on the farm of Jabez Brashear (deceased). They took with them Joe Gilliland and the necessary tools and a guide. After riding over hills they located a vein of coal cropping out on Mr. Prather's farm. The vein where it crops out is from eight to ten inches under the earth. Mrs. Gilliland and Miss Allen took specimens home with them and have sent them off for analysis.

Burkesville on a Boom.

Burkesville, Ky., Feb. 20.—The town of Burkesville seems to be entering upon an era of prosperity unprecedented in its history. Several new business houses and dwellings are now under construction, and more will be built as soon as spring opens up. Real estate values are higher than ever before.

Five Barges Sunk.

Henderson, Ky., Feb. 20.—The towboat J. P. Williams, with a large tow of coal for the south, had bad luck in passing under the bridge here Thursday morning. The fleet struck pier No. 5, and five barges of coal, valued at $20,000, were sunk. The boat proceeded on down with the remaining barges.

Bodies in a Wrecked House-Boat.

Paducah, Ky., Feb. 19.—A wrecked house-boat floating in the Tennessee river near Livingston Point was caught and found to contain the bodies of three people, a man, woman and child, all white. The boat was floating on its side. The name of the family could not be learned. An investigation is being made.

To Extend Rural Delivery.

Newport, Ky., Feb. 21.—The post office department at Washington has notified Postmaster Meyer that the rural delivery system will be extended to Alexandria and to Grant's Lick on the Licking pike. The contracts of the two bus lines for carrying the mails do not expire until June, 1904.

Political Ax Fell.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 19.—The political ax fell upon the heads of five members of the local police department, including Lieut. Jas. S. Wilkerson, the other four being patrolmen. In two hours after decapitation Lieut. Wilkerson was sworn in as a deputy sheriff under his brother.

Wants All Magnates Sent to the Pen.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 19. — Ollie James, congressman-elect from the First district of Kentucky, while here Wednesday evening, announced that in his opinion all corporation promoters and magnates should be punished with not less than three years in the penitentiary for each offense.

Horses Sink in Quicksand.

Columbia, Ky., Feb. 20. — While Messrs. T. H. and J. E. Murrell were returning from Russell circuit court the horses they were driving got into quicksand. The team went down until only the heads of the horses could be seen. The animal's pulled out with great difficulty.

Good For Three Hundred Barrels.

Williamsburg, Ky., Feb. 21.—The oil well on the Curd land was connected with the tank. The sand had just been tapped, but the flow filled a two-inch pipe for several minutes. Numerous experts who were here to see the test estimate the well to be good for 300 barrels per day.

Schuh Given the Decision.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 21.—Geo. Schuh, of this city, was given the decision over Eugene Bezenah, of Cincinnati, on a foul in the middle of the last round of a 15-round contest before the Louisville Athletic club here Friday night.

To Build a City Hall.

Harrodsburg, Ky., Feb. 21.—The city council consummated the purchase of the residence property at the head of Main street, of Smith Dorsett, of Lexington, and will erect thereon a handsome city hall and engine house.

Tendency of the Times.

The tendency of medical science is toward preventive measures. The best thought of the world is being given to this subject. It is easier and better to prevent than to cure. It has been fully demonstrated that pneumonia, one of the most dangerous diseases that medical men have to contend with, can be prevented by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Pneumonia always results from a cold or from an attack of influenza (grip,) and it has been observed that this remedy counteracts any tendency of these diseases toward pneumonia. This has been fully proven in many thousands of cases in which this remedy has been used during the great prevalence of colds and grip in recent years, and can be relied upon with implicit confidence. Pneumonia often results from a slight cold when no danger is apprehended until it is discovered that there is fever and difficulty in breathing and pain in the chest, then it is announced that the patient has pneumonia. Be on the safe side and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the cold is contracted. It always cures. For sale by all druggists.

Tobacco Growers Will Meet at Union.

Mr. W. R. Sale, of Gallatin county, is in the lower part of this county trying to stir up an interest among the farmers in the Tobacco Growers organization, and a tobacco growers meeting will be held in Union on March 7, at 1 p. m., at which a large attendance of growers is expected, and in case any precinct committeeman can not attend the Union meeting, he is requested to send a good man in his place. Twenty-two counties have been organized, and in these counties over 50 per cent of the growers have become members of the association. Should Boone county growers attend the meeting, and take part in bringing about the relief sought. It is evident that the growers mean business, and are getting in a shape to have something to say in regard to prices in the future. They have taken the bit in their teeth.

Better Than Gold.

I have had occasion to use your Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and am pleased to say that I never used anything for stock that gave half as good satisfaction. I heartily recommend it to all owners of stock.

J. B. BELSHER, St. Louis, Mo.

Sick stock or poultry should not eat cheap stock food any more than sick persons should expect to be cared by food. When your stock and poultry are sick give them medicine. Don't stuff them with worthless stock foods. Unload the bowels and stir up the torpid liver and the animal will be cured, if it be possible to cure it. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine unloads the bowels and stirs up the torpid liver. It cures every malady of stock if taken in time. Secure a 25-cent can of Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine and it will pay for itself ten times over. Horses work better. Cows give more milk. Hogs gain flesh. And hens lay more eggs. It solves the problem of making as much blood, flesh and energy as possible out of the smallest amount of food consumed. Buy a can from your dealer.

Col. Sam Forsythe, of Mercer county, bought of Bright & Fox, of Danville, 16 mules for the Southern market at about $137 per head.

Says a Woodford county stock buyer: "I have never known cows and heifers to sell as near to steer prices as they are doing now. In the city market a cow brings within ¼ of a cent as much as a 1,200 or 1,400-lb steer. The low price of the latter is largely due to the fact that farmers have been crowding their steers on the market in immature condition instead of feeding them until they are prime."

Mr. W. W. Watts, of Madison county, says that if farmers would soak their seed corn in gas coal tar that cut worms will not cut down the young plants. He says that he has tried the experiment and that it proved successful. The idea is to soak the corn several days, and to plant it while the grain is moist, but the corn must be dropped by hand, as the wet grains would not drop through a corn planter.

Since a good stove was put in place in the large room of the county clerk's office, that official's quarters have been made much more comfortable. The grate in that room was too small to warm the room when the weather was only moderately cold.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

VOL. XXVIII. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 4, 1903. NO. 20.

County Correspondence.

RABBIT HASH

Feb. 24.—Eugene Wingate has been nursing a boil on the back of his neck for the last week.

R. F. Mirrick will move to Jeff O'Neal's house near the Methodist church.

After being snow bound for a week [illegible] on the road again last Wednesday.

Sam Wilson is ready to pay anyone in this precinct a game of carroms for the championship. He plays a good game.

Mrs. Sallie Stephens is at the bed side of her sick daughter, Mrs. Frank Scott, of Aurora, and who has pneumonia.

Dave Bailey claims that he has the finest crop of tobacco in the county, and if he does not get 10 cents for it he will eat the entire crop.

Dr. Hopkins was called to Pendleton county, Monday, on account of the illness of one of his nephews of pneumonia. His sister returned home with him.

Invitations are out for a dance at R T. Stephens' tonight, which means a night of great pleasure, as Dick and his wife know how to entertain the young people.

Jay Calvert with his carrom board and rubber goods, embarked on the Swan, Tuesday morning, for Sid Stephens, where he will engage in agriculture for the next five months.

William Thompson, of Indiana, was here a few days since buying furs. Michael Baily had some fine pelts for which he got fancy prices. The dealers say Mike is the best handler in the county.

James A. Duncan was here last Wednesday, shaking hands and passing out his cards, announcing his candidacy for circuit clerk. His cards are admired by the ladies, and he would run a tremendous race were they allowed to vote.

Thomas Kinney Campbell and Miss Emma, oldest daughter of Major John M. Hodges and wife, stole a march on the Major and his wife, Tuesday night, and crossed the river and were married on Wednesday. They will go to housekeeping on T. N. Stephens' farm. Here is wishing you success, Kinney.

Jordon Owens, of the Louisville Tobacco Warehouse Co., arrived here yesterday on his way home from the Maysville tobacco sales. He says a large crowd was in attendance and some fine tobacco was exhibited. He bought the premium hogshead for the Louisville Co., at $102 per 100 pounds. He took the boat here that night for Louisville.

Capt. Ben Wilson loaded Charles Dolphs family, household goods and blacksmith's outfit on his ferry boat, Monday morning, and started for McVille, where he exchanged the cargo for a similar cargo belonging to S. N. Riggs, which he brought back. Smith appears to have gotten the best of the McVille citizens during his stay there, as he brought back more than he took away.

PLATTSBURG.

Pretty good ground-hog weather.

Frank Voshell has been laid up with a bad cold.

Cage Stephens has been quite sick for several days.

Tom Hensley has been on the sick list for several days.

Charles Beemon is entertaining his aged parents for a while.

John Baldon and wife entertained at cards, one night last week.

Mrs. W. S. Acra and daughter have been quite sick for several days.

Your scribe and wife were guests, last Sunday, of Bud Acra and wife.

Miss Eva Akin was visiting Ruble Akin and wife, near here, last week.

Elmo Gaines and Willie Cropper were guests at J. W. Gaines', Sunday.

Miss Maud Scott was the guest of her sister, Mrs. Bettie Botts, one day last week.

Frank Voshell and wife were entertained by Wood Sullivan and wife, last Sunday.

Ed Botts spent several days, recently, with his uncle, R. L. Willis, of Union precinct.

Leslie Williams and wife entertained Cad Sullivan and wife, last Tuesday and Wednesday.

J. E. Botts' little child swollowed a pin, a few days since, causing its parents considerable anxiety.

Charles Voshell and Henry Huffman, of Sparta, Ind., were here last Monday, and called on Frank Voshell.

Mrs. J. W. Gaines had quite an exciting time with a snow drift, one day last week, as she was going to Believue.

PT. PLEASANT.

Feb. 28—Ira Walton is suffering with a felon on his hand.

Joe Lalie, of near Crescent, was calling at this place, Wednesday.

We hear that J. H. Walton is negotiating a large land deal. We did not get the particulars.

Miss Eva Dolwick was the recipient of a handsome birthday present from her parents, last week.

Several of our young men have organized a minstrel, and will give an exhibition at Hebron, sometime in March.

The school at this place, conducted by H. W. Northcutt, of Crescent, closed Thursday. Mabie Morris and Katie Dolwick won first honors in class and were presented with handsome prizes by the teacher. The teacher was highly pleased with his position, and says, "that he certainly appreciates the kindness shown him by the good people, of Pt. Pleasant."

For sale—Good organ. This instrument is a standard make, in perfect repair, and has a delightful tone. It belongs to Mt. Pleasant Grange, which has recently purchased a piano, and has no use for the organ. It can be seen at Mt. Pleasant Grange Hall, Bullittsville. BERNICE DUNCAN, Com.

FRANCISVILLE.

Feb. 28.—Omer Henry is attending Medical College in Louisville.

Billy Reitman has a very sick child. We are sorry to report Mrs. Charlie McFee quite ill.

Henry Beall has purchased a kodak and will take pictures for 15c a piece.

[illegible] here who hope to see him Circuit Clerk.

Mrs. Graham, who sustained a severe injury to her shoulder and arm, last week, is improving.

Miss Dink Scothorn will begin a subscription school at the school house near here on Monday, March 2.

We hope the faithful Commissary correspondent will have the opportunity of explaining to us his contest.

Lee Wilson and wife, who were visiting Mrs. W's parents here during the recent cold spell, returned to their home in Ludlow, Sunday.

Mr. Editor, to settle a dispute, please say if the great snow blizzard of last week was on Tuesday or Wednesday.

—On Wednesday.—ED.]

We are sorry that Mr. Garnett Riley and family are going to leave the State. His sale, last Thursday, was well attended and good prices prevailed.

Jack Reitman will move this week, and Manilus Goodridge will move to the place he vacates, and John Black will move to Mr. Goodridge's house in the village.

Edgar Graves is making a superior article of molasses this season. Chas. Beall and son have Mr. John Stephen's camp, and Stanley Graves and Emmet Kilgour have Temp Gaines' camp.

COMMISSARY.

Feb. 28.—Ed Berkshire was calling on Miss Stella Fenton, of Newport, last Saturday and Sunday evening.

I have to report from Middle creek that its full again.

Tom Marshall has gone on a visit to his daughter living near Florence, Indiana.

Bert Parsons, who has been down on a visit from Cincinnati, returned home last Wednesday.

Frank Rouse and Bert Berkshire called on Miss Hedges and Reduour, of Walton, last Sunday.

Jacob Craig and wife, of Cincinnati, were down the latter part of last and first of this week, visiting relatives and friends here.

Richard Louden visited his daughter Mrs. Dora Delph, on Clore's ridge last Sunday, and when he returned reported walking over the hills very slavish work.

Aunt Sallie Popham, an old neighbor, but now living back of Aurora, Ind., on South Hogan, visited her son, Coinmbus, and daughter, Gertie Passons; and other relatives and friends here this week.

Ira and Stella Ryle, and Wilber and Maud Scott, attended the dance at Albert Kelly's, Monday night. Attendance large considering the weather, music good, and a nice and pleasant time was had by all.

John Calvert has been seen meandering around on Middle creek recently. Detective Tom Marshall volunteered, a few weeks ago, to spot the attraction, and has been shadowing him, and doing some fine detective work.

The weather has been so bad for the last two weeks that but little visiting could be done. Last Thursday being a nice day, over head, so many people passed so swift that I could not tell who they were, or where they were going, only recognized five:—Bob and Miss Pearl Aylor, Miss Stella Ryle, Miss Nannie Goodridge, and Billie McMullen.

If those that think the Recorder high-priced would compare it with county papers lower in price, they would find the Recorder worth more than double the difference in price. I request the people of Bellevue precinct to hold themselves ready to subscribe at any time or renew their subscriptions. The Commissary quill-driver is an author ized agent for the Recorder; has been sworn in aud given bond, and will receive and receipt for subscriptions.

The severity of the sudden changes of the weather has run the bluff on our weather prophet, Billie Slayback, and he has decided not to make any further predictions. Ed Burres, who has been acting during Slayback's lay-off says, "He is not afraid to tackle anything from a grizzly to a buzz saw, and will predict the weather in the future." Wednesday's wild, western blizzard caught him without wood; but he said, "I knowed it was a comin' all the same." He gives the following signs: "When a man is seen coming out of the house hurriedly early in the morning, and starts down the street, if living in town; but if in the country, towards town, its a never failing sign of dry, but if his wife is seen following close on his heels with a broom, fireshovel, rollingpin or flatiron in her hand, its a sure sign of a squall; but if the wife is not seen, and he stops and examines his pocket book, and then all his pockets, then turns and walks back into the house with a look of disappointment on his face, its a sure sign of no change."

WALTON.

March 2.—The many friends of F. P. Curley, the prominent young attorney from this place, who was compelled by the health of his wife to seek a different climate, are pained to learn that she has had a hemorrhage of the lungs recently, the not as violent as the one forcing her from her home, yet it has alarmed her not a little and she has sent in a request for her little daughter to be brought out to Tucson, Arizonia, forthwith; and Mrs. S. L. Edwards, her grandmother is hastening the preparations to leave with the child at the earliest possible moment. It is hoped, that probably, the presence of the little girl will dissipate the present gloom of the afflicted household, and perhaps it will so cheer the mother heart that there will be no recurrence of the dreadful hemorrhage. The young couple, Mr. and Mrs. Curley, have hosts of friends here, where both was raised and any calamity befalling them will be deplored as a personal misfortune.

At last accounts Fritz King was improving.

Roy Stamler is convalescing rapidly. His principal line of thought seems to be on something to eat.

Thos. R. Corwine gave his exhibition of ventriloquism to the biggest crowd that has attended any performance ever [illegible] place. After ascending the platform, he turned to the audience and said that it was the surprise of his life to find that anyone was in attendance on such a night as it was. He was in good form and gave the best exhibition we ever heard that anyone had ever witnessed here or elsewhere. The crowd was very well satisfied and thoroughly enjoyed the treat—for treat it was and a rare one it would have been anywhere.

A railroad man who has recently been much in the South, says that Roosevelt's persistence in regard to the negroes has done them incalculable injury, as they were being discharged from work where they had heretofore given satisfaction and their places were being filled by white laborers. It is stated that Booker Washington wants the President to call a convention of whites and blacks to consider the situation. Of course the negroes want this or anything else that looks towards social recognition and Roosevelt will be pretty sure to accede to the call as the pertinacity about the offices given them recently is sufficient surety of what he will do.

O. W. Rouse and wife were at T. F. Curley's on Wednesday.

IDLEWILD.

Glad to report that there is very little sickness here.

Mrs. Geo. Walton was visiting Idlewild friends, Saturday.

Rev. J. A. Kirtley and wife spent one day this week at W. L. Cropper's.

Miss Bernice Duncan is the guest of her uncle and aunt in Lawrenceburg.

Mrs. W. O. Kirtley, of Lawrenceburg, attended church at Bullittsburg, Sunday.

Very few have made any maple molasses There has been very little favorable weather.

Messdames Courtney Walton and R. O. Gaines were in Cincinnati on the day of the big fire.

Mrs. O. W. Gaines has gone to Kansas City to attend her son, Lyman, who is ill of typhoid fever.

Dr. J. M. Grant and wife, of Peters burg, were visiting the doctor's brother near here, a few days since.

Fitch Bros., of Lawrenceburg, furnished two 4-horse teems with which to move Mr. Gulsinger to the city.

Mrs. A. Stephens and daughter, Miss Ida, who visited at Idlewild, last week, are now visiting Mrs. Owen Allen at Petersburg.

This is Lent, the day the Catholics begin their 40 days' of sacrifice, and as we have, of late, had nothing but wind rain and snow, I hope it will be nice weather.

We earnestly request all friends who have painting and paperine to do, to call on Edgar Graves. He is well prepared for the business. He has a nice line of samples.

We had a large congregation Sunday at church even if it was a cold day. We had a splendid sermon, after which the pastor resigned as such. It was, with saddened hearts, accepted. We all know we will never have such a pastor again.

FLORENCE.

Ben Stephens is able to be out after a severe attack of quinsy.

Sam Morgan and little son, of Indiana, are guests of relatives here.

Miss Nellie Rouse is being entertained by the Misses Hilker, of Erlanger.

Mrs. Dave Houston, of Verona, spent Wednesday night with James Tanner.

Mrs. B. A. Dulaney is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Elijah Green, of Covington

Miss Marie Korn, of Erlanger, visited friends at this place Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Jesse Corwin, of Erlanger, spent several days last week with relatives at this place.

Mr. and Mrs. James Tanner and daughter spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Carey Carpenter, of Richwood.

The many friends of Miss Lee White will be shocked to know that she is lying at the point of death at the home of her sister, Mrs. Annie Crigler.

David Buffington, left this week, for Chicago, where he has recently located in business. Mrs. Buffington and children, who are stopping with Mrs. George Buffington, will join Mr. Buffington the latter part of March.

BELLEVIEW.

March 2.—Mrs. L. L. Snyder is confined to the house with rheumatism.

Those who have been on the sick list are rapidly improving.

Mr. and Mrs Ira Powell, of Indiana, were over one day last week, visiting Mrs Powell's parents.

Miss Fannie Staley, who is living with Mrs. J. H. Lawell, is spending the week with her sister in the city.

The tobacco raised on [illegible] Rogers' farm, last year, will bring him and his tenants in the neighborhood of $3,000.

Andrew Acra, of Middle creek, spent Sunday with his brother, Archie and family, in Rising Sun. Their little son is convalescing very slowly.

Miss Myrtle Love, of Rising Sun, spent a couple of days, last week, with her uncle and aunt, G. T. Rne. She returned to her home, Saturday.

Waterloo seems to be mud bound, as we have not seen any of the citizens for quite a while. Hope to hear from them soon through this advertisement.

Several from here attended the funeral of Uncle Sandford Botts, in Petersburg, Sunday. The county loses a good citizen, the neighborhood a kind and sympathetic neighbor.

James Louden, after several weeks of hard labor building a new horse power and other repairs, has his ferry boat in fine running order and ready to accommodate his customers.

Bro. Nooe will preach here next Saturday night, Sunday morning and evening, at the usual hours. Sunday school at 6 o'clock p. m We would be pleased for all who have their names enrolled in the button contest to be present that evening. We will give out the total number enrolled.

D. M. Snyder sold, last week, all of his real estate here. Isaac Flick gets the tract of ground across the pike and Mrs. Joseph Riddell, of Gunpowder, the dwelling, lot and other improvements. We surely welcome our old friend Joe and his estimable wife to our town. Joe will interest the boys by relating some of his adventures while on the turbulent waters of Gunpowder.

FLICKERTOWN

March 2.—Jas. Snyder, jr., lost a 250 pound brood sow, one day last week.

Bud Acra got $125 for his horse instead of $25.

Miss Pearl Aylor returned home last week after a three weeks' visit with relatives in Waterloo neighborhood.

Steve and Jim Gaines bought 100 bushels of corn of Bob Nixon, of Gasburg neighborhood, last week. Mr. Nixon delivered it. Price not known.

Bob Patterson is framing a corn crib for Miss Julia Smith, while his partner, Mr. Presser, is unable to assist in the work on Charlie Hensley's barn.

W. C. Hensley has returned from a protracted visit in Lincoln county. He says the thermometer registered 14 below zero there during the recent cold spell.

HATHAWAY.

March 2—Moveing is in order now.

Jas. K. Sebree had a very sick horse Thursday.

Joe Weaver was in Rising Sun again Thursday.

Elmore Ryle moved to the O. J. Ryle place near the Grange Hall.

R. L. Huey and Sam Hicks are feeding 20 nice steers for the market.

Claud Ryle has moved to his farm on Gunpowder, vacated by Elmore Ryle.

Ransom Ryle was here last Tuesday preparing to move to our burg we hear.

Frank Smith, of Indiana, is moving back to the farm of W. H. Moore, near here.

Joseph Riddell spent last Wednesday with your writer and family, very pleasantly.

James Sebree and family called on C. S. Smith and family, recently, and spent the day.

Mrs Cynthia White spent a couple of days visiting her parents near this place, last week.

E. Markeberry, of Hamilton, was in this vicinity looking at several crops of tobacco, recently.

News was received here last week that T. C. Jack, of Sheridan, Ind., is not expected to live.

James A. Duncan, candidate for circuit clerk, was calling on the voters at this place, last Thursday.

Houston & Weaver, our enterprising merchants, invoiced their stock of goods here last week, and have found that they have done exceedingly well the past year selling goods over their counters. They are very thankful to their patrons for their very liberal patronage, in the past and solicit the continuance of the same in the future.

Mr. Editor, I am earnestly requested by several of the readers of the Recorder to ask what has become of the justices' reports on the condition of the county roads after they viewed them last fall. Please publish their reports in the Recorder so as the people may see what was done.—[Only one or two have reported and the others are asking more time.—ED.]

LUDLOW.

Mrs. M. Clore, who has been very sick for several days, is much better.

Cleve Hankins and family were guests of C. T. Davis and wife, Sunday.

Mrs. McConnell, of Elm street, who has been sick for some time, died last week.

Miss Mayme Gordon has a position in a millinery store on 4th street, Cincinnati.

Thos. Sugiley, 83, died Friday night from the effects of the knife wounds [illegible] by Ely Pinnell, a week ago. [illegible] were slightly [illegible] modified last week on account of the big 4th street fire. The cars only went as far as the suspension bridge.

Mrs. J. D. Snyder, of this place, and Miss Henrietta Romaniwitz, of West Covington, were calling on relatives in the city, one afternoon last week.

Miss Maggie Stevens, the 17 year old daughter of Mrs. Margaret Stevens, of Ash street, attempted suicide by taking carbolic acid one day last week. She can not possibly recover or at least there are no hopes for her at the present time. No cause is given for the act.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Clore, of Hebron, have returned from their three months trip in the west and south. They were delighted with their visit in every way, but think there is no place like "old Kentucky." They arrived here on Friday, and remained until Sunday with relatives, when they went to Hebron.

The quarterly meeting was held at Mrs. Heinig's, on the Highway, last Friday afternoon, Mesdames M. Clore and David Buchanan, of Elm street, and Mrs. Coursey, of Ash street, were the committee to entertain, but on account of the serious illness of Mrs. Clore the time devoted on the other two ladies, who did their parts in a most charming manner.

VERONA.

Feb. 28.—J. R. Johnson announces that the time for contracting for growing tomatoes, closed here to day.

Scott Myers has built a shed over his saw mill.

Chas Harrell is building a porch in front of his store room.

Prof. J. H. Craven is often spoken of as a candidate for circuit clerk in this county.

Frank Cleek is having logs hauled to the saw mill for the purpose of building a stock and feed barn in the near future.

P. G. Kennedy has purchased part of Thos. J. Anderson's farm, and will clean several acres of woodland and have same cultivated in tobacco this season.

A. C. Roberts is again in the wall paper business, and all who anticipate having any papering done this season will do well and save money by placing their order with him.

The people here are very much aroused over a mad dog that visited this place on the 8th ult., and bit a great many other dogs. On the 15th day after this dog was killed, by James Hudson, one of W. M. Whitson's dogs showed signs of hydrophobia and was killed, and hence a war on dogs commenced, and something near a dozen were killed. A day or two later B. S. Oneal had another dog to go mad, and quite a number were killed, so the writer does not know when the killing of dogs will end.

GRANGE HALL.

Feb. 28.—Mud roads are very bad.

Moving is the order of the day.

Clark Rouse has moved to his farm.

Joe Love got 5 cents around for his tobacco.

Samuel Stephens, who has been quite ill, is better.

Claud Ryle has moved to his farm on Gunpowder.

Claud Utz was visiting his father at Florence, last week.

A very small congregation at church Sunday, Bad weather.

Frank Rue, wife and son and Fannie Adams spent Saturday night at T. J. Stephens'.

Ask Tommie Stephens and wife and Wilton Adams how they like sleighriding on Gunpowder.

J. M. Stephens is better. He has rented out his farm, and anticipates moving to Covington.

CONSTANCE.

Barney Brink is very poorly at this writing.

Miss Carrie Miller has moved to Sedamsville.

Mrs. Wm. Moore, of Beaverlick, is visiting her parents near here.

Jimmie Loder and wife, of Petersburg, are visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Pearl Snyder was visiting Mrs. Ella Hood several days the past week.

Miss Martha Reeves has returned from a pleasant visit with friends in Ohio.

Everybody seems pleased with our new mail carrier, L. Brown, who is always on time.

Chas. Carr, of Sekitan, O., and Joe Grimsley, of Anderson ferry were in town Sunday.

Some of our young folks attended a party at Sekitan, Wednesday night. They report a fine time.

O. and I. Hood attended the dance at Morgan Heim's, in Taylorsport, Friday night. The boys say every body had a fine time.

J Peeno and family have returned to their old home, after a six month's stay at Grand View, Ind. They say there is no place like Old Boone.

School closed Friday with an entertainment. Louisa Zimmer won the gold medal given for the best recitation. Henry Peeno, prize for best composition. Louie Anderson, second prize for recitation. The children show good training for which great credit is due Wm. Gaines, teacher.

RICHWOOD.

Roads are horrible for traffic.

Wm. Glacken is not feeling well.

Gaines Robinson is on the sick list.

Ollie Dixon is boarding with Wm. Dobbins.

Mrs. Amanda Carpenter is very much indisposed.

Wm. Dobbins has moved to the O. O. Dixon farm.

Little Henry Carpenter is confined to his home with a severe sore throat.

Several droves of wild ducks passed over here recently. Johnny, get your gun.

The day our good landlord is glad to see his good tenant and vice versa, has arrived. Nit.

Clarence Tanner has moved from Covington to his farm here, his health not allowing him to remain in the city.

Rev. Mills will begin revival services at Mt. Zion on the 15th inst. He will be assisted by Rev. Ditzler, the regular pastor.

Mrs. Anna Sparks, of Richmond, Kentucky, Miss Emma Harvey, of Williamstown, and John Harvey, of Idlewild, were here last week attending the funeral of their mother.

Excelsior Grange will meet Saturday, March 7, at 2 p. m. All members are requested to be present as Worthy State Master Wolcott is expected to be present, and install our officers. Literary subject, "What are the benefits of spraying trees?"

Mrs. Johanna Harvey died Friday at 2:15 a. m., at her home, after a lingering illness of nearly a year, aged 64 yrs. 9 months and 12 days. Six children—Mrs. Anna Sparks, of Richmond, Ky., Mrs. Lizzie Eckels, of Illinois, Lucy Schneider, of Covington, Miss Emma, of Williamstown, John Harvey, of Idlewild, and Miss Carrie, who lived with her mother here, survive her. Mrs H. was the daughter of Wickliff and Katherine Grubbs, was left a widow with seven children, and after a heroic struggle reared them to man and womanhood by her own labor and efforts, the struggle being the harder, as her three older children were deaf and dumb. The burial was held at Hopeful, Saturday at 2 p. m., Rev. Slater conducting a brief funeral service at the grave. The family wish to express their thanks to the Rev. Slater for his kindness, to neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted in caring for their mother in her late illness, and to funeral director, Hal Blanton, for his kind and prompt services at the funeral.

BEAVER.

Sam Slayback has opened a barber shop here.

Bates Carroll and family, of Covington, are visiting relatives here.

Deputy Sheriff B B. Hume united with the Baptist church here, last Saturday.

Bud Norman has moved from Hamilton to Berkshire, where he recently purchased the John Ambrose property.

James A. Duncan, candidate for clerk of the Boone circuit court, was mingling with the voters here Saturday.

Land slides, something we have not been bothered with for several years, have been quite numerous lately in this neighborhood, doing damage to land and fencing.

UNION.

March 2.—Miss Ella Tanner has for her guest, Miss Susie Kelley, of Belleview.

James A. Huey has sold his farm in Gallatin.

Mrs. Ansel Bristow has been quite sick this week.

Miss Ophelia Riley spent several days with Miss Elva Utz, last week.

Everyone is invited to attend Rob Dickerson's sale, March 7th, 1 p. m.

Miss Madge Williams was the guest of Miss Virginia Conner, Saturday night.

Miss Martha Lassing entertained Miss Bernice Johnson, Saturday and Sunday.

Misses Marietta Riley and May Norman spent Tuesday with Mrs. M. C. Norman.

Miss Nellie Cleek, one of Beaver's fair maids, is the guest of Miss Martha Lassing this week.

A. H. Norman had a woodsawing, Tuesday. He now has a good supply of wood ready for use.

Mrs. W. A. Rachal and Miss Ella Norman left this week for a short visit with their sister, Mrs. James Asbury, of Feru Leaf, Ky.

FIRE IN CINCINNATI.

Pike Opera House Block Damaged to the Amount of $1,500,000.

The Structures Will Have to Be Torn Down Completely—A Dozen or More Firms Sustained Losses By Flames and Water.

Cincinnati, Feb. 26.—Shortly after midnight Thursday morning fire broke out in the basement of the Pike opera house, in Fourth street, and had gained considerable headway before being discovered. A still alarm summoned the fire department, but before the firemen arrived the entire structure was ablaze from top to bottom the elevator shaft spreading the fire with great rapidity.

Cincinnati, Feb. 27.—The fire which started in the Pike opera house block early Thursday morning was not gotten under control until near noon. The entire loss will foot up about $1,500,000. Almost the entire block on south side of East Fourth street from Vine to Walnut was destroyed or badly damaged. A dozen or more firms have sustained heavy losses.

Assistant Building Inspector Kuhlman stated Thursday afternoon, after a preliminary examination of the scene of the fire, that all of the Seasongood corner, the Pike building and possibly all of the other buildings as far east as the Carlisle building must be torn down completely.

Following is a partial list of approximate losses:

The insurance on all will amount to about $650,000.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 27.—Miss Elanetta Harrison, of Somerset, Ky., is at the Leland hotel in this city and claims to have lost upwards of $60,000 in the Cincinnati fire in plates and copies of a book which the Robert Clarke Co. was to have issued in a few days. Miss Harrison said that she received a letter Thursday afternoon from the company stating that 30,000 of her books which were ready to be issued, the plates and the original manuscript were all destroyed in the fire. The title of the book was "The Stage of Life," the scenes being laid about her home in Somerset. The book was to have been staged by Mr. E. H. Sothern, and Miss Harrison thinks that Mr. Sothern has the outline proof sheets of the work, but she does not know whether she will be able to reproduce the work from these or not.

BELL BOYS INDICTED.

They Are Charged With Robbing Hotel Guests.

New York, Feb. 27.—Louis Messler and John Cullen, bell boys, recently arrested charged with robbing hotel guests, were Thursday indicted by the grand jury on the charge of grand larceny in the second degree. The police believe that the boys secured $100,000 worth of jewelry and money in the last few years by robbing patrons of hotels. Their plans, the police think, included wholesale robbery by the same methods, in every big hotel in the country.

DOMESTIC WOOL.

It Is Included in the Foot and Mouth Disease Quarantine.

Boston, Feb. 27.—Confirmation of the action of the cattle bureau in including wool in the foot and mouth disease quarantine was received from Washington Thursday. The decision practically suspends domestic wool but in Massachusetts and Boston dealers say that if the embargo is not modified so as to exempt wool many mills will have to be closed.

Fought to a Draw.

San Francisco, Feb. 27.—"Young Corbett" and Eddie Hanlon fought to a draw. Corbett clearly demonstrated to the immense crowd present that he has not gone back. Hanlon also showed that the high opinion in which he has been held was justified.

A Record Broken.

London, Feb. 27.—Stewart Rolls has broken the world's automobile record for a kilometre, covering the distance in 27 seconds. This result was accomplished at a private party given by the duke of Portland Thursday.

ENGLISHMAN DEFEATED.

Andy Tokell Beaten By Harry Forbes, Champion Bantam Weight.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 28.—England tried for another championship Friday night and sustained another defeat. Her champion bantam weight, Andy Tokell, was beaten by Harry Forbes, the champion bantam weight of the world.

Forbes was given the decision at the end of ten rounds. He won the fight from start to finish and had the better of every round with the possible exception of the seventh, in which he held his own, and proved himself the superior of the English champion in everything that goes to make a champion with the exception of courage, and in this he was equal to Tokell.

The latter was something of a disappointment. He showed himself a strong, rugged youngster with a world of power behind his blows, and proved himself game to the core. He took heavy punishment and came back every time in every round willing and eager to fight again. In skill he was outclassed by Forbes, who hit him when and how he pleased and as many times as Tokell would take without coming to a clinch or breaking ground. He pounded the Englishman's left eye shut and cut the left side of his face until it looked like the aftermath of a session with a sausage machine, while Forbes had not a mark.

THE WABASH SYSTEM.

President Ramsey Presents a Schedule of Compensation.

Chicago, Feb. 28.—President Ramsey, of the Wabash road, issued a statement Friday defending the company's position in relation to the poll taken by the trainmen and other employes of the Wabash system for or against a strike to secure an advance in wages of 12 and 15 per cent. on the January, 1902, schedule. It is accompanied by a schedule of compensation which provides that the trainmen of the Wabash west of the Mississippi river after March 1 shall receive about 5 per cent. more a month on runs of over 4,000 miles than those in service east of the river. This Mr. Ramsey explains on the ground that all eastern tariffs are on a much lower basis than western tariffs and that east of the Mississippi the Wabash is in competition with eastern lines.

In conclusion Mr. Ramsey says that whenever the eastern lines which the Wabash competes advance above its rates east of the Mississippi the Wabash will meet the advance and not before, and that if its trainmen vote in favor of carrying the advance of the western division "east of the river on Wabash lines or strike, then a strike must occur."

USE OF ANAESTHETICS.

Much Suffering By Victims of Railway Wrecks Could Be Alleviated.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 28.—Mrs. Ballington Booth, of the Volunteers of America, has sent a letter to the managers of the several railways of the United States in which she says that much of the suffering endured by those injured in railroad wrecks could be alleviated by anaesthetics which should be a part of each train's equipment. She says that she has traveled much and has seen a great many passengers fatally hurt who could have been relieved by being made unconscious. Her letter concludes as follows:

"Would it not be an unspeakable comfort to bystanders, as well as the sufferers, if those dying in agony could be rendered unconscious by a few breaths of merciful anaesthetic, to say nothing of the prompt aid which could be rendered to those who might yet be saved?"

THE DEAL IS CLOSED.

Sale of the Annapolis, Washington & Baltimore Railroad.

Baltimore, Feb. 28.—The deal for the sale of the Annapolis, Washington & Baltimore railroad to the syndicate engaged in building the trolley line between Baltimore, Annapolis and Washington has been closed, the final payment for the property has been made. This deal is the sale of the $358,000 of the capital stock of the company.

A new board of directors was elected as follows: William H. Lamprecht, Cleveland, O.; Alfred R. Horr, Cleveland; Harry A. Garfield, Cleveland, Calvary Morris, Cleveland; Frank Gosnell, Baltimore.

Mr. Lamprecht was elected president. The motive power will be electricity. The power house will be stationed at Hyattsville. A speed of 50 miles an hour will be feasible.

The Aldrich Bill.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Representative Payne, chairman of house committee on ways and means, introduced the Aldrich bill to permit the secretary of the treasury to deposit government funds with national banks, with municipal and other bonds as securities.

Wool Men Protest.

Boston, Feb. 28.—Men engaged in the wool trade in Boston met here to protest against the action of the United States department of agriculture in placing an embargo on wool in connection with its fight against the foot and mouth distase.

The Eight-Hour Question.

Youngstown, O., Feb. 28.—The executive board of the National Association of Blast Furnace workers adjourned Friday after a two days' session. It was decided to refer the eight-hour question back to the local unions

FLOOD IN OHIO RIVER.

Many Workmen in Pittsburg Thrown Out of Work.

Houses and Pottery Plants at East Liverpool Are Flooded—At Wellesville and Steubenville There Is Suffering From the Flood.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 2.—With every tributary of the Allegheny and Monongshela rivers emptying swirling torrents into the banks of these two streams and rushing down to the point where they converge to form the Ohio, Pittsburg was given a visitation Sunday which forced hundreds of families to either abandon their homes or seek escape from the water in the upper stories while mud and water dispensed destruction and discomfort below. Mills in the low lying levels throughout the county, numbering between 50 and 60, were flooded and 38,375 men are thrown idle for four or five days, with a loss in wages of more than $326,748.

The flood was general throughout Western Pennsylvania, the streams everywhere overflowing their banks and causing more or less damage to houses and farms that lay in their course. Down town in Pittsburg cellars and basements of business houses which are in the general flood belt were inundated while in Allegheny two railroads were temporarily paralyzed owing to the water which covered their tracks. People in the first and Third wards, Allegheny, had to adopt Venice methods of going to and from their homes. Gondolas of the ordinary skiff type were commoner than wheeled vehicles.

Soon after daylight the water took possession of the point districts in Pittsburg and came up almost into Penn avenue. All of lower Allegheny felt the severest effects of the high water and practically every house between Isabella street and the river from the Ninth street bridge to the point have cellars and first floors flooded. The Pittsburg & Western railroad and Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg tracks are under water, necessitating their abandonment temporarily.

Towns below here on the Ohio, however, are still to have their worst experiences during the present high water Monday or later.

At McKees Rocks and Coraopolis, a few miles below Pittsburg, the water Sunday night was so high that the business sections of both places are under water and several street car lines were forced to suspend operations. East Liverpool, O., reports 30 feet of water, 75 houses flooded and several of the pottery plants damaged, of which the Thompson Pottery Co. will suffer most. Street car service to Smith's Ferry has been abandoned.

At Wellsville, four miles below East Liverpool, the mill of the American Tin Plate Co. is partially inundated and scores of families are suffering.

Steubenville, O., reports 30 feet of water and rising five inches an hour. Five more feet are expected and which will cause the Wheeling & Lake Erie and the Cleveland & Pittsburg railroads and mills on the low ground to suspend.

CHARGED WITH FORGERY.

A Prisoner Shot While Trying to Escape, Identified.

Kansas City, Mo., March 2.—A prisoner, who, while trying to escape Saturday, was shot by a detective and who gave his name as James J. Arnold, was Sunday identified as Alfred Saunders, of Louisville, Ky. Saunders had been arrested on a charge of passing forged notes. He came to Kansas City last fall from St. Louis, where he is said to have been a hotel clerk.

STRUCK A BAR.

Twenty-Eight Barges of Coal Sunk Opposite Lake Providence, La.

Vicksburg, Miss., March 2.—The tow boat J. B. Williams Sunday struck the bar opposite Lake Providence, La., and sunk 28 barges of coal. Capt. Cameron, the local representative of the Monongahela Coal Co., says the coal sunk is Pittsburg coal destined for New Orleans. He estimated it at 28,000 tons, with an approximate value of $75,000. A portion of it will be saved.

The Former Crown Princess.

Vienna, March 2.—The former crown princess of Saxony has arrived at Lindau, which is situated on an island in Lake Constance, where she met her mother. She will stay at her mother's chateau at Lindau for the birth of her child.

Jeffries and Corbett Matched.

New York, March 2.—James J. Jeffries and James J. Corbett met Sunday and agreed to fight 20 rounds next July before the club that will give them $25,000, or the largest purse that may be offered above that sum.

The Flood at Memphis.

Memphis, Tenn., March 2.—The Mississippi river is at a standstill at this point, the gauge marking 34 feet. The water covers an area of ten miles in the Arkansas low lands, opposite this city, and the situation is becoming serious.

Damage in the Shenango Valley.

Sharon, Pa., March 2.—The damage from the flood in the Shenango valley will reach between $50,000 and $75,000. The Shenango river, swollen by the rain and thaw, reached the highest level in ten years Sunday.

FIFTY-SEVENTH CONGRESS.

Second Session.

Washington, Feb. 26.—Senate—The senate Wednesday made rapid progress. The statehood riders to the agricultural and post office appropriation bill were withdrawn and both bills passed. The house amendments to the Philippine currency bill were agreed to with but slight discussion, thus sending the bill to the president.

House—The house adopted the conference report on the army appropriation bill and sent the bill to the president. The bill to establish a naval station in this city also was finally passed. The house abandoning its amendments to reduce the amount to be given to the Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio railroads from $1,500,000 each as fixed in the senate bill to $1,000,000 each as fixed by the house.

Washington, Feb. 27.—Senate—The advisability and legality of the appointment by the president of senators and members on commissions formed the subject of considerable discussion in the senate Thursday.

House—Amid scenes which recalled the memorable and exciting days of the 51st congress, when party feeling ran fierce and the hall of representatives resounded with denunciations of the alleged "high handed methods" of the majority, James J. Butler (Mo.) was unseated by the house and George C. R. Wagoner was seated in his place. The democrats had decided at their caucus Thursday morning that if this case was called up they would prosecute a filibuster from now until March 4, regardless of consequences to legislation, and they began the fight as soon as the gavel fell at noon. Roll call followed roll call and it took over three hours to approve the journal of Wednesday's proceedings. Then when the decks were cleared the case was called. A spirited debate of two hours followed.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Senate—The senate Friday passed the naval and the military academy appropriation bills. Mr. Blackburn secured a vote on his motion to take up the Littlefield anti-trust bill, but his motion was lost—28 to 38. The senate, from 1:45 p. m. to 5:15, was in executive session. When the doors were opened a number of bills were passed without objection. The immigration bill was considered and a numuer of amendments made to meet various senators' views, but the bill failed of a vote on objection from New England senators, who feared it will exclude French Canadian labor.

House—The democrats of the house Friday carried out their threat, made Thursday, that if Mr. Butler was unseated they would do everything in their power to block legislation from now until congress expires on March 4. The result was another stormy session, prolonged from 11 o'clock Friday morning until almost 7 o'clock Friday evening.

Washington, March 1.—Senate—The senate Saturday passed the fortifications appropriation bill and the house immigration bill, with amendments. The greater part of the day was given up to the consideration of the Aldrich bond deposit bill, which was debated at length, but upon which a vote was not reached.

Washington, March 2.—House—The house of representatives held a four hour's session Sunday and put the District of Columbia appropriation bill through its last parliamentary stage in the face of the democratic filibuster. The previous question on the conference report on the Alaskan homestead bill was ordered and the vote on its adoption will be taken when the house reconvenes at 11 o'clock Monday. The work of this session of congress, the closing of which marks the expiration of the 57th congress, is practically at an end, except for the passage of the appropriation bills now pending, and these are in the final stages. A limited number of other measures may be passed during the last hours, but the number will be very small. Following is a summary of the legislation during this session: The creation of a department of commerce and labor and adding another cabinet officer to the president's official family; the anti-rebate act, commonly known as the Elkins law. Another bill was passed, which enables the attorney general to expedite suits brought under the Sherman anti-trust law, and incorporated in the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation act is a provision which places at the immediate disposal of the attorney general the sum of $500,000 to better equip him for the enforcement of the anti-trust laws now existing. The house passed the Littlefield anti-trust bill, which contained a publicity feature as well as an anti-rebate clause. The bill failed of passage in the senate. One of the first acts of this session was the removal of the tariff on coal of all kinds coming from any foreign country. Legislation of importance to the army and navy was enacted. A general staff corps has been provided for the United States army, the duties of which are to prepare plans for the defense of the country and for the mobilization of the armies of the United States in times of war, as well as to render professional aid to the secretary of war and the general officers of the army. The militia bill, which passed the house during the first session, passed the senate during this session, and has become a law. The naval appropriation bill, which has passed in both houses, provides for a material increase in the personnel of the navy to meet the growing demands for officers and men; also, for an increase in the number of warships. Measures of great importance to the Philippines have been adopted at this session. An appropriation of $3,000,000 was made to relieve distress and suffering in the islands.

Panama Canal Treaty.

Washington, Feb. 28.—A determined effort on the part of Senator Cullom to obtain Senator Morgan's consent to fix a time for voting on the Panama canal treaty was made in the senate Friday and was met with just as determined opposition.

Asked For His Resignation.

Washington, March 2.—The secretary of the treasury telegraphed Assistant Appraiser J. B. Stillman, of New York, in charge of woolen goods, asking for his immediate resignation. No reason is given for this action.

Wrong Direction.

Recently during a dense fog on Long Island sound a steamboat took landing. A traveler anxious to go ahead came to the man at the wheel and asked why they stopped.

"Too much fog, can't see the river."

"But you can see the stars overhead."

"Yes," replied the pilot, "but until my biler busts we ain't going that way." The passengers went to bed.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Through and Through.

New Bedford, Mass., Mar. 2nd.—At 638 First St., this city, lives a very happy man. His name is Ulric Levasseur, and he certainly has good reason to feel glad and proud.

Mr. Levasseur has been sick for a long time with general weakness and a sore pain in his back. At the last he got so bad that he could not talk without great misery. Now he is well and in speaking of this wonderful change in him he says:

"I believe it to be my duty to tell everybody how I was cured. I was so weak that I could not stoop; in fact, I was unable to walk without great pain. I began taking Dodd's Kidney Pills and after a two months' treatment I am well and sound again.

"Dodd's Kidney Pills are a God-sent remedy. I will always praise them for their wonderful cure of my case. They cured me through and through. I am as strong and able a man now as I ever was."

"I had terrible pains along my spinal cord for two years and suffered dreadfully. I was given different medicines, wore plasters; none of these things helped me. Reading of the cures that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought about, I somehow felt that it was what I needed and bought a bottle to take. How glad I am that I did so; two bottles brought me immense relief, and after using three bottles more I felt new life and blood surging through my veins. It seemed as though there had been a regular house cleaning through my system, that all the sickness and poison had been taken out and new life given me instead. I have advised dozens of my friends to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Good health is indispensable to complete happiness, and Lydia E. SECOND H. H. HOLMES.

Alfred Knapp Says He Murdered Three Women and Two Girls.

He Denies Killing His First Wife and He May Be Taken to Cincinnati For Trial on Three Murder Charges.

Hamilton, O., Feb. 27.—Alfred A. Knapp, the self-confessed murderer of little Emma Littleman, Mary Eckart, Jennie Connors Knapp, Ida Gebhard and Hannah Knapp, Thursday night made an extensive statement at the county jail to a number of newspaper reporters and officials. He adhered to the story of his written confession, but added some points of importance. Of these the most interesting relates to the fate of his first wife, Emma Gribbs, whose fate has been overlooked. Knapp declares that she is still alive and is in Louisville, Ky. He says that she got a divorce from him and that he lost track of her except that he heard vaguely that she was in Louisville. Another chapter is added to Knapp's confession and varied, criminal career Thursday night when he asserted that he was implicated in several hold-ups here last December.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 27.—Alfred Knapp, arrested in this city Wednesday, who lies in the Butler county jail at Hamilton, self-confessed as the most depraved criminal run to earth since the crimes of H. H. Holmes were laid bare in 1895, has the following crimes at his door, by self-confession, with the exception of the barn-burning:

Emma Littleman, killed in a Cincinnati lumber yard, January 21, 1894.

Mary Eckert, strangled to death opposite the Cincinnati Y. M. C. A., August 1, 1894.

Jennie Connors Knapp, his second wife, murdered in Cincinnati and thrown into the canal there August 7, 1894.

Ida Gebhard, a child, assaulted and murdered in Indianapolis, July 19, 1895, her body found several days later in a barn in West Indianapolis.

Hannah Goddard Knapp, his third wife, murdered at Hamilton, O., and her body thrown into the Miami river December 22, 1902.

Knapp has served five prison sentences, three for larceny and two for assault.

Hamilton, O., Feb. 28.—That part of Alfred A. Knapp's confession relating to the murder of his third wife, Hannah Goddard Knapp, was almost completely verified here Friday evening, when Charles Millspaugh, the rural mail carrier who drove by Knapp as he was about to dump the box containing the body in the Miami river, called on Knapp at the jail. Mr. Millspaugh recalled the man perfectly and his identification was absolute. He saw Knapp at the exact spot by the "sucker hole," where Knapp claims to have thrown the body. Interest in the search was stimulated Friday afternoon by the finding of two boxes along the river bank closely answering the description of that sought for. Both were empty and partly broken open.

Knapp continued to give out conflicting interviews Friday until Sheriff Bisdorf finally ordered him let alone. He told Mayor Bosch Friday evening that his written confession positively covered all that he could reveal. He stoutly denies murdering his first wife.

Prosecutor Gard stated positively late Friday night that Knapp would be tried here. The date of the preliminary hearing will be set Saturday. Dr. Hoppe, an alienist, of Cincinnati, Friday night examined Knapp at the county jail. He found two depressions in the skull, due to old injuries probably. He said their effect might have been to produce epilepsy which, however, Knapp never had according to his statement.

The police searching party that has scoured the Miami river for Hannah Knapp's body Friday night searched the Ohio river at Lawrenceburg, Ind., and gave up the search.

Hamilton, O., March 2.—Alfred A. Knapp, the strangler, was Sunday visited by Herman Littleman, of Cincinnati, father of little Emma Littleman, the victim of Knapp's first murder. The interview was brief and Littleman was unable to identify Knapp as any man whom he had ever seen or known. The most significant feature of the interview was the fact that for the first time Knapp expressed remorse and showed signs of breaking down. Littleman stood outside the cell and after he had looked at Knapp, said: "I have never seen this man. I don't care to look at him any more." Knapp said: "I am just as sorry as you are that Emma is dead. She had eyes and hair like yours." As Littleman turned away tears stood in Knapp's eyes. The prisoner was in better health Sunday, and he passed the Sabbath quietly. No further action was taken regarding his trial. Prosecutor Gard will see Mayor Bosch Monday and will arrange the preliminary hearing. Judge Belden said Sunday that he had not been asked to call a special grand jury and that there might be none as the courts are very busy now. There were no developments regarding the missing body.

Want An Advance In Wages.

Lowell, Mass., March 2.—The Lowell Textile Council, composed of delegates of all the unions organized among cotton workers, has asked the treasuries of the seven cotton corporations of the city for an advance of ten per cent. in wages.

Robert Emmet's Birthday.

Washington, March 2.—The 125th anniversary of the birthday of Robert Emmet was celebrated at a largely attended public meeting here Sunday night at which the speakers included senators and representatives.

WAR IS PREDICTED.

Trouble Between Russia and Turkey in the Spring Probable.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 28, via Eydtkuhnen, German Frontier, March 2.—Some publicists are of the opinion that only the sternest language towards Turkey can prevent a war between Russia and Turkey in the spring. They believe that Turkey will pursue lands of Macedonian revolutionaries across the Bulgarian frontier and that public opinion will compel Russia to interfere.

The Russians thoroughly understand that a war with Turkey will be a more severe one than that of 1878. Officers are quoted as saying that the Turkish army is the best in the world owing to its German organization and armament. There is an inclination here to anticipate German financial support of Turkey, and, in the view of the situation forebodings of a clash with Turkey are freely expressed in private, although they are carefully suppressed in the newspapers.

Constantinople, March 2.—Advices from Bulgaria, Servia and Macedonia reflect the disappointment felt here regarding the illusory nature of the Austro-Russian scheme of Macedonian reforms which the sultan has agreed to. Consular dispatches from Salonica report serious epcounters between Turkish troops and bands of Bulgarians in the Uskub district, many being killed on both sides.

London, March 2.—The Geneva correspondent of the Daily Chronicle telegraphs that news has been received there of an engagement between Turkish troops and bodies of Macedonians and Bulgarians near Monastir. The Turks suffered a repulse. After the fight 32 dead and many wounded men were found.

GEN. WM. J. SMITH DEAD.

He Waa One of the Prominent Figures of the Late Civil War.

Philadelphia, March 2.—Gen. William Farrar Smith, better known as "Baldy" Smith, one of the prominent figures of the civil war, died at his home in this city. He was in his 80th year, and was born in St. Albans, Va. He entered West Point at the age of 17, and when the civil war broke out he was made commander of the Third Vermont regiment. He rose rapidly and became one of the leading figures in that struggle. Fifteen years ago he became engaged in the work of improving the rivers and harbors in Delaware and Maryland, and made his home in this city. About a year ago he retired from this work and last November he took a cold from which he never recovered. He is survived by a daughter and a son, who is an assistant naval constructor. The funeral of the general will be held on Tuesday morning. Gen. Smith's death, it is said, reduces the number of living corps commanders of the civil war to four.

ON HIS WAY HOME.

Prosecuting Attorney Attacked by Two Men Monday Morning.

Waterbury, Ct., March 2.—Prosecuting Attorney Durant was attacked by two men at 12:45 Monday morning as he was going to his home. They knocked him down with clubs and fists and as he lay on the ground he fired four shots at them as they beat him. One bullet went up through the hat of one of the men and knocked it off. Attorney Durant brought the hat back to the police station. The men escaped with no clue as to their identity.

INSTANTLY KILLED.

J. H. Laird Fell From a Bridge a Distance of 75 Feet.

Rochester, N. Y., March 2.—J. H. Baird, of Guysville, O., aged 24 years, was instantly killed by falling from a Vincent street bridge over the Genesee river to the roof of the Electric Co.'s plant below, a distance of 75 feet. It is thought he stepped backward and fell. None of the other men knew much about him as he had only been working on this job since Tuesday.

Texas Land Grabbers.

Austin, Tex., March 2.—The state officers have been advised that bloodshed is threatened in a number of West Texas counties because an organized band of land grabbers have sent armed men to the different county seats to make a rush upon the county clerk's office on the days land leases expire to file on the claims. About 300,000 acres of state lands will come in the market through expiration of leases within several days. In order to avoid bloodshed the governor has instructed the land commissioners to withhold the sale of these lands until a change can be made in the law.

Broom Makers' National Headquarters.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 2.—Local members of the National Broom Makers' union say they have completed arrangements which practically assures the removal to this city of the national headquarters of the organization.

The Duchess of Marlborough.

Vienna, March 2.—The duchess of Marlborough, accompanied by Lady Norah Churchill, arrived here Sunday night for a stay of six weeks. She will take a further course of treatment from Dr. Mueller for deafness arising from catarrh.

A Colliery Begins Work.

Shamokin, Pa., March 2.—The big mountain section of Henry Clay shaft, owned by the Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron Co., started up Monday. Work will be furnished for 300 men and boys.

MADE UP OF "IFS."

Meaningless Republican Provision for the Abatement of the Trust Evil.

The republicans in congress have just passed, with a great display of strenuosity and a great show of opposition on the part of the trusts—all the while keeping their faces straight before the public and looking as serious and determined as possible—a law, giving the new department of commerce and labor the power to investigate and gather information about certain great corporations, or trusts, and to report such data to the president. That this law is meaningless and harmless, so far as the trusts are concerned, no one with a thimbleful of brains and an ounce of political experience, can doubt. There is a preponderance of evidence against the existence of internal and external. In the first place, observe the "ifs" in the law itself:

If the secretary of this new department is so inclined, he may fish for facts in regard to trusts;

If the chief of the bureau of corporations in this new department is not owned by the trusts, and if he is capable, and if he has competent and honest assistants, and if they fish in the right place, they may obtain valuable facts;

If, when valuable data is obtained, the president wishes, he may secure it;

If, then, the president has time to read it and sees fit to do so, he may make public some or all of this data; or,

If he thinks best, he may simply make "recommendations to congress for legislation" to regulate trusts;

If, then, congress is not controlled by the allied trusts and railroads, it may, in the course of time, pass new legislation to curb trusts;

If, then, the attorney general is so inclined, and if he has time, he may apply the new legislation to the offending trusts;

If, then the evidence is sufficient, the courts may, in the years to come, decide that the new legislation is constitutional and that some particular trust has been guilty of illegal practices;

If, then, the trust has not already changed its form or ceased to exist, it may pay a nominal fine, and, in the course of eight or ten years—as did the Standard Oil trust—slightly change its name and location and continue its business of plundering the people, as will also the hundreds of other trusts against which suits will not be brought.

With such a programme of "ifs" in front of him is it surprising that Mr. John D. Rockefeller got frightened, became hysterical and telegraphed all the senators whose names he could remember, not to pass such drastic legislation?

Besides this internal, there is ample external evidence to condemn this new legislation.

It apparently has not occurred to our republican trust-busting legislators that we have had four years' experience with a republican institution having all and greater powers than the new department will have. The industrial commission was created in June, 1898, and sat until February, 1902. It investigated, or pretended to investigate, numerous trusts and made 19 volumes of reports, averaging nearly 1,000 pages each. It made some milk-and-water recommendations, all of which have been ignored by the republican body which created it. If this great commission, composed of senators, representatives and industrial experts, and having full power to inquire into all corporations—including railroads, which are debarred in the new department—accomplished nothing, after four years of arduous effort and with high salaries, what may we expect of this new department, with limited powers to investigate and publish facts? Nothing, surely, except that it will satisfy the president and may prevent effective anti-trust legislation, and thus gain time for the trusts—every such year's time being worth hundreds of millions to the trusts. If so, it will have accomplished its sinister object.

More external evidence is the fact that all the so-called "anti-trust" legislation that has passed this year has passed while the senate was deadlocked by the statehood bill, with Senator Quay in charge. One word from Quay would have prevented this bill. If the trusts had asked it, Senator Quay would have said that word, for he is, par excellence, the representative of the trusts.

BYRON W. HOLT.

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS.

—The news is not that negro suffrage in the south has proved a failure, but that the republican party has discovered this.—Boston Globe.

—It may be those Rockefeller telegrams were sent by some other feller who somehow managed to learn what Rockefeller wanted.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

—Is Secretary Root working to raise a sectional and race issue in the next national campaign? James G. Blaine decided, some years ago, that there is not "another presidency in the bloody shirt."—Albany Argus.

—Mr. Roosevelt is going to have a strenuous time if he closes with the Standard Oil. Behind the president is a vast, unorganized, doubtful, puzzled public sentiment. Behind Rockefeller is a solid, intelligent body of enormous wealth. If he takes up this fight Mr. Roosevelt will forget all about San Juan hill.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

—The established policy of the republican party is to tax the people more than is necessary in order to create a surplus to lend to the banks without interest, so that the people can borrowing it back again by paying interest. This is financiering, and is the result long ago predicted in these columns of the master workings of the republican financiers.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"The rich are willing to do anything for the poor, except to get off their backs."—Count Leo Tolstoi.

Roosevelt Is Expensive.

President Roosevelt has expensive tastes; he entertains more than any of his predecessors; every week during the season there have been two or more entertainments, dinners, receptions, musicales, teas—pink and red. The renovating of the white house, just completed, cost $475,445; the original cost was less than $100,000. How this large sum has been expended is hard to say, but it has nearly all been spent on the inside decorations. The running expenses for this year were $40,000; there is appropriated for next year, $50,300. The lighting of the white house and grounds cost this year $17,180; next year it will be $24,680. When the items of these expenditures are published it will be interesting to know how it was expended. The less than two years of the present administration has so far cost more than a whole term of any other president.

Hanna's Vote-Getting Bill.

Senator Hanna has cast all measures in the shade by his ridiculous "slave pension bill." No one for a moment supposes that it will pass congress. Not even Senator Hanna could keep his face straight were he asked if he believed the measure would become a law. In fact, he excuses its introduction by apologetically indorsing it as presented "by request." It was a most mischievous thing, however, to have done. It will arouse a vain hope among the negroes of the south that they are to be pensioned by the government, and it will stir into activity those who on various occasions have deluded these poor people with such hopes and induced them to part with their little savings to "help it along." If Senator Hanna isn't ashamed of himself he ought to be.—N. Y. Herald (Ind.).

FROM ALL OVER THE STATE.

GANG OF COUNTERFEITERS.

Thousands of Spurious Silver Dollars Passed in Eastern Kentucky.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 28.—United States Secret Service Agent M. P. Bolan has succeeded in unearthing a gang of counterfeiters in the mountain recesses of Eastern Kentucky, who, it is estimated, have made and passed upon the merchants of several Eastern Kentucky towns thousands of spurious silver dollars, which required an expert to detect from the genuine. As a result one of their number, Jed Kincaden, aged 45 years, is under arrest in this city and charged with the offense. He has made a confession and implicates Lut Nelson, Edward McClanahan and Lou Hafer.

In his statement to the officers he has outlined the precise method of operation, and has given information which it is thought will lead to the arrest and conviction of the entire gang.

Their rendezvous was located about four miles from Augusta, in Bracken county, but when the officers arrived on the scene the molds and other paraphernalia had disappeared. Agent Bolan swore out a warrant and the writ was placed in the hands of United States Deputy Marshal R. True. The latter, assisted by Depnty Sheriff Read Nutter, of Scott county, after a search of eight days, finally ran upon Kincaden and brought him to this city. It is said that Kincaden and some of the gang he worked with are wanted at Covington.

SHOOTING IN COURT.

Bitter Legal Argument at Hindman Resulted in a Desperate Fight.

Hindman, Ky., Feb. 26.—Hiram Fitzpatrick was shot and probably fatally wounded by John Sawyer during the progress of the trial of Conly vs. Coburn, in the Knott county court.

Conly's attorney, J. M. Bailey, was assailing his opponent, A. L. Patrick, in bitter terms. Fitzpatrick, whose brother was involved in the case, rushed at Bailey, striking him several times about the face and head. Judge Roberts ordered him arrested. Deputy Sheriff Sutton summoned Sawyer to assist him in making the arrest. Fitzpatrick declared that he would not be arrested. Sawyer took hold of him to force him from the courtroom, and in the wrestle both fell from the door. Sawyer's revolver was discharged, the bullet striking Fitzpatrick in the left breast. Sutton at once took hold of Sawyer's revolver, but he fired again, shooting Sutton through the hand.

Sawyer was arrested and placed under $500 bail to the grand jury. Fitzpatrick is a cousin of T. Y. Fitzpatrick, congressman. Sawyer is in the lumber business.

CONFESSED THEY STOLE THEM.

A Sack of Valuable Rings Found on Two Boys.

Owensboro, Ky., Feb. 27.—Sanford McGalln and Otho Downs, white, both aged 20, were arrested Thursday night, and when searched a sack containing several valuable rings was found on them. They confessed having broken in Rounds' jewelry store a few weeks ago and stolen the rings. Downs said he sent his relations at Paintsville each a ring. They are suspected of having made several robberies in this city and vicinity during the past three weeks.

VENDERS OF HARD CIDER.

Were Forced to Take Out License By a Revenue Officer.

Beaver Dam, Ky., Feb. 26.—A government revenue inspector came here Tuesday and bought some intoxicating cider from two merchants and secured a bottle full from each. Later he went to them and informed them that they had been violating the revenue laws by selling intoxicating liquors without government license. Matters were settled with the inspector by each taking out government license.

Gave Strychnine By Mistake.

Shelbyville, Ky., Feb. 27.—A distressing accident occurred here resulting in the death of 9-year-old Katherine Shipman from a dose of strychnine administered by her mother by mistake for headache powder. The child is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Shipman.

Oil Property Sold.

Scottsville, Ky., Feb. 27.—The Mayfield-Dunn Oil and Gas Co. was transferred to Arkansas and Illinois capitalists. The company was organized in 1900, but has been unable to properly develop its territory because of lack of capital.

Accidentally Shot His Brother.

Henderson, Ky., Feb. 28.—Near Smith Mills, this county, Eddie Mills, aged 9, was accidentally shot by an older brother, who was trying to remove a shell from a single-barrel shotgun. The charge entered the boy's head, killing him instantly.

A Woman Killed.

Middlesboro, Ky., Feb. 28.—Jim King, coal miner, Thursday night mortally wounded Sis Kincaid, of Tennessee, who died Friday morning. The Kincaid woman was shot twice—in the arm and above the heart.

ACCORDING TO THE NEW LAW.

Lexington Attorneys Must Either Pay Licenses or Go to Jail.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 27.—About two weeks ago 21 lawyers practicing at the local bar were summoned before the police court to show cause why they should not be made to pay a license. They refused to appear, and the matter has remained in abeyance. Thursday afternoon City Prosecutor George C. Morgan caused warrants to be issued for each, upon which they were arrested and gave bond for their appearance. If the law imposing the tax is held good they must either pay now or go to jail.

HELD UNDER $2,000 BOND.

A Rural Mail Carrier Accused of Taking Decoy Packages.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., Feb. 26.—This afternoon W. L. Hunt, mail carrier of route No. 1, charged with taking a decoy package containing money, was given an examining trial before United States Commissioner G. H. Kirkpatrick. He was held to await the action of the grand jury under $2,000 bond, which he readily gave. The defendant passed up the case without offering any evidence. When the case goes to trial sensational evidence is promised.

INJUNCTION GRANTED.

Telephone Companies Prevented From Trimming Shade Trees.

Winchester, Ky., Feb. 26.—Some time ago the city council authorized the electric light and telephone companie to trim the shade trees on the streets where the branches interfered with the wires. J. W. Poynter, a local banker, secured an injunction to prevent this. The case attracted much attention and was argued by a number of lawyers from Lexington. Tuesday Circuit Judge Benton made the injunction perpetual. The case will go to the court of appeals.

BURNED ON PUBLIC SQUARE.

Whisky Taken From "Blind Tigers" Dumped Into a Hog-Scalding Kettle.

Lancaster, Ky., Feb. 28.—The curiosity of the public was aroused Friday morning by the appearance on the public square of a large "hog-scalding" kettle. There soon hove in sight a procession, composed of the various ministers of the town, members of the Law and Order league, Mr. J. A. Beasly, representing the city council, and other citizens, bearing jugs, bottles and other receptacles, the contents of which they poured into the cauldron. Rev. A. R. Moore then approached and applied a match to the liquid, which proved to be whisky.

The material for this novel bonfire was the spoils secured by members of the Law and Order league in their recent raid on the "blind tigers" of the town.

A Burley Scheme.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 28.—Burley tobacco growers from all sections of the state met here to discuss the incorporation of a $5,000,000 company, to control the burley tobacco trade of this state, Ohio and Indiana. James M. Gaune, of Carrollton, presided, and C. M. Deane, of Carroll county, acted as secretary. Addresses were made by W. B. Hawkins, state organizer, and John Botts, of Shelby county. The enterprise requires the co-operation of nearly all the growers of burley tobacco.

Disastrous Fire in Frankfort.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 28.—Frankfort had a $40,000 fire Friday morning, which throws 140 shoe factory girls out of employment. The fire was discovered in the Haley building, on Main street, about 3 o'clock. The losses are as follows: Frankfort Shoe Co., $14,000, insurance, $10,000; Rupert Wholesale Grocery Co., $18,000, insurance $6,000; Dennis Haley heirs on building, $7,000, insurance $4,000; Beckham guards, state militia, loss of guns and equipments, $1,500, no insurance.

Sold For $103,000.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., Feb. 27.—A. T. Forsyth, auctioneer, sold at auction on the premises 1,127 acres of blue grass lands, belonging to the estate of F. M. Ewing. The lands were in five tracts and brought a total of $103,000, an average of $81.12 per acre.

To Assess Railway Franchises.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 26.—The Kentucky board of valuation and assessment will on Wednesday, March 4 next, begin assessment of franchises of railroad corporations operating in the state for the year 1903.

Engine Strikes a Rock.

Olive Hill, Ky., Feb. 28.—A local passenger train on the Chesapeake & Ohio struck a rock in a cut a few miles east of here and the engine was knocked off the track, delaying traffic for several hours. No one was injured.

Farmer Dropped Dead.

Maysville, Ky., Feb. 27.—Edward Foley, aged about 50, a farmer, dropped dead at his home near Fern Leaf, this county, Thursday morning. Heart disease was the cause. He leaves a wife and family.

BOONE CO. RECORDER
Wednesday, - - Mch. 4, 1903.
W. L. RIDDELL, - - Publisher.

We are authorized to announce J. W. Kennedy, of Union, as a candidat for the legislature, subject to the action of the Democratic Party.

We are authorized to announce James A. Duncan as a candidate for clerk of the Boone circuit court, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce Jas. H. Craven, of Verona, as a candidate for Clerk of the Boone Circuit Court. Subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce T. T. HEDGER, of Georgetown, Scott county, as a candidate for Commissioner of Agriculture. Subject to the will of the Democratic party. Primary election, May 9th, 1903.

The members of the Boone County Democratic Executive Committee are hereby called to meet at 10 o'clock a. m. in Burlington, on March 21st 1903. Business of importance will come before the meeting.

A. B. ROUSE, Chairman.

IN Somerset there are nine churches, ten bar-rooms and "standing room only in the county jail."

The Continental Tobacco Company's representatives at Cynthiana, Carlisle and Augusta are said to have so far bought 1,000,000 pounds of Robertson county's leaf tobacco at from 6½ to 10½ cents a pound.

IN 1900 the 75,000,000 people in the United States used 66,000,000 gross of common pins, which is equal to 9,500,000,000 pins, or an average of about 123 pins for every man, woman and child in the country.

IF the fellow who claims to have discovered a process by which water can be converted into a good article of fuel had had his plant in operation this winter, he could have run on full time in almost any locality.

The largest tobacco sale ever made in Montgomery County was that of J. G. and J. C. Hamilton to J. H. Hisle for the Continental Company, being their crop of 1902, containing 225,000 pounds at an average of 8 cents.

The Fiscal Court of Jefferson and Carroll counties have made liberal appropriations towards a Kentucky exhibit at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis, next year. Will Boone's Fiscal Court do anything of the kind?

Georgetown Ohio, News-Democrat: Within less than ten days after the bill putting coal on the free list had been passed, anthracite, that had been retailing at $15 and $18 a ton, went to $7 60. Oh, no, the tariff is not the mother of trusts. It is the whole family—old man, old woman, and the family dog.

Do those candidates who charge Gov. Beckham with building up a political machine throughout the State because he appointed his friends to office, want it understood that if they are nominated and elected that none of their friends need apply for official positions under them? If that is what they mean they will not carry a magisterial district in the State. Come, gentlemen, be honest and fair enough to not criticise the only thing you will do if given a chance.

Whenever a democratic governor is so afraid of his own administration that he will favor some undemocratic scheme in order to perpetuate himself in office without allowing his party to make a platform of principles, then it is high time the democratic boys at home should go to work and thrust him from power.—Mayfield Messenger.

Don't the Messenger remember when, a few years ago, the platform beat the Democratic nominee for Governor?

No one questions Mr. Hendrick's ability as an entertaining public speaker, but there is no question about some of his utterances being very impolitic. From his speeches it is inferred that if he is nominated and elected Governor of Kentucky none of those who support him in the primary election need expect him to appoint them to office. According to his views as expressed on the stump Gov. Beckham's besetting political sin has been the organization of a political machine by appointing his friends to official position. Mr. Hendrick will not appoint his friends to office if nominated and elected Governor, ah, no!

JAMES H. CRAVEN.

The above is a good picture of James H. Craven, of Verona precinct, who is announced in this issue as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for clerk of the Boone circuit court. Mr. Craven is in his fortieth year, is a handsome bachelor and a straight-from-the-shoulder Democrat. He has been prominent in educational circles for many years, and is one of the best teachers in this part of the State. If he is nominated and elected he will make a good official.

WHILE the Mayfield Messenger is clearly opposed to the State Democratic primary election it produces some good arguements shown by the following paragraph taken from its issue of February 19th.

"This is really the first time in the history of the State when the masses could join in naming the nominee for Governor. They have it in their own hands and now is the time to sit down on this "ring-rule business" with such a thud that it will drive the last one from power."

"For the first time in the history of our State government will the democrats at home assist in naming the state offices."

"The men who are free from political combines will win in the State primary."

FOR several weeks the RECORDER has carried an advertisement of the Walton Perpetual Building and Loan Association, one of the substantial financial institutions of this part of Kentucky. This association has handled an immense amount of money since its organization, every cent of which has been accounted for by those through whose hands it passed. The officers at all times have been selected from the best business men in Walton and surrounding country, and the affairs of the Association have been zealously looked after and kept in shape, and that Walton and vicinity have been greatly benefitted by the Association is acknowledged by all who are familiar with its history. The Association produces figures by which it demonstrates that the man who borrows money will find it to his interest to patronize it, and there is no question, but what he will receive honest treatment. There is a prejudice against Building Associations in some quarters, but the showing the Walton Perpetual Building and Loan Association makes will surely neutralize any prejudice that may have existed against it in the past.

AN Illinois paper says: "During the recent cold weather, when coal trains were being held up by the bankers and leading citizens of small towns in Central Illinois, many farmers who lived at considerable distances from these towns were compelled to burn corn for fuel. Many of the farmers whose coal bins had been swept clean of every particle of fuel, had well-filled corn cribs, and they did not hesitate in their dire necessity to resort to burning the grain. Corn has been selling in that section of the state for 35 cents a bushel. Hard coal, delivered in barrels by the express companies, has cost as much as $18 and $20 a ton. Only a few were able to get the fuel even at that price. There was nothing left for them to do but to draw on the corn cribs. Corn makes a poor substitute for coal, and it is expensive fuel, but the farmers thought it better to use it than to freeze. Many of the farmers who were forced to burn corn were among the wealthiest land owners. In the country a few miles from Charlestown a physician found a family in a luxurious home, huddled around a grate in which corn was being burned. The family had been depending upon corn to keep them warm for several days, and said they had not suffered from the cold. This is the first time in over a quarter of a century that the farmers have had to resort to their grain stores for fuel."

THE Tobacco Growers' Association of the White Burley District held an enthusiastic meeting in Lexington last Thursday. The object of the Association is to resist the tobacco trust, or to compel it to accord to the tobocco growers better treatment. At the meeting last Thursday many things were said that tend to show that the warehouses and trusts are in league. Mr. Hawkins, one of the speakers estimated that the white burley district produces 200,000,000 pounds of tobacco annually, 60 per cent of which the Association will surely handle. He estimated that after paying the farmer 12 cents for his tobacco the Association will have a profit of one cent a pound. This would practically double the present prices.

Several very interesting speeches were made on the tobacco question in which facts and figures were given tending to show that the tobacco grower, especially the white burley grower is the victim of a systematic grind. These speeches with the reports from the various counties represented at the meeting indicated that the movement has taken firm hold and is growing rapidly. The secretary, Mr. Dean, stated that the prospects now are that the Tobacco Growers' Association will be fully organized by May 1 and that beyond a doubt the association will handle the next crop of "white burley." Every effort will be made to complete the organization and secure the necessary 40,000 signers to the agreement by March 26 when another meeting will be held.

It was also decided by the committee to increase the capitalization of the association to $5,000,000 instead of $3,000,000. The association has been incorporated under the laws of South Dakota and about $100,000 of the stock subscribed has been paid up. The shares are worth $10 each, but the subscribers are as yet asked to pay only a small per cent. This is for the working of the association until the permanent organization is effected.

The growers of this (Boone) county will meet in Union on the 7th inst., where they will be addressed by gentlemen who can explain the object and working of the association fully. A very large attendance of growers is expected at Union at 1 p. m. next Saturday.

No doubt Gov. Bob Taylor, of Tennessee, expressed the wishes of a great many Southern people when he said:

"I hope Senator Hanna's bill to pension the former slaves will become a law. It is just what the south deserves, and will bring some of that $100,000,000 we pay out every year to veterans in the north back to the south. It will equalize things, for you know about all of the old slaves live south of the Mason and Dixon line. The money would be put into circulation immediately upon its receipt, and there would be plenty of prosperity in the south. The old negro men could marry young negro girls, and when the husband died the wife could be given a widows pension, just the same as done up north. In this way the money would keep coming in, and the pensioners would keep spending it; but the bill will not be passed. It is too good. Those who were slaves are growing old and feeble now, and need the money. The bill will stay where it is—with the committee on pensions in the senate."

IN his letter to R. J. Breckinridge declining to meet him in joint discussion, Governor Beckham says: "I think it altogether unnecessary and unwise to have any such joint discussions. In the campaign I shall make for the nomination no word will ever escape my lips that would in the least endanger the cause in the general election if any opponent of mine should be selected as the nominee of the party. I must therefore, decline your courteous invitation."

The Governor's position is eminently correct.

John Alsbury, who was known through Central Illinois as "the man who ran against Lincoln for the Legislature, died at the county poor farm at Buffalo, Ill. Mr. Alsbury was eighty-three years old. He came to this State in 1830. Alsbury had considerable of a following and when Lincoln was nominated for the Legislature in 1842 he was selected to run against him. During the latter years of his life Alsbury became a Populist and was the Populist nominee for Congress in 1896.

TO BORROWERS!

The Walton Perpetual Building and Loan Association on Nov. 15th 1893,

Loaned a Man $500.

His number in the Association's records was 389. Each week thereafter he paid

$1 for Credit on his Debt

and 60c interest. January 16, 1901, this book was filled and paid out having been in existence

7 Years and 2 Months.

The records show that during this time he paid $231 20 as interest and received

$139.79 in Dividends.

He therefore paid $91.41 net interest or $12.74 per year. It is clear that

He Had the Use of $500

for only one-half of the time, or $250 for the full time. An easy calculation shows he paid only 5 1-10 per cent interest.

Attention is Called to the fact that payments made by members of this Association earn dividends from date of their weekly payments,

Keeping the Borrower's

money and dividends always at work and not lying idle as is the case when hoarded to make payments on obligations given to a bank or individual.

It is Vastly Easier to pay

debts in such small installments than to meet the full amount when one is unprepared.

Pictures from the Corridors of Time.

[Contributed by Pupils of League Institute, Verona, Kentucky.]

"We have not wings, we can not sore,
But we have feet to scale and climb.
By slow degrees, by more and more
The cloudy summit of our time."

"Heaven is not reached at a single bound
We build the ladder by which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies
And we mount to the summit round by round."

As I sat conning o'er and o'er some favorite gems of literature, suddenly I seemed to be transported into an unknown realm; and casting around me, I beheld a venerable care-worn man whom I instinctively recognized as Father Time. He [illegible] through the corridors of the Past that I might study the pictures of those immortal in song and story.

The first was a picture of primeval beauty; a lovely pair, reveling in simplicity and spotless innocence. They sat upon a downy bank, adorned with the rarest of flowers; and were surrounded by a grove of cedars, pines, and [illegible] palms. For their sustenance, trees laden with the goodliest fruit. So lovely was the sight that vernal delight and joy reigned in my heart.

Alas! how transient were these feelings. Soon I saw the temples, the destroyer enter this sacred enclosure, and they who were hitherto all in all to each other, were now engaged in bitter accusations, and in the very depth of their unhappiness meditating self destruction. My guide told me this was the fruit of man's first disobedience which brought death and all our woe. My sorrow was somewhat alleviated when he led me on, and pointed to a patriarchcal face, indicative of integrity and holiness, who, by his consecration to God, was endeavoring to make atonement for his inheritance. I was struck with the indifference of his contemporaries to his entreaties to resist the wiles of the still active tempter, and thus avert the impending vengeance of an angry God. Vain, however, were his efforts to induce them to take passage in his Ark of safety.

And now I gaze in inexpressible admiration. Said the old man: "Here is a picture whose beauty it is impossible to flatter by the most lavish encomiums. It is above all ages. Nothing can exhaust the riches of truth in him. Here we see the highest consciousness of God that ever existed in the breast of humanity. To tear his name from the world, would be to rend it from its foundation."

A little farther on was one that was the greatest scourge that ever afflicted the human family. His principles were inculcated through a vile instrument known as the Koran, and his followers were purchased with the promise of a sensual paradise.

Passing many others of rare beauty and symmetry, I found myself irresistibly drawn to a face, whom the guide called the great Epic Poet of Christianity. He had thrown a bright and never fading halo around his picture by selecting and illustrating an event of the most universal and eternal interest to the whole human race. "The Creator and Fall of Man."

Interspersed with these pictures were some of great interest to all lovers of elegance and true beauty. I observed that they were nameless. Upon interrogating my guide, he replied that such were the decrees of fate, that the deeds of woman should make but a silent impression upon the canvass here below, but that they would be indelibly outlined upon enduring tapestry in close proximity to the great white throne.

In the 18th century stands a character, sublime in its purity. Said the old man: "He was first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

I learned that each one to whom immortal life is given, furnishes a picture for this wonderful gallery. Each one fashions and colors his picture to suit himself; each stroke of the brush is indelible; no device of the artist can obliterate it; there it will remain forever for the inspection of future generations.

May we so guide our hand and make such an application of materials furnished us that we may not convulsively start and back recoil at sight of the picture that we ourselves have made.

Carrollton (Texas) News:—People sometimes decline to subscribe for their home paper for the reason that they already take several papers published in New York or elsewhere.

Yet these same people often ask and receive favors from the local papers, while none are received or expected from the far-off journal.

When they wish to express gratitude for kindly assistance during sickness or misfortune, the local paper is asked to publish a card of thanks.

When they wish to have a supper or reception of any kind, the local paper is asked to give it a free notice.

When a public meeting is to be held for any purpose, they want the local paper to give it due publicity.

When they want their town boomed, so as to increase the value of their property they call on the local paper.

When they want a new railroad, or factory built, they expect the local paper to work for it with all its might.

When a death occurs in the home, they expect the local paper to report it in tender, sympathetic strain, and to extol the virtues of the deceased.

When a birth or wedding occurs in the family, they expect the local paper to give a description of the event.

When they are trying to build up churches or schools, the local paper is asked to give them good strong puffs.

If there is a battle for right in the county or precinct the editor is expected to bear the brunt of it.

Thus, people are constantly receiving favors from the local paper, but many fail to show their appreciation by subscribing for it.

Hardly a season passes that the papers do not print accounts of the raising of wheat from seed found in pyramids, where it has lain from anywhere from 2,000 to 4,000 years. Committees from the British association and investigations by the United States Department of Agriculture have shown these accounts to be fictitious. Seeds of many species of plants have been found in mummy cases, but in no instances have they been found alive, and all attempts to cultivate them have proved failures. Wheat seldom preserves its vitality beyond ten years. These Egyptian seeds, like the mummies, have been oxidized to the center.—Exchange.

SIN OF IMPATIENCE.

Human Failing Which Robs the Soul of Victory and Blessing.

Spiritual Impatience as Distinguished from Impatience of the Flesh—Sermon by the "Highway and Byway" Preacher.

[Copyright, 1903, by A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Co.]

Chicago, March 1, 1903.

Text.—"For ye have need of patience, that, after ye have done the will of God, ye might receive the promise."—Heb. 10:36.

If faith is the golden-runged ladder by which the soul climbs up to the presence of God, patience is the gentle and never-tiring attendant who keeps the soul waiting on the threshold of God's will until the blessing is received. If unbelief is the mist which shuts out the face of God from the soul and blinds it to the only safe path in Christ Jesus, impatience is the spade wherewith man digs the grave into which are cast his peace of mind and sometimes his hope of Heaven. Patience is a virtue of such glorious beauty as to make God willing to be called a God of patience. Impatience is a vice which sputters and finishes in the human heart and life and causes more unhappiness and shatters more nerves than any other one thing. As the emery put into the oil will soon grind out the finest bearings and ruin the most costly machinery, so impatience injected into the machinery of home, social and business life will cut the smooth surfaces and create discord and trouble where harmony before prevailed. Patience is constructive, but impatience is relentlessly destructive. God's word declares that patience worketh experience, but the impatient man or woman or child with shut eyes and fingers pressed into the ears rushes madly into the face of experience and never learns. Patience is to the human life what the conserving forces of nature are to the earth and the universe. Patience prevents wastefulness of energy and power; it guards against destructive violence and disintegrating processes. Patience is the safety valve that keeps the boiler of human dynamics under safe pressure and prevents the destructive explosion. Patience is the great flywheel that keeps the engine of the daily existence running true and steady. Patience is a sum in addition, and according to Peter's formula adds to itself godliness or Godlikeness. But in this on-rushing, restless age the feverish hand of man has woven into the fabric of his life the unhappy word "impatience." He has chiseled the same word in the archway which spans the entrance to business and industrial life, and as he moves about he exhales an atmosphere which is heavy with the deadly miasma of impatience.

Scripture which speaks of God as a God of patience calls attention to the patience of Jesus Christ, to the patience of Job, and Paul refers to his own patience. The prophets are held up as examples of patience, and the churches at Ephesus, Thyratira and Philadelphia were commended for their patience. Even the patience of the Scriptures is declared. This last is rather a peculiar expression, but is full of deep spiritual meaning. It is most natural to speak of the patience of Jesus Christ, as we think of His 18 years at the carpenter bench and of His three years of faithful ministry while He faced the accursed death upon the cross. We do not consider it out of place for Paul to refer to his own patience as we follow him in his tedious and perilous missionary tours and see how in every place he first sought out the Jews and preached to them Jesus, despite their bitter hostility and persecution. When James speaks of the prophets as examples of patience we can but say amen as we recall their long-suffering patience in delivering the message of God to a wayward and perverse nation. When Job is raised to the pinnacle of human attainment by the same inspired writer and is held out as the great exemplar of patience outside of Christ Himself, simple justice concedes him the place without argument. But when God speaks of the patience of the Scriptures, the expression at once challenges attention. What does it mean? It means that God's marvelous secret of the redemption of man has been gradually unfolded to the mind and heart of man as fast as it was safe so to do. The first promise in Genesis that the seed of the woman should bruise the serpent's head held within its simple phrase the germ from which was to spring the glorious plant of salvation. As the first faint blush of the dawning morn prepares one for the coming of the glorious sun, so this promise spread a rose tint over the horizon of man which awakened in his heart the hope of a coming light. And each new promise sent out its gleam of light and prepared his vision for the full blaze of glory of the Son of Righteousness as He rose with healing in His wings. And herein is manifested the patience of the Scriptures, in that they have so gradually, step by step, led man from the deep valley of death in sin outside the Garden of Eden, up, up, over the way blazed by Enoch, Noah, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, Moses, David and the prophets, until Calvary's heights are scaled and the full glory of the cross bursts upon the human vision.

The patient in the darkened room would have his restored eyesight burned out forever if suddenly the full light of the noonday sun were allowed to stream into the room. The doctor knows that the eyes must gradually become accustomed to the full light of day, and so when the bandages are removed the greatest care is exercised. Each day sees a little more light admitted to the patient's room, and after days and days of patient waiting, at last the full glow of the glorious sunlight is allowed to stream into the room. So it is with the unfolding of the Scriptures. How patiently through the centuries did the Holy Spirit brood over the Divine secret, and paint in each color until the manger at Bethlehem, the cross on Calvary, and the rock-hewn tomb, from which streamed the triumphant light of the risen Saviour, stood out in clear, bold relief upon the canvas of God's infinite love and mercy. Well indeed may we let our thoughts dwell upon the patience of the Scriptures as we begin the consideration of our theme, the sin of impatience. Ah, if God had not so patiently unfolded in the Scriptures the awfulness of sin and the complete salvation there is in Christ, men would have been consumed with the brightness of His coming, just as the unrepentant who are now blinding their eyes to the truth will be some day.

There are two phases of this sin of impatience to which we wish to direct your attention: First, the one of impatience in Christian service, against which our text is especially directed; and second, the one of impatience in the secular things of the daily life. We might designate them as spiritual impatience and impatience of the flesh. They both spring from the same root. They are both sinful. They both carry their weight of sorrowful consequences. But spiritual impatience too often passes for commendable zeal in the Lord's work and appears as a virtue to those who see not with the clear vision of Christ; while the impatience of the flesh is not able to disguise its presence, even though it finds ready excuse in the trying circumstances which gave it birth. Spiritual impatience arises from lack of faith and imperfect knowledge of God and His promises. Impatience of the flesh springs from a multitude of irritating conditions in the human life. It soon becomes a habit which sounds out in the life a discordant strain, and spreads an unwholesome influence upon all about.

What is more discouraging in church or Sunday school than the impatient Christian who frets because plans do not work out just as it was expected or purposed they should; who condemns associates because they are not as faithful and enthusiastic in the work as is he; who becomes weary in well-doing and grows careless and indifferent when souls are not won for Christ as was prayed for and as there was reason to suppose they would be; who loses faith in God's promises when the blessing fails to come on the time set and in the way planned; who in sanctimonious pride and self-appointed zeal seeks to make God's programme for Him, and then is offended if the all-wise God fails to carry it out in full detail? O, yes, every church and every Sunday school has its impatient Christian who is constantly creating discord and trouble.

And what an irritating, exasperating element in the home is the impatient father or mother or child. He or she is hardly out of bed in the morning before the impatient spirit takes possession of the heart. The sunshine may be streaming in at the window, and nature all atune with melody, but let the impatient spirit begin to strike its discordant notes, and the atmosphere of that home takes on a hue as blue as indigo, a chill settles down upon every heart that stifles every good thought and intention, and from that time on the devil has pretty much his own way. He makes the coffee appear rank and muddy; he gives the rich brown crisp bacon a burnt and unpalatable taste; he turns the nice light pancakes into heavy, soggy things that are not fit to eat; in fact he holds high carnival in that home and is kept busy sowing tares that are sure of an abundant and early harvest. The impatient word or look, the impatient action, are potent for evil, and can change the sunshine of the home into ugly darkness, the melody of tuneful hearts into distracting discord, and the warmth of loving souls into the frigid coldness of wicked hate. O, the impatient member in the home is worse than famine or pestilence, because he not only starves the goodness all out, but he breeds great swarms of ugly progeny that poison and kill the pure, wholesome life that should thrive there.

And the impatient person is found everywhere, on the street, in the office, at the public assembly, on the train, in the street car, yes, everywhere. Watch for him. Perhaps you will have to take a looking glass to see him sometimes. And wherever the impatient soul breathes and speaks and acts he strikes sparks that set new fires and spread the evil influence. The sin of impatience! Oh, who can measure it?

Spiritual Impatience.—But let us consider this sin more in detail, and first of all we will talk about, what we have been forced to call for want of a better name, Spiritual Impatience. Our text says: "For ye have need of patience, that after ye have done the will of God, ye might receive the promise." It is addressed to the Christian. It boldly and plainly declares that there is a lack in the life which is destroying the beautiful effect of doing the will of God and is robbing the soul of the fruit which would surely be garnered in the fullness of God's time.

Patience is the bridge which connects the beautiful land of God's will with the treasure house of Divine gifts. The obedient soul walks faithfully through the land of God's will, and in the distance can be seen the certain reward of the promise. But the bridge of patience must be crossed before the coveted possession can be gained. Many a Christian succeeds in doing the will of God up to the point where the bridge of patience begins, and then, instead of keeping the eyes steadfastly fixed upon the promise until it is reached, he grows impatient, and, turning back, loses all the blessing that comes from doing God's will. The bridge of patience is the hardest part of the journey.

It was the way over which Christ was forced to go before He could say: "It is finished," and give to the world the gift of salvation. It was the route which echoed with the tireless tread of Paul's feet, and which led him to heights where he could sing: "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the Righteous Judge, shall give me at that day." It is the pathway over which the prophets of old were compelled to travel. Their faith in seeing the way of the Lord and His promises, and their patience in waiting for that which they knew was to be realized, gave to the Jewish nation and all the world the fulness of the promises, and will give yet more fully as the time of further fulfillment arrives. The bridge of patience through all the centuries has been pressed by the feet of the saints who have successfully wrought for God. They must needs have had patience else after doing the will of God they would not have received the fulfillment promise. And oh, how the Christian in this rushing and bustling age needs patience to steady him through the period that lapses before the fruit of service is gathered! The farmer sows the seed, but the harvester does not immediately follow the planter. There must be rain and sunshine, and harrowing, and then waiting, patient waiting, before the hope of the farmer is realized. So in the Christian life and service. The toiler in the Lord's vineyard has great "need of patience," in order that having done the will of God, he "might receive the promise." For,

"God doth not bid thee wait
To disappoint at last;
A golden promise, fair and great,
In precept-mold is cast.
Soon shall the morning gild
The dark horizon's gray;
Thy heart's desire shall be fulfilled
'Wait patiently for Him.'

"The weary waiting times
Are but the muffled peals
Low preluding celestial chimes,
That hail His chariot wheels.
Trust Him! tune thy voice
To blend with seraphim;
His 'Wait' shall issue in 'Rejoice!'
'Wait patiently for Him.'

"He doth not bid thee wait,
Like drift wood on the wave,
For fickle chance or fixed fate
To ruin or to save.
Thine eyes shall surely see,
No distant hope or dim,
The Lord thy God arise for thee:
'Wait patiently for Him.'"

Impatience of the Flesh.—Misguided human nature has come to believe and feel that it has a right to manifest impatience. In fact it is viewed often in the light of a passive if not an active virtue. The impatient person is the least conscious of anyone of the failing, and almost always calls the fault by a more dignified and respectable name. The Christian is in very great danger of falling into this condition in his attitude towards evil and towards people who are living in sin. He forgets how patient God is towards the sinner, and calls his impatience righteous indignation, or abhorrence of evil. Impatience, like the spark which reveals the presence of the powder keg, unmasks the inner self, and with the roar of the tempest the hidden passions flash forth. Oh, that I might open your eyes to the woes and troubles which are hatched out in the incubator of impatience! Greek mythology tells us that it was Pandora's curious hand which released the imps of evil in the world, but it is no mythological tale but faithful history which recounts the ills set adrift on the current of human life by the impatient hand of man. Impatience is a riotous fellow who is always stirring up trouble. Impatience is a heartless robber who steals away the peace and happiness of the home, the ennobling thought and inspiration of the study, the success of the office, the harmonious cooperation of the mill and factory, the exhilarating pleasure of the playground, the agreeable, elevating atmosphere of social function. He steals away a man's judgment, rifles him of his self-control and then turns him loose an easy victim to the horde of riotous fellows who follow in his trail. Impatience is such a little sin that it creeps in unawares, and has one floored before he realizes it. Yes, impatience seems like such a little sin that it is allowed to fester in the heart and life. But if you will trace the ever-widening, ever-darkening lines of radiation as they spread out from the little impatient thought, or word, or action, you will be appalled that so little a seed can bring forth so large a tree, that so slight a pinch of leaven can permeate the whole mass of dough.

The Cure.—And how may the sin of impatience be eradicated? How may the Christian worker tread the full length of the bridge of patience, so that the promise may at last be clasped in the hand that has faithfully wrought the will of God? How may the impatience of the flesh be plucked up by the roots and cast away with its abundance of unwelcome fruit? Does God tell us we "have need of patience," and then fail to help us in our need? Nay, verily. But He Who has said: "Ye have need of patience," whispers in your heart and mine, as He did in the impatient heart of Paul as he fretted under his thorn in the flesh: "My grace is sufficient for you, for My strength is made perfect in weakness." The grace and strength of God are able to keep the Christian soldier standing waiting patiently for the reward of the promise. They are powerful enough to conquer the most impatient heart and make the tribulations of life blossom into the beautiful and fragrant flowers of patience. Yes, "ye have need of patience," but blessed be God forever, we have a God Who "can supply all our need," if we will but let Him. Will you?

HAZARDS TO HEALTH.

Undue Exposure to Winter Weather That May Result in Fatal Illness.

The majority of persons in the temperate zone delight in winter because of its sports and amusements. It brings with it, however, great hazards to health and a train of discomforts, some petty and others serious, but none of which is generally recognized as affecting the health; yet their alleviation and cure are often difficult, says the New York Herald.

It would raise the average of health significantly if the vast importance of precautionary measures could be impressed upon the public and attention drawn to the fact that these so-called petty discomforts are a menace to health.

There is a misunderstanding as to the benefits which cold weather confers. If in autumn and spring persons took the same amount of exercise and breathed as deeply as cold compels them to in order to maintain the normal heat of the body, they would find these seasons congenial to health. Most people know that freezing is as inimical to life as burning, but they seem to think that any degree of cold short of freezing is beneficial, and one hears pernicious talk about its stimulating effect, pernicious because it induces many persons to do foolhardy things.

Cold is beneficial only when, through the demand of oxygen to feed internal fires, the lungs are stimulated to their full duty. The circulation of the blood should be correspondingly accelerated, and it is as long as the body is kept warm. But the moment the hands, feet, nose or ears become stingingly cold, harm is done, and if, through insufficient clothing, this chill involves the limbs and extends to the shoulders or other parts of the body the danger is proportionately increased and may be the incipient cause of pneumonia, fevers or other disease.

A chill disturbs the capillary circulation, and in women this is so sensitive that its slightest disturbance may cause cutaneous disorders. Frequently the seeds of a winter's discomfort are sown during the first frosty evenings of autumn. Many take keen delight in the sharp tinglo of the air, but the benefit of its stimulating ozone is lost unless the body is protected from chill. Often the hands or feet become stingingly cold, and within 24 hours a burning irritation is felt in some part of the limbs. Because the hands are more commonly exposed than the feet the irritation is usually felt first in the upper arms, extending to the wrists, or involving the thighs and ankles in exact measure to the expoaure.

IT WAS A SLIGHT BREEZE.

One Time the Man from Canada Was Forced to Forget His Cheap Little Cyclone.

The man who lived in Canada opened the store door, and a gust of wind almost blew out the lamps.

"Shet it, quick!" yelled the storekeeper, making a grab for the wrapping paper.

The man paused with the door half open and surveyed the crowd in disgusted surprise. Then he carefully shut the door and took a seat as far from the crack in the wall as possible, relates Judge.

"Sho' it's windy!" said the town marshal. "Don't reckon them boats will try ter git out to-day."

The man eyed him pityingly. "Call this windy? Shucks! Why, up in Canada folks would say this was so nigh a dead calm that it warn't no use ter try ter go sailin'. 'Member one time—nothin 'out of the common up thar, but yon fellers might think it somethin'—I was a-helpin' ter build a house, an' long in the evenin' the wind commenced to git up pretty strong. By and by it got so strong that us that was workin' on the side of the house that the wind was a-blowin' against couldn't draw back our hammers against it ter hit the nails, an' it kept gittin' harder. Then I thought of a way, I would just hold a nail where I wanted it driv, an' that blamed wind was a-blowin' so hard that in less 'en a minute that nail would be driv' plum up. Got my side of the house finished 'fore them on the sheltered side was half done."

"Huh!" said the retired whaler, "don't call that sich a hard wind. The place to see the wind blow hard is up in the North sea. I recalls a little incident that took place when I was second on the Mary Jane bark, when we was a-winterin' up 'mongst the ice packs. An' bears? Them floes was jest natchally swarmin' with polar bears. We had muzzle loadin' guns in them days, an' every blarsted grain of our powder had got wet in a squall, so we jest had to set an' watch them fine fat bears walk up an' look at us sorter contemptious an 'then walk off.

"Wa'al, I didn't like that, so one day when thar was a little more of a breeze than usual I fill up a pocket with bullets an' go for a walk.

"In a little while I sees a bear right straight down the wind from me, so I takes out a bullet an' holds it up between my finger an' thumb an' then lets go. That bear dropped dead with a hole plum through him, an' I went on huntin' till all my bullets was gone. We killed more'n 1,000 bears that winter."

"Come back an' shet that door!" shouted the storekeeper after the man who had lived in Canada.

HAPPY AND HEALTHY.

A Beautiful Canadian Girl Saved From Catarrh of the Lungs by Pe-ru-na.

MISS FLORENCE KENAH.

Miss Florence E. Kenah, 434 Maria street, Ottawa, Ont., writes:

"A few months ago I caught a severe cold, which settled on my lungs and remained there so persistently that I became alarmed. I took medicine without benefit, until my digestive organs became upset, and my head and back began to ache severely and frequently.

"I was advised to try Peruna, and although I had little faith I felt so sick that I was ready to try anything. It brought me blessed relief at once, and I felt that I had the right medicine at last. Within three weeks I was completely restored and have enjoyed perfect health since.

"I now have the greatest faith in Peruna." P. E. KENAH.

WOMEN should beware of contracting catarrh. The cold wind and rain, slush and mud of winter are especially conducive to catarrhal derangements. Few women escape.

Upon the first symptoms of catching cold Peruna should be taken. It fortifies the system against colds and catarrh.

The following letter gives one young woman's experience with Peruna:

Miss Rose Gerbing is a popular society woman of Crown Point, Ind., and she writes the following:

"Recently I took a long drive in the country, and being too thinly clad I caught a bad cold which settled on my lungs, and which I could not seem to shake off. I had heard a great deal of Peruna for colds and catarrh and I bought a bottle to try. I am pleased that I did, for it brought speedy relief. It only took about two bottles, and I considered this money well spent.

"You have a firm friend in me, and I not only advise its use to my friends, but have purchased several bottles to give to those without the means to buy, and have noticed without exception that it has brought about a speedy cure wherever it has been used."—Miss Rose Gerbing.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

A lady who was especially fond of bargains came home from a sale and displayed her purchases.

"Why on earth have you bought this?" demanded her husband, taking up a brass plate for a door with the name of "Wilkins" on it.

"Well, it was so cheap," replied the wife. "Only think, I gave a quarter for it; and I'll be bound it cost a dollar!"

"But why throw away a quarter? What possible use is it?"

"Oh," said the bargainer, "you never know how things will come in. For instance, you might die, and I might marry a man named Wilkins."—Cleveland Leader.

STRIKES YOU ANY TIME.

Never know when or where backache pains will strike you. The kidneys will go wrong, and when they do, the first warning is generally through the back. Do not fail to help the kidneys when they're sick. Neglect means many serious ills. It's only a short step from common backache to Rheumatic pains, Urinary disorders, Dropsy, Diabetes, Bright's Disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure all ills of the kidneys and bladder. Read this testimony; it tells of a cure that lasts:

Mr. A. W. Lutz, carriage wood worker, of 109 17th Ave., Sterling, Ill., says: "After procuring Doan's Kidney Pills in the month of November, 1897, I took a course of the treatment which cured me of backache and other annoyances due to overexcited or weakened kidneys. During the three years which have elapsed, I have had no occasion to retract one word of my statement made at that time. I now unhesitatingly and emphatically re-endorse the claims made for Doan's Kidney Pills."

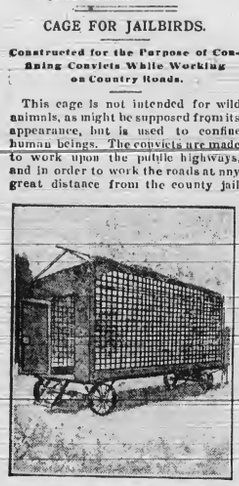
FARM WINTER CHORES.



My good wife often tells me, that "women's work is never done,
And you men folks only putter 'round the place from sun to sun."
But I reckon that us farmers always find a chore or two,
When the days are short, and nights are long, around the barn to do.
Don't you know their seems no end to fixin' here an' cleanin' there,
If you wish the stock to show in spring they've had a little care?
An' I've learned it pays good interest in sp[illegible]
Jes' to hustle in the winter, spite o' ice an' sleet an' snow.

I jes' hate to see the critters lookin' dirty, humped an' lean,
When a little bit o' extra work would make them fat an' clean.
You jes' brush the cattle with the card, an' do it every day,
For you'll find that when the buyer comes around you'll get your pay.
Don't forget to overhaul the harrow, mower, plow an' cart,
Fix them up ready for business when the buds begin to start;
Oh, there's lots o' tools need fixin' 'gainst the comin' day o' need,
An' it's now you've got to do it, 'fore the time o' plantin' seed.

it is necessary for the prisoners to camp out, so this steel car was constructed for the purpose of confining the convicts while working in the outlying districts. The cage is twenty feet long by eight feet six inches wide, and is eight feet from floor to roof. It is divided into two compartments; the larger one, for the prisoners, contains twelve bunks, and the smaller one has two bunks for the guards. The whole thing requires six horses to pull it over the country roads.—V. W. Gould, in Strand Magazine.

MANURE FOR POTATOES.

Commercial Fertilizers Have a Tendency to Prevent Scab and Roughness of Skin.

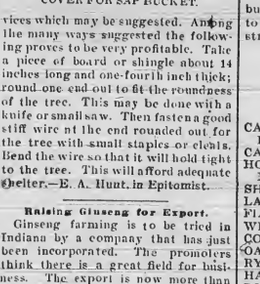
Most any of the proper commercial fertilizers will answer the purpose. It is claimed by some authorities that well-rotted barn manure, even if it is infected by the scab fungus, will not injure potatoes if thoroughly fined and then incorporated into the soil by repeated plowing and harrowing, as the action of the earth would destroy the fungus. But I believe this theory not sound. Some years ago I cleared away the remnants of an old log house which had not been tenanted in 20 years and plowed half an acre around where the house had stood, thinking I would have a fine, rich potato "patch." I was particular to plant clean seed, but the tubers proved to be as scabby a lot as I ever saw. How did this fungus get into that particular spot? The last family living in the house must have left it there. There was another seeming incongruity connected with this case. It is generally believed that an application of lime to potato ground rather promotes the growth of the scab fungus. The chimney of this old house was built from the ground on the outside, as was the custom in an early day. The stones were laid in lime mortar. When I first knew the premises the chimney had been down for many years, and the stones and mortar of which it had been constructed were scattered promiscuously about; but, strangely, where this mortar had lain the tubers were free from scab. I certainly cannot account for these cases of scab and no scab. My experience is that it is dangerous to use barnyard manure in any manner with growing potatoes.—N. Y. Tribune-Farmer.

Care of Horses in Spring.

Galled shoulders are very common in the spring when the horses are first put to work, and are easier prevented than cured, especially if the animal is kept at work. It is very important to see that the collars and harness fit properly; then the collars should be kept clean; keeping the collars well oiled will be a help. Wash the shoulders at noon and night with soft water after removing the harness. When the teams are stopped for a rest in the field, pull the collars away from the horses' shoulders; in this way galls may generally be prevented.—Midland Farmer.

ORCHARD MANAGEMENT.

Where Hogs and Poultry Are Allowed to Run, Wormy Fruit Will Be Hard to Find.



The subject of spraying, using moth traps and any other means to produce better fruit, is being discussed more and more every season. Having secured several hundred trees which will soon be bearing, I have been observing and learning everything possible on the subject, and have come to the following conclusion: Spraying intelligently done is the best method to pursue in order to have fruit free from worms, scab or rust and rot, but unless it is done rightly it is work and money thrown away. Among the farmers of those who do not make fruit growing a specialty, the operation is generally useless, owing partly to poor machines and cheap materials used and improper time of applying them. The moth trap is worse than nothing, as it catches more than 50 per cent. beneficial or harmless insects and does not prevent scab and rot. I have visited several orchards where these traps were used and invariably they have had the worst lot of apples that I ever saw. The finest fruit I have found was in orchards where hogs ran and cleaned up all wormy apples and poultry was also allowed free range. One orchard which I purchased had chicken coops under nearly every apple tree, and out of twenty-five barrels of Grimes there were not over three or four of wormy apples, and the same was true of other varieties; but scab was very bad and had the trees been sprayed for that trouble I believe fully 95 per cent. of the fruit would have been first class. In every instance, where many chickens were reared in the orchard the fruit was comparatively free from worms, and where both hogs and poultry were allowed free range the fruit was even better. This plan followed for a single season will not give such results, but should be followed every year so that the crop of codling-moth will be lessened each season.

This plan, then, should be adopted by farmers and fruit growers, where the orchard is not too large and could be fenced and used exclusively as a poultry yard. Guineas and ducks are even better than chickens at bug catching and will pay for their keep in this way. Some crops, such as cowpeas, soy beans or oats, may be planted for the hogs and poultry and without evil effects upon the trees. In this way the orchard will be one of the most paying spots on the farm.—E. B. Davis, in Prairie Farmer.

vices which may be suggested. Among the many ways suggested the following proves to be very profitable. Take a piece of board or shingle about 14 inches long and one-fourth inch thick; round one end out to fit the roundness of the tree. This may be done with a knife or small saw. Then fasten a good stiff wire at the end rounded out for the tree with small staples or cleats. Bend the wire so that it will hold tight to the tree. This will afford adequate shelter.—E. A. Hunt, in Epitomist.

Raising Ginseng for Export.

Ginseng farming is to be tried in Indiana by a company that has just been incorporated. The promoters think there is a great field for business. The export is now more than 500,000 pounds a year. The ginseng brings over six dollars a pound. It all goes to China, where it is a specific for all manner of ills. The report of a United States consul to that country is to the effect that millions of pounds more could be used if it could be supplied. The Indiana company proposes to plant two acres, and in a year it hopes to have its first crop. A Missouri man, it is said, made $20,000 on his first crop of an acre and a half of ground. As an evidence of the value of the root now it is said that ginseng seeds are retailing at five cents apiece, while two or three-year-old plants come at a fancy figure. The experiment of the ginseng farmers will be watched with much interest.

Truly Wonderful Cow.

A little four-year-old was taken on a visit to grandmamma in the country. There, for the first time, he had a near view of a cow. He would stand and look on while the man milked, and ask all manner of questions. In this way he learned that the long, crooked branches on the cow's head were called horns. Now, the little fellow knew of only one kind of horn, and a few days after obtaining this information, hearing a strange, bellowing noise in the yard, he ran out to ascertain its cause. In a few minutes he returned, with wonder and delight depicted on his countenance, exclaiming: "Mammal mammal oh, do come out here! The cow's blowing her hornsl"

KING TRAVELS IN LUXURY.

The New English Royal Train Is the Most Sumptuous Ever Before Devised.

The new royal train which was used by the king and queen for their recent journey to Gopsall Park is stated to have been built by the London & Northwestern Railway company at a cost of $300,000. It may be certainly said to be the most luxurious and the most beautifully appointed in the world. It consists of two royal coaches, each measuring 69 feet in length; three coaches for the suite and two brake vans, each 50 feet long. The whole train weighs 210 tons and is 385 feet long.

In the king's smoking-room, which is furnished in mahogany, inlaid with rosewood and engraved, uncomfortable lounge chairs are of green leather, and the curtains and carpets harmonize in tone with the chairs. The gilding of the finely wrought metal work, which is a feature throughout the train, is subdued so that there is no aggressive glitter to spoil the effect.

In a much lighter tone of green, with white enamel and satinwood furniture, inlaid with ivory, is the king's day compartment, which has exceptionally large windows. Even the handles of the ventilators in this and the other saloons are works of art in silver plate.

Here, too, as elsewhere, electricity plays an important part in the fittings. Electric fans and electric heaters are provided; in the king's saloon there are electric cigar lighters in silver, and there are several clever electric contrivances in the queen's saloon. Many of the lamps, shaded with pink or green silk, are portable.

In the queen's bedroom the predominating color is rose pink, against which the bed with its silver plate fittings makes a beautiful effect. Electric lamps peep out from unexpected corners and folds of silk, and the brocades used in the queen's boudoir combine a pale blue with another shade of pink.

BELL MAKES DIRIGIBLE KITE.

The Telephone Man Admits Flying Machine Experiments, But Keeps Details Secret.

Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, who has just returned to Washington from his summer home in Cape Breton island, made the following statement in connection with reports that have appeared in the public prints that he has invented a flying machine:

"The newspapers have been premature in announcing that I have been at work on a flying machine. I haven't any flying machine at all and have not been trying to make one. I am, of course, interested in the problem, and have come to the conclusion that a properly constructed flying machine should be capable of being flown as a kite, if anchored to the ground, and that conversely a properly constructed kite should be capable of use as a flying machine if provided with suitable means of propulsion.

"My experiments have had as their object the building of a kite of solid construction, capable of carrying up in a moderate breeze a weight equivalent to that of a man and engine, and so formed that it could be suitable for use as the body of a flying machine and with supporting surfaces so arranged that when the kite is cut loose it will come down gently and steadily and land uninjured. I have successfully accomplished this, but do not care at the present time to make public the details of construction."

WESTERN CANADA AROUSING GREAT INTEREST.

The Wonderful Yields of Wheat—Attracting Thousands.

Until the last five or six years but little attention was given to that vast area of grain-producing land lying north of the 49th parallel and immediately adjoining the northern boundaries of Minnesota and Dakota.

The Canadians themselves were aware of the wealth that lay there, but being unable to fully occupy it, they have asked the Americans to assist them in converting the land from its virgin state to one that will largely supplement the grain-producing area of the North American Continent, and the response has been most liberal.

During [illegible] 1901 upwards of 20,000 from the United States went over to Canada, being induced to settle there by the reports that reached them of the success of those who had preceded them during the previous years. This 20,000 was increased to 30,000 during the year 1902, and it is fully expected that there will be fully 50,000 during the present year. The work of the immigration branch of the Canadian Government is not now being directed towards giving information as to the advantages of settlement in Canada as it is to extending an invitation to the American to follow those who have gone.

Those who have charge of the work point with considerable pride to the success of those who have been induced to take advantage of the offer of 160 acres of land free in Canada, and have no cause to hesitate in continuing the invitation. Many of those interested say there are no more free homesteads to be had in Canada, but the Writer has most positive assurance from the Canadian Government that there are thousands of such homesteads to be had, and in one of the districts now being opened up fully as good as the best, and it is probably the best.

The Canadian Government has established Agencies at St. Paul, Minn.; Omaha, Neb.; Kansas City, Mo.; Chicago, Ill.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Milwaukee, Wis.; Wausau, Wis.; Detroit, Sault Ste. Marie and Marquette, Mich.; Toledo, Ohio; Watertown, S. Dakota; Grand Forks, N. Dakota, and Great Falls, Montana, and the suggestion is made that by addressing any of these, who are the authorized agents of the Government, it will be to the advantage of the reader, who will be given the fullest and most authentic information regarding the results of mixed farming, dairying, ranching, and grain growing, and also supply information as to freight and passenger rates, etc.

PA'S PROPOSITION.

Gave Gladys Maude's Admirer Something to Ruminate On at His Leisure.

"I ha-have cuc-cuc-come, Mr. Bub-bub-Broadhead," stammeringly said the callow and perturbed youth, writes Tom P. Morgan, in Woman's Home Companion, "I mmin-mean, I am er-an' here, as it were. You—we—I—"

"Just so!" interrupted old man Broadhead, surveying the length and breadth of the visitor with a speculative gaze. "You have arrived, and I judge you are now endeavoring to circumlocute around to the point of asking me for Gladys Maude. H'm—yes! So far, so good; but permit me to say that I am not so tired of my twenty-four-year-old daughter that I am hunting for a chance to give her away. I hardly feel able to support a son-in-law and I presume you could scarcely maintain me in the style to which I am accustomed, for you look to me very much as if you played the guitar fluently. So, tell you what I am willing to do; I won't give her to you, but I don't mind swapping her off for a boy about nine years old, with freckles on his nose. What d'ye say to that?"

Law-abiding Citizens Preferred.—First Footpad—"Why don't you rob that feller that just passed?" Second Footpad—"He don't look like a law-abiding citizen." "What difference does that make?" "I'm afraid he carries a gun."—N. Y. Weekly.

THE MEN AND WOMEN

Who Enjoy the Choicest Products of the World's Commerce.

Knowledge of What Is Best More Important Than Wealth Without It.

It must be apparent to every one that qualities of the highest order are necessary to enable the best of the products of modern commerce to attain permanently to universal acceptance. However loudly heralded, they may not hope for world-wide preeminence unless they meet with the general approval, not of individuals only, but of the many who have the happy faculty of selecting, enjoying and learning the real worth of the choicest products. Their commendation, consequently, becomes important to others, since to meet the requirements of the well informed of all countries the method of manufacture must be of the most perfect order and the combination the most excellent of its kind. The above is true not of food products only, but is especially applicable to medicinal agents and after nearly a quarter of a century of growth and general use the excellent remedy, Syrup of Figs, is everywhere accepted, throughout the world, as the best of family laxatives. Its quality is due not only to the excellence of the combination of the laxative and carminative principles of plants known to act most beneficially on the system and presented in the form of a pleasant and refreshing liquid, but also to the method of manufacture of the California Fig Syrup Co., which ensures that uniformity and purity essential in a remedy intended for family use. Ask any physician who is well informed and he will answer at once that it is an excellent laxative. If at all eminent in his profession and has made a special study of laxatives and their effects upon the system he will tell you that it is the best of family laxatives, because it is simple and wholesome and cleanses and sweetens the system effectually, when a laxative is needed, without any unpleasant after-effects. Every well-informed druggist of reputable standing knows that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative and is glad to sell it, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, because it gives general satisfaction, but one should remember that in order to get the beneficial effects of Syrup of Figs it is necessary to buy the genuine, which is sold in original packages only; the name of the remedy—Syrup of Figs—and also the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package.

Absalom G. Gaines, D. D., LL. D.

The Rev. Almon Gunnison, D. D.

On the 2d of February, Dr. Gaines for eighteen years the President of St Lawrence University, died at his home in Canton, N. Y., after a brief sickness. Dr. Gaines was born in Kentucky, March 19, 1827. He obtained at much sacrifice a collegiate education, and has been a life-long student. He had several successful pastorates in the Universalist Church, and was for some years Principal of the Clinton Liberal Institute, marrying one of its pupils. He was called to the pulpit of the Universalist church in Canton, N. Y., and came to the pastorate without candidating. From this he was called to a Professor's Chair in the University, and was in 1872 elected to its presidency. In 1890 he resigned the office, taking the professorship of psychology, ethics and political economy. His wife died in 1887. He leaves one son, Chas. K. Gaines, Professor of Greek and English.

The history of St. Lawrence University is the history of Dr. Gaines. Coming to its post of administration when it was in its plastic stage, he established its curriculum, made high standards of scholarship and inforced them with his own love of sound schoiarship; gathered around him a body of young men whom he inspired with his own ideals, created a strong Faculty, most of whose members were educated by him, and started it on that career of success which it has since maintained.

He was a man of strong personality, —resolute, fearless, tenacious of his opinions, yet tolerant with the catholicity which is the highest fruitage of scholarship. He was a profound thinker and indefatigable seeker of knowledge; he thought his way down to the foundations, was accurate in his processes and reached sound conclusions by severe analysis and most patient searching. He had a natural gift of teaching, was quaint in illustration and pungent in expression. He was original in his methods of discipline, holding his students to high scholarly and ethical standards yet so just and fair, that he had not only the respect but the admiration and reverend affection of his pupils. He followed them with his solicitude into their after life, and whenever they returned to their alma mater they went direct to his home to express to him their appreciation and affection. He was Outiring in service, and to be restrained from sacrifice rather than stimulated to it. In every crisis of the institution he was its most generous benefactor, and was not only the great teacher, but the wise administrator. He was self-effacing and knew no art of self-advertisement, was courteous, kind, full of sympathy, a father to loving of his children to be lenient to their faults, too wise to be forgetful of their frailties and limitations. His death was felt by the older students who had enjoyed his instructions in the days of his power, to be a personal bereavement, while the community where he lived for a generation sorrowed that a prince of Israel had fallen.

The funeral services took place in the Universalist church in Canton on February 5. A large number of graduates returned, twelve coming from New York and Brooklyn. A memorial service was held in the college chapel at one o'clock, which was a remarkable tribute to his worth. Eloquent addresses were made by General E. A. Merrit, President of the Board of Trustees, and by Foster L. Backus, W. R. Gunnison, Percy Bugbee, George Helme, Nelson Robinson, H. F. Gunnison, W. J. Rafferty, Judge L. P. Hale.

With voices broken by emotion those who occupied high positions and had come from large duties, spoke of their teacher and of their indebtedness to him for all they had become and all that they had done. No more touching tribute ever was paid to a teacher than the long journeys made by these men to be present at the burial of a teacher and to lay their flowers of reverent affection upon his grave.

A procession of trustees, faculty, graduates and under graduates was formed and proceeded to the church. Eight of the alumni acted as bearers. The services were simple yet impressive. They were conducted by President Gunnison, who made an address which sought to analyze Dr. Gaines' various qualities as a student, teacher, administrator and man. Revs. Drs. G W. Weaver and J. M. Payson assisted in the service and a male quartett rendered appropriate music.

With the death of Dr. Lee and Dr. Gaines the old regime of the University has closed. Those who made the foundations and built the walls have passed on and their names and work will be held in everlasting remembrance.

Tragedy Averted.

"Just in the nick of time our little boy was saved" writes Mrs. W. Watkins of Pleasant City, Ohio. "Pneumonia had played sad havoc with him and a terrible cough set in besides. Doctors treated him, but he grew worse every day. At length we tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and our darling was saved. He's now sound and well." Everybody ought to know, it's the only sure cure for Coughs, Colds and all Lung diseases. Guaranteed by W. F. McKim, Burlington; Union Drug Store, Union; J. G Oelsner, Florence; A. W. Smith, Walton; O. N. Grant, Belleview.

MOUNDFIELD FARM.

March 2 —Willie Graves has a bad case of gripp on hand.

This is moving week, aud, Oh! Lord, how can they move owing to the condition of the road?

Doc Munnin would move to Taylorsport if he thought he could stand the climate. His objection is the heavy fogs that prevail there.

We are glad to say that Mrs. Graham's arm was not broken as reported. She simply received a wrench or sprain which is bad enough, however.

Woolper was 6 inches higher at Moundfield, last Friday night, than it has been since the flood of 84. It was away above the danger line and much damage was done to fencing and poultry yards.

The necessity of having a gun club in every community has manifested itself very plainly, that the sporting fraternity of Hebron and vicinity decided to organize a permanent club, the object being to develop a higher class of marksmanship and skill than exist among the members, and to teach the young men how to shoot, and to elevate the manhood of the community at large. It will also encourage the manufacture of ammunition, thereby giving employment to the laboring class. A meeting was called at the club room in Hebron, last Saturday, with W. B. Grubbs in the chair. He made an eloquent speech in behalf of the enterprise, explaining the benefits derived from gun clubs in communities where they exist. At the close of his remarks the regular business rotine was taken up, the first business being the election of a captain, and Dr Frank Sayre was elected by acclamation. He is a gentleman of distinguished ability and farseeing comprehension, and possesses great presence of mind. He will make a good officer, and was elected for a term of five years, unless discharged on account of wounds received in the service. Willford Bullock was elected treasurer. He is a young man who possesses great clerical knowledge, with honesty and integrity above reproach, a true patriot to the cause, and an authority on the latest trapshooting rules. The club was lucky to secure his services. The office of secretary being a very responsible and important position, it was necessary to select a man above the ordluary for the position. His duties, among other things, is to issue and receive challenges, and it frequently occurs that there are misunderstandiugs, which resnlt in shedding of blood; consequently it was decided to put in a veteran of the civil war, and as there was but one member that had participated in this, he was unaiimously chosen Hiram e Bartemon and boste of being the last man in the field and the first out in 27 of the hardest fought battles of the war, aud never received a scratch, except when he had the camp itch. He undoubtedly will be a valuable acquisition in the club. The next and last in order to select was official se re keepr. This is also a very important position aud requires a man that will show no partiality, whatever, and whose books are to show final results of events without appeal. W. B. Grubbs was chosen for this responsible position, and will fill it with dignity. Thus the club exists with 14 members, who are ready at any time to meet all comers.

PETERSBURG.

Mrs. Dave Alcorn has gripp.

D. B. aud Rebecca Tilley have grippe.

Mrs Ben Crisler has been quite ill of grippe.

Ben R. Berkshire has moved to the Guissinger farm.

Fleet Hoffman is the proud father of a 10 pound boy.

Mr. Guissinger's address is 409 East Third street, Cincinnati.

Mrs. J. B. Berkshire and children are visiting her parents in Florence.

Mrs. E. T. Kruitz and Miss Lou Allen were in the city shopping, Monday.

Grant Mathews has been returned to the distillery here. We are always glad to have him among us.

Henry Lyons has been appointed superintendeut of the Bauer Cooperage Company, of Lawrenceburg.

Gordon & Hyatt have contracts to put down considerable cement pavement in Lawrenceburg, this spring.

Miss. Mary Schramm has a case of gangrene, resulting from trimming a corn on one of her toes. She is attended by a professional nurse. Miss Margaret Schramm has a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism.

Sandford G. Botts died at 5:30 p. m., last Saturday, in his 83d year. He had been in poor health for quite a while, and nourishment of no kind had passed his lips for 25 days before he died. He was a member of the Odd Fellows' lodge, the last of the charter members of Morning Star Lodge No. 16, and had he survived another day he would have been a member of the order 50 years. Mr. Botts was a member of the Universalist church, and a firm believer in the ultimate and universal salvation of mankind. He kept well informed on the leading topics of the day. His wife preceded him to the grave many years. One son, John, survives him. The funeral took place at 10 a. m., Sunday, and was under the auspices of the Odd-Fellows, and was attended by a large number of the members of the order in Aurora and Lawreuceburg.

Miss Nelle Scott spent last week very pleasantly with her friend Miss Mae Miller of near Florence.

READ IT THROUGH.

'Twould Spoil This Story to Tell It in the Headlines.

To use an eighteenth century phrase, this is an "o'er true tale." Having happened in a small Virginia town in the winter of 1902, it has story very much of the present. Up to a short time ago Mrs. John E. Harmon of Melisa Station, Va., had no personal knowledge of the rare curative properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. "Last January" she says "my baby took a dreadful cold and at one time I feared she would have pneumonia, but one of my neighbors told me how this remedy had cured her little boy and I began giving it to my baby at once and it soon cured her. I heartily thank the manufactures of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for placing so great a cure within my reach. I cannot recommend it too highly nor say too much in its favor. I hopeall who read this will try it and be convinced as I was." For sale by all druggists.

A cursory glance over a undertaker's books will convince any man that he saves a good deal every year by not dying.

County Correspondence.

RABBIT HASH.

Mrs. J. H. Hastings has been quite sick.

Mrs. R. L. Platt is very ill of stomach trouble.

Mrs. Will Aylor has returned home after a week's visit with her parents.

Harry Wingate is now a citizen of [illegible] cooking.

Mrs. Anna Taylor has moved to the farm she purchased, recently, near Big Bone church.

W. E. Kirtley, our prosperous East Bend farmer, was calling at the blacksmithshop here the other day.

The river is on its third big rise since Christmas, each rise being higher than the preceding, and out of the banks.

John N. Hodges has gone to live with Mrs. D. T. Riggs, and Mrs. Hodges will make her home with her son, Thomas Campbell.

Dr. Hopkins sent his new horse, Dave Pink, to an equine barber in Rising Sun, and had his hair clipped in the latest style.

B. W. Nelson is engaged making maple molasses. He has put none on the market, and we are not posted as to his price.

The river is approaching the danger line at this point, and everything loose below Front street is being moved to a place of safety.

Bro. Atwood preached to a good sized congregation here last Sunday night. He preaches here the first Sunday night in each month.

Capt. Joe Riggs has contracted with T. C. S. Ryle and David Rally to prize their two years' crops of tobacco, of which they think there is about 25,000 pounds.

Hogs and mules are on the boom. E. L. Stephens has been selling 20 to 30 pound pigs at $4 per head, and mules bring any old price a person sees proper to ask for them.

In some places on the roads the recent snow drifts were 8 feet deep and travel was completely suspended. It now looks like the mud will go one or two feet better as to depth.

The boys gave Tommie Campbell an entertainment at Major Hodges', a few nights since with tin pans and horns. Elijah Hodges, who was blacked and wore his wife's dress, was the belle of the evening.

Marion Scott came over with T. C. S. Ryle, the other day. Mr. Ryle had a wagon load of farm tools, which he was having put in condition for spring work. He is an up to date farmer. Marion never fails to inquire about carpenter's work when here.

COMMISSARY.

March 7.—Ed Botts had a husking bee, last Tuesday—so reported.

Am glad to report Benny Kirtley improving.

John Presser, who has been quite sick will soon be able to be at his post of duty.

Wilber Scott will work for Will Arnold this year. He commenced work last Monday.

Mrs. Joe Lillard was calling on Mrs. Will Ryle, of North Meridian street, Friday evening.

Miss Anna Cason called on the Commissary dressmaker, Miss Artie Ryle, last Wednesday.

Alferd Cason and Sons, breeders of Shorthorn cattle, shipped three nice fat cows to Cincinnati, Tuesday night.

James Beard and wife visited Mrs. Beard's father and mother, Noah West and wife, Saturday night and Sunday.

Fred Utz, of Florence, purchased 18 cattle at the Union Stock Yards for W. B. Walton, and brought them down, last Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Charley Burns is prepared and doing carpet weaving. Those needing anything in this line will do well to give her a trial. She does first-class work at reasonable prices.

A party from near Covington came down in response to Dony Cook's challenge for a fox chase, a few weeks ago. The chase started from East Bend. They gave up and said, "the Bellevue dogs are too warm for us."

Ransom Ryle moved his household goods to Eugene Kelly's, Wednesday, and will work for Mr. Kelly. Ransom was to have moved to Bathaway, but I suppose the rumored coda bluffed him. Mr. Kelly moved into the Henderson house, last Thursday.

Wood sawings are all the rage now. Flave Louden, Richard Louden, Dick Lacy, and Lum Popham have had sawings within the last week or two. This is a nice, easy and neighborly way to get the summer's wood sawed. The women are strong advocates of wood sawings, because they know if the summer's wood is not prepared before the busy season, that many times they will have it to cut.

Last Thursday I decided to spend a couple of days in the interest of the Recorder. I canvassed along the pike to Bellevue, the towns of Bellevue and McVille, and found it uphill work, some claiming that they are too poor to take a paper, and others that the price is too high, while some are now taking more papers than they can read. I have no doubt but the latter claim is true of some who make it. I will wager a quart of buttermilk that on the premises of some making the claim newspapers enough to wrap up a pound of coffee could not be found. During the two days I wrote one receipt, but I hope much good seed was sown, which will bear fruit to my honor and glory before the contest ends. While making the canvass to Bellevue I broke bread on Thursday at noon with Flave Louden, whose good wife informed me that she has a nice brood of young chickens. I mention this to show Bro. Acra that he is not always ahead. I spent a couple or three hours with Mr. Maurer and family, and had a supper good enough for a king. They were kind, hospitable, and entertaining, but no more so than thousand of others through out the land. The night was spent with James Louden, of McVille. Mr. Louden has the repair shop on his ferry boat completed and is now ready for business. I examined it, and being a mechanic, I think I am competent to judge, and I pronounce it in better running order than when first built, [illegible] new and it was not when first built.

PLATTSBURG.

Woodford Sullivan has 15 ewes with 27 lambs.

Mrs. Ben Heasley has been quite sick for several days.

John Haldon has bought a new engine for his saw mill.

Mrs. J. W. Gaines and brother were in the city, last Monday.

Miss Virginia Botts has been visiting her aunts in Rising Sun.

The sick are all improving except Mrs. Acra, who is still confined to her room.

Charles Voshell and Henry Hoffman, of Sparta, Indiana, were at John W. Gaines', Monday. They farmed his jack.

Some few have sowed their tobacco plant beds, and the indications are that about the usual acreage will be pitched in this neighborhood this year.

HATHAWAY.

March 9.—E. C. Franks is building a poultry house.

Mrs. Cynthia Mason was on the sick list last week.

Mrs. Minnie Rector was quite sick a couple of days last week.

The carpenters are progressing nicely on Nathan Smith's new house.

Lewis Rector has moved to Robert Smith's farm on Gunpowder.

The back water in up Gunpowder as far as G. A. Ryle's. It is falling.

Mr. Thos. Horton has been quite sick for a couple of week's with neuralgia.

Mrs. J. H. Mason is the first around here to have young chickens hatched.

Mrs. Zina Clements was visiting friends on Gunpowder, a couple of days last week.

A. O. Rouse delivered his crop of tobacco at Hamilton, Friday, at 5 cents all round.

From the condition of the mud roads now it seems that navigation would be better by a mud boat.

R Lee Huey went over in the Waterloo neighborhood, last Friday, to purchase a pair of mules.

B. H. Stephens and wife were guests of their son, Harry and family on Gunpowder, a few days since.

W. S. Wills and son, John, delivered their crops of tobacco to J. E. Marksberry, of Hamilton, last week.

Those below mentioned broke bread with G. L. Smith and wife last Sunday: C. B. Mason and family, Mrs. Nan B. McElroy and family, Dolph Riley and your humble servant and family.

WALTON.

Mr. J. H. Craven is announced as a candidate for the office of circuit court clerk. He will have a heavy vote.

Our townsman, Mr. Wm. Moore, received notice Saturday that his barn on the Gallatin county farm was struck by lightning, killing four horses, three mules and setting fire to the barn and destroying everything usually in large barns. It was said on the street that there was no insurance. The farmers of Gallatin need a company similar to the Farmers' Insurance Co., of this county.

The publishing of the Roll of Honor of the Graded School caused quite a stir among the pupils. The pupil must have an average of 95 per cent. One little chap who had not been very well in January and obtained 94½ in that month, shrugged his shoulders and said, "I must try again." "The Proverb Hunt" is taking too much time of some of the pupils and some very good students like to whisper when they think there is a chance of not being caught.

On Monday, the 2d inst., Mr. Enoch West had driven his team to the Southern depot, and was standing in a wagon when a special engine went by at a 40 miles an hour rate. His team made a whirl and Mr. West was thrown out of his wagon and falling his head struck the road first and fortunately for him there was about six or more inches of mud on the top of the heavy macadam or the concussion would, in all probability, have caused instant death. As it was Mr. West was very seriously injured and was only able to sit up a little while on Saturday.

BEAVER.

March 9.—Miss Ella Adams, of Big Bone, spent the week with her uncle, G. W. Cosman and wife.

Miss Katie Green entertained the literary club Saturday afternoon.

Fielding Grubbs has a good position in Latonia, where he expects to move his family soon.

On account of the very bad roads and rain there was a very small attendance at church Sunday.

Miss Nell Cleek, Martha Lassing and Katie Green spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mrs. James Huey, of Union.

Mr. and Mrs. Bright, of Stanford, Ky., are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Mill's, of this place. Mrs. Bright who has been quite sick, is better.

Mrs. Charles Sleet, who has been in the hospital in Cincinnati, the past three weeks, is much improved in health and expects to be at home soon.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the Methodist church, met Wednesday, with Mrs J. H. Sleet. Each of the members took lunch and they served a good dinner, which was very much enjoyed by all present.

Moving seems to be the order of the day in Beaver. Enoch Snow moved in to the cottage on G. W. Cosman's place, last week. Frazier Miscal, into the house recently vacated by Mr. Fogal on Ed Moore's place.

Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor have moved to their farm recently purchased of Mr. D. Bedinger. We regret very much to give them up, but as Mr. Taylor will continue with the Mercantile Store we expect to have them much with us yet.

The many friends of Mr. Calvin Jack will be sorry to know that he is very sick at his home in Sheridan, Ind. Mr. Jack is the father of Merit Jack, of this place, and is well and favorably known in this county, having lived in the neighborhood of Hamilton for several years before moving to Indiana.

Big Bone creek was on the rampage last Sunday morning.

G. M. Moore was visiting at Patriot, Ind., Saturday and Sunday.

J. L. Jones has 75 lambs from 41 ewes having lost but one lamb up to date.

Miss Maude Anderson came down from Ludlow Sunday to visit her parents.

Mrs. Huge Hecker was visiting her mother Mrs. H. Kottmyer the past week.

Miss Lonia Hout, of Hamilton, O., is the pleasant guest of Miss Clara Wernz.

Louisa Zimmer has returned home after a pleasant visit with relatives at Newport.

Carl Zimmer was badly injured while at work at the Cincinnati Cooperage Co., Saturday.

Miss Celia Winters, of Middletown, O., was the guest of Miss Sadie Zimmer Saturday and Sunday.

BIG BONE.

March 9.—Moving is the prevailing style now and all those who do not haul their furniture around are not in it a little. You can look on any of the roads, and if you don't see some one moving I miss my guess.

J. P. Hamilton has his new house nearly completed, and will move as soon as it is ready for occupancy.

J. L. Jones is the first to plow this season as he has been busy the past week turning the water under and the mud on top.

Geo. Houston, Big Bone's tonsorial artist, is now located at the Springs, having purchased the house and lot from Bert Smith.

G. L. Miller requests your scribe to say that if there is not enough patriotic Democrats in the Hamilton precinct to hold the primary, that he would furnish four substantial Republicans to hold it and guarantee a fair deal to every candidate.

I would suggest that now is a good time to report on the roads as they are now fine (for boating,) but think the Overseers should be made to hang buoys on the large rocks that they put in the roads so people could miss them and avoid accidents.

J. M. Baker moved from the tollhouse to his farm, and was given a surprise by the young people Wednesday night. About fifty gathered at his hospitable home accompanied by the Donavan string band, and after tripping the light fantastic until the wee sma' hours, they dispersed for their homes.

HEBRON.

The Grangers me there last Saturday afternoon.

Miss Grace Bullock is teaching a very interesting select school here.

Joel O. Clore, of Cincinnati, spent Sunday here, the guest of his father.

Mesdames J. W. Clore and W. L. Aylor were guests of Mrs. Frank Hosseman one day last week.

The ball to be given at the Grange Hall next Friday evening [illegible] ises to be well attended.

Mrs. Tupman has been installed as gate-keeper on the pike here. She moved in last Wednesday.

The O. E. Social was held at the home of Miss Clara Hosseman, Saturday night Although the attendance was not as large as it might have been, an interesting program was rendered, and the evening was passed very pleasantly.

LIMABURG.

March 10.—The fruit crop is alright.

James W. Utz's $40 cow died a few days ago.

William Star has moved to Moses Tanner's.

The recent heavy rains have washed the land badly.

August Drinkenburg has moved to Mrs. Lila Utz's farm.

Chas. Garnett was able to be at the store, a few days since.

Frank Rouse and wife were guests at Hubert Rouse's, Sunday.

Wallace Tanner has moved to Jack Tanner's farm near here.

On the 8th the creek was higher at this point than it had been for several years.

Moses Rouse and the Fleek boys sold their tobacco to Tom Stevenson, of Erlanger, at 26 around.

Owen Roes moved to John Craven's farm, last week, and Benjamin Vaughn and mother moved to Burlington.

Everett Dixon moved to Richwood, last Thursday. Ed Ferrill will move to the farm he vacated this week, he having bought it recently.

GUNPOWDER.

March 9.—Considerable rain fell here last week and the roads are in a desperate condition.

W. H. Garnett and wife are on the sick list.

The warm, wet weather has caused the grass to green up.

Rouse Bros. were busy hauling lumber to the city, last week.

John Swine is now located in the Bailey house near Florence.

George First, of Kenton, was transacting business in our burg last Friday.

As a result of the wet weather farm work will be somewhat backward this spring.

Lon Acra and wife are receiving congratulations over the advent of a little boy at their home.

B. A. Rouse delivered to Morgan Mitchell, at Erlanger, last week, 2 porkers at 8c per lb dressed.

Rouse Bros. have purchased of Jeff Rouse his saw and grist mill located at Unlon. They are now prepared to accommodate quite a large territory in their line of business.

At the recent meeting of the Joint Council of the Boone County Charge the following officers were elected: B. A. Floyd, chairman, E. H. Surface, secretary and W. R. Rouse treasurer; W. H. Glacken, H. O. Rouse and W. R. Rouse, executive committee.

James H. Craven, of Verona, was visiting at Union, last Saturday and Sunday, the guest of L. H. Voshell. He has a host of friends here who wish he may succeed in winning the office of circuit clerk. He is worthy and well qualified, and a dyed in the wool democrat.

The Literary Society of the public school, gave its monthly entertainment Friday afternoon.

Miss Irene Davis, who is taking a course in bookkeeping at Nelson's Business College, graduates this month.

Grip Remedies in Great Demand.

When colds and grip are prevalent the quickest and surest remedies are in great demand. Mr. Joseph D. Williams, of McDuff, Va., says that he was cured of a very deep and lasting attack of la grippe by using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy after trying several other preparations with no effect. For sale by all druggists.

MOUND FIELD.

March 9.—Eisle Harper is on the sick list—has malarial fever.

Mrs. Frances Clayton and her daughter, Miss Kate, are both down with grippe.

Enoch Mannin spent several days, last week, with his brother Sam, at Bright, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Batterson were called to attend the burial of Mrs. Batterson's sister, Mrs. Tomlin, on the 4th inst.

Mike Clore, of Ludlow, was shaking hands with the boys in Hebron, last [illegible] coming in [illegible] that a barbinger of spring.

Notwithstanding the great care taken in selecting officers for the Hebron Gun Club, they were defeated in their first match contest, the Taylorsport Club being the victors—scoring 10 birds, the most in the contest.

Joe Birkie, of Bellevne, has rented Chester Davis' property in Hebron and will move there in the near future. He and Mike Dye have formed a partnership in the blacksmith business and will do wood work also.

A social gathering of more than ordinary interest occurred at the home of M. L. Aylor and wife recently. It was their twenty fifth marriage anniversary and had the condition of the weather been such that their friends could got there there is no telling the presents they would have received, as it was, they were the recipients of several very fine ones. An elaborate dinner was served and those who were fortunate enough to get there, pronounce it a swell affair.

RIVERVIEW.

March 9.—The roads here are not passable.

Solon Stephens, jr., is on the sick list this week.

The Grangers met at Colon Kelley's, one night last week.

Rising Sun will be a railroad town by the first of next year.

The 6-months old child of Mrs. Ambrose Easton was severely burnt by overturning a skillet of gravy upon itself while in its mother's arm near the stove.

Sheriff Aliphin purchased the Lipp property for $1,725, only two bidders. The situation and horrible roads evidently caused the people to not care to bid on this property.

W. E. Glacken and wife, M. Grubbs and wife, Eli Rice, Thos. Murray and Albert Tanner spent Friday with Walter Grubbs and wife, it being Mr. G.'s birthday. The boys earned their "feed" by shucking corn for Walter.

Gunpowder creek was on a rampage Saturday afternoon, and took fences and water-gates like unto bad boys on Halloween, but we shall never see them more as they are now due pass New Orleans and still going.

F. P. Wolcott, of Covington, and D. W. Working, of Denver, Colorado, were guests of Excelsior Grange, Saturday. Bro. Working is associate editor of the Grange Bulletin, and Bro. Wolcott's time in grange work is so much taken, he had to call Bro. Working to his aid.

Worthy State Master Wolcott, and Past-Master D. W. Working, of Denver, Colorado, visited Excelsior Grange last Saturday afternoon. Having promised to be with us they drove out from Covington regardless of the rain and mud. Bro. Wolcott lets nothing interfere in his honest and earnest endeavors on behalf of his and our beloved order, the Grange, the grand and substantial growth of which in Kentucky the last 2 years are due to his zeal and hard work. The absent members missed two as good addresses as we have had in two years. Brother Working gave a description of two weeks' trip in his native State in the interest of the Grange, traveling 900 miles by rail; stage, wagon, foot. His talk was exceedingly interesting. As he expects to locate in Covington and work on the Grange Bulletin, we hope to have him with us often in the Grange fold of old Boone.

VERONA.

March 9.—We learn that all the budded peaches are killed.

James Fry is very ill, and not expected to live.

A great many have moved the past week through mud and rain.

We hear a great deal of complaint of colds and grip in this vicinity.

The killing of dogs goes merrily on—28 have turned their toes to the daslee.

John and Richard Sleet had a fine steer caught and killed by a falling straw stack, recently.

Farmers will be backward with their spring work, breaking sod and sowing tobacco beds, on account of the ground being so wet.

The committee appointed to select and buy a suitable lot for the bank, purchased a lot of Mrs. Hamilton, between Fry's and Roberts' stores. Price, $200. The contract for the building has been let to Homer Northcutt, of Dry Ridge, at something less than $1,500.

IDLEWILD.

Several of our friends are sick of bad colds.

Clifford Hedges has for sale a fresh 5 year old cow.

Wm. Hedges and family are now our near neighbors.

Lyman Gaines, who has typhoid fever at Kansas City, is better.

Mrs. Fletcher Clore and Mrs. Day were calling in Idlewild, Monday.

Lewis Gaines had a good farm horse to die while in the city, the other day.

Mr. E. M. Gaines is visiting his granddaughter, Mrs. C. A. Davis, of Ludlow.

John Harvey and wife went to Richwood Sunday to attend his mother's funeral.

Sorry to hear that Mrs. J. A. Gaines fell over a chair a few days since and broke a rib.

We have rain in a variety—from mist to pouring. Our creeks were over the danger line several times recently.

Glad to hear that our friends in Colorado, are better. They have moved to a more pleasant location, 2069 Clarkson street.

R. C. Gaines has his telephone poles ready for the wire. He will soon be hitched on to the outside world, when he can keep himself posted.

A base ball team has been organized here, and will be ready to do business with other teams at an early date.

Mrs. Wm. Silvenachle and daughter, of Louisville, are spending a few weeks with her husband at the Crisler House.

Miss Lou Allen will go to Cincinnati next week, to attend the spring millinery opening. She will be gone a week.

Earl Walton is laid up with a Job's double comforter on the back of his neck, and he can turn neither to the east nor to the west.

Mildred Cave, of this place, and Miss Nellie Houston, were secretly married about three weeks ago. They are housekeeping in Aurora.

R. W. Clark, will start a barbershop and jewelry store in Burlington, about the first of May. The entire business will be run on an up-to-date plan.

Esq. Early informs me that a Worthville capitalist will start a bank here if our citizens will take $7,000 stock, he to choose the cashier and our people, the directors.

A large section of the river bank near warehouse No. 2, went into river yesterday, and there is danger of the building following suit in case of another break in the bank.

If Mr. Hendrick intends to submit to the primary election it is time for him to be submitting

THE MAN IN PRISON.

He Is the One Whom Christ Came to Set at Liberty.

Six Rears Hideous Walls Around the Soul Which Only Jesus Can Break Down—Sermon by "Highway and Byway" Preacher.

[Copyright, 1903, by A. N. Kellogg Newspaper Co.]

Chicago, March 8, 1903.

Text—"If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed."—John, 8:36.

Grim, high walls, with massive iron doors and grated windows rise before us as we speak of prison, and behind these strong walls and barred doors lie the ugly, bare cells, with its low, hard bunk and its single wooden chair, we find the despondent, desperate, hopeless man. The Man in Prison, ah, what a sad, sad sight. Dead to the world, shut into a living tomb, the narrow confines of the prison walls his world, the cramped, dark cell his home; oh, what a miserable, distressing condition. This is the picture you draw as we speak to you of the Man in Prison, and it is the picture of a condition which the eye of man may behold in any state or large city of this land. But all prisons are not built of wood, stone and iron by the hand of man, and all prisoners are not found locked in narrow cells. Let the eye of the soul look in the direction which God points, and it will behold prison walls rising which are more awful than any which state or nation can rear, and behind which there are more hopelessness, and despair, more blackness and suffering than were ever able to crowd into a man-made prison. Sin has builded walls over which the soul cannot climb, it has roofed over those walls so that Heaven is shut out, it has bolted the great iron gates and given Satan the key. The Man in Prison whom we wish to talk about is the man whose soul is shut within the prisonhouse of sin and whom only Jesus Christ can set free.

Our text is Christ's own words. He had just been in conversation with the Jews, who had been boasting that they were Abraham's seed, and had never been in bondage to any man. His reply was: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, Whosoever committeth sin is the servant (bond slave) of sin." And then He went on to declare that, "if the Son shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed." Isaiah, the prophet, in foretelling the coming of Christ, plainly said that the Lord was to anoint Him at His coming "to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to them that are bound." And this word of Isaiah Jesus used as His text when he formally began His ministry, and He said: "This day is this Scripture fulfilled in your ears." And then he set to work breaking down prison walls and setting captives free. Wherever He went prison doors yielded instantly to His touch, and the prisoners were set at liberty. The devil-possessed were unfettered from their cruel bondage. Eyes shut in the dark dungeon of blindness were brought out to rejoice in the light. Limbs and bodies shackled by deformity and disease were delivered from the distress and limitations which bound them. Dead bodies heard the authoritative summons which split the prisonhouse of death, and they came forth to new life and liberty. Dead souls buried under the awful weight of sin which was crushing them into hell heard the words: "Thy sins are forgiven thee," and the mountain load of iniquity was swept away forever. And then they felt the throb of eternal life surging through the soul, as the same voice bade them go in His strength and sin no more. And this same Jesus is with us to-day, mighty to deliver the soul from the prisonhouse of sin.

We wish to use our text to throw light upon a prison scene at Philippi, as described in the sixteenth chapter of Acts. And in turn we wish to illuminate our text by the wonderful events which made it a memorable night to Paul and Silas and to the jailer and his family, and probably to others.

A Puzzle Picture.—Let us briefly sketch for you a picture of that jail scene at Philippi and underneath we will write: "Find the Man in Prison." Paul and Silas in the dark, damp, foul-smelling hole called the inner prison. Their feet are fast in the stocks, their hands are shackled, their backs are bleeding. Outside the bolted and barred doors, in his comfortable quarters, free to go where he pleased and when he pleased, was the jailer. Find the Man in Prison. Ah, you say, that's easy. Paul was the Man in Prison. Silas was the Man in Prison. It needs but a glance to prove that. But wait. Let us look again. What is that we hear? Strange, but instead of cursings and abusive language, and groans and cries of pain because of the anguish suffered, which generally come from prison cells, there rises on the midnight air the soft, sweet song of praise. It reaches the ears of the other prisoners in the outer prison. It cleaves the night air, and, mounting on the starry heights, reaches the ear of God. As the prisoners listen, Paul's pleading voice is heard asking God to forgive and save the jailer who has so cruelly dealt with him. Then Silas follows. Without in the jailer's quarters the sound of heavy breathing is heard. The jailer is in deep and comfortable sleep. All is secure. The prisoners are safe. But suddenly the mighty angels of God press from the battlements of Heaven and step to earth and it trembles and quakes under their tread. The jailer, awakened suddenly out of his sleep, [illegible]s of the prison giving way, sees the walls trembling like a ship in a storm, and an awful fear takes hold of his heart. Every door which he had so carefully shut and bolted stands wide open. He hears the chains as they fall clanking to the floor. In mad despair he seizes his sword and would have killed himself, supposing that the prisoners had fled. Within that inner prison Paul stands freed from his fetters. The hand of God's power has pressed open the doors of that prison as though they had been made of paper and the bolts had been but pencil marks. His fingers have cut the iron bands as though they had been but ropes of sand. And Paul and Silas realized that they were in the hollow of that hand which was moving so mightily in their behalf. Yea, and knowing this, Paul stands calmly and dignifiedly in his place and cries to the jailer to do himself no [illegible] they are all there"—and now we will let the jailer tell who the Man in Prison is. His cry: "What must I do to be saved," shows that he has caught a new glimpse of himself. He is a lost man, shut up in the prison house of sin. He sees his doom written all over the black walls of his hard heart. In the anguish of his despair he cries out for deliverance.

It is the man who realizes he is in prison who wants to get out. Every soul is in prison who has not been set free by Jesus Christ. But oh, sad, sad fact! thousands upon thousands of people all over this land, all over the world, are in prison and do not realize it, will not believe it! Like the jailer at Philippi, they sleep in the comfort of their own self-confidence and believe that they are safe and free. But the earthquake of God's judgment is coming as it came there that night at Philippi. God grant that you, my friend, if you are in the prison house of sin, may wake up to a realization of your lost condition before it is too late for the Deliverer to reach your side and make you free. We cannot argue and show you by human reason that you are in prison. Paul did not convince the jailer that he was the Man in Prison. God, by the convicting power of His Holy Spirit, did that. Paul might have spent all that night in forcible argument trying to convince that jailer that he was in prison, but the light of the morning sun would have seen him still laughing the apostle to scorn. But Paul let some little seed fall into that jailer's heart that night as he was leaving, after chaining them in the inner prison, and The Holy Spirit used it to convict the jailer of sin.

And as soon as he realized that he was a sinner, that he was a helpless prisoner in the prison house of sin, he immediately began to cry for deliverance. Satan blinds the human heart to its real condition and prevents the lips from uttering the cry: "What must I do to be saved?" he uses every device to keep his prisoners safe; he encourages the heart to make all manner of excuses for not accepting Christ as the only Deliverer. What is he holding up before your eyes which is making you blind to the fact that you are a hopeless, helpless prisoner in Satan's death cell? Let God's Word convince your heart that "all have sinned and come short of the glory of God;" that "the soul that sinneth, it shall die;" that there is salvation in none other than in Jesus Christ; and that "if the Son shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed."

Lydia, Paul's first convert at Philippi, was in prison until the Lord opened her heart under the preaching of the apostle down by the river bank and set her soul free in Christ Jesus. Before Paul's coming she was a devout soul. She believed in God. She was honorable in her dealings. She was benevolent and kind to those about her. She was faithful in her home duties, even though the cares of a successful business pressed upon her. But, notwithstanding all this, Lydia was in prison. Her weekly prayers by the river bank and the daily prayers in the home could not break the prison bars of soul death and save her. All her virtues and her devotions to her home were not strong enough to open the door to the prison house of her soul and give it the right to an eternal dwelling place in Heaven. No! Neither will church membership or religious service as devout and sincere as that of Lydia save you, my friend, from the prison house of death which sin has built around your soul. Neither can you break its walls down by battering it with all your virtues, or the virtues of your wife, or sister, or mother, be they ever so many and ever so rare. You are in prison, as was Lydia, unless Christ has shaken down the walls by the tread of His wounded feet, and unless His nail-pierced hands have struck the shackles from your fettered limbs.

In Prison.—Being in prison implies wrong-doing. They put the violator of the law in prison, but the law-abiding citizen has no fear of the lock-up. The soul is in prison because it has transgressed God's holy law, not once, but scores of times. But even if only once, and in only one particular, God's Word declares that, "whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all." The thief does not have to commit murder before he is placed in jail. The murderer is not allowed his liberty until he has committed arson, burglary and all the other crimes in the category. One broken law is sufficient to land the offender behind the prison bars. One sin blot on the soul is sufficient to shut it out of Heaven.

Being in prison means punishment. It is the aim of government to make the punishment fit the crime. Certain transgressions require certain penalties. The soul in the prison house of sin is in the death cell awaiting its eternal destruction. God said: "In the day that thou eatest thereof, thou shalt surely die." "The wages of sin is death." "The soul that sinneth, it shall die." One penalty for sin, and that penalty death, soul death.

Being in prison means disgrace. Ah, how the prison record of a man follows him all his days. How it blasts his character and his life. Ah, how keenly his family and his friends feel the disgrace. The soul in the prison house of sin is in disgrace. He is afraid to meet God. He slinks off into the dark places. Christ declared: "Men love darkness, rather than light, because their deeds are evil." And the soul in prison, while it is clinging willfully to sin, never wants to meet God. It is in disgrace, and it knows it.

Being in prison means hardship. "The way of the transgressor is hard." Oh, what hardships sin inflicts. It throws a man out of a job. It puts rags on his back. It robs him of home and family and friends. It wrecks happiness. It destroys his peace of mind. Ah, the hardest, roughest, deadliest road to travel is the broad, smooth road of sin, which is easy and pleasant until the soul gets fairly on the toboggan slide to hell, and then it is the most dangerous road, the one most filled with hardships.

Being in prison means limitation. The world of the prisoner is bounded by the four blank stone walls. He seldom if ever gets even a glimpse of the blue of heaven. What a contracted sphere he moves in. The limitation of the soul in the prison house of sin is as great, or even greater. The unsaved soul is limited in time, in attainments, wealth and in friendships. It is limited in time because the few years of this life are soon passed, they are as but a breath, a fading flower, the withering grass—and it has no hope to carry it beyond the grave. It sacrifices an eternity with God, for a few paltry years of selfish pleasure and self-seeking. It is limited in attainments, because all heights of learning, of culture and refinement, must be scaled during this life, and then all is laid away in the grave of an eternal death. The soul saved by Christ Jesus grows in attainments to the point where death and the grave are swallowed up in victory, and then it goes on growing and attaining throughout eternity. It is limited in wealth, because it may heap the shining gold about it on every hand, but it cannot carry one grain of it to the other side of the grave; but he who lays up treasure in Heaven finds his wealth after death, and has an eternity in which to enjoy all the riches in Christ Jesus. And it is limited in friendships, because it may only win them during the years of time, and here friends fail, friends desert us, but the saved man finds his heart being knit together with those of like faith with himself, and he looks forward to the unlimited friendships of Heaven, of meeting friends and loved ones gone before, of meeting Old and New Testament heroes. Oh, the soul in prison is in a terrible position! Oh, that you would awaken to the awfulness of your position, O unsaved soul, and let Jesus set you free!

Three questions spring to the lips on meeting the Man in Prison. How came he in prison? How may he gain his freedom? What will he do when he gets out? We need not dwell on the first question. We all know how the soul gets into the prison house of sin. Sin forges the chain, sin builds the wall, sin locks and bolts the door.

How May He Gain His Freedom?—Not by anything he himself can do. Sin's prison house never yet was broken out of by the efforts of the one imprisoned within. Jails which man builds are not always able to hold their prisoners, but the prison which sin rears is as impregnable to human efforts to break and destroy as is the rock Gibraltar to the attacks of the most powerful fleets of the world. Jesus only is able to deliver from this prison, but "if He shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed." The Man in Prison at Philippi, as he realized his predicament, cried: "What must I do to be saved?" And Paul gave him the whole Gospel in a nutshell, when he said: "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." If you ever want to feel the prison walls of your soul go tumbling to the ground, you must turn your eyes in the direction of the only One who can deliver; you must let the only begotten Son of God set you free, then shall you be free, indeed.

What Will He Do When He Gets Out?—That is an important question. Study the jailer after he emerges from his prison house. Oh, what a changed man. The hard heart which knew no feeling before and could thrust bleeding and defenseless men into the inner prison, now feels the throb of tenderness which flows from the Saviour's wounded hands which have just set him free, and he takes Paul and Silas from their prison. He tenderly washes the blood from the cruel cuts on their backs, and pours in the healing oil. He sets meat before the men who had been shut in prison without food or drink. And instead of the profane, foul mouth ripping out great oaths at the prisoners under his charge, we find him rejoicing in his new-found liberty. No doubt about his conversion. No possibility of mistaking the genuineness of his religion. When one is delivered from the prison house of sin it always brings changes in the life. God's Word declares that "we are new creatures in Christ Jesus," "old things are passed away, all things are become new." The Man in Prison, lost and undone. The Man out of Prison, saved and recreated. Oh, how glorious! My friend, are you in prison? Jesus waits to set you free. Will you not let Him?

HOUSE OF THE SHAH.

Description in Detail of the Interior of the Persian Ruler's Royal Residence.

One of the few foreigners who have had the privilege of an intimate inspection of the famous palace of the shah of Persia, at Teheran, is A. Henry Savage Landor, and he, in "Across Coveted Lands," returns with the statement that this renowned house is very far from the barbaric affair that most persons suppose. Near the throne room is a very modern billiard room. The furniture is, piece by piece, the best that can be bought in the shops of Paris, what fault there is being in the contrasts.

Throughout the whole house, too, there is not a rug—and rugs, of course, are the only carpeting—which is less than 50 years old. The table [illegible] is of excellent European make, and each piece bears the Persian lion and sun, surmounted by a crown. The shah's favorite room is a small one, the walls of which are entirely of mirrors. There is a low red couch or two here and silk rugs from Kerman, Kashan, Isfahan and Sultanabad. There is also here a Benson clock, with 13 dials, which tell the years, month, week day, moon, hour, minutes, seconds, "and everything else one might wish to know." The chairs and tables, however, are of cheap bamboo, in the familiar folding pattern, and on the walls are several pictures, an enlargement of a photograph of the shah and smaller photographs of the czar and czarina. The imperial writing desk is adorned with two small portraits of the same pair of royal persons.

Aside from the famous globe, in a nearby room—a globe made of jewels, with the Persian dominions encrusted with diamonds—there are in his private room of the shah, says Mr. Landor, "three terrestrial globes and an astronomical one with constellations standing on a table. A number of very tawdry articles were lying about on the other pieces of furniture; such were a metal dog holding a ten-shilling watch, paper frames, cheap imitation of leather articles, numerous photographs of the shah, a copy of the Petit Journal, framed, and containing a representation of the attempt on the shah's life, an amber service, and last, but not least, the nut-cracker and the empty nutshells, the contents of which the shah was in process of eating when I had an audience with him some days before, still lying undisturbed upon a small desk. The shah's special chair was embroidered in red and blue. All this was reflected myriads of times in the diamond-shaped mirror ceiling and walls, and the effect was somewhat dazzling. The room had a partition, and on the other side was an ample couch for his majesty to rest upon. In each reception room is to be seen a splendid grand piano, the music of which, when good, the shah is said passionately to enjoy. One of his aides-de-camp—a European—is an excellent pianist and composer."

FINE FARMING LAND.

Interesting Observations of New Yorker on a Visit to Indian Territory.

"There is some of the finest agricultural land in the United States within the borders of Indian Territory," said R. N. Butterworth, of New York, to a Washington Star man recently. "I have recently spent several months in the land of the Indians and was struck with the fine rich soil and the well-watered fields. There are also large tracts of wooded country where there is much good timber waiting the ax of the settler. The weather is temperate and I think there is a great future for that section.

"The allotment of land to the Indians by the government has been very nearly completed. Each Indian will be awarded about 320 acres, worth about $3.25 an acre. The division has been made with the Creeks and Cherokees and that with the Choctaws and Chickasaws will be made during the next six weeks. Of the allotment made to each Indian he will be allowed to sell an eighth of it after the first year, or he may dispose of half of it after five years, but the remainder must be kept as a homestead for 20 years. This insures their never being without a home, and as the land is productive, they should be able to make a fair income annually. At present there are no white settlers owning property in the territory, but some of them have leased land from the Indians, this being allowable under the conditions laid down by the government. In fact, there are so many under this condition that the whites outnumber the Indians nearly four to one, and there are about 100,000 Indians."

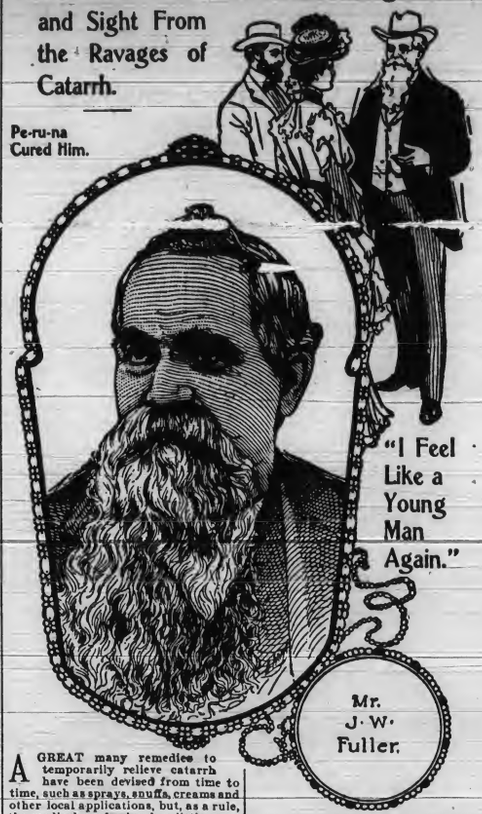
What Did He Mean?

They were at supper. Between the courses the young man with the voracious appetite discoursed eloquently on things in general.

"Do you know, Miss Dash," he remarked, "I think there is a very intimate relation between our food and our character. I believe, don't you know, that we grow like what we are fond of."

The fair girl smiled sweetly.

"How interesting!" she murmured. "May I pass you the ham, Mr. Jones? I am sure you will like it."



And the young man relapsed into deep thought.—London Answers.

Horse-Stalls in Japan.

The Japanese back their horses into their stalls, and the door, to which is conveniently constructed grain and haytrack is fixed, comes at the head. No one needs to go in beside or back of the animal. There is no danger of being kicked, no refuse matter is visible and it seems a sensible way to arrange a place for any horse.—Knowledge.

PRESIDENT FULLER OF THE JEWELERS' ASSOCIATION

Threatened With Loss of Hearing, Smell and Sight From the Ravages of Catarrh.

A GREAT many remedies to temporarily relieve catarrh have been devised from time to time, such as sprays, snuffs, creams and other local applications, but, as a rule, the medical profession has little or no enthusiasm in the treatment of catarrh.

It is generally pronounced by them to be incurable.

It therefore created a great sensation in medical circles when Dr. Hartman announced that he had devised a compound which would cure catarrh permanently.

The remedy was named Peruna and in a short time became known to thousands of catarrh sufferers north, south, east and west.

Letters testifying to the fact that Peruna is a radical cure for catarrh began to pour in from all directions.

Thousands of such letters are on file in the office of The Peruna Medicine Co.

Rev. E. Stubenvoll, Pella, Wis., writes: "I feel obliged to extend you my personal thanks for my complete restoration. All through the winter I suffered from throat and lung trouble, but recovered my entire health by the use of your excellent remedy, Peruna."

The following letter from a prominent gentleman of Los Angeles, is a case in point:

Mr. J. W. Fuller, President of the Jewelers' Association of Los Angeles, Cal., has been in business in that city for seventeen years out of the forty-five that he has been engaged in business. Concerning his experience with Peruna he says:

"I was troubled with catarrh of the head for many years. It affected my sense of smell, hearing and sight. I spent lots of money with doctors and the use of local applications to relieve me but to no purpose, until my attention was called to the wonderful effects of Peruna.

"I must say that I met with most surprising and satisfactory results. Peruna took hold of the complaint and drove it entirely out of my system.

"Although well along toward the allotted span of man's life I am pleased as a child over the results, and feel like a young man again."—J. W. Fuller.

Such letters as the above are not used for publication except by the written permission of the writer.

A pamphlet filled with such letters will be sent to any address free. This book should be read by all who doubt the curability of catarrh.

If you do not receive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

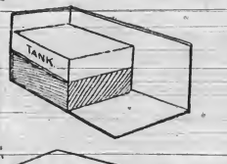
AGRICULTURAL HINTS



THE EARLY SITTER.

Little Home-Made Device by Which Her Usefulness Can Be Materially Increased.

Setting aside the question of expensive incubators and brooders, while at the same time admitting their desirability, if our purse would admit of their possession, we should try to utilize the early sitter. The latter is either an early molted hen or an early hatched pullet, and if well fed and warmly housed since the [illegible] sweatter, [illegible] broody about midwinter and ready for a clutch of eggs. Being one of the very first to take to the nest, she is valuable, and her value may be greatly increased by the aid of a little homemade device or two which will enable us to utilize her incubating qualities to their fullest extent.

This can be done by making a cheap brooder, just large enough for one brood of chicks. For this purpose a cracker box may be used. Make a door of the front end and nail some strips crosswise inside, and about four inches up from the bottom. On these a slatted frame should be placed extending about half the length of the box. On the frame a square tin tank about five inches high and about as long and wide as the frame should rest. A rimmed hole should be made in the top of the tank and a large cork used to fit the hole. A cloth curtain should hang from the front edge of the cross strips to the floor of the box, as shown in the illustration.

Then, when the early sitter hatches her first lot of chicks, they should be taken from her and placed in a home-made brooder back under the tank, which should be filled with hot water. Morning and night the tank should be refilled, which will supply sufficient warmth for the chicks huddled beneath it. They can be fed in the front part of the box while small, and later be placed where they may enjoy a little open run-way, and fed outside the brooder box.

With the chicks thus cared for, the hen may be reset without any injury to her, and her utility thus doubled. If she be a mature hen of two years, she may be reset a second time, making three broods from her in nine weeks. This is a good plan to pursue, either with the ordinary flock or with thoroughbred stock. The chicks thrive in close quarters in cold weather, and with us the per cent. of loss among chicks managed as suggested in the single brooders is very small indeed.—Orange Judd Farmer.

AGRICULTURAL NOTES.

The field work of the forestry bureau engages 162 scientific men in 42 states.

It has been demonstrated that alfalfa can be successfully grown in nearly all the northern states.

Government inspectors passed upon 59,158,649 live animals last year at a cost of a little more than one cent each.

Thousands of head of cattle are now saved from death from blackleg by a vaccine distributed by the government.

Oats contain the greater proportion of flesh-forming elements, and corn the greater proportion of fat-forming elements.

The agricultural department is now developing in the south a system of "one man farms." These are small areas of land in the pine woods, upon which a system of farming is being developed of such a nature as to appeal directly to the class of farmers who must necessarily handle such land.

The Usefulness of Poultry.

Poultry may be raised with the greatest economy on large farms, where there is unlimited range, an exhaustless supply of insects and worms and abundance of seeds and grains going to waste which poultry alone can utilize. Under such circumstances fowls can take care of themselves so well, and are so energetic in seeking their food that they are either forgotten and allowed to shift for themselves when they really need attention and assistance, or they are regarded as a nuisance because they sometimes do a little damage. When fenced away from gardens and flower beds fowls cause little damage or annoyance on a farm. They do an immense amount of good in the protection of crops by the destruction of injurious insects, larvae and worms.

KINDNESS THAT PAYS.

The Humane Farmer Will Always Warm the Horse's Bit During the Winter Months.

Everyone who has been so injudicious as to touch a bar of iron in freezing weather with the tip of his tongue knows how the latter suffers in consequence. He never wants to try the experiment but once. Yet many farmers and teamsters will carelessly put into a horse's mouth bits that may do equal harm. In winter harness hangs in a cold place, and the temperature in a barn may occasionally be below the freezing point. A humane idea is outlined by the Scientific American for dealing with this difficulty. It is suggested by that periodical that an ordinary barn lantern might be utilized for warming the bits. A special cap or cover should be made to fit on over the top of the lantern, and the bridle is hung on that, bits uppermost. The illustration shows the plan so well that no extended description is necessary. As will be readily understood, one may depart in details from the arrangement here shown without sacrificing the principle.—N. Y. Tribune.

WARMING THE HORSE'S BIT.

CURE FOR BALKINESS.

It Consists of a Little Trick Based Upon the Scientific Theory of Brain Diversion.

For the benefit of those who have been caused a great deal of anxiety by a balky horse, lost trains as well as tempers, and even sometimes ruined the horse, the next time they have the experience to run across a balky horse, no matter how bad he is, let me tell you how to start him 99 times out of 100. Of course, it may fail one time in a hundred. When a horse balks, no matter how badly he sulks or how ugly he is, do not beat him; don't throw sand in his ears; don't use a rope on his forelegs, or even burn straw under him. Quietly go and pat him on the head a moment; take a hammer or even pick up a stone in the street; tell the driver to sit still, take his lines, hold them quietly, while you lift up either front foot; give each nail a light tap and a good smart tap on the frog; drop the foot quickly, and then chirp to him to go. In 99 cases out of 100 the horse will go right on about his business, but the driver must keep his lines taut and not pull or jerk him back. If I have tried this once I have tried it 500 times, and every time I have suggested it people have laughed and even bet five dollars that I could not do it. So far I have won every bet. This may make you smile, but a horse has more common sense than most people are willing to give him credit for. The secret of this little trick is simply diversion. I am a firm believer that with kindness and proper treatment a horse can be driven with a string.—Horseshoers' Journal.

Growth of United States.

The rapid material development of the United States is realized more vividly by going back for comparison to the period before machinery and modern business facilities had taken full effect. In 1850, the wealth of the country was $7,000,000,000, now it is placed at $100,000,000,000, and the gain is not all for the rich, as shown by the rise of individual bank deposits from $507,000,000 to six times that sum. Farmers have had some share, since their farms and farm property, worth less than $4,000,000,000 in 1850, are now valued at $21,000,000,000; factories number 525,000, as compared with 123,000, and factory hands have increased six-fold, while the manufactured product has been multiplied by 14. Thus, all classes have helped build up a prosperous nation, the farmer first and indispensable, but other honest workers all needed for full and generous results.—Boston Budget.

Number of Hens to Keep.

It may be safely stated that 500 hens will support a moderate family, and there are few persons who keep more than that number, but like any other occupation the expenses must be taken out, and whether the expenses are too great or not depends upon the extent of the operations. As one man can attend to 1,000 hens nearly as well as he can to 500, it is plain that the smaller the flock, the greater the proportional expenses.—Commercial Poultry.

The percentage of loss in ocean transit of live stock in 1902 was: 0.13 for cattle, 0.89 for sheep, and 0.63 for horses, which was considerably less than for the previous year—a condition due to the increased exports of cattle and horses.

It is very essential that calves dropped in the fall should have a warm shelter during the winter.—Prairie Farmer.

PROSPERITY IN CANADA.

The Farmer In Western Canada Achieves Wonderful Success.

One of the first things that the man who wishes to change his residence endeavors to find out is where he may go and succeed. It need be a matter of little doubt or indecision now. During the past four or five years the development of Western Canada has been so rapid, and the conditions of life there so widely known, that upwards of 100,000 Americans have taken up their homes there, and the experience of these people is that they are thoroughly satisfied with their choice of home.

The methods of farming there are similar to those adopted in the United States, but the operations are simpler, the yield of grain greater, and the profits more satisfactory. Ranching is carried on with lots of success, [illegible] farming [illegible] while the results in grain-raising are as certain as splendid soil, excellent climate and lots of sunlight can give.

The yields of — but nothing is as satisfactory as the experience of the farmer himself, and extracts are selected from one.

A good, intelligent farmer, named Mears, John Mears, to be exact—left Cavalier County, North Dakota, two years ago, and followed the thousands who had already gone to Canada. He had twenty-five years' experience in Minnesota, in buying grain, including flax. But in all his experience he never saw a district so well suited to the growth of flax as Western Canada. The financial results of Mr. Mears' operations in a single season are as follows: Wheat, 3,000 bushels, 1 hard at 57½c, $1,785.00. 2,680 bushels, 1 Northern at 54c, $1,447.20; oats, 1,750 bushels, at 35c, $612.50. Spelt, 131 bushels at 75c, $135.50. Flax, 324 bushels, at $2, $628. Total, $4,598.20.—A return of more than $4,500 from a little over 250 acres, an average of $18 per acre—is surely testimony sufficiently strong to satisfy the most incredulous as to the money to be made out of the soil of the Canadian West. It is to facts like these—arguments expressible and demonstrable in dollars and cents, that the steady northward movement of American farmers is due. Mr. Mears is settled near Arcola, Assa.

A number of Americans who have chosen Western Canada as a home had the idea that a man enjoyed less freedom in Canada, but they soon found their mistake, and say the laws of Canada are the most liberal in the world, and such as prevent the litigation which breeds so much bad feeling between people in the United States and costs them so dear in lawyers' fees.

The Government has established Agencies at St. Paul, Minn.; Omaha, Neb.; Kansas City, Mo.; Chicago, Ill.; Indianapolis, Ind.; Milwaukee, Wis.; Wausau, Wis.; Detroit, Sault Ste. Marie, and Marquette, Mich.; Toledo, Ohio; Watertown, S. Dakota; Grand Forks, N. Dakota; and Great Falls, Montana; and the suggestion is made that by addressing any of these who are the authorized agents of the Government, it will be to the advantage of the reader, who will be given the fullest and most authentic information regarding the results of mixed farming, dairying, ranching and grain-raising, and also supply information as to freight and passenger rates, etc.

It is a pity that we do not give more heed to the still small voice, but it must be admitted that Conscience is far from being a delightful conversationalist.—Puck.

The success of one man is sometimes due to the failure of many.—Chicago Daily News.

Lodgers Crowded Them.

The packing of human beings into a single room in a tenement house reminds a correspondent of the experience which a woman had in the slums of Dublin. She came upon a room in a tenement house in which there were five families "in residence"—one in each corner and one in the middle of the floor. The visitor expressed her astonishment to an old woman in one of the corner locations, and wondered how in the world they were all able to find room. "Wisha, ma'am," was the reply, "we were all right till the Caseys there in the middle of the flure tuk in lodgers."—Tit-Bits.

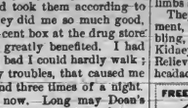
THE TEST OF GOLD.

A Vast Number of Kidney Suffering People, Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills, say but for the Free Trial they would still be in Agony. This means Golden Merit at your Command to Test.

COLUMBUS CITY, IA., Feb. 10, 1903. — I received the sample package of Doan's Kidney Pills and took them according to directions. They did me so much good, I procured a 50-cent box at the drug store and have been greatly benefited. I had the backache so bad I could hardly walk; also had urinary troubles, that caused me to get up two and three times of a night. I am all right now. Long may Doan's Pills prosper. Yours truly, A. C. SIFE.



Severe and long standing cases should take advantage of free Medical Advice.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH., Feb. 17, 1903.—I received the trial package of Doan's Kidney Pills promptly and can truly say they are all that even more than recommended. I suffered continually with a severe pain in the back, which the pills entirely overcame, and I am able to work, which would not have been possible but for Doan's Kidney Pills. Mrs. J. A. SCHLAMB, 955 Buchanan St., Grand Rapids, Mich.

Aching backs are eased. Hip, back, and loin pains overcome. Swelling of the limbs and dropsy signs vanish.

They correct urine with brick dust sediment, high colored, pain in passing, dribbling, frequency, bed wetting. Doan's Kidney Pills remove calculi and gravel. Relieve heart palpitation, sleeplessness, headache, nervousness, dizziness.

SPRING PURIFICATION

of the Skin and Blood Should Begin NOW

BLOOD HUMOURS, Skin Humours, Scalp Humours, Baby Humours and every kind of Humour from Pimples to Scrofula, with Premature Loss of Hair, may now be speedily, permanently and economically cured by Cuticura Resolvent, greatest of Blood and Skin Purifiers, assisted by the external use of Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Soap.

Thousands of the world's best people have found instant relief and speedy cure by the use of Cuticura Resolvent, Ointment and Soap in the most torturing and disfiguring of ITCHING, BURNING, and SCALY HUMOURS, ECZEMAS, RASHES, ITCHINGS and INFLAMMATIONS.

Thousands of Tired, Fretted Mothers, of Skin-Tortured and Disfigured Babies, of all ages and conditions, have certified to almost miraculous cures by the Cuticura Remedies when the best medical skill has failed to relieve, much less cure.

Cuticura Treatment is local and constitutional—complete and perfect, pure, sweet and wholesome. Bathe the affected surfaces with Cuticura Soap and Hot Water to cleanse the skin of Crusts and Scales and Soften the Thickened Cuticle, dry without hard rubbing, and apply Cuticura Ointment freely to allay Itching, Irritation, and Inflammation, and Soothe and Heal, and lastly take Cuticura Resolvent to Cool and Cleanse the Blood, and put every function in a state of healthy activity.

To those who have suffered long and hopelessly from Humours of the Blood, Skin and Scalp, and who have lost faith in doctors, medicines, and all things human, Cuticura Remedies appeal with a force hardly to be realized. Every hope, every expectation awakened by them has been more than fulfilled. More great cures of Simple, Scrofulous, and Hereditary Humours are daily made by them than by all other Blood and Skin Remedies combined, a single set being often sufficient to cure the most distressing cases when all else fails.

CUTICURA REMEDIES are sold throughout the civilized world. PRICES: Cuticura Resolvent, 50c. per bottle (in the form of Chocolate Coated Pills, 25c. per vial of 60), Cuticura Ointment, 50c. per box, and Cuticura Soap, 25c. per cake. LAST Friday Judge Cantrill heard the suit brought by Gov. Beckham to test his eligibility for reelection, and decided that the Governor is eligible. An appeal will be taken and the court of appeals will render the final opinion in a few days.

THE recent Ohio county, Indiana, grand jury gave that county's infirmary a roast. The jury denounced the manner in which the institution had been kept as a disgrace to the county, and called upon the authorities to at once proceed to remedy the evils it set forth.

SEVERAL Senators delivered speeches criticising Mr. Cannon's address in which the latter charged that the Senate levied "legislative blackmail." Mr. Tillman declared Cannon's attack on the legality of the South Carolina claim, which caused the trouble, to be a personal affront, "indecent and an outrage."

A COMPANY is now being organized in Milwaukee to finance an invention which, its inventor claims, will prevent many of the wrecks and accidents which now affright a world with their grewsome record, when its use becomes general. This company will control in the United States the patent rights of the "railway chronograph," as it has been styled by its inventor, H. G. Sedgwick, formerly of Beloit, Wis., but now a resident of New York City.

The Hanna bill to pension exslaves is already having its anticipated effect among the credulous negroes of the South. A negro preacher in Washington says that in backwoods regions of the South negro preachers are acting as agents for a gang of white men who are using the scheme to extort money. A system of registering negro people for the benefits of the proposed pension law has been adopted at the rate of 40 cents a head. The dupes are told that the passage of the pension law is assured, and all they have to do is to pay 40 cents and put down their names.—Pittsburg Post.

The State Sinking Fund Commission met at Frankford Monday and decided to apply the money collected from the Government as interest on the war debt to redeeming the outstanding bonds against the State. The action was taken on the votes of Gov. Beckham, Treasurer Hager and Auditor Coulter, Attorney General Pratt opposing such use of the money. Gov. Beckham and Auditor Coulter were delegated to ascertain whether the bonds can be purchased at their nominal value. Both Senators Blackburn and McCreary indorse the plan to wipe out the State debt with the money received from the Government.

Mr. Augustus E. Wilson it is said will be asked to be a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor. Followers of ex-Gov. W. O. Bradley are known to be hopeful of placing Mr. Wilson in the race, and it is believed that conditions will so shape themselves that Mr. Wilson will be persuaded to enter the race. It is certain that many old-time leaders are favorable to the Louisville lawyer, and it is said on excellent authority that they will attempt to induce him to accept the nomination if it can be secured.

The Covington Post boasts that Covington has the biggest, finest and costliest municipal building in Kentucky. The City Hall, on Court avenue, cost over $200,000, and is a magnificent monument to the faith the people have in the future of their city. Nowhere else in the State are public officials supplied with such luxurious quarters, and nowhere in the South is there such a perfect court room.

GRAIN markets last week suffered from a malignant attack of what is known as "spring liquidation." Tired holders dropped their high-priced winter wheat and corn and about the only support the market got was from shorts, who had profits to secure. In consequence wheat closed with a loss of 2 1/4c and corn with a considerable decline.

The importance of the corn crop goes without the saying. It is today one of the great food factors for the whole world, and this both directly and indirectly; and the wonder is how the Old World got along without it before it became at all known generally through the discovery of the New World.

We do not propose here to discuss the value of corn as it is commonly viewed—to the way in which it furnishes food directly to man, to the extent to which it enters as the chief ingredient in the manufacture of various foods, to the uses now being made of the corn plant itself, both for supporting the domesticated animals and otherwise, or to the use of corn in feeding such animals, so becoming the source of supplies for a large part of our choicest meat.

What we want to call attention to is a new truth in the history of corn. So far corn alone, and fed alone, has constituted an ill-balanced ration. The flesh-forming material has not been in it in the proportion needed for making the complete animal structure.

They have been breeding corn to change all this, and the prospect now is that the end proposed will at no distant day be accomplished. Indeed, it may now be said to be essentially in sight.

In every direction what is thus being done for corn is being done by the Experiment Stations very largely for all the other leading kinds of cultivated plants.

It is no small matter to be a part of what is being thus done for the world. Every progressive farmer is an element in this great movement.—Home and Farm.

The trust has gone into the manufacture of cigars. It has been in business less than two years and during the past twelve months it produced about a billion cigars. As the total production of the country is approximately seven billions this represents a very fair amount of business for an infant concern. This has been a period of remarkable expansion in the cigar trade, however, and the production of the American Cigar Company represents just about the increase for the year, so that the new enterprise has not interfered seriously with the independent manufacturers. The enormous extent of the tobacco business in America may be realized from the fact that seven billion cigars, three billion cigarettes, and two hundred and eighty million pounds of manufactured tobacco and fifteen million pounds of snuff are produced every year. The retail value of all the smoking and chewing tobacco in its various forms, approaches $500,000,000 annually. It is indeed a business of royal proportions, and its control is worth fighting for.—From the Tobacco War in Lesley's Monthly for March.

Some people will be surprised to learn how much coal it takes to run steamboats. The City of Louisville burns 100 bushels every hour, 2,400 bushels every 24 hours. On her Mardi Gras trip she burned 30,000 bushels on the round trip.

W. B. Shotwell, of Idlewild, was in town, Saturday, making up papers that are required in securing patents. He has invented a device for stretching wire, in fact it can be used to do any work where ropes and pulleys are necessary, and it possesses numerous advantages over the pulley. Those who have seen the machine pronounce it just the thing every farmer needs.

J. W. Parish, brother-in-law of Dr. J. G. Furnish, was instantly killed last Wednesday night while endeavoring to get off of a moving train at Oak Hill, Ohio. Mrs. Parish's first husband was Johnnie Wallace, for many years clerk of the circuit court of this county.

Mr. Gilligan called on the RECORDER again, the other day, and gave it the official figures of that tobacco crop that has caused some interest in his neighborhood, recently. They are as follows: Raised by Gilligan, 6,548 pounds; by Bailey, 2,118 pounds. The acreage that was pitched by Mr. Mullins was turned over to Mr. Thornton in August, and was cultivated and housed by Mr. Thornton, and made 4,966 pounds. He says the above are the facts in regard to the 13,632 pounds of tobacco raised on Mr. Thornton's farm in 1902.

OUR COUNTRY.

[Contributed by Pupils of League Institute, Verona, Kentucky.]

When considering the feeble beginnings of the most ancient countries, and upon noting the necessary mingling, up-rising, and over-running of the nations in Maedieval times, we can but conclude that a constant progress, commencing in the earliest times has reached its full development in our Great Republic.

A government of the people, by the people and for the people. The foundation was laid deep down on the enduring rock of Human Rights. Our country stands a model. There is little doubt that the true sense of our Constitution will finally mould the structure of all government. To form a more perfect union, to establish justice; to promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to all, are its noble purposes. "Our whole history appears like a last effort of Divine Providence in behalf of the human race."

It is plain that we have entered upon a new era; the most extraordinary and momentous the world has ever seen. The old and imperfect is being cleared away and every thing thoroughly re constructed. The explanation is that we are now completing the grand temple of Civilization; the separate stones and pillars of which, each age and nation was commissioned to hew and carve, and, so to speak, leave in the quarry to await the time when all the material being ready the Master Builder should collect the scattered parts and raise the whole edifice at once—to the astonishment and joy of all mankind.

Those grand races, the Greeks and Romans, furnished the noble outlines; while the nations of modern Europe carried on the work. America, however, was reserved designedly, for such men as our beloved Washington, our revered Jefferson, our scholarly Madison, our generous Morris and others of like nobility to erect the mighty pillars, and plan the central halls of the complete structure.

It is our happiness to live in a country whose master pieces of accomplishment, in science, industry, and commerce, put to shame the extravagant fictions of Oriental tales and wonders ascribed to the heroes and gods of ancient mythology.

The changes produced by recent investigations and discoveries are so vast and so rapid that it is difficult to follow them, or to comprehend the immense power of the transformations going on around us.

At the beginning of the new century comes the glorious announcement that the United States although among the youngest of nations, has surpassed Great Britain, the once peerless commercial power, and now leads the world in trade. The past century witnessed our second struggle for independence, and the terrible throes of a Civil War, which cost thousands of lives and billions of treasure; yet our noble ships of State outrides all storms.

"We know what master made the keel,
What workmen wrought the ribs of steel."

Napoleon III, sought to strike us a cowardly blow by the establishment of an empire in Mexico,

"Yet we fear not each sudden sound and shock,
'Tis of the wave and not of the rock."

Fraternity is our national anthem, sung as a chorus by many states. This is one country, one flag floating over a Union cemented by common interests.

The true mission of nations, as of men, is to promote peace and good will on earth. Conferring liberty is nobler than making gain; peace is better than war; the humblest life is sacred; the humblest human right should be respected.

It is only by recognizing these truths that our beloved country can worthily discharge the sacred mission confided to her, and maintain her true dignity and grandeur; setting her feet upon the sunlit summits of the Olive mountains, and taking abundant care that every human creature beneath her starry flag, is as secure of liberty, of justice, and peace, as in the Republic of God.

"Lord of the universe, shield us and guide us,
Trusting thee always through shadow and sun;
Thou hast united us, who shall divide us?
Keep us, oh, keep us, the many in one."

About 10 o'clock Sunday night Mrs. J. M. Lassing, who was at home alone with her two little boys, heard a noise which she believed to have been made by someone in the house. She and the children went to Sheriff Allphin's, and informed him, and he went and gave the house a thorough search, but discovered nothing out of place. When Mrs. Lassing went home Monday morning she discovered that someone had taken a large cake and a lot of sugar during the night. She does not know how an entrance was obtained.

John C. Mack, a former well known Rising Sun boy, who has long been a stockholder in the Kansan Republican office, at Newton, Kansas, and the business manager of the paper, has bought out the interest of two of his partners. The paper will be run by Mack & Peters —S. R. Peters editor, J. C. Mack business manager. We are pleased to note the continued prosperity of our former citizen.—Rising Sun Recorder.

Mr. Mack taught school in Burlington in the eighties, and all run of him had been lost by his Burlington friends.

Lawrenceburg News says the noted Dearbon county pear tree has been doomed. A representative of the St. Louis World's Fair commission has purchased the tree of Jacob Wenzel, present owner of the farm on which it stands, near Cold Spring Sparta township, for the purpose of having it cut down, and a portion of its gigantic trunk placed on exhibition in the Agricultural hall of the coming St. Louis exposition, on account of its wonderful size, measuring 3 feet 1¼ inches in diameter at the butt, and reported as being the largest pear tree known in the United States as well as the oldest fruit-bearing tree of its kind. Its age is about 80 years.

Notwithstanding the bad weather last Saturday, the tobacco growers held an enthusiastic meeting at Union. Those present are very much interested in the undertaking, and the spirit of the meeting indicated that the growers in the south end of the county are ready to recognize the association in a substantial way. L. H. Voshell, of Union, was appointed executive committeeman for this county, which he will organize as speedily as possible, and would be pleased to hear from the district committeemen appointed a year ago, so he will know exactly who are cooperating with him in the work.

John D. Foster, 23, son of Wm. B. and Mary Foster, many years ago citizens of this county, was killed February 26, at Liberty, Indiana, by a train. He had assisted to carry some packages to a train, and when he stepped off of the train which was moving, he was struck by a heavy baggage truck, which knocked him under the train. His body was terribly mangled. He was a faithful member of the church. His parents, three brothers and two sisters have the sympathy of all their Kentucky acquaintances.

Last Saturday afternoon lightning struck a barn belonging to William Moore, who lives on Southfork creek just across the line in Gallatin county. The building and seven mules and horses were burned, besides some food that was stored in the barn. The loss is about $1,400 with no insurance. The barn was a new building. No one was at home but Mrs. Moore. The same afternoon lightning burnt a barn and two horses for a Mr. Duncan in the Glencoe neighborhood.

Teamsters are complaining a great deal about the condition of the pikes. They have been in the habit of making a trip to the city and back in a day, but since the roads have become so spungy they have to take two days if they do their teams justice. They say they never saw the pikes in such condition before.

Noah Clore, charged with a breach of the peace was tried before Judge Cason and a jury, Monday afternoon, and fined $100.

Dangers of Colds and Grip.

The greatest danger from colds and grip is their resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for this disease we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that it is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. It will cure a cold or an attack of the grip in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by all druggists

THE CHATTANOOGA.

The New Cruiser Launched at Elizabeth, N. J.

There Are Four Steel Decks and a Deep Cofferdam Completely Around the Vessel Near the Water Line.

Elizabeth, N. J., March 7.—The new cruiser Chattanooga was launched here Saturday, in the presence of prominent naval and war officers. There were about 300 invitations given out. Miss Nellie Chambliss, daughter of Major [illegible] Chattanooga, Tenn., christened the new vessel as she slid from the ways. There was some difficulty experienced in the launching owing to the length of the cruiser and the narrowness of the channel.

The Chattanooga is a steel protected cruiser, sheathed with Georgia pine. Its length over all is 308 feet 6 inches and 292 feet on the load water line. Its extreme breadth is 41 feet [illegible] 15 feet 9 inches and displacement 5,200 tons. There are four steel decks and a deep cofferdam completely around the ship near the water line. The cofferdam is filled with corn pith cellulose for the protection of the ship. There is a cellular double bottom the full length of the ship and ten complete transverse water tight bulkheads extending above the water line. The pilot house and chart house are built of bronze and the water tight doors are operated from a central station.

The armament of the Chattanooga consists of ten 5-inch quick firing guns in the main battery, one each being situated at the ends of the vessel on the main deck and four on each broadside of the gun deck. The secondary battery consists of eight 6-pounder rapid-fire guns, two 1-pounders with four machine guns and one field gun for landing purposes. The 5-inch guns of the broadside battery of the Chattanooga are protected by an 1½-inch nickel steel plating.

There are two powerful searchlights on the flying bridge and the vessel is to have a wireless telegraphy equipment. Its bunkers can carry 700 tons of coal and at ten knots its cruising radius will be more than 5,000 knots.

CAPT. WM. A. WINDER DEAD.

He Won Fame on the Battlefields of the Mexican and Civil Wars.

Omaha, Neb., March 7.—Capt. Wm. A. Winder, 80 years old, a lloting agent of the land department at Rosebud, S. D., died Friday of cancer at the Millard hotel. Winder won fame on the battlefields of the Mexican and civil wars. He was a brother-in-law of Adm. George Dewey. His son, Wm. Winder, is in command of the United States steamer Michigan, now stationed at Erie, Pa. He leaves a widow, a daughter of former Gov. Goodwin, of New Hampshire. The body will be taken to Portsmouth, N. H., for burial.

BLOOD WAS SHED.

Violence Broke Out Anew as a Result of Street Carmen's Strike.

Waterbury, Ct., March 9.—Violence has broken out anew at Waterbury as a result of the high feeling in connection with the strike of the motormen and conductors of the Connecticut Railway and Lighting Co. This time it is murder and Policeman Paul Mendelsohn is the victim. John W. Chambers, non-union motorman, was badly beaten. His conductor, George Weberndorfer, was pounded almost into insensibility.

The scene of the crime was at Forest Park, the terminus of the North Main street line. Immediately after the conductor turned the trolley for the return trip and the motorman reversed his levers, eight masked men sprang from the bushes by the roadside, entered the car and discharged their revolvers, every man being armed. Officer Mendelsohn fell at the first report and, as a later examination showed, the first shot was fatal, having pierced his heart. The motorman was also hit and leaped from his car with a cry of pain. Some of the men followed him while the remainder turned their attention to the conductor. He was thrown to the floor of the car and pounded and kicked until he was almost unconscious. The men then left him and joined their companions outside.

The conductor regained his feet with difficulty and went to the side of the wounded officer, but he saw that the officer was dead. Weberndorfer, hardly able to stand, went to the controller and started the car back toward the city with the dead officer. An alarm was sent around the city by the police and in a few minutes the entire detective department, accompanied by 13 policemen went to the scene of the murder. Despite the diligent search of the policemen and detectives not a clue could be found as to the perpetrators of the murders.

The car when it reached the city showed that there had been a volley of shots fired at the three defenseless men. The shots having been fired while the trolley pole was off, the three men were in darkness.

Shortly after midnight the searching officers came upon Motorman Chambers, who is a young fellow not over 20 years of age. His head was covered with blood, but it was found that he had not been struck with a bullet, but had been pounded upon the head with the butt end of a revolver. The young man told a startling story of his experiences. He said as soon as he leaped from the car four men followed him firing their revolvers. He ran at top speed for the swamps nearby, and when he discovered that his pursuers gained on him he laid down. The murderers rushed by but did not go near the highway. They soon gave up the search, whereupon young Chambers hurried from his hiding place and started for the city to give the alarm. He fell in with a policeman, who conducted him to the car barns.

A BEECHER MEMORIAL.

Mass Meeting Held in Brooklyn For the Purpose of Raising Funds.

New York, March 9.—A great mass meeting was held in the Academy of Music in Brooklyn Sunday night for the purpose of raising funds to erect a memorial in honor of Henry Ward Beecher, the founder of Plymouth church and for 40 years its pastor. Many hundreds who were turned away from the doors gathered at an overflow meeting in Plymouth church. Mayor Seth Low presided and among the prominent persons who paid tribute to the memory of the great preacher were former President Grover Cleveland, Justice D. J. Brewer, of the United States supreme court; Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, of Plymouth church, and Rev. Frank W. Gunsaulus, of Chicago.

Demonstrations in Buda Pest.

Buda Pest, March 9.—Street demonstrations by 10,000 socialists to protest against the government's military bills took place here Sunday and led to collisions with the police and the breaking of windows. Many arrests were made and the police had finally to charge the demonstrators and disperse them.

Ex-Speaker Henderson's Portrait.

Washington, March 9.—Col. Freeman Thorp has been commissioned to paint the portrait of ex-Speaker Henderson to be hung in the lobby of the house of representatives. It is customary to have the portrait of each speaker added to the collection already in the lobby of previous presiding officers of the house.

Only Survivor of San Jacinto.

Austin, Tex., March 9.—Rev. R. A. King, aged 99, and his bride, aged 19, arrived here from Lee county, where they were married. Rev. King is the only survivor of the battle of San Jacinto, which gave Texas her independence, and is a cousin of Gen. Sam Houston.

The Plague Spreading.

Mazatlan, Mex., March 9.—There were no deaths from the plague Sunday. There are only 37 patients in the lazaretto, two cases gravo and five doubtful. Cases of plague have been discovered at Siqueros, near the village of Villa Union.

Chicago, March 9.—It is stated here that Armour & Co. have arranged for a test of the wireless telegraph as applied to communication between the cities where they have packing plants and important offices.

BLOWING MACHINES.

American Window Glass Co. Will Place Them in Factories.

This Action Will Remove From the Industry the Highest Priced Skill Labor That Is Known in This Country.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 7.—The American Window Glass Co. by its executive committee Friday issued a formal notice to its workmen that after a lapse of seven days, and on March 14, all of the factories of the American Window Glass Co. would close for the season, [illegible] that other companies would do.

The moment that factories are closed the company has arranged that a large force of men be put to work to equip them with the new glass blowing machines. It is said that all of the factories of the company will be equipped with the new machines, which will do the work of the skilled laborer and remove from the glass factory the highest priced skilled labor known in the country. It will give the company glass production at a cost of less than one-third of the cost under the hand labor.

President James B. Chambers, of the American Window Glass Co., in discussing the latest act of his incorporation, said:

"The blowing machines in all of the company's plants are being installed as rapidly as possible. The shut-down, however, will be for considerable time."

The action of the American Window Glass Co. in closing its factories and installing its machines is said to be its answer to the independents who have refused to come to any agreement concerning a uniform closing of plants this spring.

To make more emphatic the statements of the big corporation, it was stated that a charter had been applied for under the laws of New York for the incorporation of the American Window Glass Machine Co., which is to have a capital of $20,000,000, all of which is to be directed by officers of the glass company, and which will own all of the patents and manufacture all of the machines for making window glass that now exists.

The officers of the company declined Friday night to make any statement regarding the plans of this new corporation until the charter had been secured, but in a general way, it was explained, that the new blowing machines were to be manufactured exclusively for the American Window Glass Co. and installed in the works, being paid for on the royalty plan.

All former lists have been withdrawn by the American company, and it is believed that a cut in rates will be made.

BELGIUM'S PAVILION.

Plans For It Received By the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Co.

St. Louis, March 7.—Plans for the national pavilion of Belgium, transmitted by Commissioner Cridler, were received Friday by the Louisiana Purchase exposition. The building is to be a fine example of the French renaissance, which was developed in Belgium, and which delights visitors in the town halls of Bruges, Ghent, Antwerp and Brussels. The cost of the building is to be $30,000. The structure is to be framed of steel and iron so that it may be taken down after the exposition for re-erection at the exposition at Liege, Belgium, in 1905.

MISS HELEN KELLAR.

She Addressed the Legislative Committee on Education.

Boston, March 7.—Miss Helen Kellar, who although born deaf, dumb and blind, is a student at Radcliffe college, addressed the legislative committee on education Friday in behalf of a bill for the relief of the adult blind. Her message to the committee was a feeling one, and she urged all possible aid to her fellow unfortunates. She said that the blind did not need the higher education, but did require help in order to take their places in the industrial world.

Tiffany's Employes Strike.

New York, March 7.—About 250 employes of Tiffany's glass and decorating company are on strike because the daily supply of beer has been shut off by the firm. The men say water is unfit to drink.

FIFTY-SEVENTH CONGRESS.

Second Session.

Washington, March 3.—Senate—The senate Monday passed the general deficiency bill after four hours' consideration and after it had been amended in several particulars. An amendment by Mr. Rawlins, calling for an appropriation of $60,000,000 to further the work of irrigating the arid lands, furnished material for considerable discussion. The amendments was rejected on a point of order.

Washington, March 4.—Senate—The final defeat of the Aldrich financial bill was witnessed in the senate Tuesday, when it was displaced by the Philippine tariff bill. Mr. Aldrich explained in detail his measure and said that a small number of men in the senate had deliberately, with malice aforethought, murdered it. One of the [illegible] of the session was the fact that for the first time in two years Delaware was represented in the senate. J. Frank Allee and J. Heisler Ball, elected for the long and short terms respectively, appeared in the senate and were sworn in by President Pro Tem. Frye. The senate for the first time in four years had its full membership of 90. The senate at 6 o'clock took a recess until 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. Wednesday at 1:40 a. m. the senate agreed to the conference report on the naval bill and Mr. Hale immediately followed it up with the conference report on the general deficiency bill, which was later concurred in.

House—Tuesday was almost a repetition of Monday in the house. Slowly but surely through the operation of ceaseless roll calls the conference reports to complete the necessary legislation were ground out and when the house at 7 o'clock recessed until 10 o'clock Tuesday night only two conference reports on appropriation bills were still undisposed of—the general deficiency and the naval. The democratic opposition did not abate and will be continued until congress expires at noon March 4.

Washington, March 5.—The fifty-seventh congress ended by statute of limitation Wednesday at noon. The senate was called to order at 10 o'clock for the last sitting of the fifty-seventh congress, but business did not begin until some time later. The delay was due to the absence of a quorum and to the fact that Mr. Cockrell insisted upon the presence of the necessary number before taking up the work of the day. Mr. Allison, chairman of the committee on appropriations, made a statement regarding the amount of money appropriated by the present congress as compared with the appropriation of the fifty-sixth congress. The total appropriation for the present congress, he says, was $1,554,108,518, as compared with $1,440,489,438 for the fifty-sixth congress. It was a curious but necessary thing, he said, to make this comparison more in detail than by a mere statement of aggregate. The first most important item included in this statement for the present congress is an appropriation of $50,130,000 for the Panama canal, he said, accounts for nearly one-half of the increase.

Extraordinary Session.

Washington, March 6.—In obedience to the president's proclamation the senate of the 58th congress convened in extraordinary session at noon Thursday. An immense crowd witnessed the interesting ceremony. Echoes of the 57th congress had not died away when President Pro Tem. Frye called the body to order, and soon thereafter the senators who were re-elected and those who were to take their seats for the first time, with the exception of Mr. Gorman, who had seen long service in the senate, were sworn in. Friends and admirers of the senators loaded down their desks with beautiful floral tributes. One of the features of the opening ceremony was the ovation accorded Mr. Gorman. Mr. Cannon's speech in the house of representatives early Wednesday morning in presenting the conference report on general deficiency bill in which he charged that the senate conferees had resorted to legislative blackmail and attacked the rules of the senate formed the subject of some ferved remarks by Mr. Tillman and by the senate conferees, Messrs. Hale, Allison and Teller. The senate at 3:15 adjourned until Monday.

PAYMENT OF OLD CLAIMS.

Secretary of the Treasury Drew Several Warrants Thursday.

Washington, March 6.—The secretary of the treasury Thursday drew warrants in favor of several states in payment of old claims for money advanced for raising volunteers in the civil war and for interest on loans negotiated by the states for this purpose. Those paid Thursday are as follows:

Kentucky, $1,233,999; Maine, $223,186; New Jersey, $478,832; Rhode Island, $31,289; Wisconsin, $458,677.

Washington, March 6.—Senator Foraker was the second man sworn in Thursday at the senate's new session. Hanna took him down the aisle, and as the two came down, arm in arm, there was general applause on the floor and in the galleries.

A New Naval Station.

London, March 6.—Premier Balfour announced in the house of commons Thursday that the admiralty has decided to establish a new naval station at St. Margaret's Hope, on the north side of the Firth of Forth.

He Went West and Prospered.

Freeland, Kans., Mar. 9th:—One of the most prosperous farmers in Harper County is Mr. N. H. Mead. Some thirty-four years ago he left his home near Clarence, N. Y., and came to Kansas. Here he has thrived splendidly and last year harvested over one hundred and forty acres of wheat alone.

But everything has not gone well with Mr. Mead, for his health has not been good for the last few years. He has suffered a great deal with Kidney and Bladder Trouble and could get nothing to stop it. Lately, however, he has improved a great deal and he says that he has none of the old symptoms left and is feeling splendid again. He used Dodd's Kidney Pills and this remedy seemed to work wonders in his case. He says himself:

"Dodd's Kidney Pills have made me well. They are all right and a reliable remedy for Kidney Trouble. They helped me right from the start, giving me great relief, and finally cured me."

We could get along better with the inevitable if it would make reasonable concessions.—Puck.

TO WORKING GIRLS

FREE MEDICAL ADVICE

Every working girl who is not well is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice; it is freely given, and has restored thousands to health.

Miss Paine's Experience.

"I want to thank you for what you have done for me, and recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all girls whose work keeps them standing on their feet in the store. The doctor said I must stop work; he did not seem to realize that a girl cannot afford to stop working. My back ached, my appetite was poor, I could not sleep, and menstruation was scanty and very painful. One day when suffering I commenced to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and found that it helped me. I continued its use, and soon found that my menstrual periods were free from pain and natural; everyone is surprised at the change in me, and I am well, and cannot be too grateful for what you have done for me."—Miss JANET PAINE, 530 West 126th St., New York City.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness can not be produced.

Take no substitute, for it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that cures.

ITALIANS DROWNED.

Seventeen Lost Their Lives by the Capsizing of a Ferry Boat.

Many of the More Than 1,000 Men Employed on the Works Became Panic-Stricken and Have Left Their Jobs.

Glens Falls, N. Y., March 9.—Seventeen men were drowned by the capsizing of a ferry boat used by workmen at Spier Falls, on the Hudson river. More than one thousand men are employed in the construction of the power dam of the Hudson River Power Co. The laborers and many of the masons are Italians, who live in shanties on the north side of the river.

Below the work is a ferry. The boat is a scow-shaped affair, 30 feet long and 13 feet wide, and is operated by means of cables. It is large enough to carry a heavily loaded team, and as many as 150 men have been taken [illegible] at one time. When 80 feet from shore the water splashed [illegible] the rail, and an Italian boy who had fallen over the previous day seized one of the tackle ropes which ran from the overhead cable to the stern of the boat. Some of the men started toward him, and instantly the boat careened and filled with water. The Hudson, swollen by the freshet, bore 19 of the struggling men down the stream.

The others succeeded in catching hold of the boat, which had righted, and they clung there until pulled ashore. Teams were quickly harnessed and loaded with skilled log-drivers and sent down along the river points where the bodies would be likely to land.

Only two more bodies of the victims of the Spier Falls tragedy have been recovered. Two of the 16 men not accounted for were found Sunday, making the number of dead and missing at 17. Many of the Italians employed on the works have left their jobs and a stampede is feared.

WORK DONE BY THE HOUSE.

Number of Bills and Resolutions Introduced and Passed.

Washington, March 9.—Alexander McDowell, clerk of the house of representatives, Sunday made public an official compilation made by Tally Clerk Wakefield, showing the work done by the house during the 57th congress. It shows that the longest day of the session lasted, with recesses, 144 hours, during which 80 roll calls were taken. The number of bills and resolutions introduced in the house during the two sessions of the congress was 18,420, on which reports were made on 2,810 bills and resolutions. The senate sent to the house 1,639 senate bills and resolutions. The house disposed of 2,418 of the measures originating with it, and of 1,012 of the senate bills and resolutions, making it a total of 3,430 bills and resolutions acted on. It left on its calendar 495 house and 118 senate bills and resolutions. Fifteen of the members of the house died during the congress, seven resigned and Messrs. Rhea, of Kentucky, and Butler, of Missouri, were unseated, the latter twice.

DEATH OF GEN. WM. B. FRANKLIN

He Had Been In Poor Health For Several Years.

Hartford, Ct., March 9.—Maj. Gen. William Buel Franklin died Sunday at his home in this city, aged 80 years. He had been in poor health for several years and had failed perceptibly since the death of his wife three years ago. He was born in Franklin, Pa., February 27, 1823, and was the son of Walter S. Franklin, who was clerk of the house of representatives. Gen. Franklin was graduated from West Point in 1843 and was a classmate of Gen. U. S. Grant. He served in the Mexican war. In 1861 he was appointed colonel of the Twelfth United States infantry and immediately was made brigadier general of volunteers. In 1862 he was brevetted brigadier general, U. S. A., for gallant conduct before Richmond, and the same year was appointed major general of volunteers. He commanded the Sixth army corps and was in charge of the left wing of the army of the Potomac in the battle of South Mountain and in command of the Sixth army corps at the battle of Antietam.

Gen. Franklin resigned from the army in 1866 with the rank of major general of volunteers and brevet major general, U. S. A.

HON. JAS. H. BLOUNT DEAD.

For Twenty Years He Was a Member of Congress From Georgia.

Macon, Ga., March 9.—Hon. James H. Blount, for 20 years member of congress from Georgia, and afterward commissioner paramount to the Hawaiian islands during the second Cleveland term, died here Sunday of congestion of the lungs.

Mr. Blount had been in impaired health for two years. His last public service was commissioner paramount to the Hawaiian islands during President Cleveland's second term. It was on his request that Mr. Cleveland reversed the policy of Mr. Harrison. On retiring from that position in November, 1893, Mr. Blount left public life and has since remained quietly at home attending to his private business. He was a lawyer by profession but had not been in active practice for many years. He was one of the largest land owners in Central Georgia and a man of wealth.

PROSPERITY FOR TRUSTS.

Purchasing Power of the People Almost Exhausted—Combines Waxing Fat.

"Prosperity, prosperity, prosperity" —we hear and read of it all the time, whether we listen to after dinner speeches or read the metropolitan newspapers. Where there is so much smoke there must be some fire—and there is. The earnings and profits of the railroads, trusts and monopolies are simply marvelous. The net profits of the steel trust in 1902 were $132,000,000; of the Standard Oil trust, $45,000,000; of the beef trust, probably $100,000,000; of the anthracite coal trust, perhaps $100,000,000, in spite of the six months' strike. The profits of [illegible] thousands of other trusts, including the natural monopoly trusts, were enormous.

But trusts and monopolies cannot thrive except by obtaining high prices for their products. Unfortunately somebody must pay these high prices. They are, in fact, paid by the whole of our 77,000,000 people. Upon all of them, except a comparatively few, rests the heavy burden of trust prosperity. The farmers of the west have been able to carry their share of this heavy burden because they have been blessed with excellent crops for five or six years, and, because of poor crops in the rest of the world, have sold their products for high prices. But for these facts the trusts would have been compelled to be more moderate in their charges, and the cost of living would not have increased so greatly—over 40 per cent. in five years.

Wage earners have been trying to get advances in wages which would enable them to live through these trying prosperity times, but as usual, wages do not rise as quickly or as much as prices, and at least half of our population are struggling along and waiting and hoping for "hard times" and lower prices. Do you doubt this statement? Consider a few facts.

Organized charity never had greater difficulty than during the past winter in meeting the demands upon it. Rev. Father Tewes, of New York, is quoted as saying that "There never was such general suffering and extreme poverty as this winter."

The Wool and Cotton Reporter has for weeks been complaining of the poor demand for woolen goods and of the comparatively low price of wool when other prices are very high and when the scarcity of wool the world over is greater than the present generation ever saw, and the "statistical position" of wool would warrant much higher prices. This great trade journal accounts for this lack of demand for woolens by saying (January 28), that the "diminished purchasing power of the masses will not admit of their paying more." It says the people cannot afford to pay for good woolens, and adds, significantly:

"In this connection, it is worth noting that the shoddy dealers are talking very bullishly, and are looking forward to an unusually profitable season. Rags are also very firm, and a large business in them is looked forward to. Facts of this nature cannot be overlooked in estimating the future of the wool market. . . . The wool manufacturer must necessarily be tempted under such conditions as exist at present . . . to make a liberal use of substitutes."

Again, in its issue of February 19, this journal explains the lower prices for wool by saying:

"It should be borne in mind, despite the alleged general prosperity of the country, the average person is feeling rather poor, by reason of his having to pay a great deal more for everything he buys than he has paid for a great many years. The average person today is under the sternest necessity to economize. The purchasing power of the average income is low rather than high."

These are the explanations, not of theorists, but of experts familiar with the facts. In plain language, we have to pony up so much to the trusts that we cannot afford to wear woolen clothes and are, instead, wearing more and more clothes made from cotton and old rags ground up. From this we see that trust prosperity means shoddy prosperity, and that trust prosperity is, in fact, shoddy prosperity for the masses. It means untold wealth and luxury for the few monopolists and hard work for the masses at wages that leave them "under the sternest necessity to economize" that they may continue to exist and to pay trust prices. Great splendor and great squalor. But those in the squalor class can at least enjoy the privilege of reading about the great prosperity of those in the splendor class. To enjoy this privilege, a majority of the people are willing to vote to tax themselves and to pay trust prices to increase the profits and luxury of the monopolists. Great country this.

BYRON W. HOLT.

——President Roosevelt's opposition to removal of tariff protection from the trusts, as stated by him during the recent campaign, was on the ground that small industries competing with the trusts might suffer. But the present democratic proposition entirely meets and obviates that objection because it places the power to determine public necessity and the discretion to act entirely in the president's hands, whereby danger to small industries or to any other interests could be avoided. —St. Paul Globe.

——If Morgan and Rockefeller can and do dictate the anti-trust legislation of this country, there is going to be more doing in this country next year than at any other time since Lincoln came through a winner in 1860. It is up to the party in power to decide whether it will beat the trusts or itself.—Detroit Free Press.

PROSECUTIONS OF TRUSTS.

Neither as a Destroyer Nor a Preventer Has the Sherman Law Been Effective.

Judge Grosscup's decision that the beef trust as it exists is an unlawful combination, violating the Sherman law, even if it shall finally be upheld by the supreme court, will not necessarily destroy the monopoly in meat, says the New York World.

Since the Sherman antitrust law was passed, in July, 1890, the federal government has instituted 26 suits under it. Eleven of the 26 have been lost outright; two are still pending—the Northern Securities and the beef trust suits; and in only ten of them has the government got a square decision in the [illegible] successful suits brought by the federal government in 13 years four were against combinations of laboring men, leaving six as the total number of decisions scored by the government against trusts strictly so-called.

Moreover, these six successes of the government, when examined, were court successes only. Two of them were the decisions against the Trans-Missouri Freight association and the Joint Traffic association, and forbade the making of traffic or pooling arrangements between parallel or competing lines of railroad. The net result of those decisions was that the particular forms of association prohibited were abandoned, and in their place much larger consolidations of railroads were created, such as the Great Southern and Great Northern mergers.

The Standard Oil company has been decreed out of existence in many states, but it does business in all of them just as if nothing had happened. The sugar trust was long ago declared illegal in this state and put into the hands of a receiver, yet it still lives and thrives. It simply went over to New Jersey and reorganized under a new charter, which in no way affected its actual monopoly of the market or the price of sugar to consumers.

Judge Grosscup himself pointed out in a recent address at the University of Nebraska that all the trusts existing in the United States to-day have been created since the passage of the Sherman act, with but 13 exceptions. It is evident that neither as a destroyer of trusts nor as a preventer of their creation has the Sherman act had any considerable effect. In the case of the beef trust it is notorious that plans have been already matured to reincarnate it if it is dissolved, in a new form which lawyers believe will make it secure against legal assault.

JUBILANCE OF THE TRUSTS.

They Know the Worthlessness of the Legislation Directed Against Them.

The great trust magnate, Rockefeller, has played a flim-flam game on the president and it is remarkable how easily the latter was imposed upon by Mr. John D. Rockefeller and his pals in the senate. At least, if President Roosevelt was not imposed on, he must have been in league with the flim-flamers to fool the people.

The inside history of the telegrams sent by Rockefeller to some nine United States senators, peremptorily ordering them to stop all anti-trust legislation, shows a queer condition of affairs in the higher councils of the republican party. When the republican leaders found that the democrats looked with such disdain upon the so-called anti-trust legislation that the republican leaders and the trust magnates had concocted, and would say not a word against it, they feared the result of this silence on the minds of the voters. Something had to be done to make it appear that the trusts were being curbed and the job was put up that Rockefeller should telegraph orders to stop all anti-trust legislation, and two of the telegrams were exhibited to the president. He made public the fact of the telegrams having been received and immediately it was announced by the administration press that here was evidence of the trust-busting nature of the legislation.

The trust magnates in Wall street are now jubilant; they know that the legislation enacted is not only worthless, as far as their business is concerned, but that it in fact aids them by making the present interstate commerce law more to their liking by repealing the criminal clause. Such a disparity between promise and performance will not fool the voters many moons. Before the meeting of the Fifty-eighth congress, next December, the fact that the trusts and combines are still looting the people, with no law to restrain the robbers, will show that the Standard Oil trust and the beef combine are still the pets of the republican party.

OPINIONS AND POINTERS.

——The ship-subsidy bill has, so to speak, foundered.—Chicago Inter Ocean (Rep.).

——It is thought that with powerful restoratives, the trusts may survive Mr. Roosevelt's terrible knock-out blow.—Albany Argus.

——The people are especially disgusted with coal trusts and corners. They have been plundered and oppressed beyond the line of endurance and demand to be protected by effective government and legislative measures.— St. Louis Globe-Democrat (Rep.).

——It is startling indeed to hear Congressman Cannon, who has so long been known as a vigilant "watch-dog of the treasury," declaring that there is money enough in the treasury to warrant certain large expenditures. Is the cause a sudden liberalizing of mind or impending senility?—Providence Journal (Ind. Rep.).

STATE NEWS ITEMS.

A FARMER'S DEEDS.

Shot His Daughter and Mrs. Culver, Then Committed Suicide.

Henderson, Ky., March 6.—Allen Melton, a well to do farmer who fatally wounded his daughter and shot Mrs. John Culver, committed suicide Thursday in a barn when he found the building surrounded by bloodhounds which had been sent in pursuit of him. [illegible] Wednesday night went to the home of John Culver, where his stepdaughter, [illegible] Melton, 16 years old, was spending the night. Culver was away from the house. Melton entered and seeing his daughter drew a revolver and fired two shots.

Mrs. Culver ran into the room and Melton fired, the ball passing through her lungs. Melton went to the home of Dock Latta, two miles away, where he remained all night. Early Thursday morning he went home and Morganfield bloodhounds trailed him to a barn. When he heard them coming he swallowed a large amount of paris green and then shot himself through the head, failing dead. It is said he tried to hang his divorced wife and it is believed he returned to Union to kill his wife and this is thought the reason he did not suicide when he shot the girl.

THREE BOYS SHOT.

They Were Wounded as They Were Crossing Suspension Bridge.

Covington, Ky., March 5.—Three Covington lads were shot Wednesday afternoon as they were crossing the suspension bridge by a man who stood on a wharfboat alongside the Ohio shore, 200 feet away and below them. Two of the boys were taken to the city hospital, one badly hurt. The third was able to go to his home. The injured boys are James Pence, of Pleasant street, Covington, a cousin of Police Judge Cecil Pence, of Covington; Lawrence McManus, 18, a tinner, of 1023 Banklick street, Covington, and John England, 17, a laborer, of 46 Berry street, Covington. The shooting was a most unusual one. The lads were the victims, it is claimed, of John Collins, known as "Goose" Collins, a river-front character, who, it is said, shot at the crowds of pedestrians crossing the bridge on their way home because he thought some one was throwing pebbles at him.

Other persons passing on the bridge had narrow escapes from being injured by the shots.

LIFE SENTENCE AFFIRMED.

Insanity Must Be Proved in Order to Acquit One of Crime.

Frankfort, Ky., March 5.—The court of appeals Wednesday affirmed the life sentence given James Wright for the murder of Thomas Butler. Wright pleaded insanity and a family tree was exhibited in court showing that a large number of his ancestors were lunatics and idots. The court held that hereditary insanity was not necessarily actual insanity and that insanity must be clearly proved and not supposed in order to acquit one of a crime.

Match Factory For Newport.

Newport, Ky., March 6.—This city is to have a parlor match manufactory. A deal has been closed for a location on the Licking river bank, south of the Newport rolling mill. Messrs. J. A. and A. L. Beckham for a mandamus to compel Young and the democratic committee to place his name on the ballot to be voted at the democratic state primary on May 9 as a candidate for governor. Young had refused to place Gov. Beckham's name on the ballot because of the question raised as to his eligibility.

The attorneys for the defendant immediately entered exceptions and an appeal to the court of appeals. The purpose of the proceedure is to establish Gov. Beckham's eligibility to succeed himself as governor.

LONG AND SHORT HAUL.

Case of Commonwealth Against the C. & O. Railway Co.

Frankfort, Ky., March 6.—In the case of the commonwealth against the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co. for the long and short haul statute, the alleged violation of the provisions of the long and short haul statute, the court of appeals Thursday held that where the shipment passes over two or more lines of different carriers it is not embraced by the terms of the statute when regarded in connection with other carriers' shipments locally over its own line alone; that to make an indictment good the words of the statute "Over the same line" are essential.

River Rising at Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., March 6.—The Ohio river is still coming up rapidly here, a rise of two feet having been reported within the past 24 hours. A stage of 26.2 in the canal and 24.4 on the falls was registered Thursday night, but unless heavy rains occur it is not expected that the danger line, 28 feet in the canal, will be reached. No damage has been done.

Looks Like Silver.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., March 7.—James Phelps, of Menifee, struck a vein of ore on his farm on the waters of Blair creek which he expects will make him rich. The ore resembles silver and Phelps will have it examined by an assayist. There is considerable excitement in the neighborhood over the find. The vein is very thick.

THE CHATTANOOGA.

The New Cruiser Launched at Elizabeth, N. J.

There Are Four Steel Decks and a Deep Cofferdam Completely Around the Vessel Near the Water Line.

Elizabeth, N. J., March 7.—The new cruiser Chatlanooga was launched here Saturday, in the presence of prominent naval and war officers. There were about 300 invitations given out. Miss Nellie Chambliss, daughter of Mayor Chambliss, of Chattanooga, Tenn., christened the new vessel [illegible] There was some difficulty experienced in the launching owing to the length of the cruiser and the narrowness of the channel.

The Chattanooga is a steel protected cruiser, sheathed with Georgia pine. Its length over all is 308 feet 6 inches and 292 feet on the load water line. Its extreme breadth is 41 feet, draught 15 feet 9 inches and displacement 5,200 tons. There are four steel decks and a deep cofferdam completely around the ship near the water line. The cofferdam is filled with corn pith cellulose for the protection of the ship. There is a cellular double bottom the full length of the ship and ten complete transverse water tight bulkheads extending above the water line. The pilot house and chart house are built of bronze and the water tight doors are operated from a central station.

The armament of the Chattanooga consists of ten 5-inch quick firing guns in the main battery, one each being situated at the ends of the vessel on the main deck and four on each broadside of the gun deck. The secondary battery consists of eight 6-pounder rapid-fire guns, two 1-pounders with four machine guns and one field gun for landing purposes. The 5-inch guns of the broadside battery of the Chattanooga are protected by an 1¼-inch nickel steel plating.

There are two powerful searchlights on the flying bridge and the vessel is to have a wireless telegraphy equipment. Its bunkers can carry 700 tons of coal and at ten knots its cruising radius will be more than 5,000 knots.

BLOOD WAS SHED.

Violence Broke Out Anew as a Result of Street Carmen's Strike.

Waterbury, Ct., March 9.—Violence has broken out anew at Waterbury as a result of the high feeling in connection with the strike of the motormen and conductors of the Connecticut Railway and Lighting Co. This time it is murder and Policeman Paul Mendelsohn is the victim. John W. Chambers, non-union motorman, was badly beaten. His conductor, George Weberndorfer, was pounded almost into insensibility.

The scene of the crime was at Forest Park, the terminus of the North Main street line. Immediately after the conductor turned the trolley for the return trip and the motorman reversed his levers, eight masked men sprang from the bushes by the roadside, entered the car and discharged their revolvers, every man being armed. Officer Mendelsohn fell at the first report and, as a later examination showed, the first shot was fatal, having pierced his heart. The motorman was also hit and leaped from his car with a cry of pain. Some of the men followed him while the remainder turned their attention to the conductor. He was thrown to the floor of the car and pounded and kicked until he was almost unconscious. The men then left him and joined their companions outside.

The conductor regained his feet with difficulty and went to the side of the wounded officer, but he saw that the officer was dead. Weberndorfer, hardly able to stand, went to the controller and started the car back toward the city with the dead officer. An alarm was sent around the city by the police and in a few minutes the entire detective department, accompanied by 13 policemen went to the scene of the murder. Despite the diligent search of the policemen and detectives not a clue could be found as to the perpetrators of the murders.

The car when it reached the city showed that there had been a volley of shots fired at the three defenseless men. The shots having been fired while the trolley pole was off, the three men were in darkness.

Shortly after midnight the searching officers came upon Motorman Chambers, who is a young fellow not over 20 years of age. His head was covered with blood, but it was found that he had not been struck with a bullet, but had been pounded upon the head with the butt end of a revolver. The young man told a startling story of his experiences. He said as soon as he leaped from the car four men followed him firing their revolvers. He ran at top speed for the swamps nearby, and when he discovered that his pursuers gained on him he laid down. The murderers rushed by but did not go near the highway. They soon gave up the search, whereupon young Chambers hurried from his hiding place and started for the city to give the alarm. He fell in with a policeman, who conducted him to the car barns.

A BEECHER MEMORIAL.

Mass Meeting Held in Brooklyn For the Purpose of Raising Funds.

New York, March 9.—A great mass meeting was held in the Academy of Music in Brooklyn Sunday night for the purpose of raising funds to erect a memorial in honor of Henry Ward Beecher, the founder of Plymouth church and for 40 years its pastor. Many hundreds who were turned away from the doors gathered at an overflow meeting in Plymouth church. Mayor Seth Low presided and among the prominent persons who paid tribute to the memory of the great preacher were former President Grover Cleveland, Justice D. J. Brewer, of the United States supreme court; Rev. Newell Dwight Hillis, of Plymouth church, and Rev. Frank W. Gunsaulus, of Chicago.

Demonstrations in Buda Pest.

BLOWING MACHINES.

American Window Glass Co. Will Place Them in Factories.

This Action Will Remove From the Industry the Highest Priced Skill Labor That Is Known in This Country.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 7.—The American Window Glass Co. by its executive committee Friday issued a formal notice to its workmen that after a lapse of seven days, and on March 14, all of the factories of the American Window Glass Co. would close for the season, irrespective of what other companies would do.

The moment that [illegible] closed the company has arranged that a large force of men be put to work to equip them with the new glass blowing machines. It is said that all of the factories of the company will be equipped with the new machines, which will do the work of the skilled laborer and remove from the glass factory the highest priced skilled labor known in the country. It will give the company glass production at a cost of less than one-third of the cost under the hand labor.

President James B. Chambers, of the American Window Glass Co., in discussing the intest act of his incorporation, said:

"The blowing machines in all of the company's plants are being installed as rapidly as possible. The shut-down, however, will be for considerable time."

The action of the American Window Glass Co. in closing its factories and installing its machines is said to be its answer to the independents who have refused to come to any agreement concerning a uniform closing of plants this spring.

To make more emphatic the statements of the big corporation, it was stated that a charter had been applied for under the laws of New York for the incorporation of the American Window Glass Machine Co., which is to have a capital of $20,000,000, all of which is to be directed by officers of the glass company, and which will own all of the patents and manufacture all of the machines for making window glass that now exists.

The officers of the company declined Friday night to make any statement regarding the plans of this new corporation until the charter had been secured, but in a general way, it was explained, that the new blowing machines were to be manufactured exclusively for the American Window Glass Co. and installed in the works, being paid for on the royalty plan.

All former lists have been withdrawn by the American company, and it is believed that a cut in rates will be made.

BELGIUM'S PAVILION.

Plans For It Received By the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Co.

St. Louis, March 7.—Plans for the national pavilion of Belgium, transmitted by Commissioner Cridler, were received Friday by the Louisiana Purchase exposition. The building is to be a fine example of the French renaissance, which was developed in Belgium, and which delights visitors in the town halls of Bruges, Ghent, Antwerp and Brussels. The cost of the building is to be $30,000. The structure is to be framed of steel and iron so that it may be taken down after the exposition for re-erection at the exposition at Liege, Belgium, in 1905.

MISS HELEN KELLAR.

She Addressed the Legislative Committee on Education.

Boston, March 7.—Miss Helen Kellar, who although born deaf, dumb and blind, is a student at Radcliffe college, addressed the legislative committee on education Friday in behalf of a bill for the relief of the adult blind. Her message to the committee was a feeling one, and she urged all possible aid to her fellow unfortunates. She said that the blind did not need the higher education, but did require help in order to take their places in the industrial world.

New York, March 7.—About 250 employes of Tiffany's glass and decorating company are on strike because the daily supply of beer has been shut off by the firm. The men say water is unfit to drink.

FIFTY-SEVENTH CONGRESS.

Second Session.

Washington, March 3.—Senate—The senate Monday passed the general deficiency bill after four hours' consideration and after it had been amended in several particulars. An amendment by Mr. Rawlins, calling for an appropriation of $50,000,000 to further the work of irrigating the arid lands, furnished material for considerable discussion. The amendments was rejected on a point of order.

Washington, March 4.—Senate—The final defeat of the Aldrich financial bill was witnessed in the senate Tuesday, when it was displaced by the Philippine tariff bill. Mr. Aldrich explained in detail his measure and said that a small number of men in the senate had deliberately, with malice aforethought, murdered it. One of the features of the session was the fact that for the first time in two years Delaware was represented in the senate. J. Frank Allee and J. Heisler Ball, elected for the long and short terms respectively, appeared in the senate and were sworn in by President Pro Tem. Frye. The senate for the first time in four years had its full membership of 90. The senate at 6 o'clock took a recess until 8 o'clock Tuesday evening. Wednesday at 1:40 a. m. the senate agreed to the conference report on the naval bill and Mr. Hale immediately followed it up with the conference report on the general deficiency bill, which was later concurred in.

House—Tuesday was almost a repetition of Monday in the house. Slowly but surely through the operation of ceaseless roll calls the conference reports to complete the necessary legislation were ground out and when the house at 7 o'clock recessed until 10 o'clock Tuesday night only two conference reports on appropriation bills were still undisposed of—the general deficiency and the naval. The democratic opposition did not abate and will be continued until congress expires at noon March 4.

Washington, March 5.—The fifty-seventh congress ended by statute of limitation Wednesday at noon. The senate was called to order at 10 o'clock for the last sitting of the fifty-seventh congress, but business did not begin until some time later. The delay was due to the absence of a quorum and to the fact that Mr. Cockrell insisted upon the presence of the necessary number before taking up the work of the day. Mr. Allison, chairman of the committee on appropriations, made a statement regarding the amount of money appropriated by the present congress as compared with the appropriation of the fifty-sixth congress. The total appropriation for the present congress, he says, was $1,554,108,518, as compared with $1,440,489,438 for the fifty-sixth congress. It was a curious but necessary thing, he said, to make this comparison more in detail than by a mere statement of aggregate. The first most important item included in this statement for the present congress is an appropriation of $50,130,000 for the Panama canal, he said, accounts for nearly one-half of the increase.

Extraordinary Session.

Washington, March 6.—In obedience to the president's proclamation the senate of the 58th congress convened in extraordinary session at noon Thursday. An immense crowd witnessed the interesting ceremony. Echoes of the 57th congress had not died away when President Pro Tem. Frye called the body to order, and soon thereafter the senators who were re-elected and those who were to take their seats for the first time, with the exception of Mr. Gorman, who had seen long service in the senate, were sworn in. Friends and admirers of the senators loaded down their desks with beautiful floral tributes. One of the features of the opening ceremony was the ovation accorded Mr. Gorman. Mr. Cannon's speech in the house of representatives early Wednesday morning in presenting the conference report on general deficiency bill in which he charged that the senate conferees had resorted to legislative blackmail and attacked the rules of the senate formed the subject of some fervid remarks by Mr. Tillman and by the senate confrees, Messrs. Hale, Allison and Teller. The senate at 3:15 adjourned until Monday.

PAYMENT OF OLD CLAIMS.

Secretary of the Treasury Drew Several Warrants Thursday.

Washington, March 6.—The secretary of the treasury Thursday drew warrants in favor of several states in payment of old claims for money advanced for raising volunteers in the civil war and for interest on loans negotiated by the states for this purpose. Those paid Thursday are as follows:

Kentucky, $1,233,999; Maine, $223,186; New Jersey, $478,832; Rhode Island, $31,289; Wisconsin, $458,677.

Foraker Sworn In.

Washington, March 5.—Senator Foraker was the second man sworn in Thursday at the senate's new session. Hanna took him down the aisle, and as the two came down, arm in arm, there was general applause on the floor and in the galleries.

A New Naval Station.

London, March 6.—Premier Balfour announced in the house of commons Thursday that the admiralty has decided to establish a new naval station at St. Margaret's Hope, on the north side of the Firth of Forth.

He Went West and Prospered.

Freeland, Kans., Mar. 9th.—One of the most prosperous farmers in Harper County is Mr. N. H. Mead. Some thirty-four years ago he left his home near Clarence, N. Y., and came to Kansas. Here he has thrived splendidly and last year harvested over one hundred and forty acres of wheat alone.

But everything has not gone well with Mr. Mead, for his health has not been good for the last few years. He has suffered a great deal with Kidney and Bladder Trouble and could get nothing to stop it. Lately, however, he has improved a great deal and he says that he has none of the old symptoms left and is feeling splendid again. He used Dodd's Kidney Pills and this remedy seemed to work wonders in his case. He says himself:

"Dodd's Kidney Pills have made me well. They are all right and a reliable remedy for Kidney Trouble. They helped me right from the start, giving me great relief, and finally cured me."

We could get along better with the inevitable if it would make reasonable concessions.—Puck.

FREE MEDICAL ADVICE

Every working girl who is not well is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice; it is freely given, and has restored thousands to health.

Miss Paine's Experience.

"I want to thank you for what you have done for me, and recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all girls whose work keeps them standing on their feet in the store. The doctor said I must stop work; he did not seem to realize that a girl cannot afford to stop working. My back ached, my appetite was poor, I could not sleep, and menstruation was scanty and very painful. One day when suffering I commenced to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and found that it helped me. I continued its use, and soon found that my menstrual periods were free from pain and natural; everyone is surprised at the change in me, and I am well, and cannot be too grateful for what you have done for me."—Miss JANET PAINE, 530 West 125th St., New York City.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

Take no substitute, for it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that cures.

ITALIANS DROWNED.

Seventeen Lost Their Lives by the Capsizing of a Ferry Boat.

Many of the More Than 1,000 Men Employed on the Works Became Panic-Stricken and Have Left Their Jobs.

Glens Falls, N. Y., March 9.—Seventeen men were drowned by the capsizing of a ferry boat used by workmen at Spier Falls, on the Hudson river. More than one thousand men are employed in the construction of the power dam of the Hudson River Power Co. The laborers and many of the masons are Italians, who live in shanties on the north side of the river.

Below the work is a ferry. The boat is a scow shaped affair, 30 feet long and 13 feet wide, and is operated by means of cables. It is large enough to carry a heavily loaded team, and as many as 150 men have been taken across at one time. When 80 feet from shore the water splashed against the rail, and an Italian boy who had fallen over the previous day seized one of the tackle ropes which ran from the overhead cable to the stern of the boat. Some of the men started toward him, and instantly the boat careened and filled with water. The lindson, swollen by the freshet, bore 19 of the struggling men down the stream.

The others succeeded in catching hold of the boat, which had righted, and they clung there until pulled ashore. Teams were quickly harnessed and loaded with skilled log-drivers and sent down along the river points where the bodies would be likely to land.

Only two more bodies of the victims of the Spier Falls tragedy have been recovered. Two of the 16 men not accounted for were found Sunday, making the number of dead and missing at 17. Many of the Italians employed on the works have left their jobs and a stampede is feared.

WORK DONE BY THE HOUSE.

Number of Bills and Resolutions Introduced and Passed.

Washington, March 9.—Alexander McDowell, clerk of the house of representatives, Sunday made public an official compilation made by Tally Clerk Wakefield, showing the work done by the house during the 57th congress. It shows that the longest day of the session lasted, with recesses, 144 hours, during which 80 roll calls were taken. The number of bills and resolutions introduced in the house during the two sessions of the congress was 18,420, on which reports were made on 2,810 bills and resolutions. The senate sent to the house 1,639 senate bills and resolutions. The house disposed of 2,418 of the measures originating with it, and of 1,012 of the senate bills and resolutions, making it a total of 3,430 bills and resolutions acted on. It left on its calendar 405 house and 118 senate bills and resolutions. Fifteen of the members of the house died during the congress, seven resigned and Messrs. Rhea, of Kentucky, and Butler, of Missouri, were unseated, the latter twice.
